GUAM, PACIFIC OUTPOST OF U.S., AT FOES' MERCY

Washington Treaty Bars New Forts.

GUAM, Ladrone Islands, Sept. 11.—Poorly equipped, unfortified, and almost unarmed, Guam feels itself helpless on the broad expanse of the Pacific where it lies within easy range of hostile fleets and in the very shadow of hostile airplanes of the future.

This feeling exists not only to the most advanced natives but among the officers and men of the tiny naval and marine forces who are upholding the Stars and Stripes here.

Under the terms of the Washington disarmament treaty the United States is prohibited from taking the slightest step toward improving the situation.

Japan Owns Other Islands.

This dot on the ocean, little larger than the Chicago area, thirty miles long, four to eight miles wide, is the southernmost of the Marianas or Ladrone group, all the rest of which, numbering sixteen, with the other former German owned islands north of the equator, fell to Japan through the treaty of Versailles.

The nearest island is Rota, forty-nine miles north of Guam. Tinian is 110 miles and Saipan, formerly the German headquarters of the group, is 121 miles away. The Japanese seek to maintain secrecy particularly about Rota, where the landing of visitors is prohibited. It is reported that there are no Americans in Rota but there are approximately 300 Japanese residents in Sasa, so although Apra harbor is a closed port, except to American vessels, military secrecy here apparently has not ended.

It is stated that the Japs know all about the slim armaments and forces of that facts usually guarded here are public property.

Ancient Guns Guard Isle.

The few heavy artillery guns here are relatively ancient, being of both caliber and short range. They are mobile, and while they have fixed positions commanding important points, it is regular practice to haul them with tractors to the various points, so that the secrets of the few fixed reservation tracts are advertised to the least. American officers agree that a single battleship could silence them in a few hours, or planes completely destroy them by bombing, leaving the way clear to mine sweepers to clear the channel and harbor of Apra. Then would come the landing of troops and an easy march to the capital city of Agana.

A relief garrison, in view of the distances between here and other American forces and the proximity of the Japanese, not only to these and other island groups, but to home ports, is pronounced out of the question.

San Francisco is 5,000 miles away, Honolulu 3,237 miles, Manila 1,500 miles, and Panama 8,000 miles. Nearest is only 1,440 miles, or nearer than Manila, which is under the same armament restrictions as Guam.

Merely a Place to Surrender.

Under these conditions naval officers describe Guam as "merely a departure point" for American forces in event of war. In other words, the United States would be forced completely to withdraw from this advance post or surrender on the first approach of the enemy.

For years naval plans have called for three strong points on the Pacific. They were Kiska in the Aleutian islands, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Guam. Fortification was delayed; then came the Washington conference limiting new equipment already existing to such an extreme that no new building of any type was permitted unless the existing armaments were destroyed, leaving the total the same.

Naval Commandant Like King.

The entire island naval station has been under presidential proclamation ever since it was acquired from Spain, but the naval establishment and civil government are so intertwined that the annual reports of the naval commandant, who also is the civil governor, with powers of a monarch, always are submitted in one document to the secretary of war. Nearly all the department heads are naval officers. The navy's medical officers give free treatments to the natives at the navy hospital. The marines constitute almost the entire police force and have in patrol stations from where they supervise almost all the affairs of the communities.

The principal cities and towns have free dressing and treatment stations, where the natives are attended by hos-

A BIG DIPLOMATIC GAME

Jail Aimee's Defender on Check Charge

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The arrest of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, today brought a new twist to the mystery of the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson's kidnaping.

Mrs. Wiseman was held as the writer of worthless checks. Eleven persons identified her.

Mrs. Wiseman had become the central figure in Mrs. McPherson's story of her kidnaping and escape. This was in consequence of Mrs. Wiseman's appearance before authorities here, proclaiming herself as the sister of "Miss X," a much sought woman who shared a Carmel, Cal., seaside cottage with Kenneth Ormiston, Mrs. McPherson's former radio engineer, from May 19 to May 29.

Mrs. Wiseman's Pledge.

Mrs. Wiseman's pledge that she eventually would produce "Miss X" and her explanation that she also had been at Carmel from May 19 to May 29, as chaperon, led to a declaration that it was Mrs. Wiseman who had been mistakenly identified at Carmel as Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. McPherson, commenting on Mrs. Wiseman's arrest said, "She semed such a lovely woman and a fine character. I would have believed anything she said. I really can't understand it. She came forward with her own story. I feel quite sorry for her."

Mrs. McPherson's counsel, R. R. Woolley, said that Mrs. Wiseman's efforts toward the exoneration of Mrs. McPherson never had been known to, nor sponsored by Mrs. McPherson. "I was taken in myself," Woolley said.

That Book of Dates.

Mrs. Wiseman, in the city jail, explained that a notation in a book of dates, reading: "Mrs. McP. today gave me a present of $100 and asked me not to say anything to anybody about it, not even to her mother," in reality was "like everything else about this case, a frame up. What I wrote, was 'received $100 from Mrs. Mc,' and I referred to the repayment of a loan from my mother."

Mrs. Wiseman said she had a twin sister, named Vila May McDonald, and "the only thing I can think is that I have been mistaken for her. My sister, Vila, is not the 'Miss X' who was at Carmel with Kenneth Ormiston; 'Miss X' still is a younger sister.

"The last I knew of my sisters, they were living near Redondo Beach and Ormiston also was in that neighborhood. He and my younger sister intended to be married."

Mrs. Wiseman will be arraigned Monday. A writ of habeas corpus sought was signed late today and she was ordered released on $1,500 bail.

Tile Falls from Roof and Kills 11 Year Old Boy

FIND MURDERED MAN BURIED IN INDIANA SWAMP

Sheriff Ben Strong of Lake county, Indiana, and his men late yesterday dug up out of a grave two feet deep in the midst of a swamp near Black Oak, Ind., the body of a well dressed man believed to be that of Joseph Terman, who disappeared from Gary on June 29. The man had been murdered, shot three times in the chest and once in the hip.

The partial identification was made by the authorities of Three Rivers, Mich., where Terman's wife told the authorities that a letter found in his pocket, written in Italian, must undoubtedly be to her. She said she and her husband had lived in Gary at the time of his disappearance.

Mrs. Terman said she would go to Crown Point today and attempt positively to identify the body. Its condition indicated it must have been buried soon after the date of Terman's disappearance.

Gary police said that Terman lived at 1316 Jefferson avenue in that city and was not known to have any occupation. Despite this he always dressed well and seemed to have plenty of money. Police expressed the belief the murder was due to a bootlegging dispute.

DRYS PADLOCK 1,153 DOORS IN THIS DISTRICT

Yellowley Tells of One Year's Work.

Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley yesterday completed his first year as dry chief of the thirteenth federal zone, and departed for Washington to tell the national conference of administrators why he "has embodied the padlock in his family coat of arms."

Mr. Yellowley took with him an itemized summary of the use he has made of the padlock in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana during his twelve month regime. The classifications show that forty-two classes of places, ranging from saloons and breweries to homes and clubs, have heard the click of the padlock. Of the properties throughout the United States closed for an entire year, 1,153 are listed in the Chicago, Springfield, Milwaukee, and Indianapolis divisions of the thirteenth zone.

Still More Punishments.

The padlock, or permanent injunction cases, Mr. Yellowley pointed out, are apart from several thousand booze and alky permit revocations, and more than a thousand revocations of drug stores', hospitals', and physicians' grog permits.

In the Chicago district the list of one year injunctions is led by "saloons," Mr. Yellowley not recognizing "soft drink parlors" as a descriptive term. Of these 477 were closed during the year. The largest number in one month was 65, in June.

During the year 49 drug stores were padlocked in the Chicago district, in addition to permit, revocation and criminal action. Structures housing fifteen wildcat and two permit breweries were made useless for one year through injunction procedure.

Puts Padlocks on Homes.

Homes, with thirty-seven residences and five apartments, were high on the list for the Chicago division. Forty-five restaurants, nine cabarets, nineteen cafes, and thirty-six roadhouses were closed in the division.

Among the places which were closed for a year were two shoe repair shops, two tailor shops, one office, two fruit stores, one meat market, one junk shop, two ice cream parlors, a hardware store, a furniture store, two candy stores, a barber shop, a barbecue stand, a filling station, and two tire shops.

Indiana Residences Closed.

The list of places closed in Indiana at the instance of Mr. Yellowley totals 54, and is headed by 20 residences which were padlocked. Seventeen saloons and eight roadhouses are on the list.

In the Wisconsin division, which includes the eastern half of the state, under the Yellowley administration, 154 places have been padlocked. The total includes 103 saloons and 28 roadhouses, but no residences.

The Springfield division also had a total of 154 padlocked cases, 122 of which were saloons, mostly in Springfield and East St. Louis.

Before leaving for Washington Mr. Yellowley called in for instructions all of his assistant administrators: W. H. Kennedy and R. Q. Merrick of Chicago; John Madden of Springfield; Gus Simonds of Milwaukee, and A. R. Harris of Indianapolis.

Wants Extra Dry Zone.

It was said he told them no transfers are in prospect and that they would be expected to drive harder than ever in the program to bring absolute aridity to the 13th zone.

Mr. Yellowley told his assistants that during the last year withdrawals of sacramental wines have been reduced from a monthly average of more than 75,000 gallons to less than 5,000 gallons.

He also said the withdrawals of whisky and alcohol under permit had been reduced from 496,921 gallons in the month of September, 1925 to 291,467 gallons last July, when the last tabulation was available.

Mr. Yellowley said his office had revoked the permits of the Chicago Grain Products company, the Cragin Products company, the Allegheny Products company, the Star Union Distilling company, and the Greendale Products company, all large distilleries maintaining denaturing plants.

Didn't Padlock Distilleries.

It was said, however, that injunction action had not been taken against any of the distilleries whose permits were revoked. In the absence of evidence of criminal violations, all of the distilling companies have court actions pending through which they seek to force prohibition officials to grant permits.

Red Agitator Here Slain by 3 Assassins

Murder believed to be of communistic origin was dealt out suddenly and swiftly last night to Frank Bukoff, also known as Stanley Smith, as he lay on the bed in his rooming house at 223 South Robey street, at 9 o'clock last night.

Three men walked into Bukoff's room, shot him once in the head and once in the stomach, and then ran out leaving him half reclining, half sitting in the midst of his books and papers and clippings all having to do with the activities of the I. W. W., with syndicalism, with soviet Russia and with communism in China and other lands. Frequent communist or socialist meetings have been held in Bukoff's room.

Believe Silencer Was Used.

The three murderers were seen to enter Bukoff's room and they were seen to leave the rooming house, but none who saw them could give the Warren avenue police any good description of them. Nor did any one hear the shots from what must have been a revolver of big caliber, and so the police believe a silencer was used.

Lester Dixon, a fellow roomer in the house gave the police evidence that led them to believe the killing was without doubt of communistic origin. Dixon lived across the hall from Bukoff's room. It was he that told the police of the meetings in Bukoff's room.

"There was one last Sunday," he said. "There was another Monday, another Thursday and there was one tonight. I could hear them talking and arguing in there."

Heard Heated Argument.

Dixon said he heard snatches of the conversation. Once he heard "I. W. W.," again the word "socialist." Still again he heard one with a cockney accent say "You dirty, bloody——!" Also he heard somebody presumably say to Bukoff: "Don't go back over on the north side."

He said he heard one man leave and a little later the voices rise high as though in anger and a scuffle. He believed he had heard one of the shots.

Mrs. David Wills, owner of the rooming house, saw two of the men leave the house in a hurry.

Girl's Name on Envelope.

Among the papers scattered about in the victim's room was a note which read, "You will meet me, be sure, at 10:30 p. m.," and on the back of an envelope was written the name, Miss Virginia Allison, 3273 Martindale, Indianapolis, Ind. There were also several pictures, one of two men in the uniforms of Russian army officers, another of a Russian officer standing beside a woman.

In Indianapolis early this morning Miss Allison said she knew nothing of Bukoff further than that she met him while on a visit to Chicago a few weeks ago. She declined to give any other details of her acquaintance with the man.

Bukoff is said to have had a police record, having been arrested once for disorderly conduct.

Supreme Court May Reverse Scopes Verdict

Dayton, Tenn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—After all the tumult and the shouting at Dayton a year ago, the famous Scopes evolution case is expected to be reversed by the Tennessee Supreme court by reason of a little matter involving just $50.

An ancient and somewhat neglected provision of the state constitution limiting to $50 the amount of a fine that may be imposed by a trial judge on a defendant has been dug up by attorneys interested in the evolution trial, which, even in the absence of other error in the lower court, may entitle John Thomas Scopes, the high school teacher convicted of teaching evolution, to a new trial.

The anti-evolution statute sets the fine for persons convicted under it at from $100 to $500. The Scopes jury, when returning its verdict of guilty, left the amount of the fine to the trial judge, and Judge John T. Raulston imposed the minimum fixed by the act of the legislature. Now it is contended that only the jury could impose a fine larger than $50.

Attorney General Tom Stewart, who prosecuted Scopes in the Dayton court, in a statement today admitted the possibility of reversal by the Supreme court by reason of the "fifty dollar error."

KILLS CONSTABLE IN RENEWAL OF KENTUCKY FEUD

Prestonsburg, Ky., Sept. 11.—(AP)—An outgrowth of a feud between the Mellon family and Jim Sizemore, Prestonsburg constable, resulted in the killing of Sizemore in the courthouse here tonight by Bev Mellon Jr. Mellon fled to the hills immediately after the shooting. A posse went in search of him.

The shooting resulted, it was said, from the killing of Mellon's father, Bev Mellon Sr., and uncle, Jim Mellon, in a fight over the election on the Prestonsburg institute campus the night of Aug. 5. That fight resulted after Patrolman Banks had arrested the Elder Bev Mellon. The Mellons took the prisoner from Banks, threw Banks on the ground, and beat him. Jim Mellon fired once at the officer, killing Bev Mellon Sr., who was sitting on Banks, beating him.

A general shooting scrape resulted, during which Jim Mellon was killed and Mrs. Doll Mellon, his wife, was seriously wounded. Constable Sizemore was said to have been present at the shooting and young Mellon was said to have blamed him for not stopping the trouble.

THREE CANOEISTS RESCUED AFTER BATTLING WAVES

Three East Chicago men narrowly escaped drowning in Lake Michigan yesterday when their canoe overturned about a mile off Whiting, Ind. They were rescued by Irvin Selsen, lifeguard, and Francis McNamara, boathouse manager, who picked them up after an hour's battle with the choppy waters.

John Helvin, 4615 Dante avenue, one of the three canoeists, had attempted to swim to shore, and was picked up exhausted about half a mile out. The other two, Albert Crawlin, 4913 Michigan avenue, and James Davis, 5624 Starr avenue, clung to the overturned craft until the rescuers arrived.

MUSSOLINI, WHO ESCAPED BOMB, VOICES THREAT

Speech Cheered by 100,000 in Rome.

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Sept. 11.—Echoes of the bomb, which was hurled at Premier Mussolini, fascist dictator of Italy, this morning, resounded in ominous tones throughout Europe tonight.

One hundred thousand cheering Italians heard the dictator issue a warning that Italy was done with permitting the harboring by neighboring governments of foes of the fascist government. While he did not mention France, by name, every man and woman in the crowd seemed to know it was France at whom he was aiming his words.

The relations between Italy and France, which have been strained for some time, were considered by diplomats, following Sig. Mussolini's threat, to be close to the breaking point.

Celebrate Escape of Mussolini.

The speech of Premier Mussolini was the culmination of a day of wild celebration in Rome and throughout Italy of the almost miraculous escape of the dictator from the third attempt made against his life within a year.

Sig. Mussolini was greeted by a storm of applause when he stepped on the balcony of Chigi palace, directly opposite THE TRIBUNE'S Rome office, held up his hand and began by recalling the death of the fascist deputy, Armando Casalini, who was killed by anti-fascists exactly two years ago today.

"I have several things to say which probably will prove important," he continued. "When this manifestation is over, I want you not to disturb public order. Great people like the Italian people must control their nerves in face of any event.

Dictator's Grim Warning.

"I will pronounce now some grave words, which must be interpreted exactly by reasonable people. We must put a stop to certain culpable, tiresome conditions which we tolerate outside our own frontiers. We would advise responsible governments to take note of this, because otherwise their friendly relations with the Italian people might easily be compromised. We are prepared to act if necessary.

"After mature reflection, I think we must apply new measures—not for myself, because I really love to live in danger, but the peace and glory and work of the Italian people must not be disturbed by a handful of criminals."

There is a good deal of talk from unofficial sources of Italy asking France for the right to extradite all active anti-fascisti, but this course is improbable as difficulties are presented by international treaties.

Press Bitter Toward France.

The Italian press did not mince words in discussing the dangerous political aspect of the attempted murder of the premier by an anti-fascist refugee from France.

The extreme Fascist paper, the Journal of Italy, says, "We must know if France remains neutral or not in the struggle between Italian Fascism and foreign anti-Fascism. Or is it France's intent to cooperate silently with anti-Fascism? Has France indirect responsibility in criminal acts when they are conceived spiritually in its territory through the obscure activities of certain persons who are tolerated and protected there?"

May Revive Capital Punishment.

The Fascist authorities lost no time in taking steps to put a stop to attempts against the life of Premier Mussolini. A number of Fascist deputies held a special meeting to discuss means of convoking the chamber and demanding a change in the national laws to revive capital punishment to apply to such cases.

It is understood that there will be legal difficulties in bringing back the death penalty, which has not been enforced in Italy since 1861, but the Fascist authorities now declare they can make attempts on the life of the king or premier punishable under the military code as acts of treason under which the death sentence is possible.

Narrowly Escapes Death.

Premier Mussolini's escape from death at the hands of an assassin today was only by a hair's breadth. Had a bronch grenade which was hurled at him by a young anarchist, Ermenio Giovannini, struck an inch and a half lower it would have fallen through the window of the premier's limousine and would have exploded in the tonneau where Sig. Mussolini was seated, and unfoundedly would have blown the duce into bits.

It was only last April that a crazed Englishwoman, Miss Violet Gibson, fired a revolver pointblank at Sig. Mussolini, shooting him on the tip of the nose. This second miraculous escape leaves Rome convinced tonight that the great Fascist chief leads a charmed life.

The narrowness of his escape may be judged from the fact that a few seconds after the alert chauffeur of his car sped at breakneck speed away from the spot the bomb exploded with terrific force, felling eight persons in the street. Fragments of the bomb, which was said to be of military type, flew in all directions, smashing windows of the ministry of public works, nearly 100 yards away.

Chauffeur Tells of Bombing.

A TRIBUNE correspondent visited the scene a few minutes after the explosion and talked with Sig. Mussolini's chauffeur, Enrico Bonato, who really saved the premier's life, while crowds of Fascists began to gather with almost unbelievable rapidity from all parts of the city, which within an hour was aroar with the Fascist anthem from the throats of thousands of young men who swarmed the streets.

The actual incident, as related by the duce's chauffeur, follows: At 10:15 o'clock this morning the premier left his summer residence, Villa Torlonia, somewhat later than usual. As his car passed a wide, open square on the Porto Pia a dark, well dressed young man stepped out from a newspaper stand, held up his hand in the Fascist salute, and walked in front of the speeding car, which was forced to slow up in order to avoid hitting him.

Smiling, with his left hand still raised as if to hail the chief, the young man put his right hand into his pocket and brought out a hand grenade, which he hurled at the car.

"Villain Tried to Kill Me."

The missile struck the metal frame of the limousine window and fell to the ground. Sig. Mussolini said to the chauffeur, "It is a stone," but the chauffeur, himself an ardent Fascist, who has been with the duce since the famous Black Shirt march on Rome in 1922, cried out, "No, it is a bomb," and stepped on the gas. Sig. Mussolini looked out the window, trying to catch sight of his would-be assassin, and said, "You're right; it's a bomb. That villain tried to kill me."

A moment later came the explosion. Sig. Mussolini did not see the rest of the exciting scene, as a score of armed detectives started after the bomb thrower. From his pocket the young anarchist drew a second grenade which he threw at his pursuers, but the bomb fell on soft grass and didn't explode.

Protected from Mob.

Then Giovannini dodged down a side street with a taxi on his heels, trying to run him down. Finally he jumped into a doorway, where he was overcome and surrounded by police in order to protect him from the wrath of the mob until an automobile was commandeered and he was rushed to the central prefecture of police, which immediately was encircled by cordons of police to drive off the crowds, who at first were determined to lynch the assailant.

Interrogated by the police this afternoon, Giovannini asserted he arrived from Marseilles secretly via a coastwise boat and was smuggled into Italy a few days ago, going to his home town of Castello di Garfagnana, in the province of Tuscany. He vows he told his brothers and sisters nothing of his resolution, which was made long ago to take the duce's life.

He borrowed a small amount of money and came to Rome secretly via water, and landed here at 7:30 o'clock this morning. He said he brought the bombs with him from France. He asserted he studied every daily movement of Premier Mussolini's life in the newspapers.

Denies Others Aided Plot.

After declaring he had attended an anti-Fascist congress at Marseilles a few months ago and had lived in the French city for several years as a political refugee, Giovannini said: "No others are implicated. I am an anarchist and an individualist."

The police, however, are searching for two accomplices, who are said to have escaped from the scene of today's attempt, the three anarchists being dressed in black shirts, big black hats, and scarlet neckties.

Premier Mussolini was infinitely calm throughout the day's events and wrote a deposition against Giovannini on his own typewriter. He spent all morning after his narrow escape, shaking hands with diplomats and Fascist leaders and foreign representatives who came to congratulate him.

France Sees Direct Challenge.

[Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 11.—Premier Mussolini's warning that Italy's neighbors must take steps to prevent hatching more plots against the Italian government within their borders is considered here as a direct challenge.

The words of his speech as quoted here seem certainly to bear no other meaning. There is no proof that Giovannini hatched the plot to kill the dictator or manufactured the bomb on this side of the frontier, but there is no doubt in French minds that the dictator's speech is directed at France's too great tolerance.

Inevitably the French reply will be that nothing would please them better than that Italians of all conditions should stay home, for the south of France is overrun with them.

NORWAY, SICK OF DRY LAW, VOTES ON REPEAL OCT. 18

Drinking Grows Since the Advent of Prohibition.

BY ANDREAS BACKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Sept. 11.—Norway's experience with prohibition has been summed up as the most tragic comedy ever witnessed in this country. A reform which was evidently calculated to produce celestial conditions, has, after two years' trial, increased the public debt, made drunkenness popular, taught law breaking as a pastime, and created general disorders.

For a hundred years before prohibition became law, the work of decreasing drunkenness in Norway made steady progress. It had reached the point where saloons were abolished, and where it was considered a personal disgrace to be discovered intoxicated in a public place. No Norwegian women ever were to be found in such a condition, and the morals of the nation were for the most part excellent. Finland was the only country in the world able to show a lower percentage of alcoholics per capita. Furthermore, Norway had, at that time, no international quarrels with outside countries concerning the importation and exportation of liquors or wines.

Was Wartime Measure.

Parliament resolved in those first days of the war to establish national prohibition as a temporary emergency measure. The law was not put into effect until 1916, and the first drastic laws were modified soon after that. Importation and sale of liquors with as high as fourteen per cent of alcohol was permitted. This compromise was necessitated because of the French unwillingness to sacrifice French wine sales, and the Norwegian storthing was willing to make concessions toward an agreement.

As a result of Portuguese and Spanish trade reprisals against the importation of Norwegian fish, the law was again modified in favor of strong wines—ports and sherries—from those two countries. Norway repealed her prohibition articles so as to allow the ingress of Spanish and Portuguese products up to twenty-one per cent alcohol strength.

Few Smugglers Captured.

For this reason it cannot be strictly said that Norway is today a land of true prohibition, since only liquors of more than 21 per cent strength are barred. Nevertheless the question remains one of first importance in Norwegian politics.

Smuggling on a large scale began in Norway soon after prohibition began to be enforced. Alcoholic products from Denmark and Germany made up the bulk of the illicit goods. The Norwegian treasury was called upon to appropriate large sums to combat this practice. In spite of the vigilance, only a few smugglers have been captured, and the increase of liquor smuggling in Norway has been tremendous.

In 1918 there were 121 litres of alcohol illicitly brought into the country. In 1919 the illegal import had grown to 1,412 litres. It jumped to 3,866 litres in 1920, to 16,989 litres in 1921, and to 92,591 litres in 1922. In 1923 the total was 196,962 litres. Those are figures compiled by the police authorities. These figures may be taken undoubtedly as only representing a fraction of the actual illegal import.

Dry Navy Sent to Sea.

Then the government was compelled to take drastic steps against smugglers, so a Norwegian dry navy was equipped and sent to sea, with the result that smuggling was cut down on the southern coast, while smugglers from Germany continued to bring huge quantities of bootleg liquor into the country by establishing their stations along the northern coast.

Despite police statements to the contrary, smuggling in Norway has not decreased since that time. Only a few days ago a German racing boat bearing the name "Viking" was intercepted while attempting to land a cargo of 26,000 litres of liquor at Oslo harbor, while another shipment of 55,000 litres was discovered recently aboard a foreign rum runner making port in Norway without declaration.

Doctor's prescriptions have been curtailed by prohibition legislation, with the result that home-brewing has everywhere increased tremendously. Peasants everywhere are now making their own drinks, both brewed and distilled, especially concoctions of extreme alcoholic strength, which brings intoxication with the minimum consumption. Cases of death from poisonously concocted alcohol are not rare in Norway, and crimes of violence are rife as a result of wholesale consumption of such products.

Losses from Taxes Heavy.

It has been proven that prohibition has brought a large increase in the consumption of imported strong wines in Norway. In 1913, before prohibition, the import from Portugal and Spain amounted to 4,000,000 litres. In 1924, after prohibition, this figure jumped to 6,500,000 litres, and in 1925 it had reached nearly 9,500,000. During a parliamentary debate recently it was stated that the consumption of imported strong wines by all classes of people in Norway was fast becoming a national disaster.

While it is difficult to calculate the entire cost that prohibition has placed upon the country, it may be safely stated that the total reaches more than 100,000,000 kroner yearly. Losses from liquor taxes reach about 47,000,000 and the cost of fighting smugglers makes up at least another 50,000,000 or more.

Vote in October.

There are numerous comedies presented by Norway's prohibition resolve. One is encountered in the Franco-Norwegian commercial treaty, whereby Norway is compelled to import 400,000 litres of French wine annually, and is not permitted to re-export it.

October, 1926, may see the end of prohibition in Norway. On the 18th of that month a referendum will be asked on the liquor question. Inasmuch as the last wet-dry vote was extremely small, it is impossible to predict what the next outcome will be.

MONUMENT TO SOLDIERS IS UNVEILED

MUSSOLINI ESCAPES 3 ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIM WITHIN A YEAR

Benito Mussolini, the Italian premier, who escaped death by a bomb in Rome yesterday, is no stranger to attempts upon his life.

The last previous attack was made on April 7, just before his departure to Tripoli, when Miss Violet Gibson, an English woman, fired a shot which caused a slight injury to the tip of his nose. The attack was made as he was leaving a session of the Congress of Surgeons in Rome. His habit of holding his head erect while receiving the plaudits of crowds undoubtedly saved his life.

Miss Gibson had pointed a pistol point blank at his face, but at the moment she fired he straighted up and threw his head back, the slight movement causing the bullet to merely miss the mark. Miss Gibson was adjudged mentally irresponsible.

Another attempt was frustrated in November, 1925, when the police discovered a plot to assassinate him by the former Socialist deputy, Tito Zaniboni.

On Italy's armistic day, as he was on his way to make his speech from his office window, Zaniboni was found concealed in a nearby hotel with a high powered rifle furnished with telescope sights. He was arrested with his equipment just in time. He is still in prison awaiting tral.

The press of Europe from time to time printed circumstantial reports of other attempts to assassinate him, but these were followed by official denials.

2D BATTALION OF 131ST IS HONORED BY ROTARY CLUB

Former Adjutant General Frank S. Dickson was the principal speaker yesterday at the dedication of a monument erected at Dellwood park, near Joliet to commemorate a period during the summer of 1917 when the 2d battalion of the 131st Infantry was camped in the park. From this encampment, the battalion, formerly a unit of the old "Fighting First," went into training at Camp Logan before embarking overseas.

The Rev. William H. McPherson, pastor of St. John's Universalist church in Joliet, represented at the exercises the Rotary club of Joliet which presented the monument. Gen. John V. Clinnin of Chicago, was another speaker, and Attorney William A. Murphy of Joliet, was chairman. An informal reception followed the ceremonies.

Waiter Arrested for Third Time as Peeping Tom

Thomas Pollos, 36 years old, 1353 West Harrison street, a waiter, was arrested last night by detectives who declare they found him peering into a window at 1107 Loomis street, watching a woman disrobe. Pollos twice before has been fined on Peeping Tom charges.

BROOKHART ORDERED UNDER AN OPERATION AT HOME TOMORROW

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Col. Smith W. Brookhart, Republican nominee for United States senator, will go on the operating table in Washington, Ia., his home, Monday, it was announced today.

COL. SMITH W. BROOKHART.

An X-ray examination today disclosed a kidney trouble which, attending physicians said, would require surgical treatment. Dr. E. K. Wickham, physician in charge of the senatorial candidate, would make no statement concerning the seriousness of the operation.

Col. Brookhart, who was ordered home Friday after he was taken ill on a speaking tour, continued optimistic concerning his illness and declared that with good luck he hoped to be able to resume his campaign soon.

BUNK, BUNDESEN CALLS HOME TEST FOR POISON RUM

You're Taking a Chance, Health Chief's Warning.

Unless you want to die suddenly or lose your eyesight don't depend on "simple home tests" to find out whether there is poison in your bootleg liquor. Take it to a competent chemist and be safe.

A warning to that effect was broadcast by Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen yesterday after it came to his attention that since the stir about the government's attitude on poison booze Chicago drug stores are selling thousands of so-called chemical "test sets."

Simply put a thimbleful of your bottle into a test tube, say the directions. Add a little of "Liquid A" and a few drops of "Liquid B" and—presto! if any wood alcohol is present it will turn blue. If not it's good liquor.

Tests Called Useless.

Not only do the tests fail to show the presence of half a dozen other rank poisons, but they are not even dependable in disclosing wood alcohol, according to information given to Commissioner Bundesen by W. C. Marti and Louis Janowski, his two booze specialists, who test hundreds of bootleg specimens weekly.

In the first place, an accurate test with fuchsin, the reagent used in the sets, should be made on distillate, not the liquor itself, as coloring matter, sweetening, and other extraneous substances may ruin the test. It must also be made in a temperature of more than 77 degrees.

But more important than either of these difficulties is the fact that the test, even when carefully performed, will not reveal a wood alcohol content of less than 2 per cent, whereas any amount of wood alcohol is dangerous if not deadly. Furthermore, glycerine, often used in mixing gin, gives exactly the same reaction as wood alcohol.

Some Undisclosed Poisons.

Here are a few of the poisons the test will not show, according to the health department experts: acetone, pyridine bases; diethylphthalate, the nauseating poison found in bay rum, hair tonics and rub alcohol; benzol, phenol, a poison similar to carbolic acid, found in imitation Scotch whisky; mercuric salts, the stuff thrown in captured liquor by the government, and acetaldehyde.

The last named poison, according to the health department experts, is commonly found in home brew and all moonshine made from mash. It is commonly known as fusel oil and is exceedingly harmful.

"If any amateur chemist thinks he can detect these poisons with a $10 drug store set, there is no law against him trying," said Dr. Bundesen. "But he is taking big chances.

"If a man is giving a party and wants to protect his guests from illness, by all means his liquor should be tested. But these home tests are all the bunk. The only way to be sure, and the cheapest in the long run, is to take it to a chemist who knows what he is doing."

Chicago Printers Arrive at Convention on Special

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A special train carrying Chicago and Cincinnati delegates to the International Typographical union convention arrived today. Business sessions of the convention will begin Monday. Fifteen hundred printers are expected to attend. Cincinnati is bidding for the diamond jubilee convention to be held in 1927.

SACCO, VANZETTI HEARING WILL BE BITTERLY FOUGHT

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A legal argument that will be heard around the world will be made Monday morning before Judge Webster Thayer in the Superior court at Dedham, when William G. Thompson will ask favorable consideration of the contention of Sacco and Vanzetti that because of newly discovered evidence the verdict of guilty of murder in a South Braintree pay roll holdup in 1920 should be set aside.

In support of the alleged confession of a more recently convicted murderer in a bank robbery case, which absolves Sacco and Vanzetti, Attorney Thompson will present 61 affidavits. Assistant District Attorney Dudley F. Bassett of Norfolk county, on behalf of the commonwealth has twenty-seven affidavits he will ask the judge to weigh against the contents of those offered by the defense.

It is expected that the hearing will be one of the most bitterly contested ever known in the criminal courts of this commonwealth. Already there have been several spirited heartings, and more recently the matter came to a direct colloquy between Attorney Thompson and Gov. Fuller, with the latter softening and, of his own initiatives, giving the respite asked by Attorney Thompson after the latter declined to make his appeal to the judge.

SHOE STORE MANAGER ROBBED.

Two bandits locked him in the rear room of his shoe store and rifled the cash register of $50 yesterday, Fred Kitzner, manager of the Newark Shoe store at 2538 North avenue, reported.

FORD USES ONE GALLON OF GAS. LINE ON 56 MILE TRIP.

Pukwana, S. Dak.—An amazing test was made which astonished the eyes and senses of an automobile owner. SIFT 4 DEATHS AS MOTHER AND SON ARE HELD

Piggott, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Officials indicated tonight they might investigate three other deaths in the family of Cecil Allen, 27, who, with his mother, Mrs. Minnie White, 52, were ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the poison death of Allen's wife, Eula, 27, Aug. 31.

Two children died within the last thirty days and Allen's father died unexpectedly two years ago.

Authorities said collection of insurance money was a possible motive in the poisoning of Mrs. Allen. The two children also were insured. A chemist testified at the inquest that he found 1.55 grains of poison in the stomach of Mrs. Allen.

MOTHER OF TWO POLICEMEN DIES.

Mrs. Kate Welsh, 63 years old, 1757 Newport avenue, mother of Detective Sergeant Ray Cullen and Patrolman John O'Neil, died at her home last night of a cerebral hemorrhage.

McERLANE'S PAL IS IDENTIFIED IN BIG MAIL HOLDUP

Postal Clerk Points Out Nick Kramer.

Nick Kramer, 4916 Honore street, a lieutenant in the Saltis-McErlane gang, was arrested yesterday and immediately identified as one of the bandits who Friday morning obtained $139,000 in a mail train robbery.

Brakeman George Johnson of Battle Creek, Mich., also was questioned again upon his return to the city late last night and again confronted several suspects, but is said to have been unable to make any positive identification. He had proceeded on with the train after the robbery and at his home Friday night said he believed he recognized one of the robbers as a former acquaintance.

Johnson entered the mail car, unlocking the door, to assist in quenching a small fire, and went out, leaving the door open. The mail clerks said they ordered the door to be open for a few minutes to clear out all the smoke.

Robbery Occurred Then.

It was in those few minutes that the robbers gained entrance to the mail car.

Robert McCook, one of the two mail clerks, was said to have partially identified Kramer, but Johnson was not so sure.

John Kelly, 2754 Carmen avenue, one of the mail clerks, had positively identified Kramer. He first selected Kramer's picture from a large group at the bureau of identification. Then, face to face, he pointed out Kramer, who was in a crowd of a dozen prisoners at the detective bureau.

Kramer had an alibi, but after hours of questioning and checking Chief Schoemaker said the alibi had been shattered. Admissions were expected before morning, and it was thought more than possible that some trace would be had of the money.

Defense Fund Motive.

The purpose of the robbery, the detectives felt sure, was to raise a defense fund for the leaders of the gang, Joe Saltis, who is awaiting trial on a charge of the murder of John "Mitters" Foley, and Frank McErlane, who is awaiting trial in Indiana on a charge of the murder of Thad S. Fancher, near Crown Point.

The prosecutors in both cases say they have unbeatable cases and they expect death penalty verdicts against both Saltis and McErlane. The police were told both these leaders of the old time beer gangs are practically without money now.

It was known the Saltis-McErlane gang was contemplating the holdup of an armored car of the Brink's Express which carries $250,000 every Friday for a pay roll in Argo. The information was given the police and instead the gang switched to the mail robbery, Deputy Stege declared.

Chief Inspector Miller said he had no doubts but that the robbery was being rapidly cleared up and that he expected all the robbers would be under arrest in a short time.

He added that Friday's robbery was the first robbery of mail in Illinois since the Rondout train robbery, which netted $5,000,000, but which brought imprisonment to all concerned in it. Inspector Miller said that in the last two years forty-one men had been convicted of mail robberies and given penitentiary sentences aggregating 1,127 years.

ORDERS SALTIS TO TRIAL OCT. 4 AS SLAYER OF FOLEY

Joseph Saltis, south side beer chief, and his principal henchman, Frank Koncil, must go to trial on Oct. 4 for the murder of John J. Foley, one of their rivals slain on Aug. 6, Judge Harry B. Miller ruled yesterday in Criminal court. Judge Miller will preside at the trial.

Final plans for the trial were made at a session before Judge Miller marked by heated clashes between Saltis' counsel, W. W. O'Brien and Frank A. McDonnell, and Special State's Attorney Charles A. McDonald.

In connection with their action to quash the indictments, O'Brien and McDonnell contended that the special grand jury, sworn on Aug. 2 to investigate the murders of Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin and two beer runners on the west side, did not possess the authority to indict Saltis and Koncil.

"Special grand juries may be provided for emergencies," declared McDonnell. "The killing of Foley did not create a public emergency. In fact he was not killed until four days after this jury was convened."

In addition Mr. McDonnell questioned the authority of Mr. McDonald to act in the case, holding his appointment was for the McSwiggin case alone.

Mr. McDonald retorted that he hoped the order instituting him as a special prosecutor would not terminate until "this community is well rid of these murder gangs which have brought on a reign of terror."

"We are actuated here by the thought of public service only," he said. "We are not acting in conflict with the state's attorney's office, but in conjunction with it. All we want is a chance to get our witnesses into court before they are browbeaten or perhaps killed."

To which McDonnell replied that the former jurist has been "pulling his sefiora out of the dime novels."

Judge Miller ruled that the scope of the special grand jury properly extended to investigation of the Foley murder and overruled the motion to quash the indictments.

MAKES PUMPING UP TIRES UNNECESSARY.

Chicago, Ill.—F. E. Hughes, Suite 111-H, 434 N. Homan Ave., of this city, has perfected a new air-tight valve cap that enables auto owners to pump up their tires once and never touch them again until punctured or worn out. Leading tire manufacturers, after thorough tests, have approved Mr. Hughes' invention and banished the old theory that air escapes through rubber. One invention lasts the life of a tire, and tire mileage is doubled. These caps retail for $1.50 for set of five. The inventor wants agents and will send proof and sample free. Write him today.—Adv.

LOEB IS IMPROVING UNDER PRISON REGIME; FLOUT INSANITY PERIL

Predictions that Richard Loeb, one of the youthful murderers of Robert Franks, would not remain sane five years in the penitentiary at Joliet, have been proved false, jail officials said yesterday as Loeb and Nathan Leopold completed the second year of their life sentences.

"Loeb is more than holding his own," said Dr. Walter Martin, the penitentiary physician. "He is definitely better than he was a year ago after the delirium which followed his attack of measles. He is a runner in the yard and that keeps him out of doors, helping to improve his health.

"Reports that he is approaching a mental collapse are untrue. He is normal mentally."

RECORDS BELIE CONVICT'S YARN ON HALL MURDER

Was in Jail at Time of Double Killing.

For a short time last night it appeared that the story of a "conscience stricken" inmate of the Joliet penitentiary as told to Warden Elmer J. Green might assist New Jersey authorities in clearing up the Hall-Mills murders of Sept. 14, 1922. Henry Nelson, the convict, claimed he drove two men on a trip to kill a man and woman near New Brunswick, N. J., on the night of Sept. 15, 1922. After hearing the story Warden Green had Nelson repeat it in a letter to authorities of New Brunswick, N. J.

Then the telegraph wires carried the yarn and it fell under the eyes of the police in San Francisco. They delved into records and found that at the time of the murders Nelson, under the alias of Michael Narey, was in jail in San Francisco awaiting trial on a charge of passing worthless checks.

Nelson's Weird Yarn.

Nelson's story was that in September, 1922, he was released from prison at Alcatraz, Cal., and made his way east to New Brunswick with two other ex-convicts whom he knew as "Cap" Coleman and George Rose. On the night of Sept. 15, he declared, they told him they had entered into a contract to kill a man and a woman and impressed him into service as chauffeur.

"I drove them out into the country, where they got out of the car and disappeared in a field," Nelson said. "Pretty soon I heard two shots, and in a moment they came running back and we got away in the car. They gave me $300 for my part."

Warden Green expressed himself as skeptical of the story but had it sent to New Jersey for what it was worth.

NEW DEFENSE THEORY

New York Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson heard today what was described as the "theory of the defense" in the Hall-Mills case. This theory was that two men killed the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills after surprising them on the Phillips farm near New Brunswick, N. J., on Sept. 14, 1922.

Senator Simpson heard the theory while he was in Somerville, N. J., where he went late in the afternoon to stay the execution of two warrants issued against Ralph V. Gorsline and Miss Catherine Rastall as material witnesses in the case. The warrants were sworn out as a result of the stories of Gorsline and the girl, revealed on Friday after four years, that they heard the shots that killed the rector and his choir leader.

Attorney Reveals Theory.

The state prosecutor said he had been informed that the defense's view of the crime had been put forward by one of the attorneys retained by Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, Henry de La Bruyere Carpender and "Willie" Stevens, who are accused of the murder.

The information that came to the state official was that the two men obtained possession of letters exchanged between Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. No light was shed on the manner in which the men got the leters. Armed with the incriminating missives, the men were pictured as proceeding to the rector's rendezvous near a crabapple tree on the abandoned farm.

The men were believed to have confronted the clergyman and Mrs. Mills and, after a protracted quarrel, fired the four shots that caused death. Both of the men named in the theory have figured in the present investigation and in the inquiry conducted four years ago by the late Asariah Beekman, who was prosecutor of the Pleas for Somerset county in 1922. Neither, however, has appeared as a principal.

WINNETKA MAN, U. S. DIPLOMAT, KILLED IN EGYPT

Auto Crash Is Fatal to Stewart Johnson.

Stewart Johnson of Winnetka, well-known figure in the diplomatic service abroad, died Friday in Alexandria, Egypt, as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident Sept. 8, according to word received by relatives here yesterday. Funeral services were held and the body will be shipped here for burial, it was announced.

A dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from Alexandria yesterday said that early Wednesday morning Mr. Johnson was returning from a bridge party and struck an unlighted Arab cart loaded with bricks. He was taken to a hospital, rallied, but relapsed and died later.

Leaves Widow and Daughter.

Mr. Johnson was chargé d'affaires and interim at Cairo, Egypt, at the time of his death. He was 46 years old. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Catherine ReQua Johnson, 324 Mayflower road, Lake Forest, member of a prominent Chicago family; a daughter, Catita, and his mother, Mrs. Lorenzo M. Johnson of Winnetka. Details of the automobile accident have not yet been learned by the family.

Mrs. Johnson was with her husband in Egypt until three months ago, when she returned to spend the summer in Lake Forest.

Graduate of Yale.

Mr. Johnson was born in St. Louis in 1880. He graduated from Yale in 1902 and from the Harvard law school in 1907. He practiced law in Chicago from 1907 to 1915, entering the diplomatic service in March, 1915. Later, he served in Santo Domingo, Guatemala, Caracas, and Berlin. In 1924, he was appointed foreign service officer of class four and assigned as first secretary at legation in Cairo.

SEIZE WIFE FOR HAVING 8 STOLEN AUTO LICENSES

Detectives late yesterday arrested Mrs. Fern Overby, 26 years old, 8627 South Ada street, on charges of receiving eight stolen automobile license plates.

Her husband, Floyd, who recently was released after serving a jail term for receiving stolen automobiles, was rearrested when he threatened the policemen who arrested his wife. Overby was first arrested in connection with the wholesale theft and disposal of automobiles taken in Chicago and sold in Peoria.

Last June the police, while searching a garage rented by Mrs. Overby, trapped three bandits who had robbed a west side foundry of $1,500.

ISABELLE POPE'S SISTER WILL WED GLENCOE YOUTH

Announcement was made yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Pope, 910 Lake avenue, Wilmette, of the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Sherman Rowley Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto R. Barnett, 684 Greenleaf avenue, Glencoe. Elizabeth's older sister, Isabelle, was the fiancée of William McClintock, for whose sudden death two years ago William D. Shepherd was tried for murder and acquitted.

SMUGGLED LACE FOUND SEWED IN NUNS' GARMENTS

Four Sisters Held on Way from Canadian Retreat.

St. Albans, Vt., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Under federal guard at a hotel here tonight four nuns of the order of Franciscan Sisters from Massachusetts convents were held as suspicious persons by customs authorities. They were arrested early today on a Montreal-Boston sleeper when federal officers discovered laces valued at $5,000 secreted in their clothes.

Customs officials identified them as Sisters Isarr and Perfetu Locoro of St. Anthony's convent, Fall River; Sister Sagrado, mother superior of the convent of Our Lady Gloria, New Bedford, and Sister Des Oliviers of the convent of Our Lady of Good Help, East Boston.

At Canadian Convent.

Dispatches from Massachusetts stated the party had been on retreat at a Canadian convent.

Harry Whitehill, collector of customs, said his inspectors noticed that their garments seemed unusually large. At Richford the nuns said they had nothing to declare.

A few minutes later a piece of lace was seen protruding from the gown of one of the nuns, Whitehill said. They were taken from the train and given a preliminary examination.

This search disclosed a quantity of first quality lace sewed into specially made petticoats. Brought here from Richford, they were questioned and revealed that the petticoats had been obtained at a convent on St. Dominick street in Montreal yesterday, where they had stopped after coming from Quebec.

They Answered in English.

All denied they spoke English, but after questioning by a French interpreter they were reported to have begun answering in English.

They disclaimed knowledge of how the lace came to be in their petticoats and said the clothing was given them at the convent. Examination of their baggage disclosed cans filled with a powder found to be a French patent stomach medicine.

The lace seized was described at the custom office as being of the finest Breton quality and included baby clothes, doilies, priests' garments, and table linens. Some of the articles had price tags on them, and one showed a small piece to be worth $150.

After being put under guard at the hotel the nuns asked to have counsel and a Burlington lawyer was notified.

CARPENTER DIES AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTO TRUCK

Emil Broberg, 54 years old, 5717 South Robey street, a carpenter, died at the Englewood hospital yesterday from injuries received a few hours previously when he was struck by an automobile truck at 57th street and Racine avenue.

Thomas Kenney, 57 years old, 1506 East 72d street, a switchman, was struck by an auto driven by George Boudewsyns, 29 years old, 16 North Waverly street, when he attempted to cross 76th street at Stoney Island avenue shortly before midnight last night, and died of a fractured skull an hour later in Jackson Park hospital. Boudewsyns is being held in jail.

The two deaths raised the 1926 Cook county auto toll to 568.

Gerald Bowsher, 1619 Lawrence avenue, a taxicab driver, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday in Evanston on a charge of manslaughter after his cab killed Mrs. Hattie Whiteside, colored, living at 945 Sheridan road, Evanston.

H. R. KIMBARK OF EVANSTON IS MARRIED IN EAST

Wianno, Mass., Sept. 11.—Miss Helen Bateman Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wanton Gould of Wianno and Staten Island, N. Y., was married today to Harry Rice Kimbark, son of Mrs. Eugene Kimbark of Evanston, Ill. The ceremony was performed in St. Peter's chapel at Wianno by the Rev. Duncan H. Browne of St. James church, Chicago.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Wianno club.

The bride is a graduate of Miss Hall's school in Pittsfield. Mr. Kimbark is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a member of the Union League [Chicago] and Skokie clubs.

3 Alcohol Drinkers Dead, Five Others Seriously Ill

Newark, N. J., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Three men died today in the Newark city hospital and five others are seriously ill as a result of drinking denatured alcohol. The eight men were found unconscious early today on the shore of the Morris canal.

YOUTH ACCUSES STEPFATHER OF STEALING AUTOS

Names Others in Ring of Robbers.

Twenty-one year old Edward Williams, who went the villains of dime novel days one better when he participated in the robbery of his own mother at the point of a gun last Thursday night at her home two miles west of Elmhurst, yesterday confessed to Town Hall police that he was a member of a gang of automobile thieves, and implicated his stepfather in their operations.

Embittered at the information that his mother had decided not to attempt to protect him from the effects of his own actions, Williams gave the police the names of his stepfather and three other men, Sam Grani, Fred Solomon, and Al Ruggio, whom he indicated as the ringleader, as his companions in the auto theft business.

Knew He Was Stealing.

"No matter what a fellow has done nor how bad he has been, his mother should never go back on him. It's a dirty trick," he declared. "My stepfather knew I was stealing cars, and he is just as guilty as I am. He was to have sold a Ford coupe we had stolen."

A garage had been rented at Huron and La Salle streets, to which they brought all the cars they could pick up, and from which they disposed of their stock, according to Williams.

Took Radio Set.

With Solomon and Grani, he went to Elmhurst on Thursday to demand of his stepfather, S. A. Williams, what he had done with the proceeds of a Ford coupe he was to have sold for them, he asserted. He declared his stepfather sold the car and kept the money, and that he and his companions "swiped the radio set to get even."

Man Who Instigated Murder Must Die with the Killer

Wetumpka, Ala., Sept 11.—(AP)—Clyde Reese Bachelor and Hays Leonard, Negro, were sentenced to be hanged on Friday, Oct. 22, for the murder of Judge Lamar C. Smith, Bachelor's father-in-law. They were convicted at separate trials, Leonard testifying that he shot Judge Smith at Bachelor's instigation.

DRYS AND WETS FACE NEW SLUSH FUNDS INQUIRY

Both Sides Slow to Report Primary Expenses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Expenditures of $898.80 during the recent senatorial and congressional primary campaign were reported to the clerk of the house of representatives by the Nebraska organization of the Anti-Saloon League of America today.

The report of the state dry league's political action committee asserts that during the year $1,078.55 was contributed for political purposes by individuals, none of whom gave more than $25. Aside from salaries, the expenditures reported were mainly for expenses in connection with the mail campaign conducted by the league for the nomination of avowed dry candidates for the house.

Wet and Dry Organizations.

The failure of state subsidiaries of wet and dry organizations alike to comply promptly with the law is likely to provoke a new investigation of their activities by the senate's slush fund committee this fall, it was asserted in the capitol today.

In spite of assurances given the committee by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, that the federal corrupt practices act would be strictly and promptly complied with by the state dry leagues, only five of the forty-five state organizations have filed reports.

Illinois Group Reports.

That of the Nebraska league, received today, was a day late. Two four which came in under the wire before Friday night, the dead line fixed by the law for reports of the quarter ending on Sept. 1, were those of the Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania state groups and the political action committee of the national organization which has headquarters in Washington.

GEORGE BEBAN HERE THIS WEEK

Enthusiastic About His New Colonial Glasses

George Beban, the famous Italian impersonator, was fitted with a pair of the popular Schulte Colonial Glasses during his visit to Chicago last month. The Schulte Optical Co. in Chicago received a very interesting letter from him a few days ago and the text of this letter, which follows, will interest every Chicagoan —read it:

Gentlemen:

I will be in Chicago next week to appear personally with my latest feature, "Loves of Ricardo," and I certainly intend to get another pair of your Colonial glasses as a safeguard in case I should lose the pair you fitted for me on my way East.

These Colonial shaped glasses have created more favorable comment than anything I have ever worn; my friends and associates all admire their attractive, neat appearance and inquired where I got them, and I was proud to tell them at Schulte's in Chicago. Please arrange an appointment for me next Tuesday afternoon for another fitting.

Very sincerely yours,

George Beban

Two Interesting Pictures of George Beban —as he appears off the stage wearing Schulte Colonial Glasses and as he is known to the public in character make-up.

George Beban will be at the Chicago Theatre this week with his entire motion picture company of 27 players, all in person, on the stage and on the screen, in his latest drama, "The Loves of Ricardo."

GROESBECK HAS BITTER FIGHT ON HANDS TUESDAY

Opposed for Governor of Michigan by Green.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck faces a determined fight for renomination in the Michigan primaries Tuesday. Groesbeck, seeking the endorsement of the Republican party for a fourth term, is opposed by Fred W. Green, mayor of Ionia.

Green's chief point of attack on Groesbeck's record is the large number of convicts paroled and pardoned during Groesbeck's tenure of office. In the nearly six years that he has been governor, Groesbeck has pardoned about 8,000, among them murderers serving life sentences.

There also have been persistent rumors regarding instances of improper practice in obtaining releases for convicts. Two cases in which paroles actually were made the subject of financial negotiation and profit by persons professing to be in a position to deliver them were quite recently printed in detail in a local paper, together with documentary evidence in the form of photographic reproductions of letters.

Gov. Groesbeck insisted that he knew nothing of these two cases, adding that it was quite proper for a state senator, who is an attorney, to accept a "retainer's fee" in such cases.

Road Building Program Hit.

The Groesbeck record on good road building in the state is another point of attack by his enemies. They allege that his record in this matter in the six years which he has been in office does not warrant his claim that the program laid out by the state will be completed, if he is given another two year term.

Indications are that Green will enter Detroit leading the governor by from 30,000 to 50,000, while Groesbeck is expected to carry Detroit by 50,000 majority. Should the rural sections turn out a greater percentage of the registration, then Green looms as the possible choice of the Republicans.

The campaign is marked by a sharp division among the "practical" politicians in the Republican party. Behind the governor is what is know as the "Groesbeck machine." The backbone of this machine are men who hold offices in the state government.

On the other side are many of the men who have been leaders in the party in the state for many years. Albert E. Sleeper, former governor, has joined the Green forces, as well as Burt D. Cady, chairman of the Republican state central committee. John W. Smith, mayor of Detroit and former postmaster, has taken the stump for Green. Another insurgent against the governor is J. S. Haggerty, who for years was a close friend and ally of Mr. Groesbeck.

Democratic Chances Good.

William A. Comstock, Democratic national committeeman, is the only candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on that ticket. Comstock's chances for being elected in November are good, despite the fact that Michigan has had only one Democratic governor. The breech between Green and Groesbeck is so great that the one who is defeated probably will throw support to the Democratic nominee.

The leading newspapers of the state are opposing Groesbeck, and if he is nominated they will swing to the support of the Democratic nominee. Groesbeck's followers will drop in line with Comstock should Green win out at the primary.

All indications are that the same delegation sent to congress by Michigan two years ago will be returned. In Detroit Clarence J. McLeod, representative from the Thirteenth district, is practically without opposition.

Minister Supported by Wets.

John B. Sosnowski, present representative from the First district, is opposed by Robert Clancy, former Democratic congressman from the district, who has repudiated democracy and cast his lot with the Republicans. The fight in this district has been a bitter one, but Sosnowski appears to be the favored.

In the sixth Michigan district, Grant M. Hudson has as his sole opponent Bradford J. Pengelly, Protestant minister, who has the support of the Michigan chapter, National Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment.

Engagement Off

MAXINE STRESENREUTER.
[Drake Studio Photo.]

DANCE TO MARK SOCIETY GIRL'S BROKEN TROTH

Persistent rumors of the engagement of Maxine Stresenreuter, until late months the wife of young Gene Gordon Culver of St. Louis, to W. Atmore Robinson of Philadelphia and Rhode Island, acquired additional credence yesterday with the report of the breaking of the betrothal, which it is said is to be celebrated with a ball given in honor of Miss Stresenreuter by Mr. Robinson at Philadelphia in November.

The significance of the "broken troth" ball, according to the report, was that no animosity exists between the Chicago beauty and her ex-fiancé, the wishes of her father, Frank Stresenreuter of 1250 Astor street, being the only bar to a wedding. They met at Palm Beach, Fla. Mrs. Stresenreuter, mother of Maxine, who has consistently refused to affirm the truth of the original rumor, declared yesterday that she would neither confirm nor deny the story.

RITCHIE SEEKING HIS THIRD TERM IN MARYLAND

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie Tuesday will ask the Democrats of Maryland to approve him for a third term in the executive mansion. No governor before him has had more than one.

Sole opponent of the governor's third term ambition is William Milnes Maloy, former public service commissioner and Ritchie appointee. Maloy, dismissing the prohibition question as "by no means the most important" at issue, has waged his campaign on a background of internal state politics and finances.

The prohibition question promises to wield greater influence in the Republican primary. Representative John Philip Hill, leader of the house "wet block," heading an "anti-organization" group, has endorsed Marian A. Humphreys from the dry Maryland eastern shore, for governor, opposing Addison E. Mullikin, Senator Ovington E. Weller's "organization" candidate. Humphreys has avoided the liquor question.

KLAN FURNISHES BITTER ISSUE IN COLORADO VOTE

Denver, Colo., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A two year fight for control of the Colorado Republican party, waged by United States Senator Lawrence C. Phipps and Senator Rice W. Means, directing head of the state Ku Klux Klan, against Clarence C. Hamlin, Republican national committeeman and leader of the anti-Klan faction of the party, will be settled at the state primary election Tuesday.

The campaign, one of the most bitter in the political history of the state, has resolved itself into a campaign of personalities, without a national issue.

Means is opposed for renomination by Charles W. Waterman, Coolidge pre-convention manager in Colorado two years ago, and by George Luxford, Denver County judge.

DEMOCRATS HOPE TO SLASH G. O. P. MARGIN IN MAINE

Gov. Brewster Candidate Again Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Republicans and Democrats alike have their attention centered on the Maine election which, on Monday, furnishes the first barometer on sentiment as between the two parties.

The Republicans expect to hold the state, reflecting the present governor and four members of congress. The Democrats believe they have a chance to win, but will regard it as a favorable omen pointing to gains in other parts of the country in November if they are able to cut down Republican majorities.

National Speakers on Job.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster is the Republican nominee for reelection. The Democratic candidate against him is Ernest McLean, now mayor of Augusta. The Democrats in Maine, with the aid of speakers sent by the national committees, have made an active campaign in his behalf. Several Republicans of national standing also have gone into the state as speakers during the campaign.

Of the four congressional districts there is only one in which the Democrats believe they have a good chance to win. This is the Second district, now represented by Representative Wallace White. Mr. White is the Republican nominee for reelection. He has served for ten years, prior to which time a Democrat represented the district.

No Senatorial Election.

The Democratic candidate against Mr. White is Charles M. Starbird. The other Republicans in congress from Maine are Representatives Beedy, Hersey, and John E. Nelson.

No senatorship is involved in the Maine election. The recent death of Senator Fernald [Rep., Me.] left a vacancy in the senate from that state, but it occurred too late for the election of his successor at this time. A special election will be held later.

Get 6 Cents in Robbery; Held Under $5,000 Bonds

Three young men robbed John Torris, 1330 North La Salle street, a few days ago and at the point of a gun took the contents of his pockets, amounting to six cents. Yesterday Edward Herman, 19 years old, 114 West Erie street, Clyde Lane, 21 years old and Edward Tracey, 26 years old, 114 West Oak street, were identified by Torris and were held in bonds of $5,000 each. Lieut. R. Hoffman arrested them.

W. C. T. U. HUNTS CANDIDATE FOR LENROOT'S SEAT

Blaine and Kearney Wet; Seek Independent.

Baraboo, Wis., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A new complication in the fight for the United States senate seat of Irvine L. Lenroot developed today when the Wisconsin Women's Christian Temperance union issued a demand for a candidate.

Through the candidacy demanded today at the annual convention, the organization hopes to prevent the election of a wet to succeed Senator Lenroot, a consistent supporter of the prohibition cause, who was defeated Tuesday in the primary election. Both Gov. John J. Blaine, the Republican nominee, and Thomas M. Kearney, Democrat, are opposed to prohibition.

Supported Senator Lenroot.

The organization, in which 10,000 women are enrolled, made no suggestion as to who the candidate should be. The organization supported Senator Lenroot who has announced he would abide by the decision of the electorate.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union together with the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, two of the largest woman's organizations in the state, have openly opposed Gov. Blaine, whose pardoning of bootleggers and other prohibition violators aroused their ire. The temperance organization planned today to redouble its efforts in opposing the wet campaign in Wisconsin.

Plan to Use Ballot.

The organization planned to use the ballot in an attempt to elect officials who "will do their duty." This, they assert, will meet lax enforcement conditions. They also resolved that law observance is essential to law enforcement, and therefore total abstinence is the patriotic duty of all citizens.

Judge Calls for Prisoner; Finds He Has Been Killed

A bench warrant for Thomas McQuinn, 22 years old, 1417 Belleplaine avenue, who twice failed to appear for trial in Magistrate Samuel Harrison's court in Evanston, would be useless. For McQuin is dead. The youth had been ordered to appear before Justice Harrison ten days ago, but when he was absent the case was continued. Yesterday it was learned that he was the McQuin killed by Policeman Anthony Halverson several days ago in a fight on the west side. McQuin was to have been tried for mulcting Evanston janitors.

SEEK STREET CAR ROBBER.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 11.—[U. P.]—A lone, unmasked bandit is sought by police following the robbery of Joseph Tyson, a street car operator, late last night.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS WANT AL SMITH, NOT SUBSTITUTE

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Ninety-five out of every hundred Democrats in the state have rejected the guarded prediction of a few leaders that Gov. Smith may not again run for governor.

AL SMITH.
[Marceau Photo.]

The suggestion — credited to George W. Olvany, titular leader of the Tammany organization — that the governor may follow his own inclination to retire is regarded as a guess.

That the governor has become pretty well fed up on the job he has held for three terms is known to persons in his confidence. He would like to quit, which is precisely what the Democratic rank and file do not want him to do.

It is conceded by Democratic leaders that Mr. Olvany must have believed he had some reason to warrant his disturbing statement, but after the governor's speech as Syracuse recently, in which he declared himself a good soldier ready to obey orders, the average Democrat throughout the state regarded his nomination as absolutely certain. The nominating convention will be held in two weeks.

LIQUOR ISSUE TO MARK VOTE IN WASHINGTON

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Prohibition and public schools furnished the text for many of the candidates for national and state offices who will be voted upon in the Washington primary election Tuesday.

Candidates for congress have, in several cases, based their hopes on their attitude toward prohibition. Candidates for the state legislature are involved in a fight between Gov. Roland H. Hartley and a majority group of the legislators over appropriations and conduct of the state higher educational institutions.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, a dry, is opposed by a field of six candidates, including Frank E. Hammond, an avowed wet, and Austen E. Griffiths, a dry, for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

James McCabe, a Seattle lawyer, is a candidate for congress with prohibition of the Volstead act as his principal issue. McCabe opposes John W. Smith, Seattle, Republican, incumbent.

Tilson, Republican House Leader, Is Renominated

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Representative John Q. Tilson, floor leader of the house of representatives, today was renominated at the Third district Republican convention. If elected, it will be his ninth term in congress. Mr. Tilson is director of the eastern headquarters of the joint senate and house Republican campaign committee.

COOLIDGE WILL ACCEPT CALLES' PROMISE TO U. S.

Sheffield Confers with President.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The administration's Mexican policy again was under discussion today by President Coolidge and James R. Sheffield, American ambassador to Mexico, who came over from his camp on Upper Saranac lake.

J. R. SHEFFIELD. [Kabi & Herbert Photo.]

It is understood that the conference had to do with further recommendations made by the ambassador concerning steps to be taken to protect American rights in Mexico, which are threatened by the alien land and oil laws and decrees.

The administration is disposed to accept at face value the assurance given by President Calles in his message at the opening of the Mexican congress, that the oil and land laws will not be applied retroactively to the properties aliens acquired before the adoption of the 1917 constitution, and that no properties will be confiscated without just compensation.

Assurance by Calles.

The attitude of President Calles in this declaration was interpreted by President Coolidge as conciliatory and the assurance given that the rights of aliens would be respected, was accepted as the fruit of the Washington government's repeated protests against the confiscatory character of the oil and land laws and decrees.

The immediate reaction on the part of the American government was a significantly conciliatory tone adopted by President Coolidge in explaining the administration's Mexican policy.

While matching conciliation with conciliation, however, the administration intends to hold the Mexican government to the promise to modify the oil and land laws and decrees, if it turns out that their application results in confiscation of American properties. The oil holdings of Americans in Mexico are only a drop in the bucket, contrary to the prevalent impression. The vast bulk of the American properties in Mexico are agricultural.

Laws Will Be Modified.

The statement of the Mexican president is understood to mean that the laws and decrees will be modified, if in the first test case brought by an American in the Mexican courts, the decision upholds confiscation or a retroactive application of the law. It would then be up to the Mexican congress to modify the law or the executive branch of the Mexican government to modify the decree involved.

Mr. Coolidge has taken occasion to refer to the Mexican policy he has pursued as based upon recommendations by Mr. Sheffield. This is surmised to have been for the purpose of counteracting reports that Mr. Sheffield was chafing in Mexico City under the restraints imposed upon him by the state department, that he considered the Coolidge policy of dealing with Mexico weak and vacillating and that he intended to resign.

Now the President gives it out that Mr. Sheffield not only is in accord with the administration Mexican policy, but in reality formulated that policy in the first instance.

CUT CANAL FLOW MORE TO AVERT FLOOD DAMAGE

Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer for the sanitary district, reported that yesterday the intake of water from the lake had been further reduced in order to check the flow into the Illinois river. That river is filled with flood water downstate.

At the request of Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, the lake inflow was reduced from 8,500 cubic feet per second to 7,400 cubic feet on Friday. Yesterday the amount was reduced to the absolute minimum of 7,000 feet, which just prevents a reversal of flow in the Chicago river.

Mr. Kelly said the effect of the reduction was felt early yesterday morning along the Illinois river. That river, however, is not appreciably lower, Mr. Kely said, because the rains are so heavy.

ARREST SPOILS HUSBAND'S TRIP TO SO. AMERICA

A brief stopover in Chicago while on his way to Peru, South America, from Sweden, cost Eric Blomquist his freedom, while his wife, Hannah, owner of the Venetian shop, 15 East Washington street, seeks to find out why he has failed to pay her alimony of $15 weekly since last May.

Mrs. Blomquist filed suit for divorce early in the year, charging her husband with cruelty. Pending settlement of the case the wife was awarded temporary alimony. Blomquist went to Sweden, but on his return here en route to Peru he accepted an invitation to visit his wife. He was arrested by a deputy sheriff who was waiting. Bond, which was fixed at $1,000, had not been posted last night.

Walter Krauser Is Found Insane; Goes to Chester

Walter Krauser, who fatally stabbed Bernard Grant, his companion in the murder of Patrolman Ralph Saunders in 1922, was adjudged violently insane yesterday by a sanity commission. He will be taken to the prison for the criminal insane, at Chester, immediately.

ELLICOTT PLANS ECONOMY MOVE, TAKES VACATION

Col. Edward B. Ellicott, president of the school board, held a last minute conference with school officials yesterday before leaving for a two weeks' vacation.

The discussion centered mainly, the president said, about the question of economy which will permit the schools to function as long as possible without an increased revenue.

The first attempt at economy will be made in the new buildings that have just been completed. Col. Ellicott said the educational department was coöperating with the board to suggest every possible reduction in the running expenses of the schools.

MEXICAN TRADE CHAMBERS BID FOR U. S. CAPITAL

Want More Factories and Higher Tariffs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11.—The Mexican national chamber of commerce, which includes all the local chambers, today attacked the "economies" which the Mexican government has been presenting as the greatest work of the administration. The chamber maintains the economies were made at the expense of the Mexican nation, by internal taxes on imported goods, which Mexico should produce at home.

The attack was made at the ninth annual meeting of the national chamber, which opened here today. The organization will recommend that the government give Mexico strong protective tariffs to strengthen native manufactures, reduce industrial taxation, and make a bid for foreign capital and the establishment of large American manufacturing concerns here. The government will be asked to develop water power, throughout Mexico to encourage capital.

Would Hit U. S. Trade.

Should a stronger protective tariff be imposed, it would be a hard blow to American trade. More than 70 per cent of Mexico's imports now come from the United States.

"If some way is not found to relieve the pressure on commerce and trade of Mexico a great disaster is on the horizon," says a statement from the chamber. "Either the heavy burden of taxes must be removed or a high barrier erected against free trade and protection of home industries. Manufacturers, agriculturists, merchants, and traders are feeling the depression on the trade and industries and the overwhelming influx of foreign goods."

Calls Taxation Unfair.

The chamber points out that importations are draining the nation of vast sums, foreign capital has largely fled because of restrictive laws, and that native industries are under a heavy burden of taxation. It adds that taxation falls on a small percentage of the population, and that the government should exact taxes of a larger number to relieve the burden on the producers.

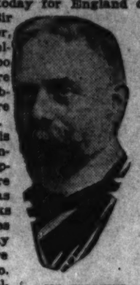
Reductions in wages and longer working hours are urged by the organization to aid Mexican industry.

Persia Aids Hordes of New Russian Immigrants

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Sept. 11.—Many immigrants have arrived in the last few weeks from Russia. The government is aiding them to settle in Persia.

TOO MANY BOOKS, TOO LITTLE THINKING, SIR GILBERT PARKER SAYS



SIR GILBERT PARKER.

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Before sailing today for England on the Leviathan Sir Gilbert Parker, the British novelist, said that too many books were written and published both here and in England.

"I think it is dreadful," he continued. "I suppose there are three times as many new books and magazines published today as there were thirty years ago. I think this multiplicity of books and magazines is injurious to thinking. The public are selecting their books less carefully than thirty years ago, and they assimilating less from what they read. There are too many authors overwriting."

PACIFISTS SEEK TO DISARM U. S., SAYS GEN. FRIES

Assailing communists and pacifists alike as enemies to the country, Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service of the United States army, told the Sojourners club here yesterday that these agencies were seeking to disarm the nation, leaving it unprotected in event of an emergency.

Threats to overthrow the government have been openly made by the communists, Fries declared. The officer also attacked laws which prohibit the carrying of weapons, pointing out that "such laws only are effective against decent citizens."

Gen. Fries was honor guest at the meting. He is returning to Washington after making a 4,000 mile tour of the country.

"OLD COLLEGE" ON N. U. CAMPUS GETS NEW NAME

"Old College" building, the original structure of Northwestern university in Evanston, will hereafter be known as the Education building. Dean Raymond A. Kent, head of the college of liberal arts, explained the change of name was caused by housing the new school of education in the old building. "Old College," erected in 1855, is still in good condition.

The department of naval science has also been housed in the Education building.

Other changes announced are: Psychology department moved to 1882 Sheridan road; geology department moved to Mineralogical building, second floor, and the art department moved to Sheridan hall.

Soviet Oil to Compete with Dutch, Yankee in Holland

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 11.—A Russian naphtha syndicate has decided to open large selling bureaus in Amsterdam and Rotterdam for Russian oil supplies, in competition with Royal Dutch and Standard Oil, owing to the failure of negotiations with these companies for the distribution of the Russian oil. The Russian interests will attempt to float a company in Holland with Dutch capital.

YOU hear a good deal about the great craftsmen—cabinet makers of the 18th century in England; they certainly made a fine contribution to home furnishing.

But no one group, nor period, can claim all the glory. Recent Egyptian excavations discover many beautiful decorative ideas; nobody knows for just how many thousands of years beauty has existed.

We have arrived at our present day comfort and decorative charm in furniture by a slow evolution, sometimes interrupted—for long periods.

One of the best of the English craftsmen was Hepplewhite, a designer and artist excelled by none of his contemporaries. He added to the grace and perfection of his conceptions the artistic decorative ideas of Angelica Kauffman and Pergolesi; very graceful designs which enhance the beauty of his own art.

The bedroom group shown here is a faithful reproduction of the result of such a combination of talent.

We'd enjoy showing it to you; it's hardly necessary to say much about the prices; they speak for themselves.

There are many other things here for you; all "Scholle-quality," all satisfaction guaranteed, all very low priced.

SPANISH NOTE OF RESIGNATION IS GIVEN TO LEAGUE

Turkey Applies for Seat in Geneva Council.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Spain has left the league of nations. An official communication announcing Spain's withdrawal was received at Geneva today and circulated immediately among all the members of the league. The communication declared that Spain had taken this step "in obedience to imperative duty."

The resignation is dated San Sebastian, Sept. 8, and is signed by Foreign Minister Yanguas. It was delivered personally to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, by the Spanish consul at Geneva.

[The Associated Press announced on Sept. 8 that Spain's resignation had been agreed upon at a cabinet council.]

The note from the Spanish government glides over the reason for the resignation, but the Spanish representative had made it perfectly clear that the cause of the withdrawal was Spain's failure to obtain a permanent seat in the council of the league simultaneously with the election of Germany to that place.

Wait for German Entry.

It points out that Spain had refrained from giving official notification until the assembly had approved the reform in the composition of the council as regards permanent members, because it wished to show respect for the league of nations, and desired also to await the assembly's pronouncement on the admission of Germany—"which event Spain ardently hopes will be of great advantage to the league of nations."

Furthermore it declares that Spain is convinced that its decision does not compromise any vital interests or principles of the league, "whose prosperity is ardently desired by Spain, her king, and her government."

The communication voices deepest gratitude to all friendly states, whose representatives generously expressed their appreciation of Spain's work in the league, and for the esteem and the affection in which they hold Spain —expressions which would always remain "in cherished memory."

Prays for Peace.

In conclusion, the note says: "In leaving the league of nations, in obedience to imperative duty, Spain desires to express the hearty wish that the high ideals and universal peace for which the league was founded, and which our country has hitherto so earnestly and so effectively served, will be crowned with success."

The Spanish resignation deranges the plans of the league leaders concerning the league council, which henceforth will consist of fourteen instead of ten members. An agreement had nearly been reached to elect Spain to a temporary seat and simultaneously extend it a mandate of reëligibility, thus virtually assuring its unbroken membership in the council.

Seek Franco-German Accords.

Conversations, the object of which is a broad Franco-German understanding on international policies, were begun today between Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign secretary, and M. Briand, foreign minister of France, with the knowledge of both Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, and M. Vanderveide of Belgium.

This is the beginnig of the embodiment of pledges made by the German and French statesmen in the league assembly yesterday, that they would strive loyally to reach an accord.

German sources reveal that Dr. Stresemann broached the matter of the reduction of the French forces in the Rhineland, and proposed first, that the troops should be cut down to about 70,000 to 38,000; second, the evacuation of three watering places, Kreuznach, Langenschwalbach, and Neuenehr, and third, rendering all occupation "invisible."

Plan Trade Pact.

The elaboration of an accord on financial and economic questions along the lines of the Franco-German trade agreement, which has been under negotiation, but with larger ramifications, is planned.

Later, Dr. Stresemann conferred with Sir Austen.

Turkey Asks to Join League.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 11.—Turkey today applied for membership in the league of nations. But the Angora government stipulates that it will not enter the league unless it is given a seat in the council.

FIVE CENT CIGAR IN COMEBACK; CHEWING SLIDES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The 5 cent cigar is staging a spectacular comeback. Chewing tobacco is on the toboggan.

July production of cigars selling at 5 cents or less was larger than for any month except one during the years 1924 and 1925. The output was 281,555,115.

The trend appears to be steadily upward for these, department of agriculture experts said today, and also for cigars selling at more than 8 cents but not more than 15 cents. Brands selling two for 15 cents appear to be losing out, they report.

The use of chewing tobacco is steadily declining, the experts say, but continued expansion of the cigaret industry will provide a good market for burley leaf of the lighter grades.

DEPUTY WITH ONE HAND KILLS TWO ALLEGED BANDITS

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Cecil Jenkins of Boonville today shot and killed William Palmer and Elbert Bardwell, sought in connection with robbery of the Pleasant Green, Mo., bank July 28, when $7,000 in cash, Liberty bonds, and other securities were stolen.

Jenkins said he came upon the two men in an automobile three and one-half miles southwest of Sedalia, and they opened fire on him.

Although he has only one hand, he returned the fire, killing both men and leaving their bodies in the seat of the machine while he reported to county officers.

LEAVES MILLION TO STUDY CURE FOR ARTHRITIS

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A million dollar fund for the study, treatment, alleviation and cure of arthritis, a disease, which inflames the joints, is established by the will of the late Edward Daniels Faulkner, upholstery dealer, filed today.

Faulkner was for many years the sole owner of the $2,000,000 upholstery business of Johnson and Faulkner, which is willed to fourteen of his employes. He died last month at Woodstock, Vt.

Included in $250,000 in other public bequests is $20,000 to the Huguenot society and Huguenot church, both of Charleston, S. C.

NAVY FLIER WINS FREE FOR ALL AIR RACE AT SESQUI

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Lieut. C. T. Cuddihy of the Navy today won the free for all military pursuit ship race, the feature event of the national air race meet held here this week. In winning the 120 mile race over a 12 mile triangular course, Lieut. Cuddihy was announced as having established a world's record for standard pursuit ships. His average time was 180.495 miles an hour.

Roadhouse Keeper Shoots Wife, Then Kills Himself

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Joseph Magnino, 40, proprietor of the Green Front inn, on Sheridan road near here, shot and wounded his wife during a quarrel in the roadhouse, and then killed himself today. His death is the fifth violent fatality here in a week, two murders and two other suicides preceding his death. Mrs. Magnino, who recently brought suit for divorce, is in Kenosha hospital in a critical condition.

Wales Ends Vacation; Hurts His Finger Playing Golf

PARIS, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The prince of Wales returned today from his holiday in Biarritz and other Basque resorts with one finger out of commission, but otherwise in fine fettle. His aide, Brig. Gen. Trotter, said the prince injured his finger while golfing. He denied reports that blood poisoning had developed. The prince is remaining in Paris until Monday or Tuesday, when he will leave for London.

GUAM, OUTPOST OF U.S. IN PACIFIC, AT FOES' MERCY

pital corps men. Roads have been built, electrical and telephone systems constructed, sewerage systems established, and schools opened with navy funds. The 10,000 ton station ship Gold Star, in constant operation between the port of Apra, Manila, and Japan and the China coasts, aids the natives by transporting freight free regardless of whether it is for commercial or private use. There also is in operation, in like manner, a tug and harbor fleet.

Despite the dissatisfaction with the present situation, everybody here urges continued maintenance of the station as a requisite for the security of the United States. In addition to its strategic location, Guam is the only island in this part of the Pacific that has both an excellent harbor and fresh water. It is true that the well sheltered harbor is not developed, the immense coral reefs making dangerous and difficult and practically impossible approach to the shore line except by means of launches through the channel dredged coral town of Piti. The small docks at Piti, if possessed by another power, certainly would be used as the basis for the establishment of a harbor sufficient for airplanes and vessels, including battleships and airplane carriers, creating a great dominating circle with Hawaii, San Bernardino Straits, and the Philippines.

The attitude of the native Chamorros, totaling some 12,000, is the antithesis of the public declarations of the Filipinos. They do not want independence and are extremely anxious for American citizenship.

The conclusion of men who have given years of thought to the question is that for the present, at least, the United States must continue to retain Guam and foot the bill.

WOES OF PAYING DOUBLE ALIMONY TOLD TO JUDGE

Robt. E. Beaubien Wants First Wife Back.

Robert E. Beaubien, 71 years old, president of the Beaubien Specialty company, 607 South Dearborn street, almost reduced a crowd in Judge Joseph B. David's court yesterday to tears as he described the woes of a man who must pay alimony to two estranged wives. One has obtained a divorce and other other has a suit pending.

"I wish I had my first wife back again," was the refrain of Beaubien's testimony. He was faced with the prospect of going to jail for nonpayment of alimony to wife No. 1 because, he explained, his second wife obtained an injunction preventing him from disposing of any of his property.

Famous Family in Chicago.

Beaubien is one of Chicago's oldest settlers and he belongs to the famous Beaubien family which is identified with Chicago history since early in the 19th century. His cousin was Mark Beaubien, the first white child to be born in this region. The Beaubien family was founded in this country in 1790 when three brothers came here from France. One settled in Quebec, one in Detroit, and the third in Chicago.

Beaubien was married to Mrs. Anna Beaubien in 1891. They lived happily together until 1917 when Beaubien began seeking the companionship of Mrs. Florence Kerner. Mrs. Beaubien sought a divorce and her decree found Beaubien guilty of establishing an apartment for Mrs. Kerner.

The aged manufacturer then married Mrs. Kerner. A year ago she filed suit for divorce, charging cruelty.

Mistake to Marry Again.

"And what a mistake I made when I married again," Beaubien told Judge David. "I wish I could get my first wife back."

"Maybe she'll forgive you and you can get out of this mess you're in," commented the judge. "Paying double alimony is hard on any one."

Beaubien was $350 in arrears in alimony to his first wife and owed $300 in temporary alimony to his second wife. Attorney Louis Dennen, representing the first Mrs. Beaubien, asked that Beaubien be cited for contempt of court.

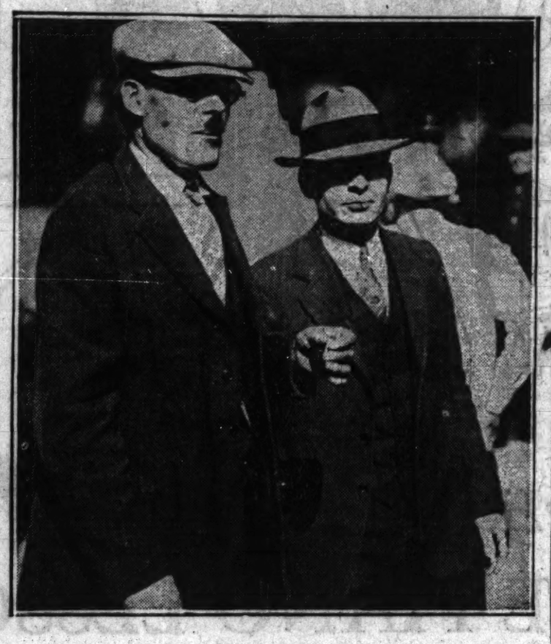
Broke, He Tells Judge.

"It isn't true, Judge," said Beaubien, sighing. "I've only got $14 cash in the world right now. I may be president of a company, but I'm broke. I'd like to pay my first wife alimony. She needs it. The second one doesn't."

Judge David suggested that attorneys and principals get together and work out a settlement of Beaubien's troubles. The best solution, he pointed out, would be to permit Beaubien to be divorced and remarry his first wife, if she agreed.

INDIAN JOE HUSZAR'S TROUBLES INCREASE

Indian Joe Huszar, ousted Broadview police chief, named in indictments resulting from auto speed trap investigation, is shown signing bonds in Maywood yesterday after being granted a continuance by Justice Joseph Wright. At Huszar's left are his son, Clarence, and his attorney, S. A. Fink.



Huszar, upon leaving the Maywood courtroom, was arrested again on two new criminal charges. He is being taken into custody by Sergt. B. A. Urbank of Cicero. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

2 NEW CRIMINAL CHARGES MADE AGAINST HUSZAR

Indian Joe Huszar, whose alleged propensities for speed trapping cost him his position as police chief of Broadview, is now facing two new criminal charges. The latest complainants are Edward Sangstok, 2103 Turner avenue, and William Brauer of Broadview.

A warrant sworn out by Sangstok charges that Huszar threatened his life, and Brauer in his warrant charges assault with a deadly weapon. Both warrants, served upon Huszar by Constable Benjamin A. Urabanek as Huszar emerged from the village hall at Broadview, where he had been arraigned on previous charges, cover alleged episodes in the former police chief's career before he was removed from office.

Before Justice Edward Wareham at Broadview, Huszar yesterday won a change of venue to Justice Joseph Wright of Maywood, and a continuance of the cases of himself, his wife, and his son to Sept. 15. Huszar is under several indictments in connection with speed trapping charges.

Huszar was also taken to Cicero for a hearing on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and making threats, but failed to find Justice of the Peace Thomas M. Zasadil, and he was taken before Justice Emil E. Fisher, who set his bonds on the assault charge at $5,000 and placed him on a $200 peace bond on the charge of making threats.

DROWNS IN FLOOD WATERS.

Lincoln, Ill., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Donald Holmes, 19, of Mount Pulaski, was drowned in the flood waters of Salt creek while rounding up stock near here early today.

FORMER POOL CHAMP HELD AS DRUG PEDDLER

Charles Safford has lost some of the poise which characterized him when he won the national pocket billiard championship here in 1921. He trembled yesterday when arraigned before United States Commissioner Henry C. Beitler on a charge of violating the narcotic laws, and his shaken nerves were in contrast to his steadiness when he won that famous match.

Safford was arrested at the Lake Park hotel, 2800 Lake Park avenue, Friday as he was making a sale of morphine, narcotic agents testified. The same agents also say that Safford recently completed a year's sentence for a similar violation.

The case was continued yesterday until Sept. 21 and Safford's bond fixed at $2,000.

KILLS SELF WHILE DESPONDENT.

Jacob Wakefield, 65 years old, 6742 Aberdeen street, slashed himself in the abdomen Friday and died a few hours later in a hospital. He had been despondent for several weeks.

TAX AMENDMENT IS SUPPORTED IN FARM BULLETIN

Farmers are driven from under their roofs and off their farms under the weight of the present taxes, the Illinois Agriculture association declared yesterday in a bulletin, answering the opposition of John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, to the proposed amendment to the state constitution.

"Manufacturers are enjoying their present preferred position, not because of the existing law but because of its nonenforcement," the statement added. "Mr. Glenn says the proposed amendment would permit industries to be taxed out of business. Nobody has such an aim in view."

Earl C. Smith, president of the agriculture group, explained that the amendment would make it possible for the legislature to correct inequalities in taxation.

YOU will find those very features upon which you most insist, developed to their fullest in the great new line of Cadillac cars.

If you emphasize power and speed—you have the actual comparative tests with all the finest cars of Europe and America. The results show Cadillac to be one of the fastest stock cars in the world.

If you place beauty foremost—the Cadillac holds irresistible appeal not only in distinguished, rich luxury, but even more because, with 50 Body Styles and Types and 500 Color and Upholstery combinations, it has completely individualized the motor car.

If you insist that your car be a sound investment value—compare the Cadillac in what it is and what it does and the way it does it—compare it in first cost and in after costs and in re-sale value.

Outselling all other cars at or above its price—two to one—Cadillac today appeals to the family of moderate income from the standpoint of sound management, quite as much as it does, through sheer excellence, to those whose purchasing power is without practical limitation.

CALL BALDWIN TO LONDON TO ACT IN CHINESE CRISIS

Britons to Probe Troops' Attack on Ships.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 11. — Winston Churchill, acting head of the British cabinet, has wired Prime Minister Baldwin, now on a holiday at Aix les Bains, to return as swiftly as possible, in view of the Chinese crisis.

Until the cruiser Hawkins, carrying the commander in chief of Great Britain's Asiatic fleet, reaches Hankow tomorrow, when an immediate consultation will take place between the naval and consular authorities, the government here is impotent to decide any definite course of action.

It already is clear that the greatest discontent prevails in the cabinet with the procrastinating policy of the foreign office, which is accused of having brought the British prestige to the lowest ebb in China. The board of trade reports there is grave danger to British commerce with China as a result of the spread of the anti-foreign boycott. There are loud outcries against the alleged government inaction in face of the destruction of British trade in the Yangtze valley.

Assails British Policy.

The Morning Post proclaims that Great Britain made itself respected "by bold and intelligent use of power in China," arguing that if Great Britain had used naval power at Canton, the red invasion of the Yangtze valley would have been prevented. It adds:

"We trade to live, and by that necessity we have established ourselves in various treaty ports of China. Hitherto we have concerned ourselves too much with the diplomatic fiction of the supposed government at Peking, but the time has arrived when we have got to face reality or perish."

May Recognize Both Sides.

Judging from certain indications, the British plan will be to withdraw the official recognition of the northern government in Peking as the government of the whole of China, treating it as a de facto power of the northern half, on terms of equality with the southerners. It is considered that the British interest is not involved in the question of maintaining the Chinese integrity.

The naval-consular parley at Hankow tomorrow will clear up the circumstances surrounding the attack on British steamers in the Yangtze. Reliable sources say the whole affair was the result of a misunderstanding. The steamers Wanshien and Wuntang carried arms for Gen. Wu Pei-fu. Cantonese officers, representing themselves as Gen. Wu's agents, went aboard the steamers, whereupon Gen. Yang-sen, a lieutenant of Wu, accused the ship's officers of double crossing him and imprisoned them.

Cantonese Win Town.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEKING, Sept. 11.—Foreign telegrams report the occupation of Pingkiang, in Kiangsi province, 100 miles west of the capital, Nanchang, by bolshevik Canton troops. The reports add that troops of Gen. Sun Chuan-fang, ruler of eastern China, are retreating toward Nanchang. The troops of Marshal Wu Pei-fu, the northern China leader, who is fighting the Cantonese, are evacuating Hanyang and Hankow and are attempting to reorganize in the north.

France Keeps Hands Off.

PARIS, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The French government does not intend at present to be a party to any conference of the powers regarding the Chinese civil war, it is stated in authoritative quarters.

Confirms Firing on U. S. Ships.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A message confirming the report of the firing on the American destroyers Stewart and Pope by Chinese near Wangio, fifty miles below Hankow on the Yangtze river, Sept. 5, and adding that the American steamer Iling was bombarded the day before, was received by the navy department tonight from Admiral Clarence S. Williams, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet. He said two men on the destroyers received "surface wounds," and that the vessels were struck several times.

A later cablegram from Admiral Williams said the American gunboat Palos, the destroyer Stewart, and the mine sweeper Pigeon returned the fire after being heavily bombarded with rifles and artillery by unidentified forces at Hanyang.

Nolle Prosse Extra Charges Against Car Barn Bandits

Numerous robbery charges against the three surviving members of the car barn bandits' gang were nolle prossed yesterday before Judge Joseph L. McCarthy in the Des Plaines street police court when Lieut. John W. Norton testified that all had been indicted on the same charges by the grand jury last week and that police court proceedings would be unnecessary. Neither of the two girls, Gladys Moody nor Frances Quinn, was in court.

SPANISH POLLS OPEN; VICTORY FOR PRIMO SEEN

Quelling of Revolt Aids Dictator.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Sept. 11.—With the Women's Auxiliary Patriotic union, which is the only women's political organization in the country, whole heartedly indorsing Premier Primo de Rivera's régime and urging all women to use the voting franchise which has been bestowed on them by royal decree, the plebiscite which began today was expected to be a tremendous victory for the dictatorship. Nearly half of the voters in some sections are women.

All day the citizens crowded into the voting booths in Madrid. Most of them were women.

The government seemingly is doing everything possible to obtain a free expression of the people. Gen. de Rivera officially issued a communique promising public employes that no coercion would be exercised to make people vote for the government. Special guards are being posted at the polls to insure fair procedure. So far the voting is proceeding calmly

[Under the rules of the plebiscite the only vote which can be cast is one indorsing the government. Those opposing the directorate of Gen. de Rivera are simply to abstain from voting.]

Primo's Stock Boosted.

The bloodless quelling of the attempted army rebellion on Sunday, the sympathizers of which were found mainly among the aristocracy, undoubtedly is contributing to the popularity of the government. Gen. de Rivera's political position is regarded as more secure than at any time since the coup d'etat three years ago. As the rebellion was led by the aristocratic branch of the service—the artillery officers—its defeat has made friends for Gen. de Rivera among the syndicalists and laborers, who heretofore were the most bitter enemies of the dictator.

Juan de la Cierva, a former minister and one of the leaders of the conservative party, who hitherto has been opposed to the dictatorship, has issued a manifesto saying: "The government has acted on important and necessary reforms which must be continued."

Little Interest in Vote.

HENDAYE, France, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Spanish plebiscite does not seem to be causing much perturbation in the frontier provinces. Travelers coming from the interior provinces report little interest in the plebiscite. They say that a majority of the electors will vote, however, and that consequently the maneuver which makes such a vote an indorsement of the king, as well as Premier de Rivera, will be successful.

"Today is not the real day of the plebiscite," one official explained. "The people are still unaware that they should vote. The priests will see to it tomorrow morning, for from every pulpit the public will be summoned to go to the polls and vote for king and country."

CAPPER SAYS SEATING OF SMITH AND VARE LOOKS VERY DOUBTFUL

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Even though the ability of the Republicans to organize the next United States senate should depend on their votes, the seating of William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith, Republican candidates for senator in Pennsylvania and Illinois, in the event of their election, is a matter of grave doubt, according to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

ARTHUR CAPPER.

Senator Capper discussed prohibition, which, he said, was not an issue in the corn belt, and sentiment among the farmers in the west, which, he declared, despite the treatment accorded to the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill in Washington, was favorable in general to the policies of President Coolidge and to a continuance of the Republican control of congress.

"The people of the farm belt," Senator Capper said, "are generally condemning the lavish use of money in elections and especially the manner in which money was spent in the recent primaries of Pennsylvania and Illinois. I doubt very much whether Messrs. Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois will be seated if elected."

Le Roy Millner's Picnic Draws G. O. P. Candidates

A large crowd of northwest side Republicans attended the picnic given by Le Roy Millner, committeeman of the 41st ward and candidate for county clerk, in Koize's grove on Irving Park boulevard. Numerous candidates, including Joseph Savage, for county judge; John Passmore, for reelection as clerk of the Criminal court; George Harding, for county treasurer, and Congressman Henry R. Rathbone, made short addresses.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN STARTS TUESDAY; F. L. SMITH HERE

Gus J. Johnson, chairman of the Republican state committee, will open the Illinois G. O. P. state campaign Tuesday from headquarters to be established that day at the Morrison hotel. Frank L. Smith, nominee for United States senator, who returned from Connecticut Friday, came to Chicago yesterday to go over preliminary plans for the campaign with the state chairman.

It was their first conference since Johnson succeeded Smith as state chairman. Neither the candidate nor the chairman had a tatement to issue.

Smith, however, said he will have several statements on campaign issues next week, one of which will be a clear cut pronouncement of his stand on the prohibition question which his Democratic wet opponent, George E. Brennan, says is the outstanding issue in the campaign.

Smith declared there has never been any wavering in his own mind on the question, which was not raised as an issue in the Republican primary campaign between him and Senator McKinley.

When Your Daughter Grows Up
Will She Be Popular—or Lonely?

Lyon & Healy gives

FREE PIANO LESSONS
at the Chicago Musical College

THE changing times have brought many new interests and activities into the lives of young people. But music remains as one of the fundamentals in childhood training. In later years it opens doors which otherwise might remain closed. At school, at social gatherings, in every-day life at home, your daughter will need the advantages of musical training. Now is the time to begin her musical education.

Lyon & Healy again offer musical opportunity to thousands of Chicago children this Fall. Now we re-open our Melody Way Piano School, conducted by the Chicago Musical College. Ten lessons are offered free to every boy and girl who has never had piano instruction before.

No Piano Needed at Home
To Find Out If Your Child Has Talent

For two years our Melody Way piano classes have been an amazing success. Over 50,000 American children have learned to play in a few short lessons. In a few weeks you can discover whether your child has talent. You need not buy a piano first or pay for expensive lessons, only to find that your youngster is not musical. If children do not respond quickly to Melody Way instruction, no other method can succeed.

Your only expense is for the Melody Way outfit, including fifty-five piano pieces, costing $2.00. Children play on pianos each lesson, but practice at home on their silent keyboards. No piano is needed at the start.

The Miessner Melody Way to Play the Piano

This remarkable method was originated by W. Otto Miessner, a distinguished figure among American musicians. He has composed and taught music to children for over twenty years. His book, by the millions, are used in the public schools. He is Past President of the Music Supervisors' National Conference, one of the highest honors accorded to musical educators. Teachers from all over the country studied his Melody Way method at the Summer Master School of the Chicago Musical College this summer.

Practice a Pleasure

The Melody Way makes piano playing a pleasure. The children are given songs and melodies to play, instead of exercises. They love class instruction, because their playmates are there. They learn to play delightful melodies in two or three lessons. It hardly seems possible. Parents are amazed at their rapid progress. See the window display of a model classroom at our Wabash Avenue store showing how Melody Way classes are conducted.

SPECIAL EVENING CLASSES FOR OLDER BEGINNERS

Adopted by Public Schools

Mr. Miessner's Melody Way method is already used in the public schools of more than 200 cities. Hundreds of other schools will start Melody Way Piano Classes this Fall. Many colleges, universities, and normal schools now give Melody Way instruction in their classes for music teachers. Great conservatories such as the Chicago Musical College recognize its possibilities. The Melody Way pieces may be had on Victor records, on Duo-Art and Mel-O-Dee player rolls.

20 Free Full-Year Scholarships

Twenty free scholarships, for an entire year of study, will be given to children showing exceptional talent.

This wonderful opportunity is now open to your child. Free classes are being formed at the Chicago Musical College. Instruction begins the week of September 20th. There are ten free lessons—one hour a week for ten weeks. Classes assigned on enrollment.

How To Enroll Your Child

Enroll now at the Chicago Musical College, 64 East Van Buren Street. Parents are asked to come with the children. No enrollments accepted by telephone. The coupon is for the convenience of those who cannot call at the College. Mail it, and we'll gladly send you a folder giving complete information about the Melody Way.

"ANTI-IMPERIALISM."

There is a state of mind in this country that calls itself "liberal," and in respect of our foreign affairs "anti-imperialist." Morally its flavor is strongly self-righteous and it palpitates with a vicarious altruism. Intellectually it rests confidently on certain assumptions and if facts do not happen to jibe with the assumptions so much the worse for the facts.

The first of these assumptions is that in each of our international contacts we are wrong. Grotesque as the theory is, the liberal or anti-imperialist generalization is that our foreign relations are conducted almost invariably under the secret and sinister influence of selfish private interest. In Cuba, in Haiti or San Domingo, in Mexico, the Philippines, and China, our government is the agent of insatiable greed and plutocratic will to power. In this view wherever we look about us there is the blight of our oppression and pathetic peoples waiting only for the removal of the shackles we have forged upon their bleeding limbs to be up and away upon the broad path of liberty and progress.

That is another anti-imperialist assumption. It is not only that we are everywhere greedy and oppressive, but that our victims, if freed from our malevolent power, will rise in shining virtue and bring good government, prosperity, peace and justice to their households. Thus even the history of Haiti or San Domingo shakes this roseate optimism not at all. The formula is axiomatic. Never mind whether it applies or how it works out in realities. Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed and every people has an inalienable right to govern or misgovern itself. Thus the Haitian people, who have enjoyed the blessings of liberty from the time of Toussaint l'Ouverture to the dismemberment of President Sam, must be presumed to give their consent to be governed only by the particular faction of Haitian politicians who have engineered the latest revolution.

For this sort of mind the formula is everything, the fact next to nothing, and the only formulas respected are those of liberalism, which itself is synonymous with light, righteousness, freedom, progress, all the virtues. As facts are nothing if they do not jibe with the liberal formulas, actual benefits secured by imperialism, by force, by so-called exploitation are ignored, though they are the ostensible concrete objects of liberal policy. The accomplishment of order after intolerable and incessant disorder, the imposition of sanitary improvements, the development of natural resources, the relief of the masses from native oppression, and the raising of living standards are passed by if achieved, as they have been very generally, under régimes classified as imperialist.

So we have the liberal clamor to get out of San Domingo, Haiti, Nicaragua, the Philippines, China, in the name of sacred and infallible generalities and in the teeth of facts. A perfect specimen of this sort of thinking or feeling is liberal discussion of the Chinese situation. One prophet recently commenting remarks that "distressed China needs money for administrative expenses and the redemption of certain short term domestic debts." Casting about for funds "the unsteady Peking government" proposes a new domestic loan to be secured by maritime customs, but the imperialist United States and British governments object because the maritime customs already are pledged for the payment of prior debts. "Peking as usual will have to yield." The "Chinese government" is too weak to obtain internal revenue and the outrageous foreign creditors refuse to permit it to attach external revenues mortgaged to meet past loans. How illiberal and oppressive. Also, how easy for a ready writer in New York to juggle phrases like "distressed China," "the Chinese government," etc., and travel glibly on assumptions that have nothing to do with the real problems in the present territory of China. Of course, the fact is that the Peking government is not the Chinese government. It is a faction in possession of the central offices at this time, representing its own interests and repudiated by other factions representing other interests as legitimate and powerful in their own region as it is in the north. Its position was gained a few months ago by battle and at this moment it is in a fair way to lose that position by the same process. To permit it to take over revenue might assist it to prolong its power at Peking, or for the sake of the argument it may even be conceded it might enable it to overcome the enemy factions in due time. From the standpoint of expediency it might conceivably, therefore, be wise to waive the right to the customs involved, but certainly to demand it on the ground of principle is the veriest nonsense. As to expediency our representatives are rather better fitted to judge than the gentleman in the editorial chair in New York. But from him with his neat formulas we have the declaration that "China"—he is strong on that notion of "China"—should long since have been granted additional custom revenues. This may or may not be true. Men who know Chinese conditions are aware of doubts and difficulties which modify such a conclusion. Chinese leaders, who have no desire to put the sinews of power into the grasp of rivals, had no wish for custom increases on behalf of "China" as long as "China" meant the opposite faction. There is a "vicious circle," surely, in Chinese affairs, as the liberal editorial fulmination asserts, but it is created by Chinese forces, and it is these Chinese forces that are chiefly responsible for its continued whirling.

But what have the facts of the Chinese conundrum to do with a sacred theory? Imperialism, there is the enemy. The foreign powers are strangling "China." Imperialism always strangles peoples aspiring to be liberal. Let the imperialist foreigners withdraw and watch Feng and Chang Tso Lin and Wu and Sun and C. T. Wang and Wellington Koo rush into one another's embraces. Get the marines out of Haiti and watch the people spring forward on the path of progress they were so nobly treading before American imperialism crushed them beneath its iron heel.

BREAD AND WATER.

The townsfolk of Tekamah, Neb., are amazed that their little community has suddenly acquired national renown. When their judge began sentencing violators of the prohibition laws to a bread and water diet some of the villagers may have been startled, but if they were there is no record of it. At any rate they got over all that years ago. Tekamah was, therefore, conscious of no absurdity when one of its physicians who had served a sentence on bread and water for violating the liquor laws was allowed to eat his fill of roast pork when arrested some months later, a fugitive charged with having raped a paralyzed girl and causing the death of another by performing an abortion. If that aroused no protest it is scarcely surprising that the sentencing of two farmers to forty days each on bread and water caused no indignation.

We do not believe that any impartial observer can doubt that a revolt against prohibition is sweeping the country. Tekamah explains it. The drys insist the revolt is officered and manned by sots who have been deprived of their liquor and want it back. The truth is that for every man and woman who opposes prohibition from a desire to drink there are a dozen who oppose it out of fear of the prohibitionists. The enactment of the prohibition law has encouraged fanaticism of many sorts. It has given heart to sabbatarian bigots, anti-evolutionists, and meddlesome censors. Voters all over the country are beginning to understand that nothing can so quickly check the spread of organized intolerance as a modification of the prohibition law.

That is why the eye of the nation is on Tekamah today. Tekamah is a symbol. It completely summarizes the mental attitude of fanatics. The essence of fanaticism is the loss of all sense of relative values and nowhere has it been better illustrated.

The Supreme court of Nebraska has decided in the case of the two farmers of Tekamah that imprisonment on bread and water does not constitute a cruel and unusual punishment. Perhaps not. One of the farmers sentenced to undergo the fast fears he will not be able to survive it. His mental distress could be no greater if he had been sentenced to be whipped and branded. The probabilities, of course, are that he will not be permanently injured by his diet, but that does not in any way alter the fact that the punishment is intended by the judge to be so terrifying as to discourage other violators of the prohibition law as distinguished from all other laws. Murderers can continue to eat roast pork. Tekamah and its judge see no mental unbalance in this. Fortunately much of the rest of the country does.

Thousands of men and women who still believe with all their hearts that liquor is a curse have deserted the prohibition cause in alarm at the spread of fanaticism in its train. Tekamah may serve to bring other thousands to their senses.

Editorial of the Day

A MOST DEPLORABLE THING.

[Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.]

The daily papers have given an account of J. Frank Norris, a Baptist minister of Fort Worth, Tex., killing a man in his church house.

The thing is deplorable in the extreme, no matter from what angle it may be viewed. But it should not be "surprising" to those acquainted with the style and methods of Frank Norris' preaching that either he should be killed or should kill some one.

When preachers begin to dabble in politics we need not be surprised at such things happening as has befallen Frank Norris. They usually try to justify their course under the pretext of advocating "civic righteousness"; but when it is boiled down, it will be found to be simply a meddling with political matters and public officials.

The "political" preachers seem to think that they are called, qualified, and sent to dictate to public officials how to run the town, city, state, and the government at Washington, D. C.

When things do not go as the "political" preachers desire in such governments, they feel called upon to abuse, vilify, and demand from the pulpit and through the press the resignation of the officials who are the objects of their wrath.

Such preachers seem to have got it into their heads that being in the ministry [?] makes them privileged characters, immune from being held responsible for the abuse and vilification heaped upon public officials and others who may come within the scope of their imagined prerogatives.

It is cowardly for any man to take advantage of the pulpit and religious press to vent his spleen upon those whom he thinks will not resent it because of the general respect that even the world has for those who claim to be preachers of God's word.

ECONOMIC LOSS RESULTING FROM MUDDY ROADS.

[Des Moines Capital.]

Canning factories in various sections of Iowa were forced to suspend operation for several days this week for the reason that they were temporarily cut off from their source of supply. Heavy rains and muddy roads made it impossible for the truck farmers in these communities to reach their market. The Capital has seen no estimate of the loss to sweet corn and tomato growers, but it is reasonable to assume that there was a loss of large proportions, for the raw materials used by canning factories are highly perishable. A loss to the canning industry and its workers must also be added, and the bill as a whole must be charged to the account of mud.

Where farmers depend chiefly on a home market of this nature the economic need for all-weather roads is readily apparent. The same principle is involved, with a difference only in degree, in every rural community. It could easily happen, and it undoubtedly has happened many times, that individual farmers miss the best opportunities for advantageous selling on account of isolation caused by rain and mud.

No matter how far Iowa may go along other lines in promoting more uniform prosperity for agriculture, the economic strength of the state will not be fully developed until a state-wide system of all-weather roads is provided.

IF CHRIST SHOULD LEAVE CHICAGO

BY HARRY A. WHEELER.

[President of the Union Trust company, president of the board of trustees of the Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston; trustee of the St. James Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago.]

When William T. Stead of London published his book, "If Christ Should Come to Chicago," it was made the inspiration for innumerable sermons and addresses on the unlovely characteristics of the city, its vice, crime, slums, ill-gotten wealth, political corruption, and every other evil condition that could be brought to light. I do not recall that Stead's book ever inspired writers or speakers to deal with Chicago's goodness.

Goodness is not sensational. It is evil that is news and it is the common belief that little interest could be awakened by cataloguing the splendid array of fine things that Chicago and her people are doing to alleviate suffering and make the world better in this greatest human laboratory.

If Christ in His divine person should come to Chicago He would find His spirit and teachings held closely in the hearts and lives of millions of young and old, rich and poor, each striving to live worthily every day and to leave an impress for good upon their day and generation.

Of course, this is not sensational; it is too common. If you want proof, set in parallel columns the list of institutions that relieve distress and ennoble our lives and over against it all the organized evil influences that you can conjure out of the underworld of a great city and you will realize the prevalence and power of the Christ spirit. Likewise, if you could list the individual lives of Chicago as good and bad and would even include in the bad those who are indifferent and careless of the divine commandments the good would so far outnumber the bad as to leave no room for doubt that Chicago is God's city, watched over from its birth by an understanding spiritual guide and given a destiny whose promise is a real leadership in good, not evil; in spiritual growth, not in moral decay.

A vivid imagination might lead us to speculate on what would happen if Christ should leave Chicago and with His going should also depart all remnants of His teaching, spirit, reverence for God, love for men, and we be left with only our selfish desires, no conscience, no altruism, and no hope of immortality.

There is a story in the Old Testament which illustrates God's attitude towards the righteous. It is the instance when Abraham pled with God to spare the wicked city of Sodom for the sake of the innocent and righteous who lived there. God answered He would spare the city if there were found there ten who were righteous. Sodom was consigned to destruction because the ten righteous were not found within its walls. In a real sense more than most people are aware Chicago and every other city is saved by those who love God and keep His commandments. Clearly then the spirit of goodness and clean living will keep Chicago safe from destruction.

Not long ago a vast Christian army arrayed in gold, purple, and scarlet like modern Crusaders visited our city and in the name of the Roman Catholic church lifted high the cross and the host, which to the membership and priesthood of that great church was the veritable body and blood of Christ. His Eminence Cardinal Mundelein gave welcome in words which expressed love and good will to all and exalted the name of the Christ as the name above every name. His Eminence Cardinal Bonzano, the personal representative of His Holiness Pope Pius XI., brought a like greeting to Chicago and the world. While as a Protestant I do not accept the dogma of the real presence as taught by the Roman Catholic church I know from personal acquaintance with men of the Roman Catholic faith that their going to confession and partaking of the holy communion had a transforming effect on them and they exhibited the graces we all identify with the Christ spirit. The good order, the religious atmosphere, the devout attitude of the multitude of visitors, as well as of our own citizenship, were apparent to every observer. The Eucharistic congress will, we believe, have a lasting effect for good.

Christ came to Chicago with the pioneer Roman Catholic priest, Father Marquette, more than 250 years ago, when northern Illinois was but a wilderness. He came with the Rev. Isaac McCoy, a Baptist missionary who preached the first sermon here in 1825, and with the Rev. Jesse Walker in 1828, who founded the Methodist church both in St. Louis and in Chicago, and the Rev. Stephen R. Beggs, the first regularly appointed pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago in 1831, when he organized a Methodist class of ten members. Christ came with Father St. Cyr, the priest who established old St. Mary's; with the Rev. A. B. Freeman, the first Baptist pastor, and with the Rev. Jeremiah Porter, a Congregational minister who organized the First Presbyterian church in Fort Dearborn, all in 1833, and with the Episcopalians, who organized their church in 1834. And He has been with Chicago all through the years as church after church of the various denominations have followed in succession until approximately fifteen hundred churches are now located in the metropolitan district. The essential Christ also came to Chicago when the first Jewish synagogue was established in 1843 and rabbis of those days taught their people the commandments of Jehovah.

We do not forget that Christ fulfilled the ideals of the old Hebrew prophets which Jewish rabbis preach and that the law of righteousness ran through the Old as well as through the New Testament. Some one has said there is the essential Christ as well as the historic Christ and whoever, Jew or Gentile, urges and practices holiness in living, charity in spirit, honesty and integrity in character is really proclaiming the essential Christ.

In thinking of what Christ has meant to Chicago we must not simply think of the churches founded and maintained, nor even of His presence in the lives of His followers, but of the many institutions which are the manifestations of His spirit—the hospitals, schools, homes, and a hundred different charities.

Because we take goodness for granted in common with all the customary functions of life we are outraged if it fails us, and yet we are so busy with material things that we do not place emphasis enough upon personal active participation in building the agencies for good and so make them function as to make evil more rare than ever.

Let the supply of food, water, light, or transportation be suddenly and completely cut off from our city and it would not be long before there would be cries of pain and agony of desire. Suppose the laws of nature would fail to perform their regular functions. We go to sleep expecting without question the sun will rise in the morning. Suppose it failed to fulfill its promise by the earth stopping revolving on its axis; the result would be universal destruction. Likewise we take for granted the continuance of the laws of well regulated business and society. Our faith in nature is based on our conscious or unconscious belief that we are in the keeping of an almighty ruler of the universe. We conduct business on the assumption that men will obey the dictates of conscience. If this were not so all would be chaos.

Christ will not leave Chicago. Increasingly His spirit will inspire us, but if we were all to take less for granted and would resolve each day to make the functions for good a little surer and more universal in their operation we would build in a generation an ideal city where the problem of crime, slums, and the debauching of life would be singularly absent.

LIFE EXPECTANCY AND EARNINGS.

In previous issues we have given the cost to a father who earns $2,500 a year of raising a child to 18 years of age. These costs were divided into such heads as food, clothing, shelter, medical service, and education. The cost at birth and at different ages thereafter was given. The figures were those furnished by a study made by the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The eighteen age period for the termination of this study was based on the assumption that, on an average, children 18 years of age passed from the consumer into the producer class—from the liability to the asset group.

The same statisticians supply us with the earning capacity of males of the $2,500 a year class at 18 years of age, 21 years of age, 30 years of age, and at each ten year period after 30.

In the original registration area of each 100,000 born, 80,733 reach 18 years of age. Of men, 18 years of age, 78.2 per cent are gainfully employed. The average yearly earning is $963; the gross future earnings are $41,285 and the net future earnings, $28,654. The life expectancy is 46.59 years.

At 21 years of age, 78.7 per cent of the men who were living at 18 years of age are still alive. The life expectancy of a man in this group is 44.16 years. The average earning power is $1,463. Of the group, 88 per cent are gainfully employed. The gross future earnings are $43,398 and the net, $30,818.

At age 30, 94.6 per cent of the original group are still alive. Of men age 30, 96.3 per cent are gainfully employed. The average yearly wage is $2,228; the gross earnings, $42,623, and the net $31,038. The expectation of life is 36.87.

At 40 years of age, 89.1 per cent are living. The expectation of life is 28.84 years. The average yearly wage of the men in the group is $2,155, and 97 per cent of the whole group are gainfully employed. The gross future earnings are $35,923, and the net $25,795.

At age 50, 80.7 per cent of the original group at age 18 are living. The expectation of life is 21.28 years. The average yearly wage is $2,293. 95 per cent of the men are at work. The gross future earnings are $25,500, and the net future earnings, $17,516.

At age 60, 67 per cent of the 18 year old group are still alive. Of these, 87.5 per cent are at work. The life expectancy is 14.5 years, and the average wage is $2,202. The gross future earnings are $14,920 and the net future earnings are $8,409.

At age 70, 44.75 per cent are living, and 60 per cent of them are working. The life expectancy is 9 years. The average wage is $2,105. The gross future earnings are $5,008, and the net future earnings are $562.

At age 80, very few men have any earning power.

CARROTS FOR CONSTIPATION.

M. writes: Another remedy for constipation. This one goes back to nature and is always a cure.

Eat two raw carrots every morning at breakfast. Chew well. Repeat this in the evening if the case is stubborn.

BOY DARK UNDER EYES.

Mrs. F. J. J. writes: 1. What could be the reason for a sixteen month old child having dark lines under the eyes? He is apparently in excellent health, but the above has often worried me. His kidneys are all right.

2. Do you advocate brushing the child's teeth when the 16 first ones have appeared? If so, with any particular kind of brush and preparation?

REPLY.

1. I don't know, but if he is in excellent health, what difference does this appearance make?

2. Yes. Use a soft cloth wrapped around the finger. Use any tooth paste or powder you like.

SON CLAIMS FURNITURE.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a son buys a piano, radio, and three lamps for his mother's home and is living there at the time he buys them, could he take them along after he is married?

He has all the receipts on them. If he would go to court and show his receipts he paid for them would the judge let him have the things? He hasn't worked for two years. R. O.

He could take them along, unless it could be shown that he gave them to his parents.

COMPENSATION.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I was working for a contractor and got hurt on the job. The insurance company wants to settle with me now. How much per week am I entitled to for when I was unable to work? M. L.

The compensation act provides: "If the period of temporary total incapacity for work lasts more than six working days, compensation equal to fifty per centum of the earnings, but not less than $7 nor more than $14 per week, beginning on the eighth day of such temporary total incapacity and continuing as long as the temporary total incapacity lasts, but not after the amount of compensation paid equals the amount which would have been payable as a death benefit," etc. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HUSBAND NEEDS A GUARDIAN.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a woman of about fifty years and have two children. My husband has been in business for about fourteen years, but he doesn't seem to know what he is doing any more. For instance, he took a man into partnership with him and signed away five thousand dollars' worth of machinery. He lost it all. He takes contracts for work, but gets nothing in writing and cannot collect his money. What I would like to do is to be authorized to get a man to manage the business. Can this be done?
MRS. L. B.

If you concede that the money is his, then you cannot interfere with his control of it unless you can show that he is so incompetent mentally as to justify the appointment of a conservator.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1861.

WASHINGTON.—Detachments from the 19th Indiana, the 5th and 6th Wisconsin, and other regiments, totaling 1,750 men, and John Cochrane's Chasseurs, forming the advance corps of our lines on the right wing beyond the Chain bridge, with cavalry and artillery, made a reconnoissance in force beyond Lewinsville. On their return they were fired upon from the woods by four pieces of rebel artillery, supported by cavalry and infantry. The reconnoitering force, being reinforced, returned the fire, drove the enemy back, and now holds the position. There is great excitement in the city and the wildest rumors prevail. Cannonading was heard for nearly an hour.

CAIRO.—Col. Lew Wallace's Indiana Zouaves arrived on the steamer Hannibal City and went up to Paducah.

ST. LOUIS. — Intelligence reached the city that Gen. Price has left Osceola and is moving northward. When last heard from he had encamped for the night at Clinton, Henry county. It is thought by some that Lexington is his destination, while others believe that his movement is only a feint and that Jefferson City is the real point at which he is aiming.

NEW YORK. — The Commercial's dispatch states that a rebel prisoner affirms that the rebel force within a radius of twenty miles of Manassas is 170,000. Beauregard is reported to be concentrating his forces between Fairfax Courthouse and Leesburg. It is reported that Gen. Albert S. Johnston has arrived at Manassas and will command the rebel troops stationed there.

CHICAGO.—We find the conviction very generally expressed that the Chicago property of John A. Washington, the rebel renegade of Mount Vernon, should be confiscated. And the same fate should attend the property on West Randolph street, near Sangamon, owned by the traitor Magoffin of Kentucky.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1901.

BUFFALO. — President McKinley continues to show remarkable recuperative powers, and thus far there has not been the slightest unfavorable symptom in his progress toward recovery from Czolgosz's bullet. The surgeons have nothing to do now except to watch for unusual conditions. They say the public should be on its guard against rumors as to sudden changes in the President's condition. It is more than probable that within the next few days he will have restless hours and there may even be strong indications of a serious relapse. The physicians are anxious for the people to understand this fact so they may not interpret these inevitable setbacks as something dangerous. Dr. Charles McBurney laid particular stress on the fact that the President is able to take a great deal of nourishment. The wounded President will remain in Buffalo for some time, as the surroundings there are pleasant and beneficial.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago police served notice on the Buffalo officials that it is now up to them to furnish evidence linking Emma Goldman and nine other anarchists under arrest here with the attempt on the life of President McKinley. Unless the Buffalo authorities act quickly the woman may be released on bail at tomorrow's hearing. Judge Chetlain issued a writ of habeas corpus for Abraham Isaak Sr., one of the anarchists under arrest, and it is returnable tomorrow.

WASHINGTON.—The Schley court of inquiry will meet tomorrow, organize, and at once begin the investigation into the famous controversy between Admirals Schley and Sampson over the battle of Santiago harbor.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1916.

PORTLAND, Me. — Maine, whose verdict in the state elections is regarded as a forecast of the national result in November, returned a decisive victory for the Republicans. The majority for the head of the ticket—the governor—was approximately 13,000. The great mystery—the Progressive vote—is no longer a mystery. An overwhelming percentage of it was cast with the Republicans.

LONDON.—There is a ministerial crisis in Greece, and Premier Zaimis has resigned. Every effort is being made to persuade him to retain his portfolio. A prominent official said the nation may join the allies within a few days.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Boys' club is given $100,000 by the will of William H. Jones, formerly of Evanston, and once connected with the International Harvester company, which was probated in San Diego, Cal., yesterday. He left an estate of $750,000.

NEW YORK.—With surface line transit virtually at a standstill in Manhattan, the Bronx, Yonkers, and parts of Westchester county, and with subway and elevated facilities affected more than at any time since the Interborough Rapid Transit strike was called five days ago, the traction situation in New York assumed a more serious aspect.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—President Wilson came here to be at the bedside of his sister, Mrs. Anna E. Howe, who, it is generally believed, is ill beyond recovery.

LONDON.—British troops opened a new offensive in the Balkans. They crossed the Struma river in the face of heavy Bulgarian opposition and occupied four towns. From the region west of the Vardar to Lake Doiran, French artillery violently bombarded Bulgarian positions. On the Serbian front a fresh withdrawal of the Bulgarian advanced posts is reported.

IMPROVEMENTS IN SUBDIVISIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—I should like to see a law or rule to compel subdividers of suburban real estate to install all improvements before being allowed to sell their property in lots to the public. Will county has such a law and Cook county sadly needs one. Many of the subdividers here make a practice of putting in all improvements before beginning sales or agree to do so and the cost of such improvements is included in the price charged for each lot, while others put in only a few of the improvements and this gives the unscrupulous salesman an opportunity to misrepresent by telling the unsuspecting that all improvements will be added at the expense of the subdivider.

Only recently two young women employed by a large corporation in Chicago were unfortunate enough to have each bought a lot in a south side subdivision and after the first payment of 25 per cent of the total purchase price had been made discovered that the improvements only consisted of sidewalks, graded streets and trees, although told by the salesman that everything, including sewers, water mains, hard surface pavements and curbs, in addition to the things mentioned above, would be added at the expense of the subdivider.

Many who buy lots in the suburbs make the purchase with the idea of building homes for themselves but are unaware of the fact that a building loan is not easily obtained until all improvements are in, and as many of the suburban subdivisions are not located in any incorporated village or township through which sewers, pavements and such improvements might be installed with assessments against the lot owners, it is not difficult to see the hardship to those who would build when they find such obstacles in their way. ENGLISH INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 6.—In his letter Mr. A. C. Josephs of Chicago condemns foreign stock fire insurance companies doing business in this country. The writer fails to see any connection between the war debt problem of England to this country and English insurance interests.

America owes much to English stock fire insurance companies for the part they have played in the past in having met their obligations promptly, and foremost for having pioneered underwriting. Granting that Mr. Josephs' figures on remittances to home offices are correct, is this to be considered in the light of "robbery"? I say no. Do not English companies contribute their just share to this country in taxes, local and state? Yes. Do not these same companies furnish employment to hundreds of American people in this country in their branch and department offices as well as among the agency ranks? Yes.

The writer has never been associated with any foreign company, having represented American interests in the field and is at present in the home office of an American company, so that my defense of English interests is not from a prejudiced point of view, but I believe in common with thousands of broad minded insurance interests which respect the English companies for the part they have played in furnishing sound protection for years, which has meant much to American industry.

English companies are the forefathers of American stock fire companies. In times of great conflagrations such as San Francisco, they have shown their worth.

It is true that American companies are not as firmly implanted in England and other foreign countries as the English companies are here for but one reason—England pioneered the way as far back as 1700 in furnishing stock insurance protection. Mr. Josephs will undoubtedly admit that American companies are striving for a foothold in foreign countries and will probably enjoy good connections as the years pass, as is evidenced by their ever increasing business in Canada. D. W. ADAMS.

SENATOR MOSES AND THE MAIL ORDER BUSINESS.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Your editorial advocating Senator Moses' return to office sure gives me the opportunity for a horse laugh.

I am with you on your platform regarding the world court issue, Volstead act, building a subway, etc., but when you come out flat footed to bolster the stock of this doubtful friend of the mail order business, which business represents no small factor in your own home town's industry, I am confused at your motive.

Your outline of Senator Moses' accomplishments is quite fair indeed. But why stop when you mention he is now chairman of the postoffice committee? Why not go right on and tell your readers the situation created by the Moses committee? Why not tell them the postal rates now require, according to the last postal report, that first, second and fourth class (parcel post) pay the government a profit of approximately $161,000,000; second class matter, devoted to publications, operates at a deficit of approximately $74,000,000?

M. H. SANFORD.

SWEET AND LOW DOWN.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—For the last two weeks we have been kept awake until all hours of the morning by people owning radios, who forget they have neighbors who have to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning. They also have their dining room windows up sky high and have the radio turned on full blast, thinking they are on an island somewhere, with no one around but themselves.

If people want to stay up and get full benefit of their radio why not think of the fellow next door or downstairs, close the windows, and tune the radio down, because the music is so much sweeter when toned down lower any way. I am a lover of the radio myself, but think of looking at a clock once in a while to see that it is no later than 9 o'clock when I have it tuned loud.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The writer served three years with the army in the Philippines. The editorial in the Sept. 1 issue is thoroughly correct. Knowing something of the Moros, I agree further that the Dattos hath the average Mexico politician with a poisonous fervor. If the Philippines were granted political independence I firmly believe the entire Moro clan would go juramentado. I think any American who has been there will agree, for while we ex-soldiers despise a Gugu, we respect the Moro.

THE HOME OF
John and Ellen Lyle,
Dallas, Oregon

Built in 1858. One of the first real Oregon homes that was more than a pioneer's cabin. Today, owned and lived in by Mrs. Harriet Lyle Veazie, a daughter of John and Ellen.

THE HOME IS THE THING

ON TO OREGON!

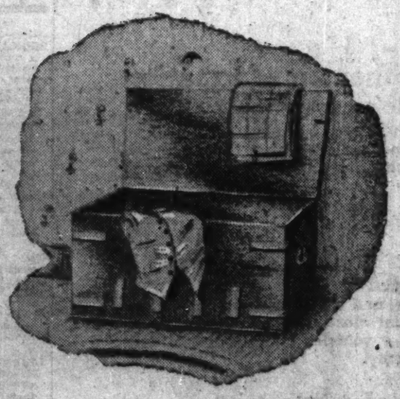
THEN! THE HOME OF THEIR DREAMS

Another story of the Covered Wagon that carried men and women of daring vision away from all that was established and certain out into the possibilities of the great West. The hero is John Lyle, a young fellow aflame with ideals. The heroine is Ellen Scott, a girl of twenty, with all the gentle culture of Southern aristocracy. Their romance was colored by the dream of a radiant Home; and the dream came true.

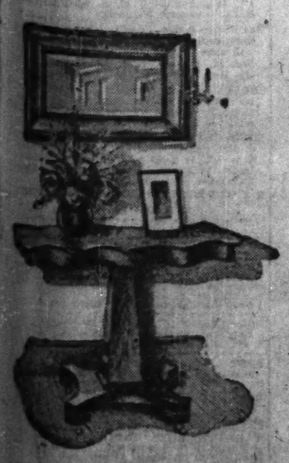
The Home Is the Thing! It was the greatest and most beautiful thing in the full and happy lives of John and Ellen Lyle. It was their hearts crying out for the Home of their Dreams that intensified and hallowed their pretty courtship when, in those days of the rush to Oregon, these two first met at the River Platte. Hearts were young and eyes were bright. There were many hours beneath starry open skies, around the campfire within the barricade of covered wagons, to talk of adventures, dangers braved, and sweet hopes cherished. And, before the wagon trains moved on their separate ways these two had made dream-plans for a home out in the new land, the home of our story.

ELLEN LYLE took her first baby, born in the troublous days of Indian wars, to the safety of her father's house. When she could return to her husband she carried on horseback with her a little chair which the baby's grandfather had made of an ox bow and yoke used in crossing the plains. From that day to this that wee chair has been used through three generations of Lyles.

THE Mahogany Bureau, in the top drawer of which John and Ellen Lyle kept putting aside, little by little, the money that was to bring them the fulfillment of their dearest desire—the home they dreamed together under the stars at the River Platte . . . the home where their children should play and grow up in the full knowledge of what a Home means.

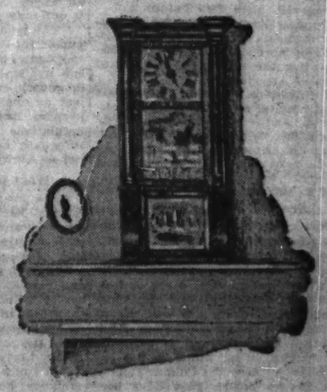


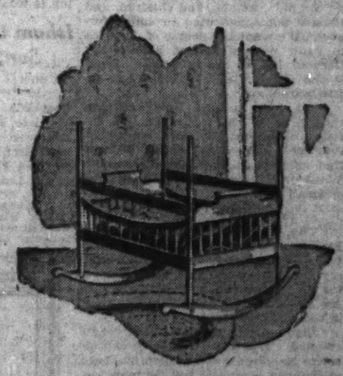
BIRCH CHEST which John Lyle brought across the plains, filled with fancy vests, books, and inkwell. He was a teacher—not a frontiersman. His interest in Oregon was the opportunity it offered the idealist for establishing society upon a new order without the evils of older communities. He did not rush to claim land; he opened a school and built a home.



MAHOGANY Table and Mirror which were taken by John and Ellen Lyle from the cabin which was their first home to "the home of their dreams." Even in a cabin, where conveniences were few and luxuries precious, they surrounded themselves with the sort of furniture that was attractive and which was good style.

THE Old Clock, among John and Ellen's earliest household goods, which ticks the hours for their children's children—older than the dream house (but not the dream), and older than the trees John Lyle planted—the flowering cherry, the plum, and the apple which now, for almost 70 years have been fulfilling their cycle of bud and bloom, of ripened fruit and yellowed leaf.





THE Lyle babies' cradle. In all homes it is the presence of such a little piece of furniture which makes the Home the Thing. Everywhere is this sensed and felt. The John M. Smyth Store specializes in furniture for nurseries and little children's rooms. Our Baby Shop on the first floor is one of the most fascinating places—in the city.

ALSACE APPEALS TO U. S. TO AID IN FREEDOM FIGHT

Threatens to Ask League to Lift French Yoke.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

STRASSBURG, France, Sept. 11.—"To the great heart of America and to the principles of freedom enshrined in the hearts of its people, I, and my comrades, appeal for freedom from the terrorist and dictatorship rule of France."

This message was sent to American sympathizers today by Dr. Eugene Ricklin, leader of the widespread autonomist movement in Alsace and Lorraine, which, investigation discloses, threatens to become a dynamite spot in Europe, together with the Saar, which lies to the north.

Autonomists in the departments of Moselle, Bas Rhin, and Haut Rhin, including government functionaries, thousands of school teachers and clerics, as well as the bourgeois and workers, are preparing an appeal to the League of Nations for an autonomous government.

Will Be Blow to French.

The appeal, if formally taken up by the league, will be a severe blow to French prestige. Moreover the present ominous conditions prevailing in the liberated territories are such that Geneva's consideration of the Alsatian appeal seems to be an imminent possibility.

Three "liberated" departments, with a total area of 5,600 square miles, about the size of Connecticut, are afire with discontent and are revolutionary in spirit. The crisis has attained such proportions that even the departmental prefects cautiously admit that danger is brewing, but the true state of affairs is generally not known to others than French, German frontier officials, and a few discreetly close mouthed subministry officials in Paris.

France Held Liberator.

Most of the world believes that when France, at the cost of 4,000,000 lives, regained Alsace-Lorraine from Germany, it thereby won the undying gratitude of the people of the territory, who ostensibly were oppressed during the forty years of German rule.

But Dr. Ricklin, a grizzled veteran leader of the strongly organized autonomists, stated the case as follows in an interview with THE TRIBUNE:

"To Americans it must be increasingly evident that peace can be maintained in Europe only by decentralization, after the fashion of the United States of America.

"To America, we the autonomists look for moral support. Only by recognition and establishment of principles of liberty conceived by the leaders of the American revolution can Europe be saved from destruction and the world generally from a catastrophic succession of wars."

Denies French Charge.

Asked concerning the French accusation that he and other autonomists in Alsace-Lorraine are German propagandists, Dr. Ricklin replied: "The French accusation that I am a German propagandist, spy, and seditionist is only one of many gestures to veil the fact that the revolutionary spirit is abroad is Alsace and to cover up the terrorism under which we live and to which—witness the Colmar riots of Aug. 22—we in the past have been forced to submit."

Dr. Ricklin added that the only plausible basis for the charge against him that he is disseminating German propaganda is that before the war he was president of the Landtag, corresponding to the lower house in an American state legislature, and previously was a deputy from Alsace-Lorraine to the reichstag at Berlin.

When asked, "Is any sort of revolutionary action, in the sense of an armed movement, to be foreseen under the conditions of suppression you mention?" Dr. Ricklin replied, "There is a broad revolutionary movement, but it cannot culminate in anything more than minor rioting, because the French troops concentrated in the department garrisons are too large."

10,000 Troops in Region.

A number of French troops at present are stationed in the departments of Moselle, Bas Rhin, and Haut Rhin, according to military authorities at Strassburg. They number between 8,000 and 10,000, as compared with the reported 14,000 German troops stationed permanently in the provinces during the German rule.

"Any number of men—and we number at least 1,000,000—could not face the huge stores of ammunition, artillery, and machine guns with which the French troops are garrisoned in the three departments," continued Dr. Ricklin. "But there is one effective recourse. We can and will appeal to the conscience of the world. The continuation of the present régime under France must mean the ultimate loss of Alsace-Lorraine to France, which it secured at the cost of 4,000,000 lives.

Will Appeal to League.

"France's power and influence with the league of nations is not sufficient to cover up the moral, economic, and cultural wrongs committed against our people. Unless the chamber of deputies votes regional representation for the three departments, as provided for in a bill introduced early in August, an appeal to the league of nations is our only recourse.

"The population of Alsace-Lorraine, numbering 1,600,000, wants self-government, but we are not separationists nor secessionists. We want only to govern ourselves in state matters, just as one of your American states governs itself in church and school regulations and taxes. We wish to safeguard our culture as one of the richest heritages of the world.

Want to Run State Affairs.

"The French, to whom we do not racially belong, may maintain their army, postoffices, railroads, and all such strictly federal institutions. But state matters properly belong to us.

"In 1911 we enjoyed administrative and legislative autonomy, which from several points of view was more liberal than that in other German states, but which, nevertheless, was not based upon the sovereignty of the people of Alsace-Lorraine.

"We now are fighting for that sovereignty and for its recognition by France, whom we have come to know as a pitiless victor.

"Before being French or German, we are men, women, and children, and we are not constituted to suffer forever. We want the people of America to know we are neither French nor German, but we are patriots, and that is the very keystone of our autonomist movement.

"We look to the United States, though it is not a member of the league of nations, for moral support in this dark hour of terrorism, because that country at least strove, through Woodrow Wilson, to protect the rights of small minorities.

Protest Language Order.

"The forcible introduction of the French language in all our administrative departments has made any recovery from the world war most difficult for us. Moreover, it is obligatory to use French in all judicial negotiations in the country.

"Beginning in 1900, our civil courts adopted a new code, replacing the obsolete Napoleonic code which had been unchanged, even by the German victory of 1871. Starting this year, however, we have been forced to return to the Napoleonic code of France—a code more than a century old and one which has no provisions for changes after 100 years."

GOV. JACKSON OF INDIANA SPEAKS IN CHURCH TODAY

Gov. Ed Jackson of Indiana filled the pulpit of the Bible Rescue mission, 626 West Madison street, last night on the 25th anniversary of the founding of the mission by the late John Stewart.

Gov. Jackson will speak at 3 p. m. today at the Moody Memorial church, North avenue and Clark street, under the auspices of the mission which is supervised by J. Clarence Greene. Mr. Greene said the use of Moody church was given so more people could hear the Hoosier governor than could hear him at the mission. Gov. Jackson was a dinner guest of John W. Scott of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., one of the sponsors of the mission, at the Drake hotel last night. Other supporters of the mission are Merrill Coit, George W. Dixon, John V. Farwell, James B. Forgan, and J. L. Kraft.

When Mr. Jackson was inaugurated as governor last January the chimes of Christ church in Indianapolis played patriotic airs.

Attorney Leslie Gilmore Dies Suddenly in Hotel

Attorney Leslie A. Gilmore, 37 years old, died suddenly in his room at the Plaza hotel, 1553 North Clark street, yesterday from what is believed to have been a hemorrhage of the stomach. Gilmore, one of the counsel in the Goldman real estate trial several years ago, was punished by Judge Kickham Scanlan for contempt of court. Hudson avenue police are seeking to locate his wife.

Isham Carpenter, Judge's Son, Buried at Rosehill

Funeral services for Isham Carpenter, 19 year old son of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter and grandson of the late Dr. Ralph N. Isham, were held yesterday at noon. Burial was in Rosehill cemetery. Young Carpenter died Friday after a week's illness at St. Luke's hospital.

Ionia, Mich., Sept. 11.—Leo Herbert, 12, was run over by a truck loaded with gravel yesterday and died on the way to the hospital.

SOUTH SIDE PARK EMPLOYES HAVE PICNIC ON BEACH

Every one was out to take the laurels from the police in the contests staged on the Jackson beach park yesterday during a day of golf, baseball, tug-of-war, and dancing provided by the south park commissioners for their 3,500 employés.

Under the supervision of H. W. Graef, director of playgrounds for the south parks, the contests were varied to furnish considerable comedy for the employés and their families. There was a cigar smoking contest in which three of the stogies were loaded. There was a rolling pin throwing contest for cooks. There was a nail driving contest for which Mr. Graef supplied slabs of iron with a thin coating of wood into which twelve inch nails were to be driven.

Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, was on hand for the dance in the evening and presented the prizes to the winners of the events. He commended the employés on their loyalty to the system and assured them that he was interested in the personal fortune of each one.

NEW YORK STILL WAITS FOR CITY BUS FRANCHISE

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A communication addressed to the board of estimate and apportionment by the Union Bus corporation, in which it amplifies its proposal to operate busses in four boroughs at a five cent fare, today drew attention to the fact that with the city's schools opening Monday, New York still is without the comprehensive bus system, which city officials promised would be in operation July 1.

The Union Bus company's latest communication reiterates it will pay the city, for a period of five years and a privilege of renewal for five years more, a sum equivalent to a minimum of 5 per cent of its gross annual receipts and guarantees the city a minimum of $500,000 a year during the existence of the franchise.

"Hursen" Funerals Have Lincoln Cars Now

Here is another transformation in automobile equipment at funerals. It is not a surprise, because Chicago is already accustomed to seeing, at "Hursen" funerals, the best that the world affords, in beauty and quality.

You have always known, of course, that at "Hursen" funerals you are provided with the finest automobiles in America, and that the charges for their use are not a cent more than the charges made anywhere else for vehicles much less desirable, and often unworthy.

But this is the latest improvement on the best there was. There is no finer automobile made than the "Lincoln." So it had to happen that "Hursen" automobiles should be "Lincolns." You see these cars only at "Hursen" funerals.

These "Hursen-Lincoln" cars were built especially for Hursen, from Hursen designs. An entire fleet of these cars has been built, each exactly alike. With these were built the new-type limousine-hearses—"Hursen-Lincoln" style. They completely revolutionize even the type of hearse which recently has come into vogue.

The result is a funeral cortege of surpassing beauty, yet unassuming in its quiet richness. You know already that the cost of a "Hursen" funeral is but a fraction of the charges made elsewhere. You know already that they lead America in every detail. So, call Hursen of course.

2 Very Big Events Monday at Lyon & Healy's

I. Opening New Lyon & Healy Basement Piano Store

A remarkable bargain piano store—the first store of its kind in the world

II. Famous Annual September Sale of Used Pianos

An extraordinary selling event inaugurating this great Basement Store

I. Opening Basement Piano Store

—Quite a Remarkable Place

YES, indeed, the Lyon & Healy Basement Piano Store, which opens its doors tomorrow, Monday, for the first time, is a remarkable store. And it surely will be welcomed with open arms by the Chicago music-loving public.

First of all and most important of all, this is a Lyon & Healy store—part and parcel of the Lyon & Healy organization. That means, of course, every piano sold in it is backed by the Lyon & Healy organization—an organization Chicago has known for 62 years.

The new Lyon & Healy Basement Piano Store is easily reached—the stairway is just inside the Wabash Avenue entrance.

This new Basement Store will enable music lovers to own pianos from Lyon & Healy's at prices that are very, very low—at prices the very lowest that such good, home-worthy pianos [the only kind to be sold here] can possibly be off red. Both new and use l pianos will be found in this new Lyon & Healy Piano Basement.

Extra value and assured satisfaction—these are the two most important planks in the selling platform of this new Basement Store. You good shoppers have come to know basement stores as places where you get bargains. And you can expect the same thing to hold true here. This is a Basement Store selling you bargains—but remember that every piano is backed by the same 100 per cent standard of satisfaction that backs every piano sold in the Upstairs Store. That's a Lyon & Healy standard, and of course it stands here as well as throughout the store. Come in tomorrow and see how easy it will be for you to own a piano backed and guaranteed by Lyon & Healy. Come and know this new and quite wonderful store, this new feature of Lyon & Healy's—the Lyon & Healy Basement Piano Store, which opens tomorrow. Come!

Your Questions Our Answers

Question: What do you buy when you buy a piano at Lyon & Healy's?

Answer: You buy years and years of musical pleasure and enjoyment and happiness.

Question: And what else do you buy when you buy a piano at Lyon & Healy's?

Answer: You get the sure satisfaction of knowing that you will be surely satisfied with your purchase.

Question: How long has Lyon & Healy been Chicago's outstanding store of musical interest?

Answer: For 62 years.

Question: What is the largest musical store in the world?

Answer: Lyon & Healy.

Question: What other outstanding features are there about Lyon & Healy besides this new Piano Department?

Answer: That question takes a long answer, because there are so many outstandingly interesting features of this store:

[1] More Steinway pianos are sold here than in any other store in the world except, of course, in the New York Steinway wareroom itself—and you know the Steinway piano is the best there is.

[2] Here are headquarters for the justly famous Lyon & Healy pianos, known for years for their excellence.

[3] Here is the largest sheet music department in the world.

[4] Here are headquarters for band and stringed instruments in almost endless variety, the finest of which we produce in our own factories.

[5] Here violinists find instruments worthy of their genius—rare instruments from old masters at $25,000 to inexpensive instruments—all of Lyon & Healy standard.

[6] Lyon & Healy manufacture the highest quality of harps in the world—and 95% of the greatest orchestras and harpists in this country, Europe and the whole world use Lyon & Healy Harps exclusively.

[7] Here is a complete selection of the three outstanding phonographs—Victrola, Brunswick and Columbia—you can hear all three, compare them and choose your favorite.

[8] A newly equipped phonograph record department on the street floor gives excellent and most efficient service.

[9] And hundreds of people prefer to buy their radios here where they can be absolutely assured not only of their quality but also of Lyon & Healy service. Lyon & Healy is headquarters for the instruments of the Radio Corporation of America.

[10] "Everything Known in Music" is surely a phrase accurately describing Lyon & Healy's.

Offering wonderful bargains in good instruments taken in exchange for Steinways, Duo-Arts, and other excellent pianos sold by Lyon & Healy

WITH the opening of this new Basement Store comes the opening of this wonderful annual event that has become so justly famous throughout Chicago. It offers remarkable opportunity to buy good pianos at very, very greatly reduced prices.

In this great sale of the year Lyon & Healy offer the pianos that have been taken from Chicago's finest homes as part payment for Steinways, Lyon & Healys, Duo-Arts, and other excellent pianos. These good pianos have been marked at prices that will move them fast—very fast.

Many kinds of pianos are in the sale. And, of course, some of the very extraordinary values will go fast, so it will pay you to come early.

Remember—the used pianos you'll find in this new Lyon & Healy Basement Store come from the finest homes in Chicago and vicinity. A used Lyon & Healy grand piano, for example, that will be sold tomorrow at $695, has been for three years in a home that is always immaculate—a home that has given this piano the same watchful care which it has given its furniture, its floors and walls and its garden. Second-hand pianos here—yes, but from what careful hands!

What would I give up for the sake of price?

For years I have owned motor cars; but for three months, now, I have been driving a beautiful Hupmobile Eight.

Those three months have afforded the most illuminating experience of all that I've had with all kinds of cars—and it has set me to thinking.

First, I wonder how and why I waited as long as I did before buying this car; and I wonder how many others still fail to realize what my experience has shown me.

And then I ask myself what I would be willing to give up, of all the special and particular advantages I get in this wonderful straight eight, for the sake of a price.

Perhaps I can answer the first question myself; but I simply can't find anything like a satisfactory answer to the second.

And it strikes me that every buyer must face that question.

For myself, I know now, with all the certainty of a seasoned car-owner, that the Hupmobile Eight is simply the greatest motor car and the greatest motor car value that I have ever encountered.

And by that I mean regardless of price, or size, or type. First and last, that is the way this Hupmobile impresses me, now that I have come to know it well.

I could have bought a mighty good six, or even some other kind of an eight, for less than I paid for this Hupmobile. But I'm sure I wouldn't have saved a thing.

Or put it the other way around. I could have paid more for either a six or an eight. But that would have been sheer extravagance, for I couldn't have got any more.

Furthermore, would either of these two propositions give me the almost unbelievable gas mileage I'm getting? I think I can safely say no to that.

Would either of them give me the magnificent smoothness of this straight-eight engine, with its 99-pound crankshaft and its special airplane valves? I wouldn't make the exchange.

I understand the way the Hupmobile is engineered and manufactured. I have been told how cautiously and scrupulously the engineers prove out ideas and principles; how rigidly the finest manufacturing ideals are enforced in the shops; and how completely the Hupmobile is manufactured—not merely assembled—in its own great plants.

Others probably try to be as thorough and watchful, but I'm more than satisfied that the results I'm getting come altogether from the finer kind of engineering and manufacturing which Hupmobile has been doing for years.

Would I now trade Hupmobile reliability—bred-in and built-in and improved upon for almost 20 years—for something less certain and less positive? Or for a car that I would have to take in for adjustments and tinkering every few weeks or so? I would not!

I just couldn't and wouldn't give up that magnificent second-gear pick-up of mine, which leaves everything else behind in half a block, for something less trigger-quick or less sure and powerful; nor the way that car rides regardless of the road.

As I said before, I can't find the answer to that second question.

There simply isn't any, so far as I am able to make out from my own experience and the experience of the people I know.

I don't want anything less than an eight. And I don't want any eight, except this modern, down-to-the-minute conception and expression of the straight eight, with an engine as short and compact as a six, and the quickest and smoothest and snappiest I've ever driven.

Of course, I can see many justifications for different types of cars. The man who wants a car of medium price is entitled to the best he can get at that price.

But how a man can justify a price higher than this Eight, without getting its magnificent performance, is more than I can see.

For the kind of performance I want, on the basis of the economy I demand, I've found only in the Hupmobile Eight.

So I want this particular eight over and above anything else on wheels.

Because I'm sure that I've got the greatest motor car value I could buy for ANY amount of money.

Express Train Dependability

Hupmobile Six Built to same High Standards as Costliest Cars

Certainly no car at its price—or within five hundred dollars of its price—compares with the Hupmobile.

But its ability to perform and to out-perform is not the most remarkable feature of this great car.

Underlying the public's admiration for this big, beautiful, full-size Hupmobile Six, is the deep-seated respect of the average American for Hupmobile's traditional dependability.

Hupmobile pays millions of dollars more each year to make its Six one of the most dependable of all six-cylinder cars.

These extra millions show in far finer workmanship, in far more thorough inspection, in better steels and in the long life and low maintenance costs which are the natural result of such qualities.

For 18 years Hupmobile has built to standards comparable to those in the field of highest priced cars.

Never for a single moment has it deviated by so much as a hair's breadth from the most rigid requirements.

It sets up the highest standards—and then makes sure that those standards are strictly adhered to.

Hupmobile could follow ordinary practices in building its Six, and it would still be one of the foremost cars in America from the standpoint of acceleration, of comfort, of steering and riding ease, of roadability.

But it would not stand up as well. It would lack that surpassing smoothness, that wonderful dependability, that ability to stay away from the repair shop months on end, which make the Hupmobile Six the great car it is.

The extra precautions that Hupmobile takes to insure Hupmobile quality saves the owner of a Hupmobile Six many times the additional cost.

And it pays Hupmobile. For the brilliant success everywhere of the Hupmobile Six is directly due to Hupmobile reputation—a good name and a public confidence founded upon Hupmobile's high manufacturing standards.

The Hupmobile Six owner will tell you that his cost of maintenance is so low as to be almost negligible.

He will tell you that he can set out on a tour of a hundred, or a thousand, or ten thousand miles, with the complete assurance that his journey will be unmarred by mechanical trouble or annoyance.

For you can drive this Hupmobile Six at express train speed, from sunrise to sunset, in the comforting knowledge that it is engineered and constructed to give such service easily, smoothly and without straining.

In performance, in completeness of appointment, in beauty and comfort, as well as the more substantial Hupmobile qualities, this Six ranks in the forefront of fine American cars.

Challenge the Hupmobile Six to any test you desire in city or country driving. Drive it unsparingly for months and years. Then compare operating costs with any car you have ever owned.

For this in substance is what Hupmobile Six offers—year after year of carefree driving at minimum expense—remarkable performance undimmed by long mileage—and the unfailing reliability that makes Hupmobile the outstanding transportation value in its price field.

Hupmobile Six a Leader, Also, in Complete, Modern Equipment

What goes into a motor car is vastly more important than what goes on it. You will not buy, of course, on mere externals and non-essentials, but on proven performance, dependability, long life, and low cost of maintenance. To superiority in these fundamentals, however, the Hupmobile Six also joins the latest and most complete equipment to be found on any car in its price class.

1. Oil filter
2. Gasoline filter—low gasoline consumption
3. Thermostatic heat control
4. Snubbers
5. Vision-ventilating windshield
6. Dash gasoline gauge
7. Clear vision bodies
8. Color options—Mohair upholstery in latest mode
9. Walnut grained panels on instrument board and window ledges
10. 4-wheel brakes
11. Special vibration damper
12. Headlights with tilting beam lenses and double filament bulbs

COLLINS BACKS TRIP TO STUDY POLICE IN EUROPE

Learn Scientific Methods of Crime Control.

A proposal that a party of Chicago officials visit the police departments of European cities to study their methods of dealing with crime and criminals met the hearty approval yesterday of Chief Morgan A. Collins.

"I think it is a splendid idea," said the chief. "Although a junket by a big delegation would probably be costly and accomplish little, a thorough scientific survey by a few competent police officials, I believe, would be of great value."

The interim of such a trip, it is suggested, should include an inspection of Scotland Yard in London and the corresponding crime agencies in Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome and other cities. The study would also go into court procedure, punishments, paroles and prison management.

Swift Justice in Europe.

"The skill and efficiency of European experts in certain lines of crime and the speedy work of European courts is traditional," Chief Collins said. "There is no doubt that some of their methods could well be applied to Chicago."

It must be remembered, however, he pointed out, that the problems of American police are in many respects vastly different from those of Europe and of a nature that the European bobbies and gendarmes would be entirely unable to cope with.

"Over here we have our prosperous, restless cities with their cosmopolitan populations, always growing, shifting, and in a state of more or less confusion," the chief continued. "The result is crimes of violence unknown to the old world.

"We also have ten times as many automobiles as Europe, which gives us a new kind of crime that is forcing our police departments to motorize. And then there is prohibition with its feuds and gang killings."

Police Getting Grip on Crime.

As an example of the benefits derived from an exchange of ideas between the police of different cities, Chief Collins cited the recent convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police here. Similar cooperation with foreign police would furnish fresh ideas, he believes.

Discussing the Chicago crime situation, the chief declared that the police are gradually getting a strangle hold on the bootleg gangs. He said the jailing of "Polack" Joe Saltis and Frank McErlane has sent a tremor of fear throughout the underworld.

"With these two chieftains on the way to prison or the rope, confusion has been thrown into the gang haunts," he said. "And if they blow off the lid and start to talk there is going to be a lot more confusion."

Three things usually happen when a leader is captured, according to the chief. Many of the gangsters flee from the city, attempts are made to force those in political power to the front for them, and there are fights for control among his lieutenants and henchmen.

The recent bombings and the outbreaks of shooting in Chicago Heights and other suburbs are evidences of what is happening as a result of the Saltis and McErlane captures, he explained. Feuds and counter feuds within the gangs plus the rivalries with other gangs has fanned the situation to a white heat.

FAILS TO PROSECUTE COP.

Policeman Albert Fiehl of the Town Hall station was discharged yesterday when he was arraigned on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. His arrest was caused by Mrs. Sophie E. Cowles, 6311 Kenmore avenue, president of the Women's Association of Commerce, when the machine in which she was riding collided with that of Fiehl's. Mrs. Cowles failed to prosecute.

BUILDING GOES ON ALL OVER U. S. AT RECORD PACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Construction work is keeping abreast of the records set in 1925, the greatest building year in the history of the country. Statistics compiled by the Associated General Contractors of America show that the total volume of operations during the first eight months of 1926 was three per cent larger than the total in the corresponding period of last year.

The margin over last year's figures was somewhat reduced during August, when the total for the month dropped six per cent below the figure set in July. This loss was compensated largely by the mass of work handled during July, when the previous "single month record" was broken.

The volume of operations recorded for August has been exceeded in only five months:

July, August and September, 1925, and June and July, 1926.

The peak of operations last year was not reached until September.

The index number for August of this year, based on the average volume of construction in 1913, as 100, was 215. The July index number was 228.

London to Do "Mikado" in Oriental Oxford Bags

LONDON, Sept. 11. — (AP) — Encouraged, perhaps by the success of a modern dress "Hamlet," London proposes to do the "Mikado" in Oxford bags. The new scenery and dresses, which include a species of Oriental Oxford bags to be worn by the male members of the chorus, have been designed by Charles Richetts, who did the decorations and dress for "St. Joan" and "Henry VIII.," recently produced by Sybil Thorndike.

CONFIDENCE

Have you ever thought what a wonderful thing confidence is—that confidence which is the basis of so much that is fine in this old world of ours? There never was a true friendship that did not have it as a basic element. The continuation of confidence enables friendship to last over many years.

It is the same way in business. A reputable house not only finds customers but makes them into and keeps them as friends. The basis of the relationship is confidence. You know how much more satisfaction and pleasure is to be derived from an article purchased where you have confidence.

Then why not trade at such a store?

PSEUDO COPPER IS SENTENCED TO POLISH HARNESS

As punishment for the offense of running as a "ringer" in the police athletic meet at Ogden park Friday, Herman Horowitz, 20 years old, former high school track star, was yesterday sentenced to polish 25 saddles and bridles at the traffic squad barns by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt in the South Clark street court.

The youth, who ran numerous laps ahead of the traffic team in the mile relay race, which he won as a member of the Summerdale team, committed the "most heinous crime that had come to his attention since he occupied the bench," Judge Eberhardt proclaimed as he pronounced sentence with a twinkle in his eye.

Sergt. Fred W. Salter of the Summerdale station, who was charged with inducing the former Marshall high school star to enter the races when he found one of his own men absent, was himself subjected to strenuous punishment by the court by being ordered to remain away from a children's Halloween party when that season came around, which sentence the officer took with a grin.

Before the hearing, however, he had been ordered suspended by Chief Collins pending an investigation.

Capt. Patrick E. Hogan, commander of the traffic division, appeared as principal witness against Horowitz and told of noticing how fast the boy had run the 220 yard dash, "faster than any policeman should have run it," and how, later, he had shown much the cleanest pair of heels that entered in the mile relay.

His suspicions aroused, Capt. Hogan followed the wildly cheering Summerdale team to the locker room and sought to question their star, and on receiving no response, placed the boy under arrest. Investigation revealed his identity.

"The traffic division, however, recognizes no superiors in the department," the captain concluded his recital.

"Im backing your division in any game—standing or sitting," the judge rejoined.

Sentence was then pronounced, and the charge that Horowitz had impersonated an officer was dropped when Sergt. Salter explained that he did not wear the uniform and badge of a policeman at the races, but only a track suit.

A WEDDING RIDE JUST LIKE DAD'S

SON OF FLOUR MERCHANT, WED, GETS BUGGY RIDE

"Thanks for the buggy ride," waved Milton Reese of 2810 Warren avenue to his bride of a little more than an hour, as they dismounted from an ancient brougham in which relatives and friends compelled them to ride after the wedding service yesterday afternoon at Resurrection church, 5100 West Jackson boulevard.

The equippage, which was distinctly the thing of two decades ago, had been in the possession of the Reese family since.

Milton Reese is the son of Nelson K. Reese, wholesale flour merchant. His bride was Miss Mary Colfer of 5539 West Van Buren street. Mr. and Mrs. Reese have gone to California on their wedding journey.

G. A. R. TO VOTE ON DISBANDMENT AT 60TH REUNION

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 11.—[United Press.]—Because of the fast thinning ranks and increasing superannuation of the heroic survivors of the Grand Army of the Republic, three of its national past commanders will serve as a committee to report on plans for the final disbandment of that old body, and the disposition of its funds and records, at the coming sixtieth national encampment here, Sept. 19-24, it is announced.

The committee is composed of Ex-Gov. Samuel R. Van Sant of Minnesota, Lewis Pilcher of New York, and Corp. James Tanner of the District of Columbia, all past G. A. R. commanders. These three old warriors have expressed their hope that the patriotic program of their auxiliary, the women's relief corps, may go on forever. The G. A. R. will be asked to vote on the disintegration plans as a group.

BANK OFFICIAL, ATTORNEY FINED IN ASSAULT CASE

Joseph Krause, vice president of the West Central State bank, Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue, and Attorney Frank Goldberg, Oak Park, were each fined $100 and costs by Judge Frank McKee in Oak Park court yesterday afternoon when the two were found guilty of assaulting Mason Bromberg, 115 Harrison street, Oak Park, on the night of July 10. Abe Krause, brother of Joseph, also sought in connection with the attack, escaped at the time and has eluded arrest. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Matousek prosecuted the case.

According to Bromberg he was attacked by the trio following an argument over financial transactions.

ARREST DANCE HALL MAN.

Stanley Prisema, proprietor of a small dance hall at 1618 West 17th street, was arrested yesterday by government agents after they had purchased a drink of moonshine from him.

JAMES HAS HIS FLING; WORRIES HOW TO GET BACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 11.—James Hildreth, Chicago barber, saved his money and his life for one grand fling in Europe. He left Chicago June 26 on the Century limited in a drawing room and crossed the Atlantic in a de luxe suite on the liner Paris. Since then he has been seeing the continent from the windows of the costliest tourist trains and has lived at the grandest hotels.

Mr. Hildreth finally returned to Paris with his last $500, ready to buy a ticket for home and his job in the basement of one of the lakeside hotels. While he was leaning on the counter in the steamship office dickering for a $400 ticket, a smart young man next to him picked his pocket and walked out.

Mr. Hildreth is not kicking about the accommodations in the Salvation Army home in Paris, but is wondering how soon the American Aid society will get around to him.

Curtains Furniture Rugs

THERE is little time left to dispose of these great stocks of furniture and greater reductions have been made to insure clearing our floors. Nothing will be moved to the new store that can be moved by price reductions.

Everyone should take advantage of the remarkable bargains offered in this sale, for such opportunities come but once in a lifetime.

In an event of this kind of course many items are listed of which there is only one sample, so everything quoted is subject to prior sale.

We ask that our customers be sure of their selections before placing their orders, for we will be unable, during this period, to accept cancellations or send furniture on approval.

NEW ANTI-SMOKE DRIVE STARTS AS SOOT INCREASES

Bundesen Acts to Prosecute All Violators.

Stirred to action by the pall of soot produced by the first touch of cool weather, Health Commissioner Bundesen issued orders yesterday for a vigorous renewal of the drive to enforce the smoke ordinance.

Every ounce of energy the health department can muster will be thrown into the campaign this winter, the commissioner declared. The time for gentle persuasion is past, he stated, and from now on violaters will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

"Each year the health department undertakes one big public service," Dr. Bundesen explained. "In 1923 it was to wipe out venereal disease, in 1924 to clean up the water, in 1925 to purify the milk supply, and this year to save babies.

Concentrate on Smoke Fight.

"This fall and next year we are concentrating everything on the smoke fight, and we are going through with it. There's nothing pleasant about pulling fires and bringing people into court, but I intend to clean the soot and cinders out of Chicago's air if it's the last thing I do while I am in office."

As the first step in the new campaign, the city is being divided into twenty districts, each one to be in charge of a smoke engineer commissioned with police power to enforce Bundesen's orders. Heretofore there have been but six districts, giving one man too much territory to cover effectively.

The engineers are now engaged in a canvass of their territories, visiting the owners and janitors of factories, garages, apartment houses, and other buildings, inspecting their furnaces and warning them to be prepared to fire smokelessly when the heating season sets in.

Violators Being Watched.

Each of the engineers has a record of all the former violators in his district and is giving them special attention. The Chicago real estate board also has been asked to send out warnings to the landlords and janitors under its jurisdiction.

"Smoking under the ordinance is allowed only when a fire is being started or cleaned, and then for only six minutes in an hour," Frank A. Chambers, head of the smoke abatement division, explained. "There is a mistaken idea that a chimney can smoke six minutes during each hour of the day.

"That is going to cause a good many arrests. Smoking in any degree, except for the two specific purposes, is illegal, and the law will be strictly enforced accordingly."

Warrant for Dredge Owners.

Conferring with Mr. Chambers yesterday, Dr. Bundesen took up the case against the Central Dredging company, charged with permitting smoke to belch out of its dredges at work filling in new land along the south park lake front.

Although the dredges are equipped with anti-smoke equipment, it is not being used. The owners, according to Mr. Chambers, contend that the dredges are not within the city limits and hence immune from the ordinance.

Warrants were served two weeks ago and the case is set for 11 a. m. Wednesday before Municipal Judge Frank Padden. City Attorney Samuel Pincus will represent the health department.

A defeat in this case, Dr. Bundesen explained, would be a heavy blow at the department, as dredges, derricks, tugs, and sandboats engaged in the new land work are among the worst of the smoke offenders.

Simplified Spelling Move Leader Attempts Suicide

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Abram Gideon, for many years identified with the simplified spelling movement and who, according to police, attempted suicide today, will recover, physicians said tonight. Dr. Gideon was found in the bathroom of his home bleeding from slashes about the throat which police said were inflicted with a razor.

POO-E-Y! POO-E-Y! PIG CALLERS AT YARDS IN ACTION

Long drawn out vocal blasts that might have been heard for a mile or more on a quiet countryside echoed through the stockyards yesterday as the city's first official hog-calling contest got under way. The trials were preliminary to the final competition which will be held next Saturday in the forest preserve under the auspices of alumni of the Iowa Agricultural college at Ames.

When R. G. Pollock, general manager of the national live stock and meat board, stretched his 6 feet 6 inches of frame and opened wide his mouth, his "Poo-e-y" was heard as far west as Crawford avenue, according to some reports. And the bellows from other contestants vied with noises in the loop, it was said by some of their enthusiastic backers.

Some of those who participated in the trials were Mort Goodwin of the Breeders' Gazette, L. E. Troeger, managing editor of the Drovers' Journal; W. K. McKee, live stock commissioner of the national live stock exchange; G. L. Seaton of the Bell Telephone company, and P. A. Patter of the National Dairy council.

Indian Princes Combine to Break U. S. Movie Trade

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Sunday Express announces that six Indian princes have combined in a scheme to spend £1,000,000 (about $5,000,000) to promote British films in India in an endeavor to break the American grip on the movies. The princes concerned are Prince Aga Khan and the Maharajahs of Alwar, Patiala, Bikaner, Jaipur, and Kashmir.

FLOOD DROWNS 100 SHEEP.

Paris, Ill., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—During the last flood which swept southeastern Illinois, more than 100 fine sheep were drowned at the Moore farm near Humboldt, in Coles county.

ATTACK TRIBUNE FOR CHARGES ON WAR TRANSPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 11.—An attack is made upon THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE this morning by the Cape Times because of revelations made regarding the lack of transport for American troops during the war. A long leading article states:

"THE TRIBUNE has the questionable distinction of having unearthed a novel and, we must say, nauseating explanation of the time which the American troops took to reach the fighting line. According to THE TRIBUNE, the United States wanted to send troops to France months before they actually arrived, and the obstacle was that during the first months after America came in Great Britain refused to provide transports.

"But THE TRIBUNE has measured the importance of America," concludes the article, "and in justice to many Americans who had that attitude, we may add that they would certainly detest as much as we do the suggestion that Great Britain can be saddled with the blame for having inflicted upon the United States a larger loss in war casualties than her armies in Europe would otherwise have sustained."

College Romance Results in Marriage of Illinois Pair

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A romance that began at the University of Illinois when both were students there resulted today in the marriage of Hans L. Andersen, 403 Barry avenue, Chicago, and Miss Elsie T. Spear of Sterling, Ill. Mr. Andersen is a veteran of the world war. He was severely wounded at Soissons.

Come to the North American—particularly when hungry for steak or fish

Steak Dinner 65c

You won't get a thin "sliver" but a real steak—big enough for two people—and with it is included a portion of French fried potatoes and tomato salad. Try it once and you'll agree you can't get any finer steak combination no matter how much more you pay.

Whitefish Dinner 65c

Consisting of broiled jumbo Whitefish, French fried potatoes and lettuce with thousand island dressing. For each order we broil a full pound of raw fish—so you will realize that the portion is a liberal one.

Please remember that the only difference between the North American and the most expensive restaurants and hotels is a price difference of approximately one-half in favor of the North American. Here you get the finest quality food that can be had: You dine at your own table which, of course, is covered with spotless white linen. But you "serve yourself." The result is that we don't need to add anything to our prices to cover waiter's salaries so we can give you big portions of the finest food for just about half what "service" restaurants must charge.

And these are only two examples of the amazing food values you get here, some of our other popular items being:

Combination Salad: with French, Thousand Island or Mayonnaise dressing . 35c

Cold Pot Roast: with potato salad . . . 40c

Cold Beef Tongue: with potato salad . . . 50c

[The portions are big enough for two people]

Filet of Sole: 2 big pieces, with delicious Tartar Sauce 50c

Fried Chicken: Premium chicken with bacon and cream gravy or giblet sauce. Dark meat . . 55c

White meat 65c

And for Breakfast:—

Honey Waffles: With 3 strips of bacon or Mickelberry's Old Farm Sausage, butter and pure maple sap or honey 30c

Bacon and Eggs: Two fresh eggs, fried in butter and 4 strips of bacon 35c

ALDERMEN HEAR HARLAN TRANSIT OFFER TOMORROW

Bankers Here May Question N. Y. Financier.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago bankers and Mayor Dever are expected to attend the meeting of the council local transportation committee tomorrow afternoon when Attorney John Maynard Harlan and his New York bankers present their transit plan and plea for a franchise. The identity of his bankers has been concealed by Mr. Harlan, but he has repeatedly promised they will appear in person tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Harlan has invited Chicago bankers, transit chiefs and their attorneys to ask all the questions they desire of the New York bankers; and the aldermen will urge that the invitation be accepted.

Bankers Urged to Attend.

"In view of Mr. Harlan's invitation, it is not only appropriate but essential, in my opinion, that the Chicago bankers at this meeting develop any flaws there may be in the financial plan of the New York bankers," said Chairman Joseph McDonough yesterday. "The opportunity has been given the Chicago bankers to discuss publicly the New York bankers' plan at a place where a public record will be made and before a committee that will give every one a fair hearing. If we do not get through Monday afternoon, we can continue Tuesday, Wednesday, and later to have a complete discussion, if necessary.

"I personally think that the Chicago bankers should be willing to answer questions of the New York bankers on transportation, which should come after the Chicago bankers have finished interrogating the New York bankers. Possibly the aldermen will get some information of value."

Mayor Dever also held that he might pick up some new viewpoints. That is the reason, he said, that he intended to attend the session. The mayor has not yet been present at any conference between the Chicago bankers, transit representatives and the committee and he has commented unfavorably upon the rate of return suggested by the Chicago bankers for the new franchise.

Harlan Proposes 20 Year Law.

The Harlan proposal is to accept a 20 year franchise at once, later accepting a terminable permit when the city so desires after it is legally enabled to grant one. In place of the present securities outstanding Mr. Harlan proposes to issue new securities; and for new money to make extensions, say between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000, he would issue first mortgage securities and promise to amortize these within a 20 year period.

Chicago bankers have said that on such favorable terms the money could be obtained anywhere, any time of any one. To which Mr. Harlan has intimated that all of his plan has not been disclosed.

HELD AS SWINDLER

COP ACCUSED OF BEATING PILOT IN AIRPLANE FEUD

Sergt. Carl Sutherland of River Forest was arrested yesterday by the Elmhurst police and charged with assault with a deadly weapon. His bond was fixed at $1,000. His arrest followed the beating he and Forrest Yager are alleged to have given Joseph James, aviator and former army pilot. Sutherland and Yager are joint owners of an airplane. Their machine fell last Sunday, killing a passenger. Sutherland charged James with telling the newspapers that their machine was a "pile of junk."

Quake Rocks Java Cities; Residents Flee in Panic

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 11.—[U. P.]—Middle and eastern Java was shaken by a violent earthquake which destroyed many houses yesterday, according to reports from Batavia. Residents of Bjokjokarta, where the quake appears to have centered, fled in panic.

DR. FOSBERG HELD ON $15,000 BOND IN SWINDLE CASE

Three Others Also Await Grand Jury Action.

Dr. George E. Fosberg, south side physician, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 yesterday after he and three companions, one a woman, waived preliminary examination when arraigned on charges of swindling three Chicago banks before Judge Max Luster in the South Chicago court. Fosberg is accused of being in a ring which has defrauded banks out of $500,000 by obtaining loans on fake stock certificates.

Richard J. Roberts, his wife, Agnes, and her brother, Clarence Hansen, all living at 9128 Commercial avenue, were arraigned with Fosberg.

Raised Certificates, Is Charge.

According to the state's attorney's office, Dr. Fosberg's ring made a practice of raising stock certificates to many times their declared value and placing them as loan collateral.

When examination was waived by Attorney Clarence Toolen, their counsel, Judge Luster fixed the physician's bond at $50,000.

Lawyer Wins Reduction.

Asking a reduction of this amount the lawyer told the court that Fosberg had saved both his and his wife's lives when he attended them recently, the judge lowered his bond to $15,000. Hansen was held in $7,500 bond and Roberts and his wife $5,000 each.

Fosberg was called as a witness in the trial of William Darling Shepherd, at which he was acquitted of the murder of his ward, William Nelson McClintock.

MOTOR BUSSES COST ERIE R. R. MILLION A YEAR

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Competition by motor busses carrying commuters to and from New Jersey towns to this city causes the Erie railroad and its subsidiaries a loss of more than a million dollars a year, officials of the road told the interstate commerce commission today.

The figures were presented at a meeting of railroad officials and commissioners to discuss the need of federal control over motor transportation. Immediate action was urged by the Erie officials, who declared that with the completion of the New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnel the railroad would suffer still greater losses.

KILLED WHEN AUTO GOES IN LAKE.

Birchwood, Wis., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Edwin Johnson, 50, overseas veteran, was killed here last night when his automobile plunged from the road into Lake Chetac. His body was found this morning.

GEM SALESMAN TO FACE $500,000 ROBBERY TRIAL

Robbery charges were made yesterday against Irving Hornstein, 36 years old, a jewelry salesman with offices at 31 North State street. He had been named as the man who furnished information to three bandits resulting in a $500,000 diamond holdup on the Illinois Central railroad train at Champaign, Ill., Wednesday night.

The bandits, who were captured twelve hours after the robbery, made confessions involving Hornstein. They said he had accompanied them to the railroad station and pointed out the jewelers who were taking a fortune in cut stones to New Orleans.

The state's attorney at Urbana, Ill., said the law regards Hornstein as equally guilty with the others—if he did in fact conspire with them to have the robbery committed—and an indictment will be voted against him there, even though he did not leave Cook county.

Standardized Quality
makes FINER PERFORMANCE and LONGER LIFE Mechanically Inevitable
in the CHRYSLER "60"

You can readily recognize that it would hardly be reasonable to expect the performance and endurance qualities of the lighter, lower-priced six, Chrysler "60" in cars produced under old traditions of engineering and old standards of manufacture.

For the Chrysler "60" is the product of Standardized Quality—a new and higher order of manufacture which actually makes any deviation from its exacting and superior standards mechanically impossible.

Obviously, because the Chrysler "60" is a car produced under such a plan, quality is built in and the Chrysler "60" must therefore also stand up immeasurably better under the strain of hard service.

Sixty miles, and more, per hour; get-away of 5 to 25 miles in 7¾ seconds; gas economy of 22 miles and more per gallon; characteristic Chrysler beauty; astonishing riding ease and roadability; the safety of Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes; oil-filter and air-cleaner; full pressure lubrication; seven-bearing crankshaft; impulse neutralizer; road levelizers front and rear; roomy, luxurious bodies.

Come in and see the new lighter six, Chrysler "60". Drive it—get the thrill of its smooth performance and comfort, then compare it with any low-priced lighter six-cylinder of ordinary manufacture. We are confident you'll be convinced that nowhere will you find a six at its price that can begin to compare with this great Chrysler achievement.

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax.

Superior Performance Results from Superior Manufacturing

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, and is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

CHARITIES SEEK $100,000 FROM TAGS TOMORROW

Chicago is going to "have a heart" tomorrow, to the tune of perhaps $100,000.

Armed with copious supplies of heart-shaped tags, contribution boxes, and their most engaging smiles, 4,000 women and girls will be on the job at sunup in an endeavor to raise $100,000 in their one day's sale for the benefit of the Federated Charities of Chicago. The amount is larger than has ever before been accumulated for the organization in its annual tag day, one of three bearing the endorsement of the city council.

Thirty-five "institutions in Chicago are members of the association, including in their work the care of dependents from infancy to old age, of all races and religions. One hundred workers are furnished by each charity, the collections of these workers being returned to the institution for which they are tagging.

Mrs. Reinecke to Tag.

Mrs. Mabel C. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, will be among the army of taggers, who will be under the supervision of Miss L. Ellen Babcock, president of the Federated Charities, and her corps of assistants.

Crippled children, deserted babies, helpless old men and women, too old and tired to support themselves any longer, are the beneficiaries of the day's tags, which in many cases will provide the entire support of the institutions for another 365 days. Tomorrow will be Chicago's one day in the year to be mindful of these needy ones.

These charities are members of the association: American Ladies' Aid society, "B" Friendly Aid society, Chicago Industrial Home for Children, Chicago Junior School and Home, Chicago Ladies' Aid society, Chicago Practicing Charity Society, Chicago Consumptive Aid society, Chicago Osteopathic Free clinic, Central Howard association, Daughters of Jacob S. S. Day nursery, German Evangelical Orphan and Old People's home, Good Will Workers, Hebrew Workers' Ladies' Charity society, Independent Sisters of Charity.

All Approved by A. of C.

Others are the Juvenile Service league, Lawndale Ladies' Aid society, Life Boat Rescue home, Little Wanderers' association, Lutheran Deaconess Home and Hospital, Lydia Home association, Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children, Maywood Home for Soldiers' Widows, Mercy Free Dispensary, Morgan Park Industrial School for Girls, Mother's Relief association, Northwest Side Sisters of Charity, Oak Haven Old People's Home, Protestant Children's Aid society, Protestant Women's National association, Protestant Women's Service club, Rest Haven, Sisters of the Helping Hand, United Sisters of Charity, Wendell Phillips Day nursery, and the West Suburban Community Service guild.

All of the institutions mentioned are endorsed by the subscriptions investigating committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. In order to obtain membership in the federation, it is required that the institutions be strictly charitable, show a deficit of $100 a month or $1,200 a year, and abide by all requirements of the association.

SCHOOL WORK BY RADIO URGED BEFORE TEACHERS

Plans to incorporate the use of radio instruction in the curriculum of schools were considered at the meeting yesterday of the board of directors of the Illinois State Teacher's association, of the Illinois council of Parent-Teacher association and of the Radio Broadcaster's association at the Hotel La Salle.

R. R. Smith, faculty member of the Chicago Normal college, presented practical plans for the use of the radio in twenty courses which he outlined. Mr. Smith said in recommending the radio:

"Aside from the practical possibilities of the radio in this field, I believe it can also be made the medium by which our national holidays can be made great days, days to be enjoyed instead of endured as they so often are at present."

VACCINATE FOR TYPHOID.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 11.—(AP)—All employés of a Moline laundry were ordered vaccinated by the board of health today as a preventative measure against typhoid.

GIRL QUIZZED ON STORY OF PLOT TO KILL LIEUT. EGAN

Bessie Block, manicurist living at the Sheldrake hotel, 4518 Clarendon avenue, was taken to the detective bureau last night and questioned concerning an attempt which was to be made on the life of Lieut. Charles Egan. The girl was said to have been recently at the home of Mrs. Elsie Barndt in Detroit, and while a party was in progress was said to have remarked to Mrs. Barndt:

"You'll be attending a funeral soon. The boys down in Chicago are going to get your friend, Charley Egan. They are going to take him for a ride and knock him off."

Lieut. Egan said he brought the girl into the bureau to make it a matter of police record. The girl denied the story, but admitted being in Detroit. He released the Block girl until Mrs. Barndt and another woman said to have heard the remark of the girl come to Chicago to verify it.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kernan, 50 years old, 15 North Leclaire avenue, died yesterday from injuries she received when she fell from the rear porch of her home several days ago.

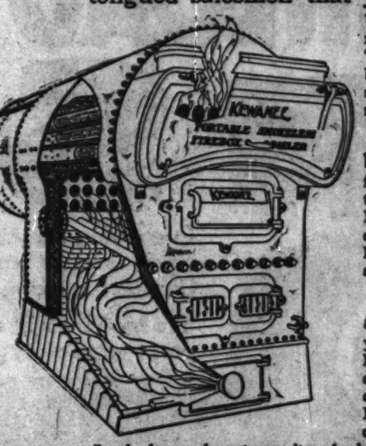
KEWANEE

When Burning Oil Circulation is Vital

All over this great land today many buildings, equipped with Kewanee All-Steel (riveted) Firebox boilers, are using oil for fuel. Occasionally, because of conditions in the fuel market, they go back to coal.

And that's where the all-around excellence of the Kewanee Boiler comes in. You can burn any kind of fuel you like, whenever you like, and take full advantage of the fluctuations in fuel cost.

The statement, often made by loose-tongued salesmen that you must have a special type of boiler to burn oil, is nothing but green-eyed hokum. The right kind of heating boiler which burns coal successfully, will burn oil successfully. Oil is liquid coal and it makes the same heat that coal makes.



The reason why some boilers will not burn oil successfully is that they won't burn anything well. But with the Kewanee Boiler, you can switch from coal to oil, and back again, as often as you like, and you won't have to make any change in the boiler.

But above all, remember this: When burning oil for fuel, you've got to have first-class circulation. THIS IS POSITIVE. And one of the dominating characteristics of the Kewanee All-Steel (riveted) Firebox Boiler is its matchless circulation. Ask any man who knows oil, who knows how to use it and who is burning it in Kewanee Boilers.

To burn oil efficiently, without letting most of the heat escape up the chimney, takes a well-designed boiler with a proper-size firebox to insure complete combustion. Not only that, but it also has the proper heating surface so that the products of combustion, or hot gases, can quickly impart their intense heat to the water in the boiler.

A Kewanee Smokeless Steel (riveted) Boiler not only has this necessary firebox space and heating surface so arranged as to extract the most of the heat from the gases, but it has one feature which distinguishes it from every ordinary boiler. Here's where circulation heads in at. Now the water tube grate and header is built into Kewanee Smokeless Boilers in the high temperature zone of the firebox directly above the oil burner. The pumping action furnished by the rapid formation of steam in these tubes causes forced circulation of the whole large waterways, this circulation sweeps the steam bubbles from the heating surfaces and thus maintains the most effective condition for the transfer of heat.

Ask our local representatives, or write to the factory direct if you wish, for records of Kewanee Smokeless Firebox Boilers burning oil. It pays you golden dollars to be thoroughly informed.

2 SERVING DIET SENTENCES ARE PUT IN ONE CELL

Second Man Watches for Appendicitis in First.

Tekamah, Neb., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Roy Carson and Thomas Nelson, farmer liquor law violators and central figures in the fight against County Judge Orville Chatt's diet sentences, tonight were confined in the same cell of the Burt county jail and served the same food—bread and water.

Nelson, who is 50 and a widower with three children, was placed in Carson's cell. Carson asked for company, saying he feared an acute appendicitis attack. Carson is on his fourth day sentence, which, like Nelson's, calls for sixty days in jail, the first and last twenty of which must be served on the bread and water diet.

Carson, who is 35, weighed 119 pounds, as compared to the 123 pounds when he began his sentence, according to Dr. I. Lukens.

The first meal of bread and water was refused by Nelson. He said he had eaten a hearty breakfast and lunch and wasn't hungry. Nelson has said he "cannot see how I can survive this diet, as I am a heavy eater."

Clarence Darrow, Chicago, has telegraphed Hunter from Greeley, Colo., expressing his desire to aid in fighting the sentences after Oct. 1.

Another tirade against his jurist brother for imposing the sentences was made by J. H. Chatt in answer to Judge Chatt's question at Rochester, Minn., asking why his brother had become interested in the case.

"When a judge will give a man a sentence for having a little liquor it is time all men took a hand in the deal," he said.

Chicago Workingmen to Buy Washington Apples

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Between 3,000 and 4,000 cars of Washington apples will be marketed in Chicago and the middle west this fall through the cooperation of organized union labor in that section and the Farmers' union of Washington. Use of the Farmers' union national label on each box of apples grown by Washington members has been granted.

GOTHAM POLICE START WAR ON NOISY AUTOISTS

New York, N. Y., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—New York City is to have a special squad of seventy-five police whose sole job, for ten days starting Oct. 1, will be fighting unnecessary noises in hospital streets.

It is the first drastic step to be taken by the police department, in spite of the fact that medical authorities and hospital officials have repeatedly warned that the increasing uncontrolled din in the hospital streets of New York is now a serious handicap to the sick patients.

"We are going to make it a vigorous drive," Inspector W. A. Coleman said today, "and I will authorize my men to give summonses right and left until a real impression is made. There will probably be more tickets written in these ten days for violations of the unnecessary noise ordinances than ever before."

IT WAS FEE, NOT BRIBE, WILL BE DAUGHERTY PLEA

Defense to Admit Merton Gave King $441,000.

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The booming of the big legal guns was silenced today in the Daugherty trial and Richard Merton, German industrial baron, rested temporarily after a day and a half of examination and cross-examination which has brought him scarcely beyond the half way mark of his ordeal.

But though it was a day off for judge, jury and star witness, it was merely Saturday for the lawyers who are trying the case of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Col. Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, accused of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The attorneys spent the day in their respective camps mapping out further the strategical lines which they will follow in one of the most important battles of the kind ever staged.

Merton to Testify Again.

Merton will take the stand again Monday when Federal Judge Mack calls the court to order, and it will be around him that the struggle will rage for still another day.

Merton is the government's witness, but it is indicated the defense hopes not to discredit him but to hold him up as the kind of man who could not knowingly be a party to wrongdoing such as is alleged by the prosecution.

They will not contest the fact, it is believed, that Merton gave $441,000 to the late John T. King, Republican national committeeman from Connecticut and a power in politics, but they will strenuously insist that it was not a bribe and they will lead the jury to believe that men like Merton do not stoop to bribery. They will contend it was not a bribe but a fee.

Contend Claim Was Valid.

Their efforts yesterday were directed to showing that Merton acted in good faith when he presented his claim of nearly $7,000,000, the sum realized by the sale of the stock of the American Metal company, which had been seized as German owned shortly after the United States entered the world war.

Col. William Rand, Miller's counsel, read from the claim presented by Merton in Washington in an attempt to show that either Merton believed he had a valid case when he contended that the American Metal company actually owned by the Neutral Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs De Meteaux, or else that his claim appeared so well founded that the defendants were justified in granting it.

BRITISH LIBRARIAN VISITS HERE.

Capt. Richard Wright, county librarian of Middlesex, near London, visited yesterday at the headquarters of the American Library association. He will return to England after attending the fiftieth conference and celebration of the American Library association in Atlantic City and Philadelphia on Oct. 4-9.

14 FAITHFUL WORKERS BEQUEATHED BUSINESS VALUED AT $2,000,000

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Fourteen employes of the upholstery firm of Johnson & Faulkner today found themselves heirs to a $2,000,000 business.

By the terms of the will of Edward D. Faulkner, sole owner of the business, the capital stock of the company passes to the fourteen faithful workers. Faulkner died recently at Woodstock, Vt.

Mrs. Marianne G. Faulkner, widow of the manufacturer, was bequeathed the remainder of the estate, estimated to be worth $5,000,000.

Brink's Fleet carries thirty million dollars a day

The bodies of these trucks are made of two thicknesses of bullet-proof steel and the windshields of many of them are made of bullet-proof glass. Each truck contains a steel chest bolted to the floor.

Excerpt from Recent Letter

"We doubt that it is necessary for us to tell you what we think of International Trucks. Our valuable cargoes amounting to nearly fifty billions of dollars in actual worth every year require the most dependable transportation on the market. We expect that kind of equipment from the Harvester Company and we are not disappointed."

(Signed) BRINK'S EXPRESS COMPANY

Money, money, and still more money rides in the armored Internationals of Brink's Express. Did you ever think of the tremendous and dangerous hauling problem presented by money in the mass?

That is the problem that Brink's Express has been solving for more than a quarter-century. In New York and Chicago and a score of other metropolitan cities, Brink's Express transports the coin and currency of commerce and industry. Last year Brink's formidable fleet delivered over five million pay envelopes and carried over seven billion dollars, in cash, and over forty billions more in bank clearings, securities, and other valuables.

And for the transportation of all this money they need the most dependable trucks that money can buy. They choose Internationals. To date Brink's Express has purchased 176 International Trucks—75 of them since the first of this year.

International Trucks will serve your hauling needs as faithfully as they are serving Brink's Express and as they are serving many firms in your own line of business. Come in and talk it over.

The International line includes the Special Delivery, 1-ton and 1½-ton Speed Trucks, Heavy-Duty Trucks ranging from 1½-ton to 5-ton sizes, Motor Coaches for all requirements, and the McCormick-Deering Industrial Tractor.

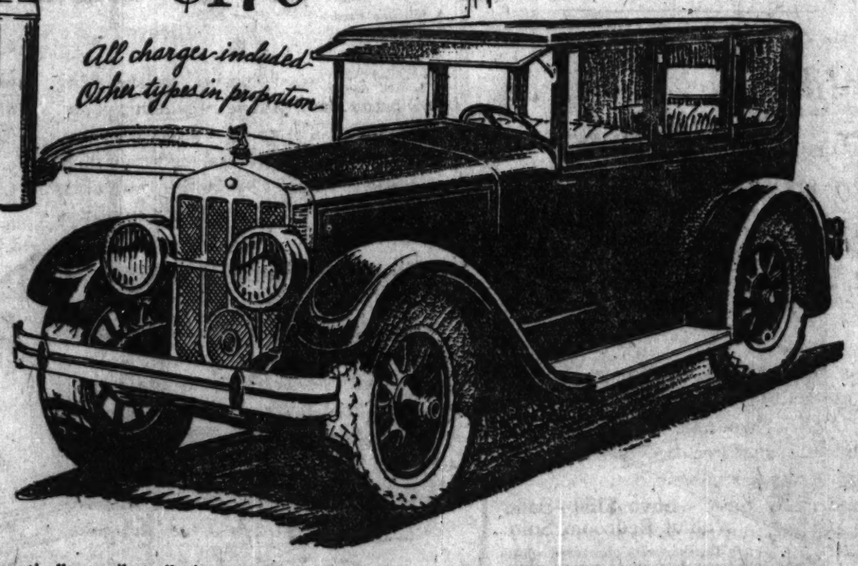
The 25th Anniversary Easy Ownership Plan on a New Franklin Sedan

Your old car as whole or part of first payment. Balance on monthly terms not over $170

All charges included. Other types in proportion.



INVESTIGATION has revealed the fact that thousands of people who would like to own a New Franklin never take the first step because they believe it costs far more than it actually does.

And that many other thousands who are aware of its present price refrain from getting what they want solely because they have no idea that the New Franklin can be bought on such desirable terms.

Here Are the New Franklin Facts

Hence this announcement, coming at the height of Franklin success. For reports just compiled show that July was the biggest July in Franklin's entire 25 years, and that 1926 sales to date are running well ahead of the same period in 1925—which was the most prosperous twelve months Franklin ever had!

We want everybody to know that today the New Franklin Sedan, fully equipped, is priced at $2790, f. o. b. Syracuse, N. Y.—with other types proportionately low—

And that under the 25th Anniversary Easy Ownership Plan, they may be owned on terms which make them today's wisest automobile investment and easiest fine car purchase: your old car as whole or part of first payment—balance in twelve easy monthly payments.

Money Cannot Buy Its Duplicate

No matter what you pay, you cannot get elsewhere the complete owner satisfaction that the New Franklin gives.

You cannot get its matchless comfort over all roads—no other car has its super-flexible construction.

You cannot get its amazing handling ease under all conditions — no other has its freedom from avoidable weight.

You cannot get its sure safety in all circumstances—no other combines the non-skid transmission brake with such a low-slung body.

You cannot get its speed over the road—no other can go so fast—with such slight driver-fatigue—so much of the time.

Any Owner Can Afford to Run It

If you can pay to run any car, you can pay to run the New Franklin. That explains the demand for Franklin used cars.

It is exceptionally easy on tires—it consumes practically no oil at all—it averages 18 to 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

And its extraordinary ability to keep out of the repair-shop, coupled with its famous long life, gives you what we believe to be the lowest cost per life-mile of any car ever made.

The Feature that Aviation Endorses

At the heart of New Franklin superiority lies the most advanced principle in motoring: air-cooling.

In aviation it is rapidly supplanting water-cooling. The superior dependability, efficiency and power per pound of weight that it gives have already been sensationally demonstrated by Byrd and Cobham in their historic flights. And Fonck has chosen it for his New York-Paris attempt.

In the New Franklin, air-cooling is even more important than aloft. Not only does it kill all cooling worry and work, but—far more vital—it is an essential in the road-ability possible only with air-cooled construction.

One Ride Will Show the Difference

What this means over the road is next to impossible to describe. But it is the easiest and the most delightful thing in the world to experience.

Let us send a New Franklin Sedan to your home or your office. A trial ride brings no obligation. And it opens wide the gates to the finest motoring you can get today.

VALUE OF CROPS IN MICHIGAN TO SET HIGH MARK

15 Frostless Days Will Bring Bumper Yield.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—High marks will be reached in virtually every granary, crib, silo, and cellar in Michigan this fall when crops have been harvested. Reports that emphasize corn and small grains, as most of them do, tell little of the vast wealth that comes from Wolverine fields, orchards and gardens.

Fifteen frostless days and nights are needed to put most of the growing crops over the danger line, but if an early freeze should wipe out a crop or two there would be plenty left to carry farmers through to another season.

All White Varieties.

Seventy-five per cent of all white varieties of pea beans grown in the United States are produced in Michigan. The season's crop of beans will run above 6,000,000 pounds. With Maine and New York holding first and second places, estimates indicate that Michigan will rank third in potato production when its 28,500,000 bushels are dug. With a potato crop 4,000,000 bushels above last year, and the yield in the United States 25,0000,000 bushels below the five year average.

Michigan oat crop is 1,500,000 bushels more than was harvested in 1925. Corn that will be ripe enough to pick is expected to be short of last year, but there will be a six to eight ton crop to the acre for ensilage.

The state's crop of 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 tons of high quality puts dairymen at ease so far as roughage is concerned.

There are 136,000 acres of the finest sugar beets ever grown in the state. The yield ought to go far above 1,000,000 tons. The basic price is $7 a ton.

Fair Yield of Mint.

Michigan says little about her mint crop, and yet this year farmers have nearly 12,000 acres. The better growers brag little when they get twenty-five pounds of mint oil to the acre. The oil sold as high as $35 a pound last year, but it is one of the most speculative crops grown on the farm, occasionally going as low as $1 a pound, according to V. H. Church, federal statistician of Michigan. The usual price is from $2 to $3 a pound. The crop is in good condition and growers expect a fair yield.

This state grows more than a third of the 99,230 acres of cucumbers produced annually in the United States and there is a good crop this year.

TRIES TWICE; KILLS SELF.

Mrs. Alvina Berg, 44 years old, 4339 North Keeler avenue, a widow, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas in the kitchen of her home. Her brother, Frederick, told the police that she attempted to end her life several days ago.

HARRIS BROS. CO.

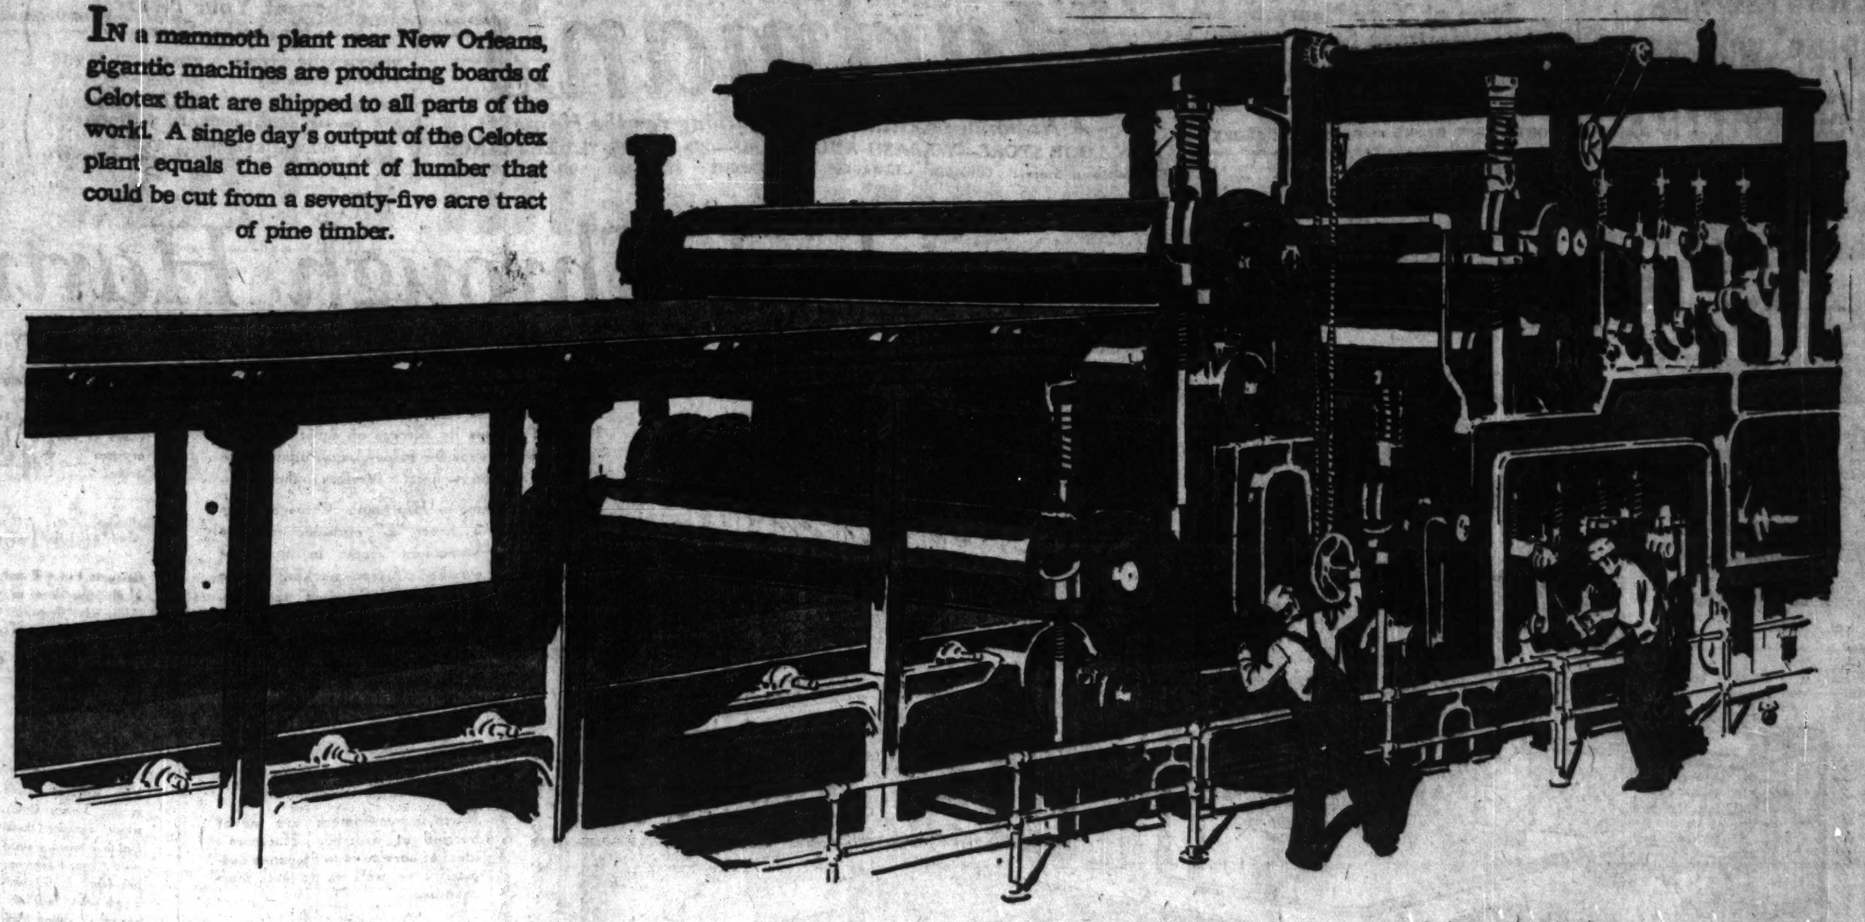
—Established 1892—

In a mammoth plant near New Orleans, gigantic machines are producing boards of Celotex that are shipped to all parts of the world. A single day's output of the Celotex plant equals the amount of lumber that could be cut from a seventy-five acre tract of pine timber.



Amazing Lumber that isn't cut from trees!

Celotex stops heat and cold many times as effectively as wood lumber . . . is stronger in walls . . . and costs no more to use. Year after year, it will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel money. For every home, new or old.

FIVE years ago, a way was found to make lumber that possesses structural advantages plus insulating properties that wood alone can never offer.

It was a complete new building material: a heat-stopping lumber that banished cold, draughty rooms, stopped fuel waste in Winter, prevented hot, stuffy rooms in Summer.

Today, this new type lumber has changed all standards of building practice. For it has made insulation available at a saving, in every home. Already more than 90,000 have been built this modern way.

This amazing lumber is Celotex. It is not cut from trees, but manufactured from the long, tough fibres of cane. It is enduring . . . scientifically sterilized and waterproofed. Celotex is stronger in walls than wood lumber and many times better as insulation. Wind and moisture can not penetrate it. It quiets noise.

ACTUALLY saves money. Another reason for the tremendous success of Celotex is the economy it brings. Unlike ordinary insulation, Celotex is not an extra item in building.

It replaces wood lumber as sheathing (see illustrations), eliminates building paper. Celotex builds a more rigid wall than wood, because of the greater bracing strength of the broad boards. It adds the insulation needed back of wood, brick or stucco exteriors at no extra cost.

Under plaster, replacing lath, Celotex costs a few cents more per yard at first, but is a great economy. It means less upkeep expense because of no lath-marks . . . fewer cracks. With Celotex in the walls and in the ceilings or roof of your house a smaller, less expensive heating plant and smaller radiators will keep you comfortable.

And year after year, Celotex will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel money!

NEW COMFORT for old houses. In houses already built, a big measure of this comfort and economy is being secured by lining attics and basements with Celotex. That helps a lot and costs but little.

There are also dozens of other places where Celotex is the ideal material for building and remodeling.

Look Ahead! Now that Celotex has made insulation practical, heat-leaking houses are a poor investment. The authorities say such houses are becoming obsolete; harder to sell, rent or borrow money on.

IF YOU ARE going to build, talk with your architect, contractor or lumber dealer about Celotex. Leaders in these lines advise its use. All lumber dealers can supply it.

IF YOU ARE going to buy, see that Celotex is used before you put any money into a house.

Also ask about the $200.00 gold bond now issued on every Celotex-insulated house.

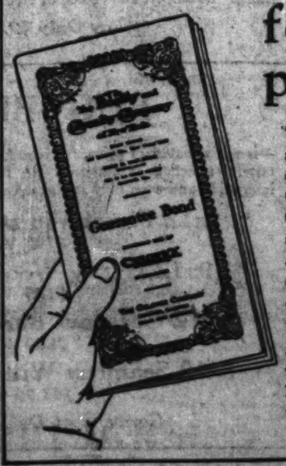
Now... A Gold Bond for your protection



To protect you in buying and assist you in selling or borrowing, The Celotex Company now issues a Gold Bond, signed and sealed by The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York. This Bond certifies the use of Celotex.

Ask to see it before buying any building. Ask your lumber dealer to supply it when you build.

AS SHEATHING

Celotex supplies the insulation needed back of brick, wood or stucco exteriors. Here it replaces the rough boards formerly used, gives greater strength to the house walls and makes building paper unnecessary.

UNDER PLASTER

On inside walls and ceilings, plaster is applied directly to the surface of Celotex. This eliminates the use of lath and gives stronger, insulated walls; less apt to crack; and free from lath-marks.

IN THE ROOF

Most heat beats into houses through roofs in summer, causing hot attics. Most heat leaks out through roofs in winter, causing high fuel bills. Celotex applied over or under roof rafters gives the needed protection. For best results both uses are recommended.

FOR OLD HOUSES

In homes already built, a big measure of Celotex comfort and economy may be secured by lining attics and basements with it. In the attic an extra finished room can be made by nailing Celotex to the roof rafters. In the basement line ceiling with Celotex.

Convenient Deferred Payments

Hartman Services

STANDING today as the largest Retail Furniture Institution in the world, Hartman's bases its success on square dealing, of course; on superior value-giving, unquestionably; but also on its unique services to the public.

Take, for example, Hartman's Chicago Loop Store. Here a direct "L" entrance provides convenient access in inclement weather. A free checking service takes care of shoppers' packages. A children's playground maintains a trained nurse to watch over the children while their elders shop. A pleasant writing and rest room provides also a sub-postal station, while our Twelfth-Floor Auditorium is offered free of charge for club meetings, entertainments, parties, and public gatherings.

Hartman customers are never hurried or worried. Hartman's ideal of service is to dispense hospitality as well as to sell merchandise.

CUBS BEAT PHILS, 10-6, BY 7 RUN RALLY

HELEN'S BABE WINS STEGER STAKE AS 20,000 CHEER

ROTHERMEL 2D IN HANDICAP AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Headley Takes Final 3 Year Old Race.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Hal Price Headley's blue and white Kentucky silks were carried to victory in the $5,000 Steger handicap as the Lincoln Fields summer racing season came to a close yesterday. Helen's Babe beat Senator Johnson M. Camden's Rothermel a head after racing from far back. Edward R. Bradley's Beneficent was third.

STUYVESANT PEABODY.

More than 20,000 cheered as Helen's Babe staged the gamest rally of the whole Lincoln Fields season and won in the last strides. She ran a mile over a track that was far from fast in 1:37 4-5, one of the most sensational performances of the year on the American turf.

The stake brought down the curtain on the greatest racing meeting in 25 years in the Chicago district. More than 300,000 attended the track during the 30 days, and a profit of $500,000 was said to have been realized on the venture.

Plan Many Changes.

Lincoln Fields was built by Chicago and Kentucky sportsmen, who put $1,000,000 into the venture before the gates were opened. But from opening day it took the place old Washington Park once occupied in the hearts of the Chicago race fan, and the attendance increased at such strides the plant became too small to care for the throngs.

While half a million dollars may be realized from this year's opening meeting, most of it, according to an announcement from Director Matt J. Winn and Stuyvesant Peabody yesterday, will be put back into improvements. Only a modest dividend will be declared.

Polo fields, a golf course, and tennis courts are to be added to Lincoln Fields before the season opens next year.

Two great handicap horses, Helen's Babe, winner of the Steger, and Sycamore, made it possible for Headley to sweep the meetings' stake event program at Lincoln Fields. Seven stakes and handicap contests were offered. Three were for 2 year olds, last in the races for 3 year olds and up, Headley's two color bearers swept the cards. Helen's Babe captured two of the rich races, Supremus the other two.

Wins in Stretch Dash.

Helen's Babe's triumph was brilliant. Even when Senator Camden's Rothermel was running far out in front in the early going, Helen's Babe always was close up. Then when Rothermel, ridden none too strongly at the start by Willie Garner, weakened in the stretch, Helen's Babe came on to score her triumph in the last strides. Beneficent was beaten six lengths, but had a good margin lead for third money.

Camden's entry was the favorite. Helen's Babe rewarded the few loyal Headley color bearers at nearly 3 to 1.

For the secondary feature the band also played "My Old Kentucky Home" at the finish for Duenna, running in the silks of Leo J. Marks of Lexington, got up under hard urging by Jockey H. Elston, to win by half a length from Golden Sight, which probably was the hottest tip of the meeting. Golden Sight had no excuse to offer, for an eighth out he got in front, then succumbed to the late rush of Duenna. Virginia C. was far back, but third.

DUBOIS RIDES 31 WINNERS

By the narrow margin of one winning mount, Jockey D. Dubois of New Orleans won the riding championship of the Lincoln Fields racing season. He was first past the finish judge 31 times during the 30 day meeting. Jockey R. Jones, a California youth, was second with 30 winners. Each had piloted one winner yesterday.

Both boys move over to Hawthorne tomorrow where their saddle fued will be renewed.

PELTZER, FLYING PRUSSIAN EAGLE, OUTRUNS NURMI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 11. — Germany grabbed another sport victory this afternoon, when Otto Peltzer defeated Paavo Nurmi and Emil Wide in the 5000 meter run. His time was 3:51 6-10. Forty thousand saw the race.

Wearing the old Prussian eagle on his white trunks, Herr Peltzer, known as the flying economist, ran flat footed, contrasting with the flying Finn's toe running. He passed Nurmi thirty or forty meters from the finish. The race then was between Dr. Peltzer and Ernst Wide, representing Sweden.

Lacoste Upsets Tilden, but It Does No Harm

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The 1926 Davis Cup challenge round came to a dramatic close today with the defeat of William T. Tilden, American champion, for the first time in seven years of singles competition for the world's championship tennis trophy.

Rene Lacoste, the solemn faced 23 year old French stylist, accomplished the downfall of "Big Bill" in four stirring sets as the American, handicapped by a badly twisted left knee, fought a game but losing battle. The scores were 4—6, 6—4, 3—6, 8—6.

A crowd of close to 8,000 cheering fans urged Tilden on as he fought against the combined odds of his own injury and Lacoste's brilliant attack.

Johnston Beats Borotra.

Tilden's sensational defeat came after "Little Bill" Johnston had registered America's fourth victory by vanquishing Jean Borotra, in another match that was hard and tensely fought, even though decided in straight sets by scores of 8—6, 6—4, 9—7.

Although neither match had any bearing on the outcome of the challenge round, which was decided yesterday by America's triumph over France in the doubles, today's encounters furnished the greatest thrills of the series.

America's final margin was convincing enough, four victories to one for France, but the French lifted an unexpected, even though belated, portion of glory in the closing battles.

Lacoste Plays Brilliantly.

While Tilden's injury unquestionably upset the American's game and played a big part in his defeat, little credit can be taken away from Lacoste, who came back after a slow start to fight the American champion to a standstill in a match that was contested almost entirely from back court.

Two questionable line decisions cost Tilden the critical thirteenth game of the third set after he had led at 40—15. The last one brought the count to deuce and it was in a stab for Lacoste's cross-court shot near the line that the American fell heavily to the turf. He not only was badly shaken up by the tumble, but his knee seemed so badly twisted that it was a painful effort for him to take his serving position again.

Tilden Loses Set.

A double fault and a wild return cost Tilden the game and he lost the set in spite of a gallant effort in which he twice held off Lacoste with the latter needing only a single point for victory.

With the crowd now cheering his every winning shot, Tilden made his last stand in the fourth set. Trailing at 2—3, then 2—4, he warded off impending defeat with a flashing rally that carried him through three games victoriously and later to within a point of winning the set in the twelfth game. The effort affected his control, however, and Lacoste rallied to square the count once more.

MISS RYAN DOUBLE WINNER

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Elizabeth Ryan of Santa Monica, added two titles to her tennis honors today. She won the Middle States singles championships and paired with Mrs. George W. Wightman, Brookline, Mass., she captured the doubles title.

Miss Ryan won the singles honor by defeating Mrs. Wightman in the final round of the tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket club, 6—3, 6—2. In the doubles, Miss Ryan and Mrs. Wightman defeated Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, New York, and Miss Edith Sigourney, Boston, 7—5, 6—0.

Futurity at Belmont Won by Scapaflow

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Walter M. Jefford's Scapa Flow, son of the wonder horse, Man o' War, raced to victory today in the historic Futurity before 35,000 at Belmont Park, winning the turf's richest stake for 2 year olds.

The finish was one of the most sensational in the history of the event, which brought a purse of $65,950 to Owner Jeffords. H. T. Archibald's Candy Queen and H. P. Whitney's Valorous challenged the victor to the end, with Scapa Flow finishing ahead of the former only by a neck. The winner's time for the six and three-quarters furlongs was 1:22, one second slower than the best time over the course.

Second place netted Candy Queen's owner $4,666.67, while third place was worth $2,333.33.

BUCKY HARRIS TO WED WASHINGTON GIRL OCTOBER 1

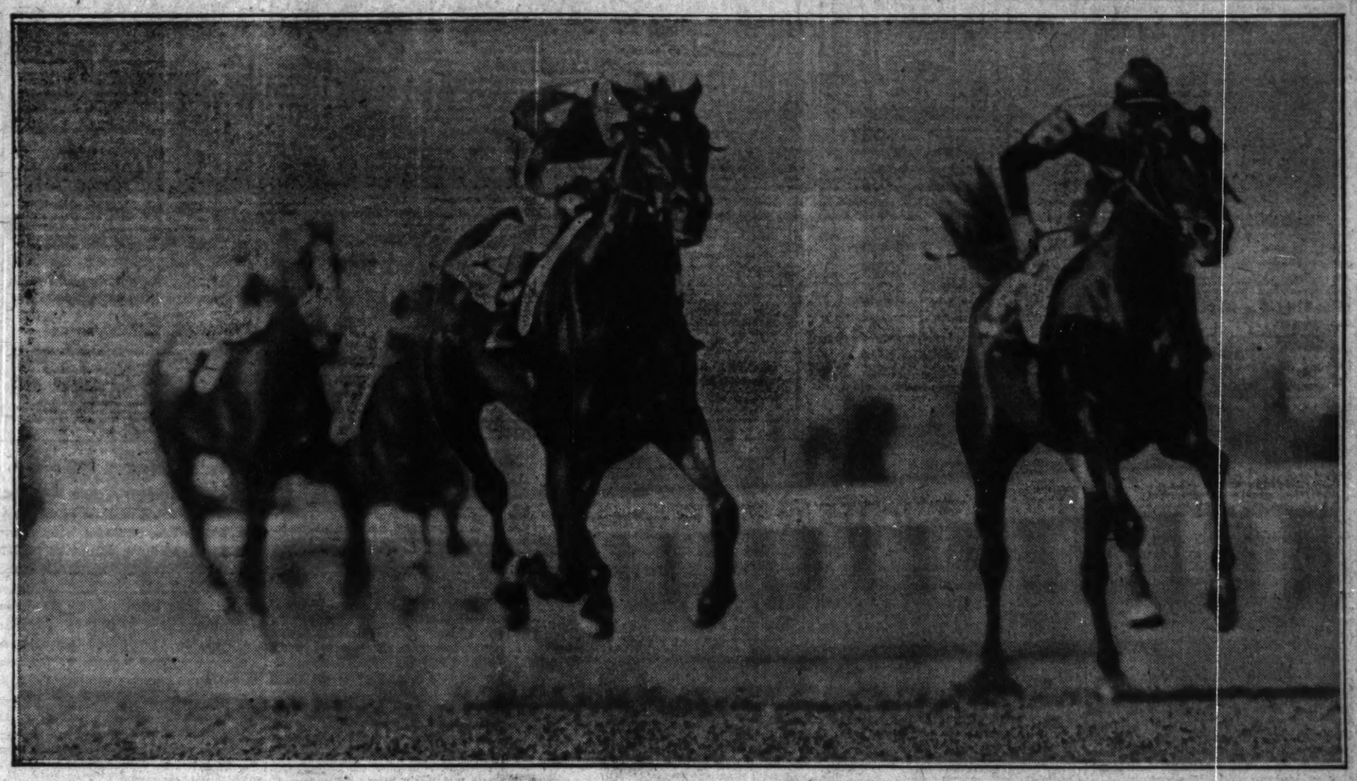
Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—The allen property custodian Former Senator Howard Sutherland and Mrs. Sutherland of West Virginia, announced today the engagement of their youngest daughter, Elizabeth, to "Bucky" Harris, manager of the Washington American league baseball team.

The wedding will take place Oct. 1 in Huntington, W. Va., at the home of Miss Sutherland's sister.

THUNDERING HOOFS CONQUER TIRING LEADER



Helen's Babe creeps up to take $5,000 Steger handicap purse from Rothermel (next to rail) in one of gamest rallies of the Lincoln Fields season. Overcoming a lead of nearly two lengths at the head of the stretch, the H. P. Headley colt, L. Pichon up, slowly closed the gap, winning amid the cheers of 20,000 race fans who witnessed the contest. Beneficent is finishing third behind Helen's Babe. The winner paid $7.30 on a $2 ticket to win. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Long Words Say Gene's Ready; Loughran Outboxes Dempsey

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 11.—Although the great battle spectacle of Philadelphia's sesquicentennial celebration is nearly two weeks away, Gene Tunney, the sesqui-pedalian pugilist, now finds himself at the end of his training but obliged to go through the motions of his physical and intellectual work to remain fit to bandy left hooks or high power polysyllables with Jack Dempsey.

A short time before the scholarly prize fighter entered the ring under the spreading slippery elm tree behind the stone mansion of the Glen Brook Country club this afternoon, Mr. Lou Fink, his physical trainer and spiritual towel flapper, remarked that Gene was as fit as any man could be, except a troublesome laceration of his lower lip, which will receive attention from a New York doctor tomorrow. Not only is Tunney in excellent health, but he is also at the pinnacle of his intellectual form, and only last night he said something about a hypothesis, which is what Mr. Fink calls a word with a long wheelbase.

Scribes Carry Dictionaries.

The journalists now attending Tunney's exercises have begun to carry pocket dictionaries as a gesture of delicate compliment to his conversational grandeur. There is a sense of outrage and bafflement among the elder chroniclers of prize fight matters for Tunney speaks to them in a language that would have brought a blush of honest shame to the cheek of John L. Sullivan or Bob Fitzsimmons, and yet he stands before them as fine and stalwart and as game a prize fighter as ever as game a prize fighter as ever crumbled a resin pebble with the elk-skin soles of the pugilist.

Although it might cause some embarrassment if the facts were stated in Stroudsburg, it is nevertheless true that Gene went up the mountain to spend the night at the cabin of his cook to escape the implacable good will of the American Legion, which is now filling the mountain air of Stroudsburg with the squal of the fife and the rumble of the war drum. The affection of the American Legion is one of the most valuable business assets Tunney owns, but with a state convention of the order now current in the town, Gene has begun to realise that a man's friends may assassinate him with kindness.

Marines Give Gene Bathrobe.

The marines among the American Legionnaires brought a bathrobe to Gene this afternoon, made of the two shades of blue that comprise the marine uniform, with red piping and cuffs and Tunney probably will wear this garment into the ring in Philadelphia.

Although Tunney and Dr. Shea may have some ominous name for injury that rates Gene just a shade below physical perfection just now, Lou Fink, who has seen many of the same, calls it a split lip. The lip was cut several years ago when Harry Greb went at Tunney with a billy-goat rush and butted him on the mouth, and it has been sensitive to punching ever since.

Last week Gene quit boxing for a few days to let the wound heal but

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia light heavyweight, donned gymnasium togs at the Greyhound race track here this afternoon, boxed two rounds with Jack Dempsey, and brought into bold relief all the weaknesses of the world's heavyweight champion when he runs up against a lighter and faster rival.

For six minutes of boxing such as Dempsey's training camp activities have not heretofore produced Loughran had all the better of it, and the hope was expressed by critics who witnessed the drill that Loughran would remain with the champion until the training work is done.

Two Round Champion.

Loughran entered the ring against Dempsey announced as "the uncrowned light heavyweight champion of the world." It was a complimentary title, but as he departed after his workout with the champion Loughran was called the "two round champion of the world in a training workout," and there was nothing complimentary about it.

Loughran clearly and decisively outpointed, outboxed, outthought, and outgeneraled Dempsey for two rounds. He failed only to outfight the champin, and it can be said here that the man who will outfight Dempsey is not included in boxing's present upper strata.

Toys with Dempsey.

Loughran started his workout making Dempsey look decidedly awkward, toying with the champion as a matter of fact.

Dempsey tired of this, however, and in a furious flash rushed Loughran to the ropes, there pounding the Philadelphian about the body and in the face and head with both hands in blows the sting and force of which were not repressed. Loughran, however, was unruffled and the result was that he continued to outbox Dempsey.

WALL STREET GIVES ODDS ON YANKS, DEMPSEY

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Odds of 11 to 10 on the New York Yankees to win the world series were offered today in a Wall street wager which placed $5,500 against $5,000. The St. Louis Cardinals were quoted as 9 to 5 favorites to nose out the Reds, Pirates and Cubs in the final lap of the National league race.

Several large bets also were made on the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight battle, with the champion ruling 11 to 8 choice. A wager of $5,000 against $75,000 that Dempsey will score a knockout in the first round was announced by one firm.

Chicago Auto Racer Hurt at Kewanee; Near Death

Kewanee, Ill., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—C. E. Curry, Chicago, dirt track automobile racer, is near death at St. Francis hospital as a result of an accident in a race at the Kewanee fair today. He has a fractured skull and is injured internally. He was on the 15th lap of the final race when his machine turned over on a curve and the car driven by F. W. Bobzlene, Marengo, Ia., ran over him.

World Series Ball Games to Start Oct. 2

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The first two games of baseball's 1926 blue ribbon event, the world's series, will be fought in the city capturing the American league pennant on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 2 and 3.

This decision was reached here today at a conference of K. M. Landis, czar of baseball, and representatives of the four contending clubs in the American and National leagues. The third, fourth, and fifth contests will be played in the city that wins the National league bunting.

The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be staged in the American league city. All games will start at 1:30 o'clock standard time, eastern central.

Should the classic be between New York, Cleveland, or Philadelphia in the American league and St. Louis, Cincinnati, or Chicago in the National, a day will elapse between the second and third and the fifth and sixth battles to permit the contesting teams to travel.

The conferees agreed that if a scheduled game is called off because of rain or other inclement weather before the regulation four and a half innings had been played, it will be contested on the grounds of its original schedule. Provision was made that in case of a legal tie the game would be played after the seventh contest.

Prices will be as follows: Box seats, $6.60; reserved seats, $5.50; general admission, $3.30, and bleachers, $1.10.

LOCKHART WINS 100 MILE AUTO RACE AT DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—[U. P.]—Frank Lockhart, winner of the Indianapolis automobile race this year, won the 100 mile dirt track race at the Michigan fair grounds here late today in 51:30:52. Leon Duray was second, Norman Batten third, and Cliff Woodbury fourth.

Macks Hustle After Third Place Money, Whip Sox

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

With their eyes glued on third money in the pennant race, the Athletics yesterday took a lot of toe holds and socked out a victory over the White Sox in the first of a four game series at Comiskey park. The final count was 11 to 5, but it was an error that gave the Mackmen a chance to slam home five unearned runs in the seventh inning to win.

This extreme mental distress was caused by a young lad scarcely out of his teens, Leslie Cox, who joined the Sox only a couple of days ago. Leslie was installed on the slab in the fourth inning to make his debut after the Mackmen had belted the left handed curves of Jim Joe Edwards for a cluster of four runs in the third and taken the lead in the fight.

For three innings this young lad from the sunburned plains set the slugging Mackmen down without a hit and in the meantime the Sox had raised Ned, tying the count in the fifth and going in front by one run in the sixth. It began to look as if young Leslie would make a grand entrance into the big show.

Morehart Drops One.

Even in his next inning the side should have been out with out a man counting. Two were out and a runner was on first when a ball was bounced down to Kamm, who fired it to second in ample time for a force play, but Morehart dropped it and both runners were safe. Then the bombing started. Before the young lad could get the side out five men had scored and the game had gone to smash.

In the next inning Ted Blankenship strode to the mound to try his mended thumb, which hadn't been in action for about six weeks, and the Mackmen flailed him for a couple more tallies in the eighth.

Three Philadelphia pitchers were needed to carry the team through the combat. Lefty Grove of speed ball fame began, but disappeared after two innings. Only one run was made off him, but he gave indications of a mood to walk a lot of people. Walberg, another southpaw, was summoned. The Sox whaled him until he was yanked in the fifth after allowing the score to be tied and Gray finished.

Sheely Scores First Run.

Sheely, Kamm, and Falk were the damaging sluggers for the Sox, while Simmons, Hale, and Metzger led the attack of the enemy. It was Sheely's first double in the first inning, following Mostil's pass and steal, that started the Sox off in front with one run.

The Mackmen didn't count until the third, when, with one out, Dykes walked and went to third on Welch's single. Barbee singled, scoring Dykes, and after Mostil had made a circus catch of Hale's liner Simmons socked one over Barrett's head for three sacks, scoring Welch and Barbee. Simmons then counted when Sheely fumbled Pool's roller.

An error by Dykes and a single by Kamm got one of those runs back in the same round, and then Sheely opened the fifth with another double. Falk got a single on a pop behind short. Sheely holding second. With Schalk at bat, the hit and run was put on. Cracker missed the ball, but Perkins dropped it, and Sheely and Falk were credited with a double steal. Then Schalk socked a surprising double over Simmons, scoring both mates and tying the count. That finished Walberg.

Mack Cyclone Strikes.

Two were out in the sixth when Falk and Kamm produced a run. Two were out in the seventh when the cyclone struck. Welch walked with one out, and Barbee popped up. Hale bounced to Kamm, who fired to Morehart, and the side should have been out, but Ray dropped the ball. Then Simmons and Pool singled, Cochrane walked, and Metzger doubled, and five men were in.

INTRUDER RACES TO TIE FOR LEAD IN YACHT SERIES

The Yacht Intruder, Q class champion of Lake Michigan, went into a tie with Siren for leadership in the Lutz trophy series by scoring a decisive triumph in the second leg of the race over a twelve nautical mile windward and leeward course off Jackson park harbor yesterday. Intruder was sailed by Ed O'Rourke, its owner; Bill Whalen, Archie Reiman, Dave Callahan, and Burt Kinsloe.

Intruder and Siren each have six points and stand out as possible victors in the final leg, which will be sailed over the same course today. Princess is in third place with four points and Jackson Park II. in fourth position with 2. Due to disqualification for fouling Princess at the finish line, Jackson Park II. failed to get any points yesterday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—The mirth provoking Phillies came uncomfortably close to making the Cubs leap the back fence again this afternoon. That they didn't accomplish their purpose can be attributed mainly to a robust homer by Pete Scott with the sacks jammed and a two bagger by Charley Grimm under similar conditions. These two timely smacks along with a few other things yielded the Chicagoans a 10 to 6 decision after nine rounds that were extremely painful for those unable to desert Bill Baker's half acre patch.

CHARLEY GRIMM.

The chief difficulty with the affair was a complex of strategy with which both managers were afflicted. They employed pitchers with reckless abandon, sometimes making changes for no apparent reason. Nine hurlers appeared on the slab, five of them for the Phils, and to further complicate the box score and delay the finish a staggering number of pinch hitters were dragged into action.

Cubs Cut Loose in Seventh.

The Cubs didn't begin to get into the argument until the scrap was almost over. Charley Root had a bad first inning and three Phils scored. This trio loomed large as the Cubs continued to fall before Clarence Mitchell's southpawing, but in the seventh they made up for lost time by driving a juicy cluster of seven over the pan, four of them resulting from Scott's homer. Then the Phils began to get rough again with various Cub fingers, but the thing was definitely settled when Grimm's timely wallop cleaned up the loaded bases in the ninth.

The profitable Cub seventh started with Hack Wilson's double. Grimm, Freigau and Cooney followed with hits, driving two home. Mitchell left in favor of Mike Kelly, who passed Gonsales, filling the bases. Knight pitched to Pinch Hitter Joe Kelly, who banged into a double play by way of the plate. Adams walked and the sacks were crammed again. A scratch single by Heathcote scored Cooney, and Scott then drove Gonsales, Adams and Heathcote over the plate with his homer into the left field seats.

Phils Get Three in First.

Philadelphia's three runs in the first chapter were due to some hits off Root, a pass, and an error by Grimm. Nothing more was accomplished against the ex-Coast leaguer, but when Osborn started to pitch in the seventh the Phils slammed home a run. Then a couple of passes by Osborn with another error by Grimm and a hit scored two more in the eighth and made it necessary to use Jones and Kaufmann to retire the side with the Cubs only one run ahead.

Kaufmann was the first Bruin to bat in the ninth, and Taber gave him a walk. After Bush had flied out, Heathcote doubled to right and Kaufmann halted at third. Willoughby was dragged out of the ball pen and fanned Scott. He gave Hack Wilson an intentional ticket, filling the bases, and Grimm drove the whole lot over the counter by plunking a two bagger down the right field line. Then Kaufmann set down the locals in the home ninth and the jamboree was concluded.

CARDINALS WHIP BRAVES, 2-0, AND GET WHIPPED, 4-3

Careless Fielding Loses Second Game.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The Cardinals are now only two games in front of the National League field as a result of splitting the double header with the Braves here today. Through the fine pitching of Jesse Haines the Cards won the first game, 2 to 0, but dropped the second, 4 to 3. Outfield carelessness cost St. Louis in the second. Douthit tried to play High's hit in the eighth with one hand and it went for a triple. High eventually scored the run that won the game. Earlier in the game Southworth's slow fielding let Moore get in a triple that meant a run. Score:

REDS, 10; PIRATES, 6

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Disaster befell the Pirates in the farewell appearance of the season at Forbe's Field, being subjugated at the hands of the Reds, 10 to 6. By winning the visitors widened the gap which now separates them from the Corsairs who were menacing their hold on second place. A crowd of 18,000 watched the game.

Ineffective pitching was the cause of the home team's defeat. Four hurlers were sent to the mound in the futile attempt to register a victory. Carmen Hill, Yde, Koupal, and Songer pitched for the losers.

Carl Mays baffled the Pirates with his submarine slants and he took things easy after his mates had amassed their commanding lead. Score:

Columbus, O., Athletes Win Penn R. R. Western Title

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Pennsylvania railroad athletes from Columbus, O., won the championship of the Western region here today in a tight finish with the Logansport, Ind., division, nosing out the latter, 48½ to 189¾. Fort Wayne, Ind., division was third with 104¾ points and Cincinnati fourth with 103.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

LINCOLN FIELDS.

LINCOLN FIELDS ended its initial thirty day race meeting yesterday. This meeting surpassed expectations not only of the public but of its sponsors. It is the first racing, worthy the name in all respects, which Chicago has enjoyed since the closing of local tracks at the end of the 1904 season. It presages a brilliant turf future for this city.

There has been racing here at other tracks, and there have been good horses, although not of the average class predominating at Lincoln Fields. The sport at the other tracks was honestly conducted so far as we know, but something was lacking in the public estimation. That something was confidence in the management.

Lincoln Fields was fortunate in this respect. Col. Matt Winn, responsible for the Crete track, came here with a reputation established by building up the Kentucky Derby to the greatest race in America. He is the most capable race track operator in the whole country. His Chicago associates, headed by President Stuyvesant Peabody, who has given his personal attention with marked success to pleasant but exacting duties, supplied all else that was needed to instill full confidence. Actual operation provided all that had been promised—yes, perhaps a little more than promised.

Chicago showed its appreciation. Attendance, despite much bad weather, was increasingly good throughout the meeting. On Labor day, what is unofficially said to be the second largest crowd which ever saw a race in America (Kentucky Derby excepted) was present. The Zev-Papyrus match at Belmont park in 1923 topped our Labor day crowd.

For the future, President Peabody and Col. Winn promise even greater things. That means much to Chicago racing as a whole, for all other local tracks will be spurred to greater effort and will profit indirectly from what takes place at Crete.

Dempsey and Tunney.

With a few notable exceptions, hard boiled fight fans are aligned with Dempsey as choice in his coming quarrel with Tunney. A majority of this contingent like a "fighter." That is what Champion Jack is, or was before his long vacation from the squared arena.

As one oldtimer expressed the composite view: "Tunney is too good looking. I want a fellow who looks and acts like a fighter. Look back over our champions. Willard and Corbett were the only exceptions. You might call Corbett the only exception, for Willard was not 'pretty' but just clumsy looking and awkward, relying on strength and hitting power. Corbett, a boxer and Beau Brummel, was champion until Bob Fitzsimmons hit him."

The Tunney followers, on the other hand, think Dempsey will have lost his judgment of distance and timing from inactivity. It takes actual fights, not sparring practice, they argue, to bring this quality back.

DES MOINES WILL PLAY OFF OMAHA FORFEIT GAME

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Partial settlement of the argument in Western league baseball circles, which started after Oklahoma City protested to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis over alleged "off-color" practices on the part of Des Moines and other terms in the north end of the loop, was effected today when Barney Burch, Omaha's baseball chief, received word that Omaha's forfeit of the Aug. 31 game to Des Moines was set aside and that the game was to be played as one of a double header here next Wednesday.

The forfeited game was one of the complaining team's sore spots, Oklahoma City contending that the local ball players may have had some reason other than failure of their uniforms to arrive for forfeiting the game.

Hunters Await Opening of Duck Season

BY BOB BECKER.

Within a few weeks Illinois and Indiana hunters will be able to pick up their hardware, don rubber boots, and slosh through the lowlands for marsh ducks. Of all the waterfowl that lure millions of shooters each season the marsh or "puddler" ducks hold the attention of a majority of gunners.

Leading the pond-loving birds is the mallard or canard Francais [French duck] as he is known along the gulf coast. Mr. Mallard would just about run away with honors in any bird popularity contest for waterfowl.

When the frost is about ready to strike the "punkins" in the cornfield and the blackbirds congregate in big flocks you can write on your calendar, "It's time for marsh ducks," as the mallard, the teal, the spoonbill, and the pintail, four of the best known "puddlers" in the business, are usually on the job in goodly numbers by the opening date of the waterfowl season.

Of all the shallow water ducks the teal seems to be the most distinctive in character. In the first place, the bluewing is the cannonball of the flyways. He hurls himself through space like a racer, and what fun it is to try to stop him with number seven shot! He is always in a hurry.

Duck hunters who never have invaded the marsh country when autumn is making its first flourishes, when the teal are on the job, have a treat ahead of them. Teal come early, thus constituting the advance guard of the waterfowl migration.

The duck season opens in Illinois and Indiana Oct. 1.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

O'CONNELL-RICE FINALISTS TODAY IN NET TOURNEY

By defeating Bill Kinsel, 6—4, 4—3, 7—5, yesterday in the singles semi-final of the Beverly Hills annual open tennis tournament, George O'Connell, who is defending his title, will clash with Ralph Rice at 2 p. m. today for the championship.

At 11 a. m. Rice and Kinsel will meet Lejeck and Lejeck in a doubles semi-final, the winner to battle Searle Barnett and John Rolley at 4 p. m. for the championship.

Play was resumed yesterday in the Hamilton park annual Labor day meet and will continue today.

Cub Notes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 11.—The Cubs have nothing to do tomorrow except to go to the sesqui or Atlantic City or sleep. They will resume with the Phillies Monday.

Adams went on the grass back of second in the third and scooped up a bounder in time to throw out Mitchell and end the inning. The play cut off a run as Jimmy Wilson, who had opened the round with a pass, was on third at the time.

When the Cubs scored in the seventh they scattered their bats all over the space in front of the bench. Ump Quigley suspended play and made the McCartys put their house in order.

Barrett Donates Bike for Elgin-Chicago Race Winner

A special made to order racing bicycle, donated by Charles V. Barrett, will be awarded the winner of the Elgin to Chicago handicap, bicycle race, to be held Sunday, Oct. 3. The winner of first time prize will be given an order for either a suit or overcoat, donated by Commissioner John A. Pelka. Gold watches, silver trophies, medals, and bicycle accessories will be awarded for place and time prizes. Entry blanks can be secured at all local bicycle dealers or from Robert J. Little, 2623 West 12d street, or from the Charles V. Barrett Athletic club, 2150 S. Robey street.

WORDS WITH LONG WHEELBASE SAY TUNNEY'S READY

Challenger Reaches Top Form in Vocabulary.

Bryan Downey opened it gain Thursday afternoon and the gory realism of the cut was the only touch that saved that day's demonstration from absolute farce, because the sparring partners were terrible and they made Tunney look worse.

Downey seems to have carried away some ill feeling when he resigned his membership in the little group of serious thinkers at the Glen Brook Country club. Mr. Fink states that Downey wanted almost as much for sparring with Tunney as Tunney will receive for fighting Dempsey.

"He wanted $200 a day for working two rounds a day three days a week, and also demanded a place on the card in Philadelphia.

"I told him if he would give us the same terms we would give him the fight with Dempsey," Mr. Fink said.

This explanation may seem plausible enough, but the report persists that Downey, in flagrant disregard of the training rules of the camp, came down to the village the other night and split half a dozen infinitives, besides wearing a cap after sundown and coming to lunch without his collar and tie.

"Why he acted like a prize fighter," Mr. Fink said.

Some distress was discernible today because a letter that Tunney received from Kenneth Peacock, the ex-husband of Jack Dempsey's wife, Estelle Taylor, was given to the press. Tunney is disturbed because Peacock's good wishes to him were made public. The ethics of Mr. Peacock in writing such a letter were not questioned, however.

CHANNEL BEATS LOUIS TIMSON, BOSTON SWIMMER

DOVER, England, Sept. 11.—[U. P.]—Balked by rough seas after seven hours in the water, in which he swam and drifted 15 miles, Louis Timson of Boston, American Legion aspirant for channel swimming honor, abandoned his attempts to swim the English channel at 5:05 a. m. today and announced he will try again before next Saturday, weather permitting.

Athletics Attack Sunday Blue Laws in Court Reply

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, defending their right to play Sunday baseball, claim that the sport was unknown more than a century ago and that the present blue laws of 1794 therefore cannot apply to baseball.

The club today filed in the Dauphin county court its reply to the proceedings instituted by Attorney General Woodruff to halt the playing of baseball on Sunday in Philadelphia. The reply attacks the constitutionality of the old law.

The club contends that the law is wanting in definiteness and amounts to an unreasonable exercise of power by the state.

The action by the attorney general was brought as the result of a game played in Philadelphia Aug. 31 between the Athletics and the Chicago White Sox. The attorney general contends that the club's charter rights were violated.

The club declares that no "violation, usurpation, misuse, or abuse" of its charter rights is shown, that the game was played in "an orderly manner and free from excessive noise, and in order"; that the public was invited but not requested to attend the game.

The answer also refers to a ruling by the United States Supreme court that the playing of baseball, witnessed by persons who paid admission fees, is a sport and not a business.

FITZSIMMONS TO TESTIFY IN SUIT AGAINST JACK

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor, Mich., boxing promoter, will testify in the Jack Dempsey-Chicago Coliseum club injunction hearing Monday in Superior court, it was said today by Dempsey counsel. Dempsey probably will not be asked to leave training to come to Indianapolis.

The hearing in which the Chicago club seeks an injunction to prevent the Dempsey-Gene Tunney match in Philadelphia Sept. 23, was continued Thursday by Judge Clinton H. Givan, as defense attorneys could obtain further evidence. The Chicago club alleges it holds a contract whereby Dempsey is to meet Harry Wills, colored challenger, before meeting any other opponent.

INDIAN WINS MARATHON.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 11.—(AP)—C. Longwhite, Indian runner from Detroit, won the 12 mile run of the Canadian national exhibition track and field meet today. His time was 1:27:54 4-5. C. A. W. Scott of Toronto, finishing second, was beaten by the Indian with a burst of speed in the last lap. Billy Reynolds of Galt, Ont., finished third.

We thought the public knew—

Every day we hear of people who, after buying other makes of cars, have said they wish they had known about Auburn first.

They thought Auburn was "high" priced.

Had they known differently they would today own Auburns. They frankly say they admired the Auburn the most and knew of its wonderful quality reputation, but they never investigated because they thought the price was from $3000 to $5000.

Therefore this advertisment is printed by request to correct what is evidently a wrong impression. Auburn HAS a standing second to none among the highest priced cars—

Auburn HAS everything that money can buy—but the Auburn Eight IS THE LOWEST PRICED CAR COMMENSURATE WITH QUALITY IN THE WORLD TODAY.

Auburn sales are breaking all records, not only Auburn records, but for the entire automobile industry. Auburn's popularity is the fastest growing in America today.

The enthusiasm of Auburn owners increases in proportion to the length of time they have driven their cars.

One prominent manufacturer in Cleveland, who has owned 34 cars ranging in price from $9000 to $4000 says his Auburn Eight is the "greatest of them all" (name upon request). And that is but one of thousands of equally emphatic testimonials of Auburn's outstanding superiority.

The reasons the Auburn car is so talked about and admired ARE ALL IN THE CAR ITSELF.

Drive it—compare it—and if it does not sell itself you will not be asked to buy.

18 DAY RACE MEET OPENS TOMORROW AT HAWTHORNE

Injunction Will Protect Certificate Betting.

With the silent certificate betting booths holding forth where the bookmaker, his price runners and sheet writers once operated the gates at the historic Hawthorne race track will swing open tomorrow for an 18 day fall turf season.

The meeting, attracting practically all the good horses which have campaigned at Lincoln Fields and other scattering entries is to be operated by the Chicago Business Men's Racing association of which J. C. Schank is president and Joseph A. Murphy is general manager.

There will be a $1,500 feature every day with a $2,500 race on the card for each Saturday's program. The opening day's program feature, the Michigan purse, a mile and a sixteenth event is filled with prospective starters. Iron Mask II, Chicago Hourmore, Starheck and Sure Fire are among the contenders.

The certificate speculation will be carried on by means of an injunction secured a few day ago by Attorney Albert Sabath.

Post time for the first race each day will be 2:30 o'clock and the Illinois Central is to operate special race trains at frequent intervals. The board of stewards will meet today and pass an application for licenses.

Lincoln Fields Race Notes

BOOTS DURNELL and Sammy Holman had quite a duel during the afternoon. First Holman's Blanc Seing beat Bargain Day and then Durnell's Firewater beat the good thing Vim Ginger by a whisker in the next race.

Morris, a $25,000 two year in the stable of Col. Phil T. Chinn, is dangerously ill with pneumonia at Lincoln Fields and Trainer Charley Patterson has but slight hopes for his recovery.

To determine the cause of the sudden death of Captain Hal, veterinary surgeons representing the Hartford Insurance company performed an autopsy. The viscera were removed and sent to a Chicago chemist to be analyzed. Captain Hal was insured for $25,000.

BROOKLYN TIES SPARTA SOCCER ELEVEN, 3 TO 3

Rough Game Thrills 12,000 Fans.

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Playing sensationally fast soccer but as rough a brand as has been seen here in many years, the Sparta A. C. eleven from Prague drew 3—3 with Brooklyn Wanderers before 12,000 fans at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, today.

Following much seesawing, vicious play, Sparta attacked on the right wing after 17 minutes and Hajny, fastening upon a great pass by Silny, scored the first goal. Five minutes later Conrad equalized by a fine individual effort. Perner failed on a free kick two yards outside the penalty area on McMillan's hands foul, and the teams were pressing alternately thereafter until near half time, when Hajny tallied from Silny's fine pass and Burness equalized in short order, but Silny again put Sparta ahead with a fine shot, 3 to 2.

During the interval the Brooklyn lineup was shaken up and came back at the Czechs like a new team. Fifteen minutes after the start Brooklyn again equalized, when Nelson headed into the net from Neufeld's pass. Both sides strove bitterly the rest of the way to break the deadlock, but the rival defenses held firm.

✓BELOIT, 4; KENOSHA, 1.

Beloit, Wis., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Long Tom Phillips held Kenosha to three hits here Saturday and twirled the Fairies to a 4 to 1 win. Phillips set down nine of the visitors on strikes. Cruthers' home run gave the Kenoshans their only tally.

Ontario Soccer Team Beats Bricklayers in Series Opener

Soccer as played in Canada triumphed over the Chicago brand yesterday when a team from Ontario, Can., defeated the Bricklayers, 5 to 3, in the first of a two game series at 27th street and Kostner avenue.

As far as scoring is concerned Graham of Ontario and Cuthbert of the Brickies dominated the proceedings, Graham, one of the best center forwards seen in Chicago in years, crashed the Brickies' defense for five goals. Cuthbert ran him a close race for honors by accounting for all of the Chicago markers.

The Bricklayers started with a rush, Cuthbert's toe, ably fed by passes from his mates, putting the local team in front shortly after the opening whistle. The Brickies' missed another scoring opportunity when Cant failed to register a penalty kick. As the period wore on, the Canadians began to feed the ball to Graham, who quickly turned two passes into goals to put Ontario in possession of a 5—2 lead at half time.

Graham added his fourth marker at the start of the second period, booting the ball past Rudin, who came out to block him. Cuthbert took a pass from MacLean to score another goal for the Brickies, but Graham came back with the final marker of the game. The lineup:

ONTARIO [5].		BRICKLAYERS [3.]
Halliwell	G.	Rudin
Searle	R. B.	Cant
Rankin	L. B.	Woods
Condie	R. H.	T. Hill
Gulow	C. H.	Corbett
Kelly	L. H.	Thompson
Pogson	O. R.	Keenan
Lavery	I. R.	H. Hill
Graham	C.	Anderson
Fell	I. L.	Cuthbert
Dinnie	O. L.	MacLean

Goals—Graham [5], Cuthbert [3]. Substitutes—Littleford for Thompson, Coutts for Anderson. Referee—J. W. Wood. Linesmen—E. H. Hames and J. Johnstone.

Today the Ontario team will face an all star team of the Midwest league at 27th street and Kostner avenue at 3 p. m.

A change in the Chicago program of the Sparta A. C. of Prague was announced yesterday. On Oct. 10 at Soldiers' field the Europeans will play the Ulster United of Toronto, Canadian champions, instead of Bethlehem, United States title holders. On Oct. 3 they will meet the Midwest League All Stars at Soldiers' field and the local Spartas will furnish the opposition on Oct. 23 at Cermak park.

NIESENS-SQUARES TWIN BILL TOPS SEMI-PRO CARD

The Niesens and Logan Squares will play a double header today at Kedzie and Elston streets in the feature attraction of the local semi-pro baseball schedule. The first game is slated for 1:30. McGuire and Miller are the pitching choices for the Squares, while Neisen will employ Blackburn and Paddock.

Another double header is scheduled for the Cermak-Mills stadium. The Maypole Boosters and the Downey A. C. meet in the opener, while the Romeos will face the Harmons in the nightcap.

WEISSMULLER IS WINNER AGAIN IN A. A. U. MEET

I. A. C. Leads A. A. U. Swim Meet.

Johnny Weismuller of the I. A. C. stroked his way to two more Central A. A. U. outdoor swimming championships yesterday at the Chicago Yacht club. He scored his triumphs in the 220 yard back stroke and 440 yard free style events. These victories, coupled with those registered in the one mile and 880 yard events earlier in the week, gives the Tri-Color star four individual titles and the I. A. C. a substantial lead for the club championship.

Weismuller swam the 440 yard course in 5:54 to win by five yards from his teammate, Weston Kimball. F. Springer of the C. A. A. was third. In the 220 yard back stroke Weismuller finished with a five yard advantage over Conrad Mila, also of the I. A. C. Omar Miller of Northwestern university was third.

Walter Colbath, Northwestern university freshman, provided the biggest surprise of the meet by dethroning Elder Halvorsen of the C. A. A. as springboard diving champion. Colbath amassed a total of 141.35 points to Halvorsen's 140.20. Kirby Raab of the Milwaukee A. C. was a poor third with 93.25 points.

The I. A. C. scored another triumph in the 300 meters medley swim when A. Schwartz flashed to the finish ahead of D. Peterson of the C. A. A., B. Miller of the I. A. C. was third.

The championships will close today at the Chicago Yacht club.

Drexel Parks Win 2 Games in Title Elimination Series

The Drexel Park Presbyterian baseball team won two games in the Church A. A. championship elimination series. In the curtain raiser it defeated Trinity Congregational, 4 to 3, and in the afterpiece the Drexel Park after a bitterly contested game, beat from St. James M. E., 1 to 0. Both games were played at the White City ball park. Elim Swedish M. E. Church, champion of the Church A. A. circuit, defeated Grand Avenue Congregational team, 10 to 1.

Three figures which mean extra motor car value

Buick motor cars are now designated by their wheelbase lengths. Series One Fifteen has 114½ inches of wheelbase. Series One Twenty is 120 inches from axle to axle, and Series One Twenty-eight measures 128 inches.

These designations direct attention to the fact that size is the only variation in the different Buick chassis. Every Buick engine, every part, every nut, every cotter pin, is of identical quality.

Another purpose served by these designations is to point to the extra comfort and value which result from Buick's extra wheelbase lengths.

Everyone knows that long cars ride easier than short ones. But it costs more to build them. Buick's great volume is the reason why Buick can build long wheelbase cars for such low prices. Many cars, several inches shorter than Buick and without advantages offered by Buick design, are priced considerably higher.

Compare the wheelbase length of other cars to Buick, before you spend your money.

BIG 10 COACHES, OFFICIALS TALK OVER GRID CODE

Opinion Divided on Free Kick Rule.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Knotty problems, some of which caused considerable discussion, were solved yesterday when western conference football coaches and officials met at the Hotel Sherman to agree upon uniform rules interpretations.

WALTER ECKERSALL.

Although the changes made by the rules committee at its annual session in New York last winter appear simple on the surface, they resulted in numerous arguments at yesterday's meeting. One had to be tabled with instructions to A. A. Stagg of Chicago, a member of the rules committee, to bring it up before the legislators next winter. The question which caused most discussion was the free kick. It read:

"If on a free kick other than kickoff, the ball does not go ten yards and a member of the kicker's side falls on it, is his team entitled to another try for goal?"

Kicking Team Has Advantage.

Opinion was divided and even the coaches were at a loss as to how to decide. The rule in the book states the ball must be kicked ten yards, but such procedure gives the kicking team a second chance to make the field goal and puts the defense at a disadvantage. It finally was agreed to abide by the present rule and give the kicking team another trial for the goal.

It also was agreed that if the ball on a kick-off is blocked by a man on defense in such a manner as to cause it to go out of bounds, the ball shall go to the blocking team at the point where it went out of bounds. Players who kick off must be careful to get their attempts away clean or smart defensive players will deflect the oval in such a manner it may go out of bounds in midfield.

Safeties will result when blocked kicks go out of bounds between the goal and end lines, no matter whether the blocking took place in the field of play or back of the goal line. A blocked kick which rolls over the end line shall be a safety and the same will pertain to a backward pass which goes back over the end line.

Captain Team's Spokesman.

After a substitution has been made, the referee must ask the captain of the team for his approval before renewing play. The captain must give a loud and clear affirmative answer before the ball again will be put in play. It also was agreed that the captains will be spokesmen for their team and that they are the only players who can order the referee to take time out.

When a safety has been made the ball may be put in play any place on the twenty yard line by a kick. A lateral pass followed by a kick is not permissable. On a kick-off, the ball may be kicked from any point on the forty yard line, but if the team kicks out of bounds twice, the ball shall go to the opponents, who shall put it in play by scrimmage at a point equi-distant from the sidelines on their forty yard mark.

If on an attempted field goal, the ball sails over the cross bar and between the posts, but is blown back into the field of play by a strong wind, no goal shall be allowed. This happened last fall in a local high school game and opinion differed as to its legality.

Field Judge's Duties Increased.

The field judge was given authority to rule concurrently with the referee and head linesman on all play on his side of the field. The head linesman also is instructed to assist the referee in watching for players being in motion, especially the ends and linemen who shift and then charge forward.

If an off-side player touches a punted ball on the same play in which a foul is called on the other side, it was agreed that the play shall be played over.

The head linesman may have an assistant to mark the points of previous downs. If this is done, the head linesman must notify the home management of his purpose so that admission tickets can be supplied. On all plays, the field judge and head linesman are to assist the referee in determining who last touched the ball in the field of play and where the oval went out of bounds. The head linesman shall carry the box with the numbers to denote the downs and the field judge shall fire a shot to denote the termination of each quarter.

Hand Protectors Permitted.

The coaches agreed to permit the use of hand protectors and masks for injured players. These, however, must be padded to the satisfaction of the umpire, who shall have the final decision.

Coaches in attendance were George Little, Wisconsin; H. O. Page and Zonn Clevenger, Indiana; Glenn Thistlethwaite, K. L. Wilson, Northwestern; James Phelan, Purdue; Tad Weiman, Michigan; A. A. Stagg and Fritz Crisler, Chicago; Dr. John W. Wilce and Oberlander, Ohio State; Burt Ingwerson, Iowa; Dr. C. W. Spears, Minnesota; Milt Olander, Illinois, and Knute Rockne of Notre Dame.

THE SPORTING GOODS BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

THE DANGEROUS BOUNCING CHECK.

THE late Tiny Maxwell, who earned football letters at the U. of C. and Swarthmore before he settled down to become a sports editor and a cherished landmark in Philadelphia, used to remark that an amateur was a guy who wouldn't take a check.

WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Nowadays it appears that a professional also is a guy who won't take a check, for the check has become a dangerous missile in the sport business, and many painful financial casualties are inflicted thereby in the course of a season.

The sport of check bouncing, like golf, used to be the sport of slickers and dudes and, like golf, it has only recently become the pastime of the vulgar rabble. But now the air is full of bouncing checks and they go "plunk" against the plate glass windows of the banks and rebound "sock" against the resources of those who were innocent enough to cash them in the first place.

The tropical atmosphere of Florida was so full of bouncing checks about the time that the real estate boom began to fold up last winter that some merchants were moved to put up signs on their premises stating: "Bouncing Checks Not Permitted in This Store Except on Leash." But those were real estate checks and we are speaking of the growing menace of the kangaroo check in the sport business.

Something was said about the perilous state of affairs in Shelby, Mont., a few summers ago when care-free prairie persons went about wearing hoss-cannons as part of the conventional prairie trousseau.

There was Mr. Mike Collins, for one sad example. Mr. Collins was matchmaker of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight and for this service he was to have received a large sum of money. One night Mr. Collins was out strolling along the avenue in Shelby with Mr. Eddie Kane, the manager of Tommy Gibbons, bowing a courteous time of the evening to the ladies and gents of fashion and swelling and heaving with romance and good humor and content.

Presently they came to Mayor Jim Johnson's bank and Mr. Kane said that if Mr. Collins would excuse him a moment he would step in and touch the mayor for $2,500 for Tommy's training expenses, which he promptly did. But, as the check was handed him, Mr. Kane noticed that it was signed "Jim Johnson, Treasurer," and Mr. Kane, knowing a bouncing check by the feel, as it were, bounced it right back at his honor, the mayor.

"What is this 'Jim Johnson, treasurer,' business?" Mr. Kane demanded. "Just give me a check signed, 'Jim Johnson, president of the bank.'"

This was very shrewd of Mr. Kane for his honor did as requested and when the check was presented in a St. Paul bank a few days later it did not bounce.

As Mr. Kane came out of the bank, Mr. Collins said:

"Well, now, you know, Mr. Kane, my sainted mother did not raise any feeble minded children. If his honor, the mayor, is paying off, I will just step in and get mine."

So he did. But, as Mr. Kane now relates the episode, it appears that Mr. Collins was not as astute as Mr. Kane.

"He came out," Mr. Kane states today, "with a check signed, 'Jim Johnson, treasurer.' I am afraid I was rude enough to smile at the time and I fear that I committed much uncouth laughter a few days later when the check bounced back from the bank in St Paul bearing an attached slip of paper on which was written: 'Treasurer? Treasurer of what?'"

A genuine bouncing check may bounce continuously for years. We do not know that the A. A. U. has any records of the check bounce for distance or duration. As this is not an amateur event, perhaps the A. A. U. has taken no account of distinguished performances. However, we discovered a check last winter which had been bouncing for two years. It was down in Miami. Mr. Will Gibson, the manager of Gene Tunney, had bounced this check two winters before as part payment in a somewhat unconventional business venture and when the venture failed the check took off with an enormous hop and began to bounce. It bounced to Palm Beach and back to Miami. It bounced to New York and back to Palm Beach. It bounced hither and yon and when Mr. Gibson happened into Miami last winter to negotiate for the new famous fight that failed between Tunney and Willie Stribling the check took one final, frantic hop and fell plop at Mr. Gibson's feet.

We have heard of many other instances of check bouncing for great and small sums, over great and small distances, for long and short periods of time. Mr. Broadway John Cox once showed us a specially prepared bouncer which he called the Jackrabbit, which he said was the very latest model affected by the gentlemen of the sport profession. It was not drawn on any bank, but on a mythical firm of Jones and Smith, or some such matter and Mr. Cox had paid $25 on it

TAYLOR HOPES TO GIVE INDIANA FIRST RING TITLE

When Champion Charley Phil Rosenberg and Challenger Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., meet for the world's bantamweight championship at the Cubs' park Thursday night it will be the first title match held in Chicago between 118 pounders since 1894.

CHARLEY ROSENBERG.

In that year Jimmy Barry knocked out Casper Leon in twenty-eight rounds. Incidentally Barry was the first Chicagoan ever to hold the bantamweight championship. Since Barry's time two other local battlers have won the crown. Harry Forbes was champion from 1901 to 1903 and Johnny Coulon from 1909 to 1914.

While Bud Taylor is an Indiana boy and expects to give the Hoosier state its first fistic championship, Chicago fans will root for him with as much enthusiasm as if he were a native son. Fans here always will look upon Bud as a local fighter because he has done most of his boxing in and around Chicago.

Always Tries to Please.

Taylor not only is a favorite with Chicago boxing fans, but he is well liked in all sections of the middle west and on the Pacific coast.

Sharp followers of boxing, however, do not think Taylor is the cinch his supporters believe. While Bud is recognized as the superior boxer, Rosenberg must be given credit for his punching ability. He has a dangerous left hook and a wicked right cross. He showed his punching power against Peter Sarmiento recently, when he had the Filipino on the floor five times, once for the nine count.

In Taylor's six years of fighting he has lost only two referees' decisions, one to Pancho Villa, the former flyweight champion, and the other to Bushy Graham. Only once was he knocked down, by Harold Smith at East Chicago three years ago. He has met the best in the bantamweight division in no-decision contests, but never has been able to get into the ring with a champion in a decision contest.

Champ Confident of Victory.

Rosenberg believes that Taylor is certain to be defeated. The champion and his manager, Harry Segal, admit the titleholder's record is not as impressive as that of the challenger, but this means nothing to them. They claim the fans will be given a real surprise.

Champion and challenger are training faithfully. Both go on the road every morning and do their boxing at Mullen's gymnasium in the afternoons. They will complete preparation on Tuesday. The drying out process then will start.

WASHINGTON LAD STAR OF AMATEUR BICYCLE RACES

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Dangerous spills thrilled the spectators at the opening of the two day championship meet of the Amateur Bicycle League of America today at the sesquicentennial stadium.

C. Atwood of Washington, D. C., was the star of the meet. He won the junior one mile unpaced race from a field of 25 sectional champions and finished second to Irving McNulty of Denver, Colo., in the junior one-quarter mile. Bob Thomas of Wisconsin was beaten by three-fifths of a second in the junior mile unpaced.

Sisulak Wins West Parks Barnyard Golf Tourney

Horseshoe champions of the west parks system were determined yesterday at Douglas park. In the senior division S. Sisulak of the home team won the singles title, while J. Moskus and J. Yurus of Stanford park captured the senior doubles crown. The junior singles championship was won by J. Michuda of Douglas park, and the junior doubles by J. Bighau and W. O'Neil of Dvorak park.

Hanousek, N. D., Star to Coach at St. Thomas

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—One more Notre Dame football player has taken up the coaching profession, the last man to join the gridiron instructors being Dick Hanousek, formerly full back and guard on the Rockne elevens. Hanousek goes to St. Thomas college, near St. Paul, Minn., from which institution he was graduated before entering Notre Dame.

St. Thomas has been keeping Notre Dame coaches for several years, the selection of Hanousek following the resignation of Joseph Brandy, former Notre Dame quarter and the star of the 1920 Gold and Blue team.

Locke's Marks O.K., Midwest A. A. U. Rules

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Roland Locke's bid for two world's records held by Charles Paddock, has been officially recognized by the Midwestern A. A. U. His time of 9 3-5 seconds for the 100 yard dash and 20.7 seconds for the 220 yard dash, now will be sent to the National A. A. U. record board, and if the national board approves them, Locke will stand as the world's fastest human racer.

Locke made the 100 yard record at the Drake relays last spring and the 220 yard time in Nebraska-Missouri dual meet at Lincoln last May 1.

AVONDALE, 7; AUDUBON, 4.

Athletes representing Avondale playground yesterday won the senior indoor baseball championship of the Chicago city playgrounds by defeating Audubon, 7 to 4, at the Waters playground gym.

WHITE SOX PARK TO SEAT 60,000 AT 1927 GAMES

Work Will Start Next Week.

Work of enlarging the White Sox park so that there will be seats for 60,000 will be started before another week has passed. The contract for the work was let yesterday, President Comiskey announced last night and the new structure will be ready for the opening game of the 1927 season. The H. F. Friestedt company will do the work.

The additional seats will be possible by extending the double decked seats clear around the playing field. In this way, nearly 25,000 will be added. The park at present seats something more than 35,000.

Many times, not only this season and last, but in other years, the present stand was inadequate, though when Mr. Comiskey built it in 1910 he thought it would be large enough for all time. Crowds have overflowed onto the field, thus making a bad condition for playing the game. All seats in the new structure will be under roof.

The reconstruction work will not interfere with the completion of the Sox schedule nor with the playing of professional football there this fall. The Sox close the season on Sept. 26, and the Chicago Bulls of the Pyle-Grange league, with Joe Sternaman as leader, will perform on Sundays up to the middle of December.

Purdue University Track Star Marries Gary Girl

Gary, Ind., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The marriage a week ago yesterday of Ashbury Jake Spencer, Purdue university football and track star, to Lois Casement, daughter of Mrs. C. B. Johnston of 621 Virginia, Gary, became known today.

ST. MARKS WIN LUTHERAN TRACK MEET; GARY 2D

St. Marks with 36 points won the annual outdoor track and field championships of the men's division of the Evangelical Lutheran A. A. held yesterday at Lake Shore playgrounds. St. Johns of Gary, Ind., was second with 19 points and St. Johns of Indianapolis third with 16 points.

Pilgrim captured the honors in the women's competition with 24 points against 19 for St. Stephens. Miss Elinor Sparfeld was high point scorer in the women's events and Harold Kendt in the men's competition.

Printers' Nine to Play Cragin Squares Today

Chicago Union Printers will play the Cragin Squares at Central and Grand avenues today at 3 p. m. Herb Maas and O'Malley will be the battery for the Printers, while Donnelly and Richter will work for the Cragins.

Current Obstacle May Halt Catalina Isle Swimmers

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A cold current six miles broad and flowing directly across the course at a speed of about one knot an hour is the obstacle that aspirants for the $25,000 prize for the successful swimming of the channel between this island and the mainland must overcome, the chart of the relay swim completed yesterday shows.

The 15 swimmers who negotiated the channel in 23 hours and 17 minutes also found a current during the latter part of their swim bearing from the island toward the mainland which may prove an aid to swimmers from the island to the mainland.

The result of the relay swim is said to show it is nearly impossible for one swimmer to swim from Long Beach to Avalon.

Gasoline Mileage Greatly Improved

F. O. B. Detroit, plus War Excise Tax

A. Y. D. (At Your Door) Prices are:
Coach - - - $1275
Brougham - - $1590
Sedan - - - $1680

With its new steel body in new lines and color, and as rigid as a steel building, the New Hudson Coach brings even greater improvements in the finest Super-Six chassis ever built.

Gasoline mileage is greatly improved. Added to the more important factors of Hudson economy, it gives lower operating costs than any previous Hudson, or any car of comparable quality.

The Super-Six principle which for eleven years has given Hudson exclusive mechanical supremacy through elimination of vibration, is now supplemented by a balanced flywheel increasing smoothness, power, performance and reliability. Vibration is completely eliminated. Motor life is increased. New springing and steering gives greater comfort, and freedom from shimmying at all speeds.

Gasoline, cleaned and strained, filtered air, and motor protected from dust and dirt are all taken care of in Hudson design without the added cost and complication of special accessories.

Its finer and more lastingly beautiful body and a chassis that in all ways overshadows past Super-Sixes makes the New Coach more outstandingly than ever the World's Greatest Buy.

The New HUDSON Super-Six COACH

Standard Equipment Includes:
Automatic Windshield Cleaner, Rear View Mirror, Transmission Lock (built-in), Radiator Shutters, Moto-Meter, Combination Stop and Tail Light.

WHO'S GOING TO REPLACE RED? ZUPPKE PUZZLED

Pins Hope on Three Sophomores.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Things are stirring in the University of Illinois football camp as the Illini make ready for the opening of practice next Wednesday. Robert C Zuppke, who begins his fourteenth year as coach, has ordered nearly 60 candidates to report and there will be more additions when the university opens on Sept. 20.

COACH ZUPPKE.

Coach Zuppke, in fine physical trim after his summer in California and Alaska, concedes that prospects are fair but he refuses to admit that they are brilliant. The coach points out that Illinois must develop a new back field and that there is always a question of how the sophomore recruits, however well they do in practice, will perform under fire.

Although there are few scholastic ineligibilities in the entire squad, it happens that two of the veteran linemen have examinations to pass before they can play. Looking on the bright side, the three sophomore backs from whom most is expected, Timm, Lanum and Peters, are eligible and so is Russ Daugherity. These four players composed the varsity back field all through spring practice.

Coach Zuppke is almost worn out by questions, such as, "Who is going to take Grange's place?" Of course, the coach has no idea that any of the new backs will shine with Red's luster. What "Zup" hopes is to be able to construct a well rounded back field in which every man can contribute some yardage. Even then, the new boys will have to be pretty good to equal the total gains which the Wheaton flash made. The chances are that they won't do it.

Provided that Zuppke can start out with a veteran line, which is not improbable, it would seem that the Illini outlook is for a team that will at least be as good as last year. This means something, since Illinois held Michigan to a field goal and defeated Pennsylvania, Ohio State, and Chicago, losing to Iowa by a score that was close.

MISS MACKENZIE WINS TITLE.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Miss Ada MacKenzie of Toronto added the Canadian ladies' closed golf championship to her list of victories, defeating the defending champion, Miss Helen Paget of Ottawa in the final here today, 7 and 6.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Daniel Wyatt, 3239 N. Sacramento boulevard, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you think Chicago will support three professional football teams?

Where Asked.

The Drake hotel.

The Answers.

Fred Kiddle, 504 West North avenue, swimming instructor—No, I don't think so. Football is a college game. Fans will patronize it as such, but its clientele in pro ranks is limited. Save for a few games when Red Grange personally drew big crowds, the sport never has drawn well in Chicago.

Edward M. Harron, 2256 North Keeler avenue, art student—If the crowds at the end of last season count for anything, there is room here for three elevens. Pro football is gaining followers steadily, due to the caliber of players it is attracting and it probably won't be long until it will rival the college game as far as attendance is concerned.

Robert Boyer, Boston, Mass., student—I don't think there's a city in the country in which three pro elevens can operate successfully. Persons interested in football are amateur fans. Commercial sport usually has little appeal for them. If one of the Chicago clubs proves a consistent winner, it may draw well. The other two are almost sure to get a financial bump.

Rudolph Stratta, 654 Gordon terrace, student—Supporters of pro football must develop winning teams if they hope to draw. Pro fans will follow a team if it's a winner. I doubt if Chicago will have three winners.

Harry Wawelka, 1819 School street, life guard—Grange showed the world last season that fans will patronize pro football if they are provided with high class performers. With so much new material to serve as drawing power, I'm sure the three Chicago elevens will be well supported.

STAGG LOSES HIS BATTERING RAMS; PLANS OPEN PLAY

Followers of Maroon football are wondering what Amos Alonzo Stagg will do when he marshals his little group of athletes next Wednesday and opens a new campaign with only seven letter men around whom he can build his team.

Last year, the most unfortunate Chicago has experienced in a long time, will be written off the books in more ways than one. All of the old team is gone, and only a few stragglers remain for the new start, but the stragglers will be inspired with a different fire from that evinced by the 1925 squad which lost to Pennsylvania, Illinois, Dartmouth, and Wisconsin on successive Saturdays, when it possessed material that was the envy of every coach in the conference.

Full Back Tradition Passing.

And it will be a different kind of team this year. The crashing full back tradition, starting out with Hugo Bezdek and Leo De Tray twenty years ago, gaining weight with Norgren, Shull, John Thomas, Zorn, and Austin McCarty, is broken.

The Midway is out of battering rams, but Stagg has Kyle Anderson and Kline, both of whom are good passers; Anderson and McKinney, open field runners, and Stan Rouse and Capt. Wally Marks to slash off the tackles. Since he has lost the material for his old attack, Stagg will have to start his new team with a new one.

Stagg has one possible successor to "Five Yards" McCarty. Leyers, a sophomore, has plenty of drive and may be resting in the full back's shoes when the Maroons open against Florida. Thorpe Drain, if he returns to school, is the logical man for quarter back, although Milt Macklind, a sub of two years ago, who spent last fall in Japan pitching on the baseball team, may get the post.

Tackles Worry Stagg.

Stagg isn't worrying about his back field, but the tackle problem bothers him. Last fall he lost Capt. Henderson and Hobscheid, who had paired at tackle for three years, and George Scott, his first substitute. He has only Borden and Cochrane left for the jobs. These men are tall and rangy, and carry plenty of weight, Borden scaling around 205 and Cochrane 200. Sol Weislow, a sophomore, is another tackle possibility.

At the ends Stagg has Yeisley and Apitz of last year's team and Dick Spence from the freshman; at guard, Redden and Wolf, both letter men, are certainties, and at center Ken Rouse will fill the bill.

Among the names on the Maroon coaching roster is that of Fred Henderson, tackle and captain of last year's team. Henderson will return to the Midway to coach the line and study law.

ROSLYN POLO TEAM LOSES.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Orange county polo team today defeated the Roslyn four, 17 goals to 5, in the semi-final match of the sesquicentennial international tournament at the Philadelphia Country club.

PURPLE STADIUM RISES AS GRID SEASON NEARS

40,000 Seats for Notre Dame Game.

K. L. WILSON.

Northwestern university will have one of the most complete athletic fields in the country when present plans are carried out, according to Director of Athletics Kenneth L. Wilson.

The new stadium occupies the southeast corner of a thirty acre tract. The structure when completed will seat 80,000 and will be one of the largest in the middle west. Present specifications call for the completion of 25,000 seats for the first game of the season, with South Dakota, Oct. 2.

Second Deck Ready Oct. 23.

The second deck of the west stand will be ready for the Notre Dame contest on Oct. 23 and this will add 12,000 seats to the total. Over 40,000 will be accommodated at that game, it is expected. In the future a second deck will be added to the east stand, which will be extended slightly by adding two sections on either side. Two end stands also may be erected, making an enormous bowl seating 80,000.

Between the two stands is the two hundred yard oval, upon which the new gridiron is laid out. This grass plot also will be used for the field events in track meets.

Around the oval is the quarter mile track, with a two twenty yard straightaway that ends in front of the center of the west stand. The track will be installed this fall and will have all winter to settle. This will insure the Purple a fast running course next spring, when the first outdoor track meets will be witnessed in Evanston college circles after an absence of many years.

Three Practice Fields.

To the rear of the gridiron will be three practice fields. One will be directly in back of the varsity field, another will be to the west of this, and still another to the rear of the second one. These will be used for the fall and spring practices, one being devoted exclusively to the freshmen teams.

Still further back, twenty tennis courts will be built. A large baseball diamond also will be constructed. Accommodations for horseshoe pitchers also will be made.

Underneath the stadium will be a complete indoor athletic plant, including handball and squash courts for intra-mural work and wrestling rooms. Then there is a classroom, where the chalk talks to the athletic teams will be given. A locker room, with over a thousand six foot lockers, will be ready this fall. Hot and cold showers and rubbing room paraphernalia will be installed.

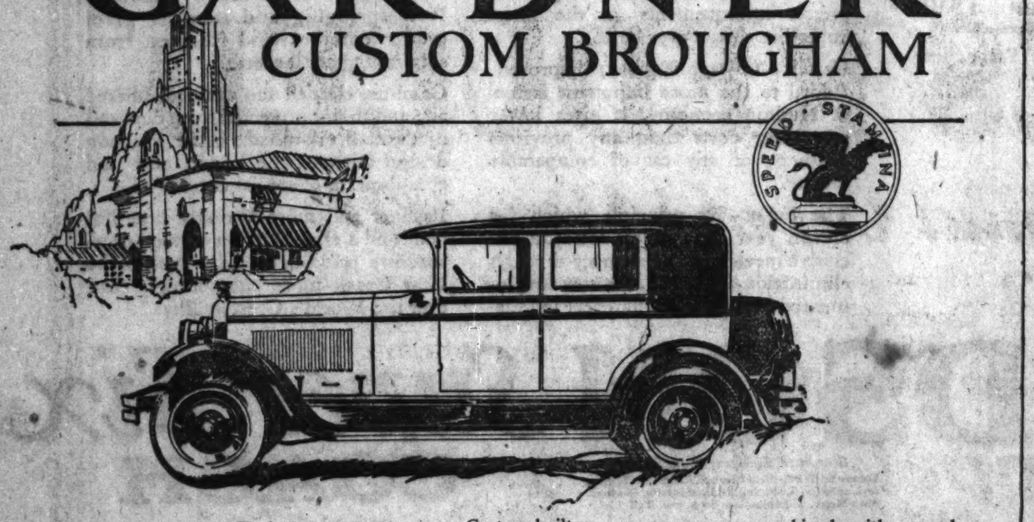
GARDNER

CUSTOM BROUGHAM



Gardner announces a new Custom-built Four-door Brougham — an exquisite closed car creation by Lubitz, master designer of custom-built bodies, who in this newest Gardner model has successfully combined European elegance of body design with American mechanical excellence—at a fair American price.

The new, graceful body is a veritable symphony of color harmonies and the interior is a rare example of Old World sumptuousness, combined with good taste and sophisticated simplicity. The restful tilt of the seats . . . the rich mohair upholstery harmonizing so beautifully with Butler silver-finish hardware . . . the highly finished mahogany panel above the instrument board . . . the garnish rails to match thruout . . . the windshield curving with the contour of the body . . . the wider doors . . . the added spaciousness between the front and rear compartments. . . .

Body by Lubitz

We invite you to see this new Brougham and the other Gardner Custom body styles now displayed at our new show rooms at 2530 Michigan Avenue, and by the Gardner dealers listed below:

BOBBY JONES HAS CHANCE TO WIN 3 TITLES IN ROW

May Set Record for National Amateur.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

"Can Bobby Jones make it three straight?" You'll hear that question from some doubter in every locker room and on the eve of the national amateur championship, and most of the answers are "yes." The faith of the American golfer in Atlanta's blonde pride is abounding. And yet, when the 152 accepted entries—twenty-seven were rejected—go to the tee of the 479 yard first hole of Baltusrol's lower course tomorrow morning Bobby will tackle a task that has cracked other great golfers.

BOBBY JONES.

In his favor or not, depending on the way the draw might have gone in the old method of scheduling matches according to the medal score or "out of a hat" were to be used, is the innovation this year of seeding the "first ten." Jones, himself, as No. 1, will head the top half of the draw.

Von Elm Tops Lower Bracket.

At the top of the second flight will be George von Elm of the Rancho club, Los Angeles, and runner up to Jones two years ago. Von Elm never has played up to his true form in the national amateur and this year may be a repetition of 1924. And from there on will be placed in order, Francis Ouimet, Jesse Guilford, Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, and Frank Dolp, new western amateur champion. All of these except Evans and Dolp were members of the Walker cup team.

Picking the "big threats" from this field is somewhat like choosing the Kentucky Derby winner from a bunch of yearling colts. Von Elm, always among the leaders; Watts Gunn, Dolp's protégé, but a much improved golfer since last year, when he went through to the final; "Seige Gun" Guilford—they're all capable of upsetting the dope.

Dawson Brothers Entered.

And going back to the youngsters, Frank Dolp's putter is more than likely to send him far up; the Dawson brothers, George and John, from Glen Oak of Chicago, both have been shooting rounds of under 70 with a frequency that bodes little good for opposition.

The Baltusrol club is at the foot of Baltusrol mountain, in New Jersey, midway between Morristown and Newark.

Swift and Meigs Win Glen View Golf Trophies

Whust mon, but the heatrehr-r-r-r on the fairr-r-r-rways got a turr-r-rible wallopin' yesterday when more than a hundred golfers played the Glen View course in the annual Two Days invitational tournament, which happened to be only one day this year. And after the sun had set, the air got a worr-r-rse wallopin' while they all told each other all about it.

The trophies were many and glittering enough to make any Scot's palm itch, but the most coveted of the lot went to Alden B. Swift and Merrill C. Meigs. Swift won the Laigh and Lang trophy for the low gross on 36 holes with 76—71—147, and Meigs won the Laigh and Lang for the low net on 36 holes with 72—73—145. His handicap was 12.

For names that roll on the tongue, especially the r's, twelve of the thirteen flights take a prize in themselves. Here's the list and the winners of each:

Auchtermuchty, Kenneth H. Burns, 158; Ben MacDhui, C. C. Hopkins, 156; Bannockburn, Waldo Thorsen, 160; Brum Tochty, Dr. F. P. Horan, 156; Beciesochan, E. A. Engler, 153; Fogrunnon, David J. Malley, 157; Cairn Gorm, J. S. Knowlson, 168; Dalgonie, M. E. Traylor, 162; Skelmorlie, H. L. Dixon, 149; Auchterarder, H. H. Burns, 158; Auld Licht, E. A. Mayo, 166; Gillie, V. F. Mashew, 155. The thirteenth flight is unnamed and was won by W. J. Plamondon.

V. B. Mayo proved the best putt putter, taking 15 on nine holes of the clock. The Auchterlonie, for the greatest number of holes under par, went to H. W. Bishop, who had two birdies on his card. John D. Black may or may not be proud of it, but he got the Whustle Dinkie for the highest 36 hole gross, 272, and the Tam o' Shanter, for the morning low net, was won by Seymour Wheeler, 86—4—76.

The Rob Roy, choice net 18 of 36 holes, went to F. J. Dersbach, 75—4—71, and the Barley Broe, choice gross 18 of 36 holes, to D. S. Bishop, 74. There were four low net prizes for the afternoon, which were awarded as follows: Robert Dhu to Jack Vilas, 78—3—75; Ben Cruachan, Don McMurray, 79—3—76; Slouchas, to Philip Little, 86—8—78; Birkie, Harry H. Wolf, 82—4—78.

And last in their swanky breeks came the Fearsome Foursome, the fearsomest being the one composed of A. B. Swift, Don McMurray, E. E. Egan, and L. P. Cobb, who among them took 631 strokes, plus their handicaps, to win the low net. Another was the quartet of Kenneth H. Burns, Harry H. Wolf, H. W. Bishop, and Frank Doublas, who split among them the prize for the best ball. They won with a 65.

OLYMPIA FIELDS.

C. C. Taylor won the T. A. Barrett cup by a 2 and 1 victory over J. N. Davis in the 18 hole final over No. 4 course. On No. 3 course the best ball foursome first place went to D. R. Smith, F. S. Boyden, L. J. Conklin and H. T. Webb, who had 66 net. Ball sweepstakes on No. 1 course ended in a tie between C. Rethermel, 88—14—74 and A. L. Heald, 85—11—74. Don Hamilton was next with 78—3—75.

SOUTH SHORE.

In the third round of the club championship, Eustace Vynne defeated James F. McGrath, 6 and 5; C. F. Wiley defeated R. H. Fleming, 6 and 5; F. T. Wiggins defeated C. A. Nance, 3 and 2, and W. F. Lefferty defeated J. F. Chelina, 1 up. J. Callahan won the match play against par ball sweepstakes, 1 down, with a card of 79—16—64. W. F. Lefferty was second, 3 down, 79—6—73, and R. J. Neal third, 4 down, 83—14—69. J. V. Sullivan won the blind bogey, 84—9—75.

OAK PARK.

Two twenty-hole matches featured the first round of the club championship, W. Y. Gilmore, Jr., defeating A. J. Nye, and H. L. Hartig defeating H. H. Loomis, both 1 up on the second extra hole. Other results were: L. B. Derreo defeated M. A. Evans, 5 and 4; J. P. Hook defeated W. C. Albro, 1 up; C. L. Peniston defeated W. H. Spear, 2 and 1, and W. H. Spear, Jr., defeated F. M. Pebbles, 4 and 2. L. P. Hook, in addition to winning his championship match, won the ball sweepstakes with 76 and was low gross in class A with the same score. Low gross in the other classes were: Class B—G. Babson, 85; class C—G. D. Webb, 93; class D—P. C. Peachy, 95.

CHICAGO GOLF.

Frank O. Weimore won the Saturday cup at Chicago Golf with a net score of 71. His gross score was 93. George McConnell, 75—7—72, was the runner-up. About 75 played during the day.

SEMI-FINALS in the club championship play at Acacia will be contested next Saturday. The semi-finalists are Roy Martin, who defeated Art Wilson, 3 and 2; F. Von Ritter, who beat H. Reese, 1 up; G. A. Brown, who bested C. T. Darnall, 5 and 3, and C. M. Hamilton, who won over Dr. D. D. Gayless, 2 up. In the class C championship play, first round, W. H. Weakley defeated R. Von Ritter, 2 up; Jerry Olson beat J. F. Logenson, 1 up, 20 holes; O. Heine defeated W. Koingsfeld, 1 up, 20 holes; E. Bittler defeated J. Hulla, 1 up; J. D. Gibson defeated A. A. Ewings, 2 up, and R. J. Ellis defeated Dr. D. E. Singleton, 1 up, 21 holes. L. M. Felt won the ball sweepstakes with 90—18—72. Roy Martin, 75—2—73; G. A. Brown, 79—6—73, and B. V. Campbell, 93—20—73, tied for second.

RAVISLOE.

Qualifying rounds for the president's cup play in the various classes were held. The qualifiers, the pairings and the qualifying scores follow: Class A—Walter Rubovits [76—5—71] vs. M. Pollack [85—10—75]; L. Katz [86—10—76] vs. Herbert Fried [77—6—71; R. Leopold [84—10—74] vs. R. Lowenthal [87—9—78], and Harold D'Ancona [83—7—76] vs. L. Bauer [76—5—71]. Goldsmith [94—21—73] vs. H. G. Lurie [99—24—75]; G. H. Gottschalk [99—24—75] vs. Joe Lederer [92—22—70]. Class D—Harry Soloman [108—29—79] vs. Nathan Engle [113—27—86]; Max Van Clees [119—30—89] vs. Sig Loeb [107—25—82]; E. Stein [110—26—84] vs. Felix Van Clees [121—30—91]; C. N. Hirsch [119—30—89] vs. M. H. Eickengreen [107—26—81].

FLOSSMOOR.

O. M. Patterson and W. B. Howe topped classes A and B in the 18 hole medal play with full handicap by shooting twin scores of 83—5—78. In classes C and D, Dr. A. F. James was low with 95—16—79. C. P. Thomson tied with Patterson in the ball sweepstakes. Thompson shooting 88—10—78 and Patterson 83—5—78. A. F. James, 90—11—79, and F. A. Base, 85—4—79, were next, followed by A. N. Cordell, 88—7—81, and C. V. Esarquer, 87—6—81.

SKOKIE.

J. J. Paterson won the Saturday cup with 77—7—70 and G. Sibley won the putting prize, taking 37 putts on his round.

ENGLEWOOD.

In class A of the class handicap tournament, Burton Mudd Jr., won with 75—3—72. Class B honors went to W. C. White, 99—19—80, while in class C, Franklin G. Smith, 104—28—76, was returned the victor.

ONE hundred and seventy-five golfers played Edgewood Valley's course yesterday in the first annual tournament, which hasn't been given a permanent and exclusive name as yet, but which has one coming. The day had all the trimmings of a Scotch carnival, even down to the kilties. A. L. Miller of Glen Flora walked off with the low gross prize for his card of 76. Second was Arthur B. Sweet with 77. First low net went to George Gray, 83-11-73, and second to C. H. Jones, 85-8-77. Henry Rautenbush got the prize for low gross on the first nine, with 37, and H. A. Fletcher duplicated that score on the second nine for a similar prize. A. H. Kimball got a prize, but wasn't particularly proud of it—he shot 102 and was awarded a trophy for the highest score of the class A men.

GLEN OAK.

J. J. Green was a double winner, his 87—13—75 topping class B monthly medal play and winning the blind bogey. E. C. McKinnie, 91—12—79, was second in class B. E. W. Belling won in class A with 84—9—75, and R. A. Harmon was second, with 81—6—75. L. J. Pellican won in class C with 96—18—78. W. A. Dernbach was second in the blind bogey.

RIDGEMOOR.

The Wild Braves Hedge trophy went to Charles S. O'Leary, who shot at 98—23—70 to claim it. In the second round of the club championship J. H. Victor defeated T. Gallagher, 2 and 1; M. A. Michaelsen defeated J. J. Quinn, 1 up; A. M. Jones defeated E. A. Thornton, 5 and 4, and H. E. Radix defeated R. J. Russell, 4 and 2.

IDLEWILD.

Ralph Kunstadter won the club championship by defeating Joe Lelewer, 5 and 4, in a 36 hole final. In the consolation flight, Sam Rosenthal defeated Henry Felsenthal, 5 and 4.

WESTMORELAND.

G. A. Eddy won the Fellowship cup when he went around in 85—14—71. Eighty-six was the blind bogey number, with five golfers retiring that as their final score. Dr. A. P. Grumm had 96—10—86; R. R. McKinnis shot 94—8—86; A. J. Lindstrom had 96—10—86; H. C. Hammond finished with 86 from scratch, and W. D. Murdock had 96—10—86. Ball sweepstakes leaders: A. C. Perry, 75—2—73; M. A. Mummert, 84—11—73; R. M. Moore, 81—8—73, and A. L. Owens, 88—15—73.

EDGEWATER.

J. R. Murphy won his way to the final match for the club championship by defeating E. C. West, 3 up, in the semi-finals. The other finalist has not yet been decided. J. G. Condon and C. P. Myers tied for first in the match play against par event, each being 2 down at the finish. The feature match in the autumn tournament, class A, saw R. J. Rich defeat P. J. Tracy, 1 up, over 22 holes. In class B, W. F. Donohue defeated S. J. Miniter, 1 up.

LEE N. THILTGES regained his winning form at Calumet and defeated W. L. Eulass, 2 up, for the class A Ashcraft cup. Thiltges finished second, however, to E. A. Eulass in the ball sweepstakes. Eulass shot 80—7—73, while Thiltges, playing from scratch, had a 76. In the class Z ball sweepstakes A. T. Brainerd, 87—13—74, won, while W. J. Kelly, 93—16—77, was the runner up. D. C. Wing won in class C on his 97—20—77. Semi-finals were held in the class B Ashcraft cup play, with the finals scheduled for next Saturday. A. T. Brainerd beat A. P. Riley, 1 up, and J. Rose defeated L. A. Barge, 1 up. J. O. Heinley won the 18 hole medal play, full handicap, event. His card was 80—11—69. E. A. Eulass was the runner up with his 80—7—73.

RIDGE.

Semi-finalists in the club and class championships were devided. Results of the second round play in the club championship, the winners of which will meet in the semi-finals next Saturday, follow: J. K. Lamb defeated W. G. Langt, 4 and 3; C. E. Carner defeated W. S. Glipe, 3 and 2; Mack Lamb beat C. S. Pillsbury, 6 and 5; Robert Dearborn defeated G. M. Lawrence, 1 up. Second round results in the class A play: R. S. Beatty defeated H. A. Stewart, 3 and 2; H. J. Mix defeated F. H. Schultz, 2 up; G. Gravait won over L. C. Harter, 3 and 1; E. Smith defeated Dr. T. J. McCarthy, 1 up. In the second round play of the class B event, F. W. Pike defeated E. L. Cassell, 3 and 1; J. Jacobsen defeated J. Fryer, 3 and 1; R. F. Rockefeller defeated H. H. Orr, 2 and 1; A. H. Whitley defeated E. R. King, 4 and 3. Four golfers tied for first prize in the blind bogey event, they being W. O. Gunger, Gordon Fox, J. Jacobson and E. L. Cassell.

BUNKER HILL.

Qualifying round for the Yorktown trophy was the chief event and Walter Bracken topped the medal round with 84—12—71, though A. E. Norman had low gross, 75—4—74. Others who qualified for the match play are: A. N. Sorensen, 92—20—72; Rocco Vocco, 86—14—72; Harry Reynolds, 87—14—73; R. S. Pierce, 89—15—74; S. E. Bromley, 94—20—74; H. W. Truitt, 93—19—74; George Dorman, 90—15—75; W. S. Puriock, 88—13—75; J. J. Murphy, 95—20—75; W. H. Rogerson, 86—10—76; Thomas Lunceford, 96—20—76; J. M. Coen, 93—17—76; Norman Douglas, 91—14—77, and C. W. Hageman, 87—10—77.

BOB O' LINK.

L. G. Pinkley won the 18 hole medal round for classes A and B with 86—15—71, and J. A. Rankin, 94—22—72, and F. S. Fagin, 92—20—72, tied in class C and D.

BROOKWOOD.

In the semi-finals of the club championship, H. W. Markwaig defeated W. H. Brown 4 and 2 and V. M. Huntington beat E. W. Page, 2 and 1. Gale Walker and Page tied with 82 in the ball sweepstakes and the blind bogey went to H. E. Cole with 93.

WALTER W. AHLSCHLAGER is the new club champion at Evanston, having defeated C. F. Murray, 2 and 1, in the 36 hole final. The Fathers' and Sons' tournament attracted considerable interest. R. G. Howse, 94—22—72, and his son Bob, 93—19—73, were the winning pair, with a low net of 145. C. W. Edwards and son, H. D., were the runners-up. Edwards Sr. shot 85—11—74, while his son got a 97—21—76, for second low net of 150. Special prizes were given the other low net players in the day's play. First prize went to J. M. Krafthefer for his 79—9—70. K. W. Wonnell took second on his 91—19—72, while third went to H. S. Camp for his 86—7—73.

BUTTERFIELD.

In one of the closest title matches ever played on the course, James Ready won the crown, 1 up, from J. C. Wantz in the 36 hole final. Their medal scores were but one stroke apart. E. N. Wantz won the blind bogey, with Martin J. O'Brien the runner-up.

EXMOOR.

Dwight Smith won the match play against par, the chief competitive event on the day's schedule. He was 1 up. Other leaders were: H. W. Boyd, even up; G. A. Orle, 2 down; H. C. Gifford, 3 down, and J. J. Roberts, 3 down.

NORTH SHORE.

Blind bogey was the chief competitive event of the day. A. G. Talbot, 89, was the winner. M. Zabbel was second with 94.

RIVERSIDE.

Match play versus par for the F. F. Story trophy, the big event, was won by A. M. Reed, who was 3 down. The ball sweepstakes leaders, class A were: F. F. Story, 84—12—71; E. M. Bell, 86—14—72; J. C. Hartig, 79—3—73. Class B winners were: E. J. Morgan, 95—16—77; W. R. Williams, 94—16—78; M. C. Morris, 97—17—80. In class C, Sumner Gary, 105—29—76, was first, with George C. Benard and E. L. Cummins tied for second with identical totals of 101—23—78.

PARK RIDGE.

Mrs. Charles E. Carqueville is the new women's champion. She defeated Virginia Rodormer, 1 up on 36 holes. Beverly F. Hall, 74—4—70, won the 18 hole medal play handicap event.

PRO-AMATEUR.

Fifteen pros from the Chicago district will journey to South Bend, Ind., tomorrow afternoon for a scheduled pro-amateur league match.

HINSDALE.

Match play against par and ball sweepstakes featured the program. V. S. Buchanan won the class A match against par, 3 down. R. H. Kilner was best in class B, 4 down. C. C. Lamb and C. M. Howell tied in class C, 5 down, and A. R. LeRoy won class D, 3 down. In the ball sweep, the results were: Class A, Gardner Brown, 78; class B, I. B. Fry, 86; class C, Wade Fetzer; class D, A. R. LeRoy, 104.

Annual Blowout at Illinois Goes Over with Bang

Illinois held its twenty-fifth annual "Blow Out" yesterday, and after it was over the committee in charge was granted tacit consent to do a little of that sticking out the chest sort of thing. One hundred and fifty members and guests made the rounds of the course, and the best fairway shooters turned out to be John Morrell and Jack Pentecost, who tied for low gross with 80s. J. A. Armstrong won the low net with 82—16—66, and S. J. Wilkins was second with 86—14—72. The low foursome, who took 305 strokes net, was E. Koglin, H. J. Greaves, S. J. Wilkins, and Gilbert Burns.

MIDLOTHIAN.

George E. Miller and W. A. Graff tied 1 down to par in 18 holes for the Dr. Paul A. Edmund trophy. The ball sweepstakes also resulted in a tie. In class A, G. E. Miller, 83—10—73; F. M. Warden, 80—7—73, and H. N. Cudney, 82—15—73, tied for first and J. H. Johnson, 84—10—74; J. D. Creevy, 84—10—74, and H. S. Mikesell, 90—16—74, tied for second. In classes C and D, D. B. Johnson won, with 96—24—75, and W. H. Betts, 99—20—79, and P. E. Moore, 104—25—79, tied for second.

INDIAN HILL.

The 18 hole medal play contest went to L. S. Hammond, Jr., with 76—6—70. G. I. Bell was second, 85—13—72, and four tied for third. They were: R. E. Bard, 95—22—73; R. C. Butler, 84—11—73; F. W. Copeland, 85—12—73; and R. H. Ripley, 81—8—73.

BEVERLY.

J. J. Monahan, 86—15—71, tied with J. H. Wood, 79—8—71, for first low net in 18 holes, but won the draw. W. F. Pape, 97—24—73, also was lucky, winning on a draw after tieing with C. N. Eastman, 91—18—73, and F. F. Holmes, 91—18—73.

SUNSET RIDGE.

Ball sweepstakes, the main event, went to J. L. Wiles, 90—19—71. H. Walton was second, 75—3—72, and these four tied for third: B. Wolcott, 86—11—75; K. W. Curtis, 82—7—75; P. Egan, 105—30—75; R. E. Doonan, 88—13—75. Other leaders were: P. D. Wagstaff, 85—9—76; F. D. Blake, 97—21—76; D. S. Wiley, 96—20—76; H. T. Goodman, 95—8—77.

SHORE ACRES.

Match play against par was the main event and Stanley Keith won 3 down. Four tied for second, 5 down. They were: Lester Armour, P. D. Armour, Farrell Winston and Kenneth Clow.

Gilbert Beats Stuart to Win Junior Golf

Sam S. Gilbert, University of Wisconsin golf champion, dethroned Carrell Stuart, Illinois juniors defending titleholder, 4 and 3 in a 36 hole match at Ridgemoor yesterday. The two eighteen-year olds were evenly matched, ending the first round all square with twin medal scores of 79.

Gilbert's margin of skill that brought him the championship was on the greens. Their drives were about even, averaging 200 to 225 yards, Stuart getting slightly more distance. Usually both were straight but when one or the other did get into trouble, their recoveries were excellent.

Gilbert Gets 3 Birdies.

In the 33 holes played Gilbert shot 15 pars and three birdies, while Stuart got 15 pars. Those birdies made the difference. Gilbert got one of them on the ninth in the first round by dropping his tee shot fifteen feet from the pin and sinking the putt for a 2. He sank a 35 foot putt on the sixteenth and dropped several of from 20 to 25 feet into the cup. Stuart got several bad breaks when his putts rimmed the cup or rolled into it too fast and bounced out.

Stuart got an early lead by winning the first two holes, and, after halving two, won the fifth to go 3 up. Gilbert set his lead to 2 up at the end of the first nine by winnig the sixth and ninth holes. Stuart taking the eighth. Gilbert also won the tenth, but Stuart got the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth and was 4 up. Then Gilbert, with three pars and a birdie, won four consecutive holes to square the match at the end of the 18.

Gilbert Takes Lead.

In the afternoon Gilbert duplicated Stuart's morning performance by winning the first two holes. They halved two and Stuart won the fifth, but Gilbert got it back on the sixth, and won the seventh to go 3 up. Stuart won the eighth and Gilbert the ninth, and they halved the tenth. Stuart took the eleventh, but Gilbert won the the twelfth and thirteenth, putting him 4 up. They halved the final two holes.

WHAT ails your car?

Who actually knows?

To find out the facts is often a costly procedure, entailing much useless tinkering and uncertain experimenting. This costly guesswork is eliminated by car owners who want to actually know "what's wrong," or if anything is wrong.

They depend upon the Automobile Owners' Testing and Inspection Club Laboratories report for a complete scientific diagnosis of the mechanical condition of their car. The report rendered by us is guaranteed to be 100% correct or money refunded. It is your guide for necessary repairs and your safeguard against overcharges and blunders.

The Automobile Owners' Testing and Inspection Laboratories, Inc., is entirely independent of any repair shop or service station, instituted for the protection of motorists and for the purpose of scientifically diagnosing any and all mechanical automobile troubles. With a complete set of costly scientific testing equipment our engineers locate hidden noises, unexpected troubles, and approaching difficulties before they become serious and without dismantling your car or motor in any way.

Shop orders issued by us are taken by the alert car owner to his favorite garage as a signed and authentic schedule of necessary attention. No more experimenting is required and no sliding over the minor items is possible, for when the job is completed the car is again checked by the Laboratory without additional charge.

Our charge for this double service in the end costs you nothing and saves you money, for it eliminates costly experimenting, reduces repair bills as much as 50%, and assures you of more economical, prolonged motor car service.

$10 $10

This week, for the flat sum of $10.00, we guarantee to tell you absolutely what is wrong with your car, and if nothing is wrong you get $10.00 worth of satisfaction and a certificate to that effect. Drive down early or phone for appointment.

Popular New Cars Keep Industry on Prosperity Wave

Report Drop in Flivvers, but Jump in Cars Made.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A large majority of manufacturers in the automotive industry maintained normal production schedules during the latter part of August, and increased output is in prospect for September. The new crop of models is still growing and it is an assured fact that four or five more producers will have announcements regarding more new models within the next two or three weeks.

Nash this week announced new models in its line of special six, and the plant is now operating at capacity. Prices on the new line will remain the same as for former special six line vehicles. An entire new line of Jewetts is announced by the Paige-Detroit company. The two-door sedan is continued in the new line, but in entire different body designs from those presented ten months ago. A four-door sedan is added to the line. A business man's coupe and a four passenger cabriolet roadster will follow shortly.

Because of the fact that Ford has not maintained the increase in production this year that has featured the activities of other companies in the light car field, rumors of changes in policies have been heard. Reports current that the company would shortly make announcement of a new six cylinder model were this week spiked by an official letter, addressed to Michigan dealers, denying that any new model or changes in models are contemplated at this time.

During the last half dozen years the process of education in the use of motor vehicles has been steady and with periods of prosperity brought a demand for changes and improvements. The people have more cash to spend for cars that will carry them in comfort over the greater distances of improved highways that have been opened up.

Ford is therefore faced with a problem. Low price, his great sales builder, is no longer the factor it has been for the last 20 years. He must do something to maintain his leadership, and what it is no one but himself knows, and just now he is not telling anybody.

By securing the figures of all other companies except Fords, and then subtracting them from the total issued by the department of commerce, indicates that Ford's output for the first six months of 1926 was 858,972 vehicles, compared with an estimated total of 943,535 for the corresponding period of 1925, or 31 per cent of the total output, a drop from 42 per cent.

Against this is shown a climb from 19 to 26 per cent of the total production by General Motors.

An indication of how factories are increasing production in an effort to keep abreast of incoming orders since the introduction of new models is well illustrated by figures given out by the Employers' association. For five consecutive weeks an increase has been shown in the number of workmen employed in the various Detroit automobile plants and accessories factories. The gain last week was 853, making a total of 238,316. One year ago the number employed was 235,022. The net increase from the low point on July 3 last is 17,080. There is a continual demand in Detroit and Flint plants for skilled automobile mechanics.

Official figures for the production of passenger cars and trucks during the month of August are not yet available, but they will undoubtedly be greater than those for the month of July, for the corresponding month of 1925, when they were low, caused by the change in Ford models and a very low output from that plant.

Manufacturers collectively are now of the firm belief that nothing can occur during the remaining months of the year to place production and sales figures well in advance of any preceding year in the automobile history. This conclusion is the result of orders now on hand, the satisfactory numbers being daily received, and the general business outlook for the remainder of the year.

TOO MANY STATIONS.

Declaring that gasoline filling stations are "cropping up everywhere, just as saloons did before prohibition," Mayor Jackson, of Baltimore, Md., has decided to seek regulation by ordinance designating streets on which no such stations would be permitted.

17,000 New Motors Seek Room on City Streets This Year

REGISTRATION of motor vehicles in Chicago this year has jumped from the total of 342,000 cars and trucks shown in the entire twelve months of 1925 to 359,807 vehicles registered from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31. The report, issued by Thomas P. Keane, city collector, after a study of his city wheel tax registrations and collections, shows more than 17,000 entirely new cars operating on Chicago streets and boulevards in addition to the traffic squadrons of last year, and also in addition to the 1,318 motorcycles registered.

Following is the report in part:

Midwest States Join in Motor Regulation Plan

THE central states automobile conference to study and solve any conflicts or disagreements which may arise in any of six middle western states regarding the enforcement of automobile license or regulatory laws, was organized in Indianapolis Thursday.

Members of the executive committee will be chosen by the various state officials in charge of automobile regulation and of other civic, commercial and automobile organizations in the states affected. These organizations include such groups as trucking associations, chambers of commerce and boards of trade. The new body will be authorized to call on the officials of any state where any dispute arises and to map out, if possible, a solution to questions.

In addition the organization will study phases of automobile legislation with a view particularly to uniform legislation in the states on all phases of automobile licensing and regulation. In addition, the new organization will be empowered to carry out a threefold plan to visit with Gov. W. J. Fields of Kentucky, in the event the alleged objectionable Kentucky license law is declared valid by court or, if additional arrests are made under the Kentucky law, to carry on effective work in the six states on a definite legislative plan of automobile regulation. The six states in the new organization are: Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Tennessee and Michigan.

Early Work.

A new type of automatic alarm clock now exists and it isn't even as pleasant as the ordinary kind.

Residents living near the central part of Milton, Wis., were rudely awakened on several occasions by a loud sounding automobile horn which seemed to have no tendency to cease. George K. Kemphill, a college student, finally investigated and found the source to be a roadster belonging to D. A. Borden, left standing in the street.

Further investigation and some deduction brought to light the fact that as the heavy mists of early morning began to fall, the horn connections became sufficiently damp to cause a short circuit.

New Park.

The historic site of Fort Beausejour in the county of Westmoreland, New Brunswick, is shortly to be proclaimed a national park. Such action has been taken on recommendation of the historic sites and monuments board of Canada, which has declared this site to be of sufficient historical importance to warrant its being proclaimed a national park. Fort Beausejour was constructed in 1750-'51 in the vicinity of Beaubassin and was closely associated with the struggle between the French and English for possession of the continent.

Heavy Toll.

Motorists contribute at least $25,000 a day to the "short measure" robbers of gasoline filling stations throughout the United States. At least 50 large cities in the country are known to be without protection from "careless" dealers, who average approximately 2 per cent shortage on their customers.

Hoover Says Wide Roads Will Stop Accident Toll

HIGHWAYS of the United States must be constructed with a view to protecting the lives of the people and not merely to provide a temporary means of transportation, according to Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, in a statement made public yesterday by the American Road Builders' association. He said that uniform traffic regulations throughout the United States and Canada are necessary.

"Uniform laws by the states are necessary to check the terrific toll in life and property that reckless auto driving levies annually in America," Secretary Hoover declared. "The activity of the American Road Builders' association in securing such regulations should be supported by the entire country along the lines recommended by the national conference on street and highway safety."

The secretary added that property loss as a result of accidents in this country in the last twelve months has been in excess of $600,000,000, and the loss of life enormous.

"When we had but three people in a township," he said, "they did not require traffic rules to keep their elbows out of each other's ribs, but when we get a million in a community somebody has to tell them how to move or they will run over each other. Roads must be constructed wide enough and numerous enough to handle them.

"Probably the man who invented the automobile was innocent of any intention to quadruple the nation's traffic problems. He did not expect to turn twenty million high speed engines running helter skelter over our streets and highways; he did not expect one-half of the whole adult population would claim to know how to drive them with safety and skill."

Mr. Hoover was invited to take part in the traffic conferences to be held at the 1927 convention of the American Road Builders' association to be held in Chicago during good roads week next January. At that time highway authorities of international note will address highway engineers, contractors, and officials from all parts of the continent. More than 40,000 are expected at the convention.

News and Views of the Auto Trade

JOHN N. WYLLIS, one of the best known and most spectacular figures in the automobile industry, returned from a European tour last week and immediately announced a drastic price reduction on the various models produced by the Willys-Overland plants. Improvements in plant facilities, coupled with record sales, has made the cut possible, he declared, and predicted a sales volume of 100,000 cars this year. Reductions range from $40 to $120.

A new transcontinental stock car driving record has been hung up for the speed boys to shoot at by L. B. Miller, veteran San Francisco motorist, who completed the officially checked journey from the coast to New York over 3,368 miles of the Lincoln highway in 83 hours 12 minutes. Miller, who drove the entire distance, used a stock Wills Sainte Claire roadster to beat his own former record of 102 hours.

B. F. Sears, president of the Elcar Motor company, announced the appointment of R. A. Rawson yesterday as sales manager of the Elkhart concern.

A completely changed line of Jewett models, claiming beauty of line and economic performance as their chief characteristics, were announced yesterday by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company. A new four door sedan, not previously included in the Jewett line, is one of the leaders in this new showing, which caused a furor along the row.

All Oakland records for a single day were shattered last week when the big Pontiac factory built 906 Oakland and Pontiac cars. The best previous production record was 843 cars in a single day.

In a recent test R. O. Lucas and Paul W. Poppe, driving a new Gardner eight roadster on the Hawthorne track, made a five mile run in 4 minutes 36 seconds, according to company announcement.

Motorists Warned Against Picking Up Road Hikers

THE Chicago Motor club has issued a bulletin warning motorists against encouraging ride mooching on the part of children and so-called hikers who walk only far enough to pick up a ride. "Knights of the knapsack have become numerous this year," says the bulletin, "but interviews with many of these cross country walkers disclose the fact that it is not uncommon for a 'hiker' to ride across the country in cars of friendly motorists. The motorist should discourage this practice.

"With the reopening of school ride mooching on the part of schoolboys will increase. Any day now groups of boys, many of them of tender age, will be seen milling around in the midst of traffic, holding up an appealing hand to passing motorists. Success makes the boys bolder and they step out almost to the center of the street. Grim tragedy frequently follows [illegible] some boy has not been warned about ride mooching, and because some motorist could not see the harm in giving a boy a lift. Then, too, few motorists realize the liability they incur when they invite a person to ride as their guest. It sometimes happens that motorists who have felt that it would be selfish to deny a plea for a ride have paid dearly for their beneficence.

"Our courts have held that the operator of a car who invites another to ride with him is bound to exercise reasonable care for the safety of his guest, and if, through the driver's negligence, a guest who exercises due care is injured, the driver is liable for damages. If a motorist is the unfortunate victim of a collision in which a boy is hurt, or if the boy is injured through jumping off the car before it has stopped, or if he trips and falls while getting off the running board, it may be possible that the motorist will be forced to compensate him.

"It is true that if some of these cases are contested there is a chance of winning, but litigation is uncertain and expensive, and in most cases an attempt is made at settlement in order to obtain release from further liability."

Power is one reason for Pontiac Six popularity

Powered by the largest six-cylinder engine used in any car costing less than $1000, the Pontiac Six exhibits a performance range entirely new in its field.

From 20% to 40% greater piston displacement than other sixes of comparable price. Power to soar up hills. Power to flash brilliantly ahead in traffic. Power to lug smoothly and steadily through mud and sand. More power than any other six at at its price—and a permanent source of power too—

—for the Pontiac Six engine has a 46 lb. crankshaft, long-wearing semi-steel pistons, heavy I-beam section connecting rods, full-pressure oiling and bronze-backed interchangeable crankshaft bearings.

Beauty, comfort, economy and roadability—in all these qualities the Pontiac Six represents a decisive departure among low-priced sixes. Yet, on the basis of power in relation to wheelbase, weight and price, it ranks as the one outstanding engineering triumph of the day.

Pontiac Six, Sedan or Coupe, $825. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six—$1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Millions for Safety!

$250,000 Contributed by STUTZ

National Safety Week----September 12-19

[Today and all this week public attention is centered upon noteworthy contributions to Personal Safety and Public Security]

ENSURING personal safety and security for yourself and your loved ones under present day conditions is more than merely an individual problem. It has become a factor which governs all human relationships, business, industry and even the nation's policy.

We know of no other group of public servants who can contribute more to the Cause of SAFETY than automobile builders.

A single contribution—of the Stutz Motor Car Company of America—is in excess of $250,000.

Hundreds of millions have been consecrated to the task of providing SAFETY for people in every walk of life. The contribution of STUTZ is, we believe, the most significant in the automotive field.

No time could be more appropriate than now to review briefly its far-reaching results.

For this is National Safety Week, a period set aside for giving serious thought to the modern problems of SAFETY and their bearing upon human life and happiness.

NEW Safety STUTZ

The symbol of Safety

TWO outstanding conclusions have long been accepted as statements-of-fact which would govern eventual radical changes in automotive design and construction.

First—That lowered center of gravity is essential to safety in driving an automobile, and second—that to drive "in a glass cage" at any speed is to court injury from flying shattered glass.

With these conclusions as a basis for experiment and research, STUTZ engineers devoted themselves to the task of making STUTZ cars above all other considerations, safe to ride in.

It was more than simply a question of saying "Lower the center of gravity by lowering the body." The desired results could have been secured in this way, but only at the expense of comfort and convenience, a sacrifice to which the STUTZ organization consistently refused to consent. It was necessary to redesign the car completely, a departure so radical that other American automobile manufacturers were either unwilling or unable to embrace it.

It was more than simply a matter of deciding to substitute another less hazardous transparent material for glass. It became a problem of finding or perfecting plate glass which would not injure occupants of the car if, in an emergency, it should be broken. Substitution of another material might have provided the desired safety, but only at the expense of beauty and luxury, sacrificing the dignity of a fine car which appeals to people of decided tastes. And, from the very outset, STUTZ declined to do this.

The cherished good repute of STUTZ was at stake. This must not be clouded by a single thoughtless act, a policy which has been the watchword of this organization since its inception. Yet eagerness to continue STUTZ leadership spurred these men on to high endeavor.

At length, with the courage of honest conviction and regardless of factory expense in excess of $250,000, STUTZ took a mighty step forward—a step which placed them in an even more conspicuous position of leadership than ever before.

For the first time in any American passenger car, the NEW SAFETY STUTZ now embodies the answers to First—lowered center of gravity without sacrificing road clearance, leg room or head room, and Second—glass that is safe in every possible motoring emergency.

Many other outstanding safety features characterize this automobile. So skillfully are these achieved that they decidedly enhance the beauty, luxury, comfort, convenience, speed, performance, and easy driving which are found to a superlative degree in this car.

We feel with a certainty born of long and close association with this splendid automobile, that to drive it is to command every enjoyment that ownership of a fine car affords.

This we would like the opportunity of demonstrating. A NEW SAFETY STUTZ is at your disposal—any day or evening you say.

* * * * * * *

The Worm Drive makes possible lowering the car 5 to 8 inches without sacrificing road-clearance or headroom. This is the greatest single factor contributing to the supreme safety and riding ease of this remarkable car. It hugs the road and is under complete control at all speeds and under all conditions. This is exclusive among American passenger cars in the NEW SAFETY STUTZ, although the worm drive has long been used in Fageol Safety Coaches, Fifth Avenue Coaches and Yellow Coaches, as well as in other high speed safe passenger vehicles which operate as public conveyances and beat the fastest railroad time schedules. European passenger cars have long since accepted the worm drive as the standard of perfection, including the Lanchester (highest priced motor car in the world), Daimler, Wolseley, and Peugeot. This Timken-built worm drive actually grows quieter the longer you drive and is guaranteed for 2 years!

Four-wheel brakes, made by Timken on the hydrostatic principle, are self-equalizing, not only on all four wheels, but on all points of the brake lining on each wheel, simultaneously and automatically. In addition to better, surer braking and absolute safety, this means longer wear and eliminates possibilities of skidding.

The 7¾-inch chassis frame, made of special steel, is reinforced by seven steel cross members, 5 of which are tubular. It is the strongest, safest chassis frame on any passenger car, regardless of price.

The running boards are armor steel, the same thickness as that of the chassis frame, and are integral parts of the frame itself, VERITABLE SIDE BUMPERS!

Safety glass in windshield and all windows is an additional EXCLUSIVE feature. You are always protected from flying, shattered glass, regardless of any emergency.

Bodies are designed and built under the supervision of Brewster of New York, long noted for supreme artistry and integrity of craftsmanship. No finer bodies can be built, from the standpoint of beauty, comfort or sturdy construction. The body is steel, a veritable armor of protection for driver and passengers. Narrow front pillars provide the greatest visibility for the driver. Safety glass ventilators on every window permit windows to be closed against dust and weather, yet provide perfect ventilation without drafts. This is another EXCLUSIVE feature of the NEW SAFETY STUTZ.

Would you believe it possible that all the advantages mentioned here—in addition to dual ignition and simple, silent 4-part valve mechanism in the superb 90 H. P. straight-8 motor; an air cleaner; the Triple Duty Oil Rectifier; and automatic chassis lubrication—yes, every single one of these features can be obtained for as little as $2,995? It's almost incredible, but it's true.

This superb car is swift and sure; safe and certain; provides comfort and convenience, luxury and beauty unexcelled by any car you could possibly purchase at any price.

Social, business and professional leaders in Chicago have been quick to recognize this. Increasingly large numbers of them have become NEW SAFETY STUTZ owners.

Phone or call us today or any day and let us have the pleasure of placing the wheel in your hands for a demonstration of your own choosing.

* * * * * * * *

"We make this car and we are proud of it. Our intention is that the NEW SAFETY STUTZ shall maintain its leadership—that five-ten-fifteen years hence it shall be the finest automobile in America at any price, just as it is today."

Bay State Tries Out Compulsory Auto Insurance

Finds Many Difficulties Involved in Costly Experiment.

BOSTON, Mass. — [Special Correspondence.]—Owners of 750,000 motor vehicles of all kinds will have to pay a total of some $18,000,000 for compulsory automobile liability insurance each year as a result of the new state compulsory liability insurance law that goes into effect here with the 1927 registration of cars. Rules and regulations in accordance with the law have just been issued by the insurance commissioner, Wesley E. Monk.

This is to be the first trial ever made of compulsory automobile insurance by any government, and the eyes of the automobile world are fixed on Massachusetts, awaiting the outcome of its workings. As the insurance commissioner says, scientific accuracy and fairness in determining the rates have been impossible with data so far gathered. No one can predict what will be the effect of the law upon the number of accidents. Under the most successful working of the law, careful driving would be promoted and in subsequent years the rates would be lowered. but if insurance should promote carelessness, as it sometimes does, rates would have to be raised for the next year or two until this tendency can be checked by weeding out the unfit.

Great care has been exercised by the insurance commissioner in scaling the rates to different types of vehicles and to different localities. The rates average from 5 to 25 per cent lower than those at present charged by insurance companies, and it is expected that the new law, by creating an enormous volume of new business, will greatly reduce the overhead costs, although, on the other hand, the companies will assume many poor risks along with the good ones.

The entire program is aimed at protection of Massachusetts people against irresponsible car drivers and owners who maim and kill and are able to escape paying damages because they have no property. The $18,000,000 estimated cost for the first year covers not only damages which will have to be paid but all the necessary expenses and profits of the insuring companies on this class of business.

No fleet insurance is allowed. Thus the taxicab companies will have to pay more than they did before, because each individual car must be insured at the car rate. The table of rates provides for classification of private cars and commercial cars. The former have three groups for four wheel gasoline vehicles, another of electrics, one for motorcycles with two wheels and one for motorcycles with more than two wheels (i. e. with side cars). In the commercial car classifications the divisions are into three groups for city cars, with sub-classifying into heavy, medium and light cars, a dock truck division, one of farmers' trucks, one for hearses, one for motorcycles with more than two wheels and a class covering farm tractors and motor lawn mowers.

Further classifications are made of taxicab, private livery, driverless cars, all busses, demonstrating cars, driveaways, liveries incidental to garage operations, public cars rented on a mileage basis and other types of commercial cars.

Private passenger cars are classed and grouped according to make and model series where there is more than one of the latter. There is a further division of rates by territory or zones, beginning with Boston proper and towns or cities immediately surrounding in territory one; a list of names, cities and towns in territory two, and the remainder of the state in territory three. This takes the place of eight territories used by the companies under their own previous system. On lighter cars rates range from $18 to $29, while on heavier cars it will run from $25 to $45.

Coverage is limited to highways in Massachusetts. Should the insured party desire coverage outside of the state, he can secure it from the companies at a rate mutually agreed upon. Insurance must be paid in cash. No instalments or partial payment of premiums is permitted, by the companies at present, the latter not being prepared to carry insurance on this basis. However, this question and a number of others will be taken up and decided at a meeting this month, at which representatives of the insurance companies, the insurance commissioner and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin will get together.

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to the Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. Jack Doyle, 3421 Elaine place, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

How did you find touring conditions this summer as compared to former years?

Where Asked.

Grant Park.

The Answers.

L. T. Dodd, Evanston, salesman—I noticed more road courtesy among motorists on the road this year and generally found the roads better except near Chicago and a few other centers where congestion and narrow pavements make the going hard. People get more experience in driving every season and the average driver is more polite.

James Parker, 1031 East 51st street, advertising man—Touring conditions all over the country were improved for the millions of cars on the road this year. There are more and better road signs. Main roads have been straightened and camp sites and hotels improved for the traveling public.

O. F. Adams, 5021 North Francisco street, buyer—Most of my touring this summer was in Wisconsin and I found the roads worse than usual because of rains. The signs and accomodations are better but the latter are somewhat higher in price and the tourist has a terrible time trying to get in and out of Chicago over the narrow roads.

Dr. J. T. Cline, Dayton, Ohio—I found perfect road conditions from Dayton to Chicago except near Chicago where congestion begins. Three years ago I thought driving in Chicago was about as bad as it could be, but the traffic light systems and the new drives that have been built make it mch easier to drive here now than in smaller cities and towns.

A. Judson, Park Ridge, salesman—I don't make any tours on Sundays as I did a few years ago because of the congestion on roads about Chicago, but the long tours this summer were better than ever before. Roads are better. Cities and towns vie with one another to make the tourist comfortable, and the average tourist is a better driver than he used to be.

Safety Measure.

Don't drive into Rhode Island with a lot of banners, streamers and other decorations on your car if you wish to dodge trouble.

Advices have just been received from the smallest state in the union, famous for its clambakes, that the authorities have stopped the use of flags, toy balloons, Teddy bears, etc., on radiator caps of automobiles, contending that they obstruct the view of the driver and are a menace to public safety.

Hot Dog Stands Target for Fire of Motorist Body

Three Calls on Road Officials to Clean Up Trails.

THE beauty of the roadside has been desecrated to such an extent that the American Automobile association finds itself compelled to launch a nation-wide campaign to throw restrictions around the operations of hot dog venders and their kin along the highways, it was announced yesterday.

In a letter sent out from A. A. A. national headquarters, highway officials in every state of the Union were earnestly urged to formulate plans whereby the "thousands of unwashed, unpainted, and insanitary hot dog stands and lunch counters" would be brought under decent regulation.

The A. A. A. statement was signed by Thomas P. Henry, its president, who made his appeal to state highway officials in the name of the 841 motor clubs affiliated with the national motoring body.

"The situation which is in effect a desecration of the highway is not confined to any one section of the country," declared Henry. "It is offsetting all that is being done to beautify the highways, and millions of motorists are rising in protest. The hot dog vender or the lunch counter keeper has a perfect right to make a living, but he has no right to mar the rights of sightseers everywhere. In this respect the rights of the public are paramount."

In the way of further comment on the situation along highways today, the A. A. A. statement continued:

"No observant motorist can travel from Palm Beach to Miami, from San Francisco to San Mateo, on various roads out of Boston, Los Angeles, New York, or Chicago without being appalled at the desecration of good taste and plain civic manners by the thousands of unwashed, unpainted, insanitary hot dog stands and lunch counters that infest many of our beautiful boulevards.

"This disgraceful appearance of these stands is extended by an unlicensed posting of signs of every size and color upon trees, fences, poles, rocks, barrels, and on all other projections between aforesaid stands and counters.

"This is a new condition which has grown upon the authorities, but it is a situation that can be cured. These stands must ordinarily be licensed to do business, and it is reasonable to suppose that such restrictions can be thrown around the granting of licenses as will preclude the prospective hot dog merchant from feeling that he can build his future business home out of the signs furnished him by soda pop, candy, and cracker manufacturers."

When You and I Were Seventeen

WHEN you and I were seventeen —and buggy rides were collegiate—

Then Sunday brought its rare romance—a girl and a horse with spirit. Head reined high—and stepping fast—with snap and go and whirling yellow wheels.

That individuality—not mere transportation—brought thanks for the buggy ride—and a chance for another date.

It was a great contest for distinction.

NO chance for the boy with the old gray mare—the dull black rig that looked like all the rest.

He never got anywhere socially.

People who are satisfied to be standard—to look and feel like all the rest—can never know the thrill of being distinctive.

Yet last year they built a million of these.

THERE'S no use talking—your nerves hate rattles—it's not just merely going somewhere—it's how you feel when you go.

Yet five hundred thousand of these were built last year.

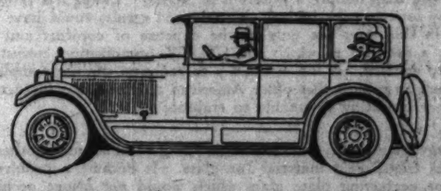
FAIRLY high—good view—but up in the air—and just fours.

That's why millions look alike. You can hardly find your car—you look—you are—exactly like the mass.

Jordan is different—and that's everything—different and always will be.

The smoothest—most fascinating—Straight Eight feeling of unhampered power—that gratifying whisper of the Eight.

Low hung and balanced—close to the road—sturdy—fast—full of charm and grace.



A SENSE of security and safety—broad vision and an all-steel body—just a year ahead.

Custom style in colors that are different—rare in comfortable intimacy.

Low cost—low service expense—long life—high resale value.

That's mental and physical satisfaction. That's an investment.

That's Jordan.

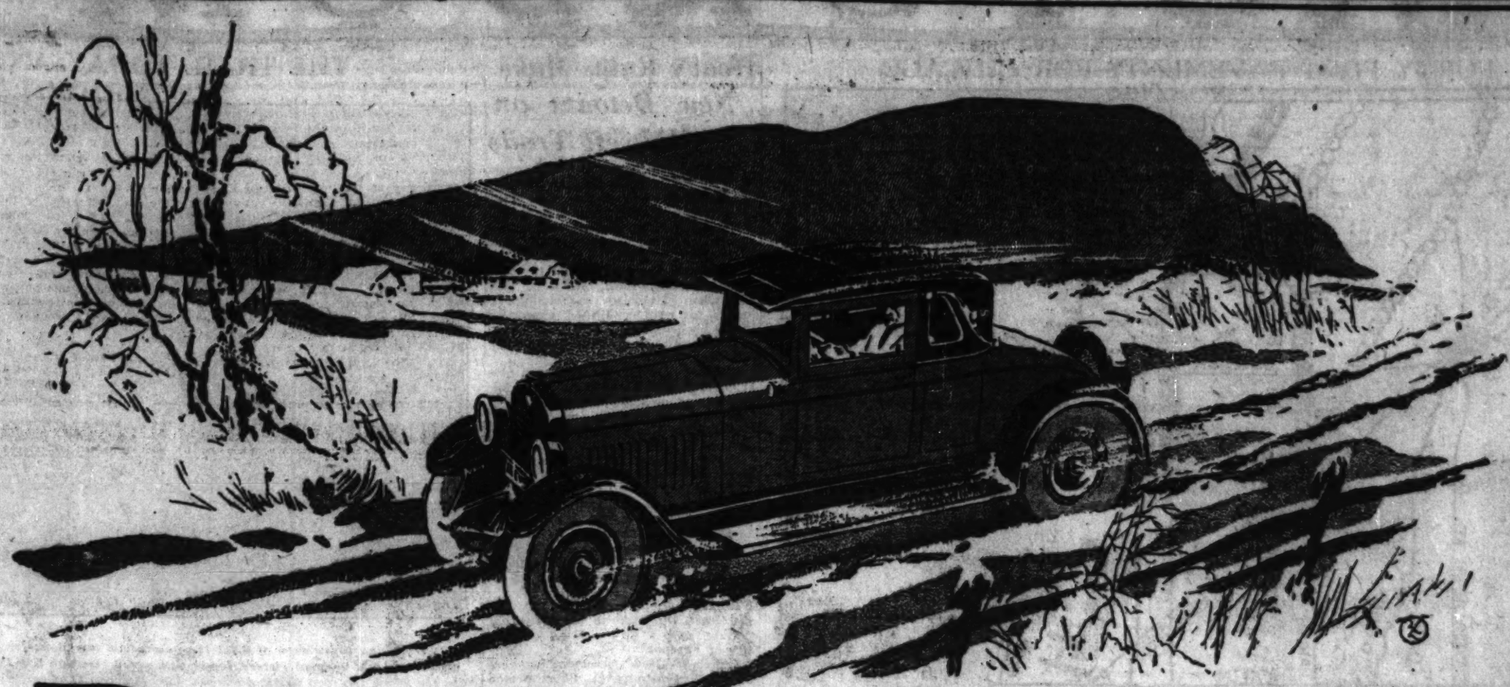
JORDAN



Ready for Winter
A thrifty car for busy men

The business or professional man's car must be built

1. To be moderate in initial outlay and low in upkeep.
2. To provide comfortable transportation in all kinds of weather.
3. To be on the job constantly.
4. To last a long, long time.

Reo, America's longest lasting car, meets these needs—with room to spare—in its Coupe.

What Long Life Means in a Business Car

The business man's car must stand persistent day-in and day-out use.

It must stand all kinds of weather—long hours in rain or cold—yet start quickly. It must be ready when wanted—not off in some repair shop while valuable hours slip by.

Yet no car is watched more closely for operating economy than is a business car.

It must show up well in the engineer's or cost accountant's reports.

Built to Keep Upkeep Down

Here the busy man finds freedom from repair troubles; alert strength for long, hard runs; nimble ease for threading tangled traffic; and quiet good taste—essential for business or professional use.

Reo is so designed that vital units are quickly and easily "get-at-able," adjustments and replacements are made without tearing down connecting units.

Reo is built of tested materials—every part on every Reo is individually tested—so that wear and the necessity for repairs is remarkably low.

Come in and check over the points where Reo saves you time and money when repairs are needed.

No American car—not even the most costly ones—lasts as long as Reo.

And in this long life, this proven stamina under any and all conditions, lies Reo's superiority as a car for the steady grind of business use.

Three Added Years to Use or Sell

Statistical studies have proved that Reo outlives the average American car by three years.

This means that the business user can split his depreciation—the largest single item of automobile costs—over more years, making costs less per year. Or it means that the resale value of his Reo is increased accordingly, if he sells rather than uses this additional life.

A Quality Buy at Moderate Price

The average of published prices for all other six-cylinder Coupes of Reo's size is $2,485. Reo beats this by $990.

The average price of all six-cylinder Coupes, of all sizes is $2,854. Reo beats this by $1,327.

And with this saving in initial outlay, you are buying longest life.

And It Is Light

Reo combines long life with light weight. This Reo Coupe is the lightest six-cylinder American Coupe of its size—325 pounds lighter than the average of others of its size—388 pounds lighter than the average for all six-cylinder coupes.

Its lightness, combined with its sturdiness, is another guarantee of low operating costs and easy riding.

Lasting Good Looks

Visit your Reo dealer today. Note the unostentatious charm of this Coupe.

It's a car that the business executive or the salesman, the doctor or the engineer can be proud to be seen in. And because of its inherent good taste, it will remain so.

For the man who wants a second car—a personal car—the qualities which make the Reo Coupe the best business buy commend it to him—moderate first cost, low upkeep, long life, and good looks.

Drive this Reo Coupe—feel its ease and agility, on its full balloon tires.

It will give you driving comfort in any weather for years to come.

Harry Hartz Hard Pressed in Race for Speed Crown

De Paolo's Ill Luck Gives Lockhart Chance to Win.

THE revised standings of automobile speedway drivers in the contest for the 1926 championship of the roaring road were made public yesterday by the contest board of the American Automobile association, the arbiter of sanctioned tracts speedways throughout the nation. The championship goes to the men scoring the greatest number of points in the season's races.

The standings, which changed with the races at Charlotte, N. C., on Aug. 23, showed these three developments in the struggle for the crown in "the major league of racing":

1. Harry Hartz maintains a big lead over his nearest competitors, but can be overtaken.

2. Peter De Paolo, his closest rival, failed to gain, due to ill luck with his car.

3. Frank Lockhart, the lad who came out of semi-obscurity on the west coast to win the 500 mile grind at Indianapolis, the classic of automobile racing, hitched himself ahead, leaping from fifth place to third, and into a position where he has a fighting chance for the championship.

The "racing crowd," whose every member has a deep and abiding respect for the signs, omens, and pet superstitions of the track, sees in De Paolo's failure to advance the most arresting development of the contest. They remember vividly the ill luck that forever dogged the flying wheels of his brilliant uncle and mentor, Ralph De Palma, and they draw a parallel between De Paolo's difficulties and the misfortunes which persistently beset De Palma. Has the luck of the great driver been passed on to his pupil and nephew, they ask. In their effort to answer that question they are preparing to watch with the keenest gaze the next grind in the speedway circuit struggle, which is set for Altoona, Pa. Nothing that De Paolo does that day will escape their eyes.

De Paolo opened the season as brilliantly as he closed that of 1925. His old car never failed him, but the new one, equipped with the smaller motor now used, and to which he changed after the season was well under way, has failed him consistently, despite brilliant driving.

In Lockhart's advance, too, the acolytes of the roaring road profess to see the workings of fate. In four of the last six years the winner at Indianapolis also has won the year's championship. They have come to believe almost that the highest honor automobile racedom can bestow is a sure and certain part of the Indianapolis prize.

The race at Altoona, a 500 mile event, carries with it for the winner 500 points in the championship contest. As the list now stands, Lockhart would have a real chance if he should win and Hartz and De Paolo failed to score.

The contest board in announcing the standings revealed that Frank Elliott also moved up, passing Dave Lewis and Earl Cooper, and going into eighth place. The standings of the first ten drivers were announced as follows:

Harry Hartz, 2,259 points; Peter De Paolo, 1,475; Frank Lockhart, 1,250; Bennett Hill, 912; Norman Batten, 620; Fred Comer, 594; Earl Devore, 585; Frank Elliott, 572; Dave Lewis, 550, and Earl Cooper, 465.

Connecticut Widens Roads.

The Connecticut highway department spent a total of $10,503,715.94 during the fiscal year ended July 1, a statement issued yesterday by the department shows. This amount is about $300,000 less than was disbursed during the 1925 fiscal year, which was $10,801,696.69. The statement, which will form part of the department's biennial report, shows pavement widening as the most important work of the year.

The report will show that the total amount expended since 1895, when the road building department of the state was organized, is $82,547,810.73.

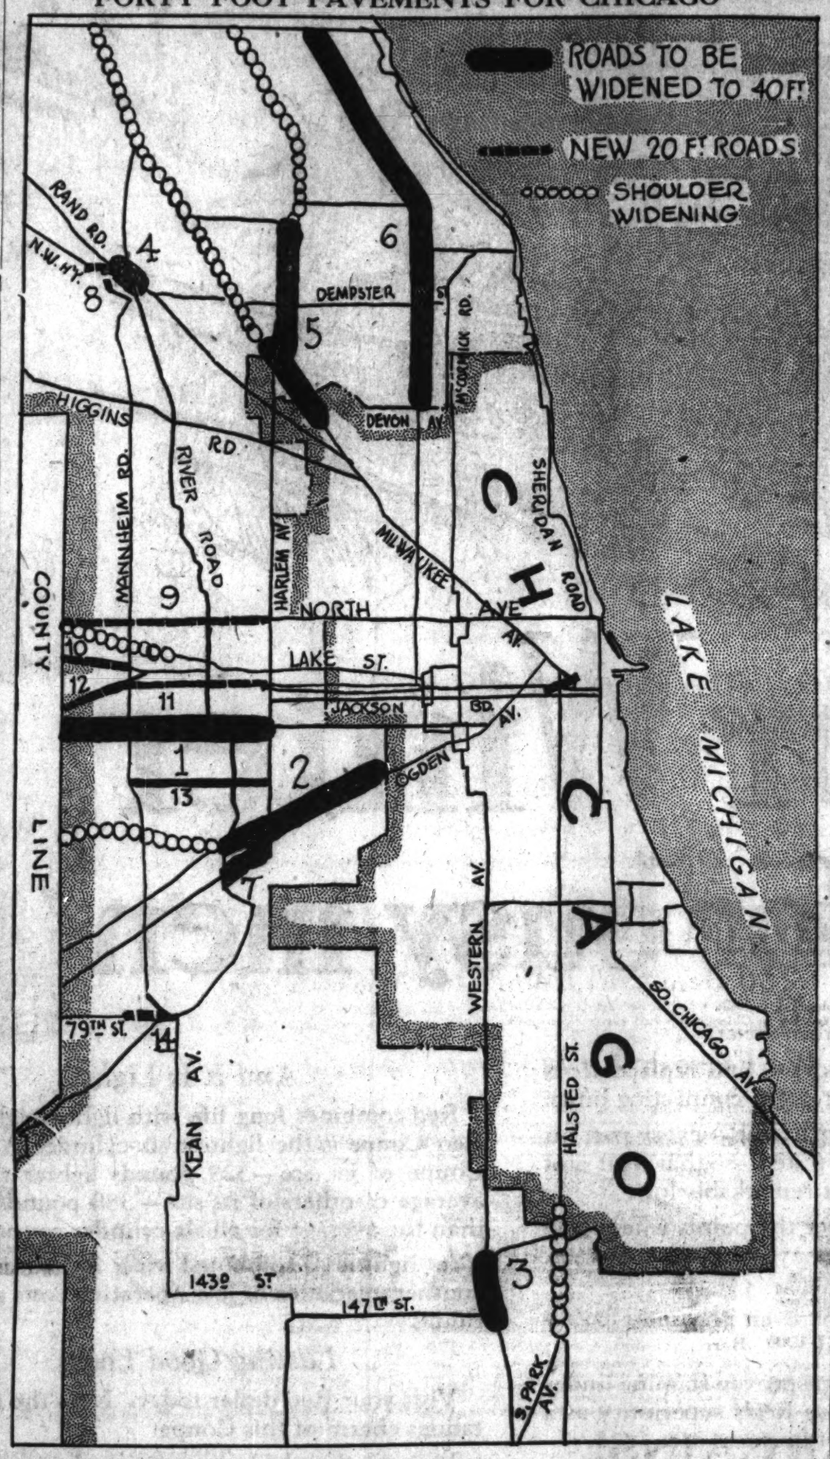
The largest disbursements during the last twelve months was for reconstruction, widening of pavements, and maintenance, which reached a total of $4,674,576.1 , nearly $3,000,000 of which was expended in the reconstruction program.

The next largest item was for new construction, that is, the improvement of roads on the state road system. This amounted to $2,706,360.07. A total of $529,970 was expended on trunk line and state aid bridges in reconstruction, construction and maintenance.

Full Highways.

No fewer than 5,000,000 motorists, or one-fourth of the total registration of automobiles in the United States, will be found touring the nation's highways this summer. The tourists have been lured into the open by improved highways of more than 3,000,000 miles, with less detouring, the opening of 5,000 motor camps in every state, and the encouragement of campers and motorists to visit the nation's playgrounds in parks and forests.

FORTY FOOT PAVEMENTS FOR CHICAGO



Here, in graphic detail, is a picture of the state's $3,760,000 wide road gift to Chicago and Cook county, as pledged by Gov. Len Small and the state highway department last week. This work, to be contracted immediately and paid for out of state highway funds, plus the general widening and improvement program to be financed by the proposed county $15,000,000 bond issue, will rescue motorists from the old bogy of narrow road congestion and bring the great Cook county highway system up to modern standards in 1927.

Heavy black lines indicate approximately the stretches of old and new pavement which will be built to 40 foot widths. Medium black lines indicate new 20 foot pavements to be built by the state. Circles indicate the shoulder widening and bridge and culvert widening to be done at once by the state.

Widening on existing roads totals 11.8 miles and includes: [1] Roosevelt road from Des Plaines avenue to the county line; [2] Ogden avenue from Cicero avenue to Lawndale avenue, [3] Western avenue from 135th street to Sibley street; [4] Rand road from River road to Seeger road; [5] Waukegan road from Milwaukee avenue to Glenview road, and Milwaukee avenue from Elston avenue to Harlem avenue in Niles.

New 40 foot pavements include: [6] Skokie Valley road from Devon north and northwest to Lake county line; [7] new Joliet road from Harlem avenue to Lawndale avenue.

New 20 foot pavements include: [8] Lee street from Perry street to Rand road, Seeger road from Rand road to Northwest highway; [9] North avenue from Lake street to Harlem; [10] St. Charles road from Mannheim road to county line; [11] Washington boulevard from Harlem avenue to Butterfield road; [12] Butterfield road from Washington boulevard to county line; [13] 22d street from Des Plaines avenue to Mannheim road, and [14] the 79th street bridge over the drainage canal.

Shoulder widening, preparatory to future pavement widening, shown on the map includes 27 miles of work.

FAMOUS TRAIL WIDENED

State highway departments of New Jersey and Pennsylvania are busy rescuing motorists on the famous old White Horse pike from narrow pavement congestion. Both states are working on the addition of ten and eleven foot pavement sections along 37 miles of the old 18 and 20 foot road between Philadelphia and Atlantic City. When the entire project is completed there will be a pavement 40 feet in width for 60 miles between the two cities, serving four moving lines of automobile traffic.

WORK BENCH WISDOM

MEASURING MOTOR POWER.

BY F. E. EDWARDS.
(Chief Engineer Automobile Testing Laboratory.)

MEASUREMENTS are made nowadays to determine how correctly each part of a motor car functions.

First, the cylinders with pistons and rings in them must be able to hold compression. This compression has two ways of leaking out, either by the valves or by the piston rings. If, when we measure the compression, it is weak in any or all cylinders, we have to find out where it leaks. This is done by putting air at high pressure into the cylinder. If the valves leak we will hear the leak into the manifold. If it is by the rings we will hear it in the crank case, so that either the valves need to be ground or pistons may need new rings. To differentiate between the leak by the rings due to poor rings or a score in the cylinder wall we introduce the compressed air with the pistons in different positions, and the sound will usually indicate which causes the trouble.

The pistons in the cylinder are connected by a connecting rod to the crank shaft. If the bearings at either end of the connecting rod are loose, the result will be a knock. Also if the piston is very loose in the cylinder, a piston slap results. With the cylinders good, the pistons and bearings quiet, the motor is then put under load with its own power, using a fuel that is standard, and which is measured as it flows to the carburetor. When the motor is pulling with a wide open throttle at twenty miles an hour we can check up on any noises, also on the condition of the rings in the pistons by watching the amount of gas that blows by the pistons into the crank case.

The spark timing, sticky valves, and tappets are also checked at this point. We have discovered many interesting things, showing how an apparently minor trouble may cause a lot of trouble. One case was a sleeve valve motor, which had been taken from ignition to carburetor experts and back several times. Our test proved both carburetor and ignition to be all right. There was nothing loose about the motor, but when we put air pressure in the cylinder we heard it escaping into the manifold. This was the same in each cylinder. This leakage could only be by the valves, and sliding valves rarely leak. Further investigation showed that the valve timing was wrong, and this may have been caused by the timing chain jumping a tooth, or they may have been set wrong. The latter turned out to be the case.

Sometimes we have a case where there is a knock in the motor, which our testing proves to be absolutely tight, no loose bearings, pistons, or rings. We then try and time the knock with the operation of some working part, and also localize the noise with stethoscopes.

Invading Canada

WITH a view to learning of Canadian needs in motor vehicles and to review motor activities in the states, Alfred Reeves, general manager National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, will make a tour of Canada, beginning Sept. 20 at Windsor, where his topic will be "The Automobile Outlook."

He will speak at meetings in Hamilton, Toronto, Oshawa, Ottawa, Montreal, and Quebec.

W. G. Robertson, secretary-treasurer automotive industries of Canada, is managing the trip, which has for its purpose a better understanding of marketing and use of cars, trucks, busses, and cabs. Particular attention will be given to methods of sales, service, and financing by dealers. The meetings will also consider taxation, traffic, and other factors in the use of motor vehicles by the public.

Heavy Rains Make New Detours on Midwest Trails

HEAVY rainfall through central Illinois resulted in several state highways becoming impassable, due to high water. Springfield reported 5.50 inches of rainfall and Jacksonville reported 8 inches. Also heavy rains were reported through Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska. Motorists should inquire locally for road conditions, especially in the flooded area.

The Chicago Motor club reported the following conditions:

Illinois-4—Detour at Sangamon river covered with water and route is impassable at present. Detour south of Lincoln also reported in poor condition.

Illinois-24—Reported impassable on account of high water at Sugar creek.

Paris, Ill.—All highways clear to travel following the recent heavy rains.

Illinois-9—High water at Spoon river, between Canton and Bushnell, cuts off traffic. Detour is via Illinois-31 to Lewistown and Bushnell.

Illinois-31—Forty mile dirt detour between Lewistown and Bushnell reported in bad condition because of recent heavy rains.

Illinois-5—Detour between Galena and East Dubuque to be eliminated Oct. 1. Also a detour being used in city of Freeport.

Illinois-28—New pavement east of Galva all open to travel. Short stretch of dirt road west of Galva, which is in passable condition.

Indiana-1—New pavement may be used to 9 miles north of Peru, then west to Twelve Mile, then north into Rochester.

THE TRAIL TODAY AND YESTERDAY

A striking illustration of what the automobile has done for Uncle Sam in the matter of road improvement appears in this unusual picture showing the trail through Ute Pass, Colorado, in 1926 and in 1896. The picture on the left is the road today, a smooth, safe highway that carries thousands of cars each year over the Rockies. On the right, snapped from the same spot, is the old trail thirty years ago with a wagon train hauling silver bullion from the famous camp at Leadville. Armed outriders guard the old train, but they cannot safeguard it from the mud and treacherous road shoulders that formed the almost impassable hazard in the stirring days of the '90's.

Better than Ever—

Following their traditional policy of constant improvement with no yearly models, Dodge Brothers, during the past eight months, have vastly bettered their motor cars in many vital respects.

Indeed, there has never been an equal period in Dodge Brothers history when so many refinements of a popular and fundamental nature have been made.

The public is registering its appreciation of this progressive industrial service by purchasing every motor car Dodge Brothers can build—in spite of the fact that Dodge Brothers production, during these months, has broken all previous records by an impressive margin.

Additional developments in the cattle trade during last week further revealed the broad outlet for finished stock and the firm position of the market.

Prices advanced fully 25@50c on better grades, which are selling $1.00@1.25 above the low point three weeks ago, when prime steers were abundant at the lowest price level of the year.

WEEKLY AVERAGE PRICES

Average weekly prices at Chicago for native beef cattle, hogs, sheep, and lambs, as compiled by the Drovers' Journal:

	Cattle.	Hogs.	Sheep.	Lambs.
Last week	$10.30	$11.75	$6.00	$14.35
Prev. week	10.00	11.65	5.85	14.25
Cor. wk. '25	11.50	11.90	7.10	15.25
Cor. wk. '24	9.80	9.40	6.15	13.85
Cor. wk. '23	10.30	8.55	6.90	13.85
Cor. wk. '22	10.05	8.60	6.50	13.20
Cor. wk. '21	8.25	7.65	4.30	9.65
Av. 1921-'25	$10.00	$ 9.20	$6.20	$13.15

The improvement was general. Parallel gains were reported throughout the country, top prices at other points crowding Chicago's new high marks repeatedly. One big western center was credited with $11.40 yearlings.

Buyers After Better Grades.

Buyers scrambled for better grades of steers on the local trade, paying the full advance for the recently neglected 1,300@1,500 lb averages. All weights established new high prices for the season, yearlings at $11.50 and heavy at $11.25. Top for the year was $12.00 early in January. Average price at $10.30 last week was highest of the year. Considering the Monday holiday, receipts were about the largest of the year for the five day period. Range cattle at 10,900, largest of the season, advanced mostly 25c, best bringing $9.00.

Week-end offerings of hogs, mostly weighty mixed and packers, cleared slowly at steady to 15c lower prices, sows selling at the reduction. Top remained steady at $14.40 paid for selected light, with prime 300 lb butchers around $12.60 and extremely heavy packers down to $9.10. General average price lowered 15c at $11.85. However, only pen holders and inferior hogs, numbering 1,500, remained at the close.

Hog receipts were smaller and lighter in weight last week, the estimated average at 267 lbs, being lightest since the first week in August and 10 lbs below two weeks ago. Total arrivals at 98,300 were smallest in five months. Only a dozen weekly hog totals have been below 100,000 during the last 6 years. Extreme top last week was 20c lower at $14.40, while the general average price advanced 10c at $11.75, being highest since week ending July 31.

Sharp advances in weighty hogs, while light weights remained steady featured the trade in midweek, bringing the range of prices to the narrowest point in over two weeks. Heavy hogs finished 25@40c above a week earlier, mixed up most. Selected light advanced only 15@25c during the week.

Sheep and Lambs Higher.

Sheep and lamb prices advanced sharply in face of the largest run of westerns of the season, arrivals from the range numbering 222 loads of lambs and 27 of old sheep. Sheep receipts were second largest since last January, despite the Monday holiday. Range lambs lead the advance, gaining fully 50@75c, with natives up 25@50c and aged sheep mostly 50c. Yearlings finished 25@50c higher. Quality of fat range lambs graded slightly better. Several large bands reached the week's top of $15.25. Natives to city butchers brought $14.90 and to packers, $14.50. Aged sheep averaged $6.00, equal to the highest in a month, top range ewes reaching $7.25 and old wethers $8.50. Feeding lambs at $15.00 were highest since April when shearers reached $15.25.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 4,000 cattle, 36,000 hogs, and 30,000 sheep, against 29,704 cattle, 28,964 hogs, and 27,922 sheep, Tuesday, Sept. 7, following Labor day holiday, and 24,781 cattle, 27,929 hogs, and 17,589 sheep, the corresponding Monday a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 70,000 cattle, 115,000 hogs, and 130,000 sheep, against 61,558 cattle, 94,253 hogs, and 86,497 sheep, a year ago.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Several new lines of yarn dyed wash fabrics and worsted dress fabrics for spring will be opened on Monday. The markets were quiet on the last days of the week, after the cotton report was issued, but prices held very steady. Yarns have been active. Raw silk was unchanged. Silk goods were more active than for some time. A larger business is expected in wool goods next week after the resumption of work in the cutting trades. Burlaps continued fitful, awaiting the jute report due in the next few weeks. Local prices ruled firmer and steadier than those in Calcutta, light shipments in August having made spot buying more active.

METAL MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—COPPER—Largest domestic consumers believed to have covered their needs for September and in some instances well into October. Most interests holding off for 14½c for electrolytic at the end of the week, with some small lots reported at 14.30c to 14.35c. TIN—Strong; highest since world war, due to a scarcity of straits. LEAD—Because of heaviness abroad, was barely steady. ZINC—Firmer; reflected the more favorable statistical situation and a much better consuming demand. ANTIMONY—Firmer, reflecting the unfavorable Chinese situation, although demand is not very active.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 11.—LEAD—Dull at $8.70. ZINC—Slab, quiet at $7.45.

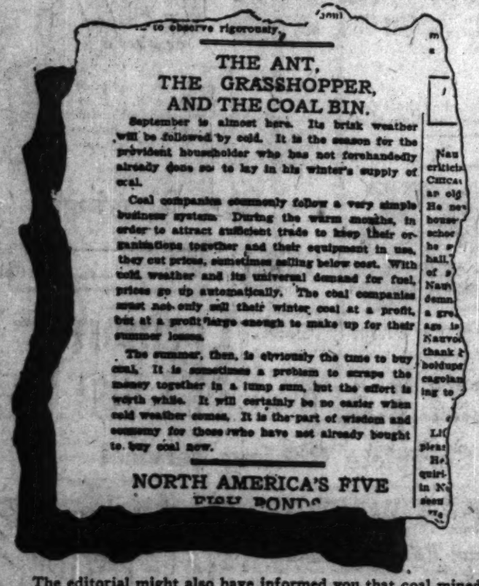
COAL FACTS

Read the short editorial from the daily press reproduced here which tells you the whole truth about coal prices.



THE ANT, THE GRASSHOPPER, AND THE COAL BIN.

September is almost here. Its brisk weather will be followed by cold. It is the season for the provident householder who has not forehandedly already done so to lay in his winter's supply of coal.

Coal companies commonly follow a very simple business system. During the warm months, in order to attract sufficient trade to keep their organizations together and their equipment in use, they cut prices, sometimes selling below cost. With cold weather and its universal demand for fuel, prices go up automatically. The coal companies must not only sell their winter coal at a profit, but at a profit large enough to make up for their summer losses.

The summer, then, is obviously the time to buy coal. It is sometimes a problem to scrape the money together in a lump sum, but the effort is worth while. It will certainly be no easier when cold weather comes. It is the part of wisdom and economy for those who have not already bought to buy coal now.

NORTH AMERICA'S FIVE

The editorial might also have informed you that coal mined in the leisure of summer months is free from impurities and dealer service is at its best.

Most careful preparation of highest grades of coal at mines is not sufficient to meet our standard, therefore we refine and prepare all coal before delivery to consumer in a way no other dealer is equipped to do.

Last but not least, our large volume buying, selling for cash and passing all benefits of lower delivery cost due to large loads on to you. The following prices are all C. O. D. Now simple deferred payment plan also available.

F. O. B. LANSING

The Car Illustrated is the De Luxe Coach, priced $1050 at Lansing

Months and months ago Oldsmobile had won such a firm position in public preference as to mark the fulfillment of its purpose "... that the American family shall have, at a moderate investment, a car that gratifies their finer tastes as well as satisfies their every need ..."

But the men behind Oldsmobile decreed that this car, so firm in public favor, should be made better than ever.

You may view it in traffic with admiration. You may scan it at the curb with open approval. But when you have gone over it, point by point, and feature by feature; when you have driven it and experienced its ready power, its handling ease, its riding comfort ... then, and only then, can you realize how thoroughly it gratifies your finer tastes as well as satisfies your every need!

Larger L-Head Engine; Crankcase Ventilation; Dual Air Cleaning; Oil Filter; Harmonic Balancer; Twin-Beam Headlights, Controlled From Steering Wheel; Two-Way Cooling; Three-Way Pressure Lubrication; Full Automatic Spark Control; Thermostatic Charging Control; Tapered, Dome-Shaped Combustion Chambers; High Velocity, Hot-Section Manifold; Special Design, Light Cast-Iron Pistons; Honed Cylinders; Silent Timing Chain; Balloon Tires; Exclusive Chromium Plating; Duco Finish; New Beauty of Line and Appointments in Fisher Bodies; and many other features of demonstrated worth.

CURB ON ALIEN TIDE IS BASIS OF HIGHER WAGE

BY HARPER LEECH.

No speculations as to the long run prospects of business should overlook the fact that American prosperity now rests on a wage base, which depends on immigration restriction.

Post and water are every day being harnessed to displace as power units human bodies run by expensive starch, proteins, and sugars. Such changes, however, involve heavy first costs and must overcome human inertia. A fresh supply of cheap labor doubtless would slow up the process of making industry more efficient.

We can only respect that opposition to restricted immigration which comes from the contained nationalisms of groups domiciled among us. Their group loyalty is generic with ours, and in the long run will strengthen American nationalism, when amalgamation transmutes it.

More subtle and potentially dangerous attack on those laws comes from professional and cultural groups and influences, which dislike the immigration laws for other reasons. Those whose cultural viewpoint is environmental, internationalist and aqualitarian, because they have absorbed the prevailing literary and historic culture, which descends to us from a preclassitic age envelop the small group, who are actively engaged in social welfare work.

These outer and inner groups are more or less hostile to the principles of our immigration statutes, because they embody realistic views of humanity, not in accord with their prepossessions. None of us know very much about the processes of human evolution, but for nearly seventy years every fresh advance by experimental study of human heredity and capacities has been followed by a wave of pseudo science, which seeks to rehabilitate the environmental ideology. We are in the midst of such a period now. While much attention has been drawn to the inconsequential attempt by functionalists to proscribe elementary biological teaching—a passing influence representing a dying force, the real danger is a scientific approach to the problems of human society has been overlooked.

No earnest environmentalist can object to explanation of wishful thinking by an environmental investigation. That is the final paradox of all environmental dogma. Therefore, may we not attribute the hostility of so many social workers to immigration restriction to the fact that the necessity for charitable and cultural work imposed on America, when mass masses were drawn here for cheap labor purposes, greatly enhanced the importance of their professions?

More than one reporter has noted in the course of his work that social workers often develop great enthusiasm for the foreign among whom they work, and at times this seems to lead to scarce concealed prejudice against the older colonial and earlier immigrant stocks.

Perhaps this is because the newcomers accept to be more docile and plastic material for the experiments in the socialization of American life, which constitute the ambition of so many welfarers. This may be the principal explanation of the apparent inversion of natural emotions of kind consciousness, which is often noted by observers of the uplift.

The Crowd Always Loses on the Market.

Statistics show that of a large number of men who have speculated over a period of years, 97 per cent lost money, 2 per cent came out even, and only 1 per cent made profits.

Speculation is no game for the small investor.

He usually gets in when the market is high and without a definite knowledge of what it's all about.

The market may continue to rise for a time and he feels he has done a good thing.

The reason for the rise frequently is that the crowd of average individuals, like himself, is buying.

Every one wants stock and that naturally keeps the price up.

Then the peak is reached and holders figure their profits and begin to sell.

Soon every one wants to sell and there are no buyers. The market goes down and the crowd loses.

The average individual does not realize what every professional operator knows that with stocks, just as with all commodities, when there are more sellers than buyers the price is bound to come down.

Nor does he realize that stocks finally reach a point where they are so high that the organizations behind them cannot earn a fair yield.

The professional operators understand the fundamental factors that govern the market.

That is a profession in itself.

The average individual doesn't understand it at all.

He attempts to compete with the professional at his own game.

Professionals will buy during a depression when stocks are usually below actual value.

When conditions improve and stocks begin to rise above their actual values they start selling their holdings to the crowd.

That is when the crowd begins to buy and that is principally why the crowd always loses.

The time to buy is when the crowd is selling. The time to sell is when the crowd is buying.

One cannot go blindly into a game of which he knows nothing and expect to make money any more than he could go into a business of which he knew nothing and expect to be successful.

CURB ON ALIEN TIDE IS BASIS OF HIGHER WAGE

BY HARPER LEECH.

No speculations as to the long run prospects of business should overlook the fact that American prosperity now rests on a wage base, which depends on immigration restriction.

Post and water are every day being harnessed to displace as power units human bodies run by expensive starch, proteins, and sugars. Such changes, however, involve heavy first costs and must overcome human inertia. A fresh supply of cheap labor doubtless would slow up the process of making industry more efficient.

We can only respect that opposition to restricted immigration which comes from the contained nationalisms of groups domiciled among us. Their group loyalty is generic with ours, and in the long run will strengthen American nationalism, when amalgamation transmutes it.

More subtle and potentially dangerous attack on those laws comes from professional and cultural groups and influences, which dislike the immigration laws for other reasons. Those whose cultural viewpoint is environmental, internationalist and aqualitarian, because they have absorbed the prevailing literary and historic culture, which descends to us from a preclassitic age envelop the small group, who are actively engaged in social welfare work.

These outer and inner groups are more or less hostile to the principles of our immigration statutes, because they embody realistic views of humanity, not in accord with their prepossessions. None of us know very much about the processes of human evolution, but for nearly seventy years every fresh advance by experimental study of human heredity and capacities has been followed by a wave of pseudo science, which seeks to rehabilitate the environmental ideology. We are in the midst of such a period now. While much attention has been drawn to the inconsequential attempt by functionalists to proscribe elementary biological teaching—a passing influence representing a dying force, the real danger is a scientific approach to the problems of human society has been overlooked.

No earnest environmentalist can object to explanation of wishful thinking by an environmental investigation. That is the final paradox of all environmental dogma. Therefore, may we not attribute the hostility of so many social workers to immigration restriction to the fact that the necessity for charitable and cultural work imposed on America, when mass masses were drawn here for cheap labor purposes, greatly enhanced the importance of their professions?

More than one reporter has noted in the course of his work that social workers often develop great enthusiasm for the foreign among whom they work, and at times this seems to lead to scarce concealed prejudice against the older colonial and earlier immigrant stocks.

Perhaps this is because the newcomers accept to be more docile and plastic material for the experiments in the socialization of American life, which constitute the ambition of so many welfarers. This may be the principal explanation of the apparent inversion of natural emotions of kind consciousness, which is often noted by observers of the uplift.

BUYING OF FIVE MILLION BUSHELS ADVANCES WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Buying of 5,000,000 bu or more wheat futures, as estimated by pit traders, credited to a large eastern operator, more than offset the effect of a bearish Canadian government estimate on the spring wheat yield in the three provinces.

This buying carried September up 4c from the early low to a high of $1.34, while December moved up 4¼c from the bottom to $1.37½. The finish was within a fraction of the top with net gains of 1¾@2¼c with September, $1.33½ to $1.33⅝; December, $1.36⅜ to $1.36⅝ and May $1.41⅜ to $1.41⅞, the highest prices of the week being made toward the last.

A frost scare was on in corn, the forecast suggesting the possibility of it materializing in the northern sections of the middle west, and prices advanced 1⅛@1⅜c from the early low with the deferred deliveries 1⅛@1¼c higher at the last and September unchanged. The latter closed at 79¼c; December, 85⅛@85¼c, and May, 91⅝@91¾c. Oats gained ⅞@1⅛c, with September 37⅞c, and December 43⅝c, while rye was 1⅛@1⅜c higher with September, 94⅛c and December 99½@99¾c.

Grains Higher for Week.

Grain markets showed an easy undertone the early part of the week but the advance which came Saturday more than wiped out the losses and wheat closed unchanged to ⅞c higher, while corn was 1@2¾c; oats, ½@1c, and rye, 2¾@3¼c higher for the week. Provisions were firmer with lard gaining 17½@42½c, and ribs 15@30c for the week, with bellies 2½@10c lower.

The heavy buying of wheat futures for eastern account was the main influence in the market. News developments were featureless during the day with the exception of rains in parts of the Canadian northwest which will further delay thrashing and the movement, and messages from Winnipeg expressed fears of serious damage to the quality. The forecast, however, was for generally fair and cooler, while indications were for showers in the American northwest.

Opening prices were about the lowest of the day, with some stop loss orders uncovered, and later local shorts started to cover and found little for sale, with those who sold offers forced to protect themselves on the way up. Liverpool regarded the Canadian report as bearish and it closed ½@¾d lower.

Fear Frost in Corn Belt.

The forecast for unsettled weather over the corn belt with frost for the Dakotas and Minnesota if the skies clear with a strong possibility of it working down into the corn belt, led to buying by local bulls, and with the strength in wheat an upturn was easily attained with all deliveries selling at the best prices of the week. Market is a weather affair, Cash demand continues light. Little attention was paid to the government report, except for a brief period early. Strength in other grains was largely responsible for the bulge in oats and rye.

PRIMARIES FOR WEEK

Primary receipts of grain last week were 18,337,000 bu, a decrease of 6,324,000 bu from the previous week, mostly in wheat and oats, due to wet weather delaying thrashing and loading in the interior. There was a decrease of 10,000,000 bu last year and 12,000,000 bu from the five year average. Details follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

The bearish Canadian Government report on the three provinces and the upturn in futures prevented any export business of consequence at the seaboard, and no sales were reported. Interest in other grains was lacking.

Chicago handlers sold 10,000 bu wheat, 15,000 bu corn, 8,000 bu oats, and 25,000 bu barley to the domestic trade, with 50,000 bu oats to go to store. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 105,000 bu wheat, 129,000 bu corn, 280,000 bu oats, and 2,000 bu rye.

Offerings of cash wheat remain light and the spot basis here was unchanged, with No. 2 red 1¾@2¼c over December and No. 3 red 3@4c under, while No. 2 hard was 2½@4c over and No. 3 hard 5c over to 1c under December. Outside markets showed little change in the basis, although at Minneapolis mills were good buyers.

Cash corn sold fairly, with the basis steady to 1c higher. No. 2 grades brought 2@3c under; No. 3 grades, 3@5c under, and No. 4 grades 4½@6½c under December. Outside markets were unchanged to 1c higher.

Choice No. 2 white oats remain scarce and they sold at 3@5c over September, with No. 3 white ½@1¾c over, the basis being steady to ½c higher.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 57 cars; corn, 47 cars; oats, 40 cars; rye, 7 cars; barley, 6 cars.

GOOD TONE IN PROVISIONS

Provision traders consider the market as having a better tone than of late, with selling pressure moderate, hog values holding well, with top prices around the best of the week and receipts fair, with a good trade in meats and a fair business in lard on domestic and foreign account. There had a small range and October lard closed unchanged, with January 2½c higher. There was buying of January and selling of October lard at 90c spread. Cotton oil interests sold January lard. Short ribs and bellies were unchanged, with no trading. September deliveries were 100,000 lbs of lard and 50,00 lbs of bellies. Lard in Liverpool was 3@6d higher and export clearances from the seaboard light. Hog supplies were larger than a week ago and a year ago. Prices follow:

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Buying of wheat yesterday was the largest that the trade has seen in some time, with the leading eastern trader said to have covered a good many million bushels of short wheat. The advance forced in other shorts, and the mystery was where all the wheat they were able to buy came from. It left the technical situation weaker and while higher cables are expected on Monday, traders were disposed to consider the market as in no position to withstand heavy selling.

Buying of the big line of short wheat was attributed to the failure of the government report to show a good increase in the spring wheat crop many of the trade had expected. The crop estimates not being enlarged, and the belief that bearish conditions have been well discounted, the short interest in some instances became uneasy as the market has shown a disposition to rally for the last few days.

A frost scare is on in corn with predictions of low temperatures by the weather bureau coming at a time when the crop needs warm dry weather to mature, it naturally creates uneasiness and a large number of local professionals have taken the bull side the last few days in anticipation of a frost which they believe would make a sharp bulge on covering by shorts and possibly the development of a better outside buying power. Prices are up about 6c on September from the recent low point and a large number of local professionals are said to be heavily long.

Winnipeg reported that the pool was selling May wheat in that market and has been all week. Country receipts of wheat in western Canada on Friday were 2,057,000 bu, against 2,556,838 bu last year. Interior loadings were 1,084 cars against 1,540 cars last year.

Cotton Off $5.00 Bale from High of Last Week

Cotton was under pressure from sellers, with poor support. Highest prices were at the start, and lowest at the close, with losses of 25 to 40 points on futures in Chicago and 38 to 44 points in New York. March marked a decline from the high point on Tuesday of 115 points, or more than $5 per bale, the finish being the lowest of the week.

Improved weather over the central and eastern belt has more than offset the effect of rains in Texas and made a bearish feeling, which started on the issuance of the government report early in the week.

Liverpool was weak and closed 13 points lower. Trade news was quiet and speculative trade not heavy. Prices in leading markets follow:

THE SYNDICATE PLAN OF MAKING MONEY

THIS is a plan by which an investor can make a splendid profit in real estate without risk. I have fortunately secured an advantageous contract to buy 152 acres of choice residential property northwest of Chicago. I have also contracted with Chicago's leading subdivider to sell this property in one, two, three and five acre homesites.

You can join me in this purchase by buying one or more units in this Syndicate at $1,000 each. Your money draws 6% interest and each unit is redeemable at $2,000. In other words, you double your money.

This property is trusteed with the Chicago Trust Co. Your money will be paid directly to them. You will receive your interest and profit from them. The property will be sold and transferred through their office. Titles are to be guaranteed by the Chicago Title and Trust Co.

This property is most advantageously located. Close to the station with 25 fast trains to Chicago. Only 34 minutes to the loop. Six golf clubs within 2 miles and one of Chicago's most famous golf clubs right across the road.

Such an opportunity as this, combining exceptional profit with every safeguard, is most unusual. Of course it is limited and will go fast. If interested I will be glad to send you full particulars at once.

ADDRESS C B 416 TRIBUNE

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Sales of the ten leading chain store companies of the country for the eight months ended Aug. 31 aggregated $345,530,481, establishing a new high record for any similar period in the country's history. The increase over the corresponding months last year amounted to $40,707,987 or 13.35 per cent, while the gain in August business alone was more than 8 per cent above that of August, 1925.

Reports from Berlin indicate that a combination to control the manufacture of benzine from lignite will soon be effected by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the Royal Dutch-Shell group and the German Gasoline company, a former Stinnes subsidiary. Standard Oil company officials recently admitted their interest in new processes to produce synthetic fuel but denied that any agreement had been concluded with German firms.

The Mississippi Central Power corporation, recently incorporated in Baltimore, is reported to be designed as a holding company for the consolidation of several properties now controlled by the Electric Bond and Share company. Among the companies in that region owned by Electric Bond interests are the Arkansas Light and Power company, Louisiana Power and Light company, and the Mississippi Power and Light company.

Common stockholders of the Butterick Publishing company, who have had no return on their investment for ten years, will soon be receiving dividends, said J. A. Moore, chairman, sailing on the Paris today to readjust the British and French business of the company. Directors will meet in the near future to consider the dividend question, Mr. Moore announced, it being their present intention to make disbursements of both cash and stock.

Bank clearings in the leading cities of the country for the past week totaled $7,580,071,219. The increase over the corresponding period last year amounted to 2.3 per cent. Commercial failures this week totaled 290, against 282 in the corresponding week last year.

Westinghouse, Timken and Singer Declare Dividends

Several corporations made favorable dividend announcements yesterday. Westinghouse Air Brake capital stock has been placed on a $7 annual dividend basis by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share. The previous quarterly disbursement was $1.50 regular and an extra of 25 cents a share.

The Timken Detroit Axle company has declared an extra dividend of one-half one per cent in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 1½ per cent. The Singer Manufacturing company declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share.

Allis-Chalmers Co. Reports Best Trade in Six Years

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 11.—[United Press.]—Business at the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company, has reached the highest level in six years, it was announced at the September meeting of the board of directors here. President Otto H. Falk expects this rate to continue for the rest of the year at least. Unfilled orders Sept. 1 were $13,456,000, an increase of $56,000 over the Aug. 1 total and nearly $3,500,000 over January bookings. The previous peak was $14,000,000 in February, 1921.

THE SYNDICATE PLAN OF MAKING MONEY

THIS is a plan by which an investor can make a splendid profit in real estate without risk. I have fortunately secured an advantageous contract to buy 152 acres of choice residential property northwest of Chicago. I have also contracted with Chicago's leading subdivider to sell this property in one, two, three and five acre homesites.

You can join me in this purchase by buying one or more units in this Syndicate at $1,000 each. Your money draws 6% interest and each unit is redeemable at $2,000. In other words, you double your money.

This property is trusteed with the Chicago Trust Co. Your money will be paid directly to them. You will receive your interest and profit from them. The property will be sold and transferred through their office. Titles are to be guaranteed by the Chicago Title and Trust Co.

This property is most advantageously located. Close to the station with 25 fast trains to Chicago. Only 34 minutes to the loop. Six golf clubs within 2 miles and one of Chicago's most famous golf clubs right across the road.

Such an opportunity as this, combining exceptional profit with every safeguard, is most unusual. Of course it is limited and will go fast. If interested I will be glad to send you full particulars at once.

STOCK MARKET SLUMPS AGAIN AS WEEK ENDS

YESTERDAY'S AVERAGES

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A further downward readjustment of quoted values took place in today's stock market. There was nothing in the day's news to explain the selling movement, which appeared to be a correction of the weakened technical position resulting from the recent rapid advance in many issues and their improper distribution. Public participation was on a small scale and operators working for higher prices showed a disposition to restrict commitments until after the third quarterly income tax dividend and interest payments were out of the way.

Bear traders succeeded in forcing the liquidation of large blocks of motor shares, basing their selling on the belief that recent price cuts would be reflected in lower earnings, and that increasing competition among the large manufacturers probably spelled disaster for some of the smaller companies.

General Motors and Steel Drop.

General Motors broke 3 points to 212¾, and then rallied slightly, and Yellow Truck and Hudson each yielded about a point. Studebaker was an exception, gaining 1¼ points higher at 60¼, with selling influenced by reports that a new selling group had become interested in the stock.

Despite the explanation that the drop in rallied orders last month was due to the record shipment rather than to a recession in demand, United States Steel was in supply most of the session, dropping 1½ points to a new low for the current movement at 146¼ and ending just above that figure. Other steels held fairly steady.

Many recessions took place in such active favorites as American Smelting, Baldwin Edison, Case Thrashing Machine, Du Pont, Manhattan Electrical Supply, and United States Cast Iron Pipe. Public Kinney broke 5½ points to a new low of 45½, or nearly 40 points below last year's high.

Sugar Shares Show Strength.

Sugar shares continued to reflect the recent improvement in the commodity itself. American Beet Sugar preferred gained nearly four points and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, Great Western Sugar, Manati, and Punta Alegre advanced 1 to 3½ points. Granby Copper showed a new high.

Rails received better support than the industrials, although losses of a point or more were registered by a dozen issues including Atchison, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, "Nickel Plate," Southern, and Union Pacific.

Reviews of the foreign exchanges reflected the splendid impression created by international banking circles by the evident unity which surrounded the entrance of Germany into the league of nations. Demand sterling was slightly lower at around $4.85¼ and French francs declined several points to around 2.90c.

Bar Prices Hold Firm.

Bond prices continued firm. Foreign issues again held first place in investment favor. Japanese Government 6½s moved up 3 to a new high record. And other substantial gains were recorded in the German industrial and French dollar issues. The buying movement in bonds was suddenly checked, however, by the news of the attempted assassination of Premier Mussolini, the bonds reacting fractionally lower.

Sales of the minor railroad issues, such as Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s and the Rock Island refunding 4s, made a fair showing in the carrier group. Junior Sugar bonds recovered part of the recent losses. Granby Mining 7s touched the year's top price and Portland Gas Power 6s stood out as one of the heavy features in the utility group. Public Utilities 8s were among the few issues to develop pronounced weakness.

Curb Market Is Irregular.

Trading on the curb exchange there was a marked absence of any definite trend of prices. A few advances occurring in the more traded securities while others were subject to moderate offerings. Safety Car moved about a point on a few small lots, but Glen Alden rose 1¼ points to 42. General Motors (new) and Warner Brothers Pictures displayed early strength, but lacked support on the advance and reacted about 2 points. Public utilities were quiet, which condition was also noted in the oil group. Ohio Oil sold from 99½ to 99, while others ranged narrowly.

The weekly statement of the New York clearing house banks, issued today, showed an excess reserve of $50,487,900, an increase of $61,338,000 from the deficit reserve of $12,850,000 reported last week. Loans, discounts, etc., decreased $14,000; net demand deposits increased $14,241,000; time deposits decreased $14,491,000; circulation increased $1,000. Aggregate reserve was $638,-

Puts Flood Damage in Illinois at Over $100,000

A statement from the Illinois Agricultural association today said that crop losses in the Illinois flood area would aggregate upwards of $100,000. The association started a check today of losses from floods due to the recent rains along the Illinois, Sangamon, and other rivers in west central Illinois.

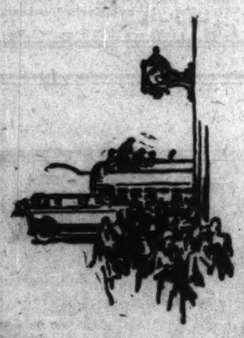
Much smaller parking space needed—the Whippet will park at a 14-foot curb

The Whippet turns in a 34-foot circle—that's less than the width of a city street

The Whippet's steering mechanism has been especially designed for quick, easy parking

At last—the answer to Chicago's critical traffic problems



This New Car Offers:

30 miles on a gallon of gasoline—55 miles an hour—5 to 30 miles in 15 seconds

4-wheel brakes—stops in 51 feet from 40 miles an hour

Turns in 34-foot circle—easiest car in America to park

5 feet 8 inches high—lower gravity center—greater safety

European-type body—more leg-room than any other light car

TODAY—Chicago has a revolutionary new-type, high-speed light car—designed and built to meet modern traffic conditions. Engineered specifically for parking at jammed curbs—for lightning get-away at congested traffic crossings—for instant stopping in pedestrian-crowded city streets—this new-type car is a challenge to all former engineering practice. It marks the most important light-car engineering improvement in America during the last 16 years.

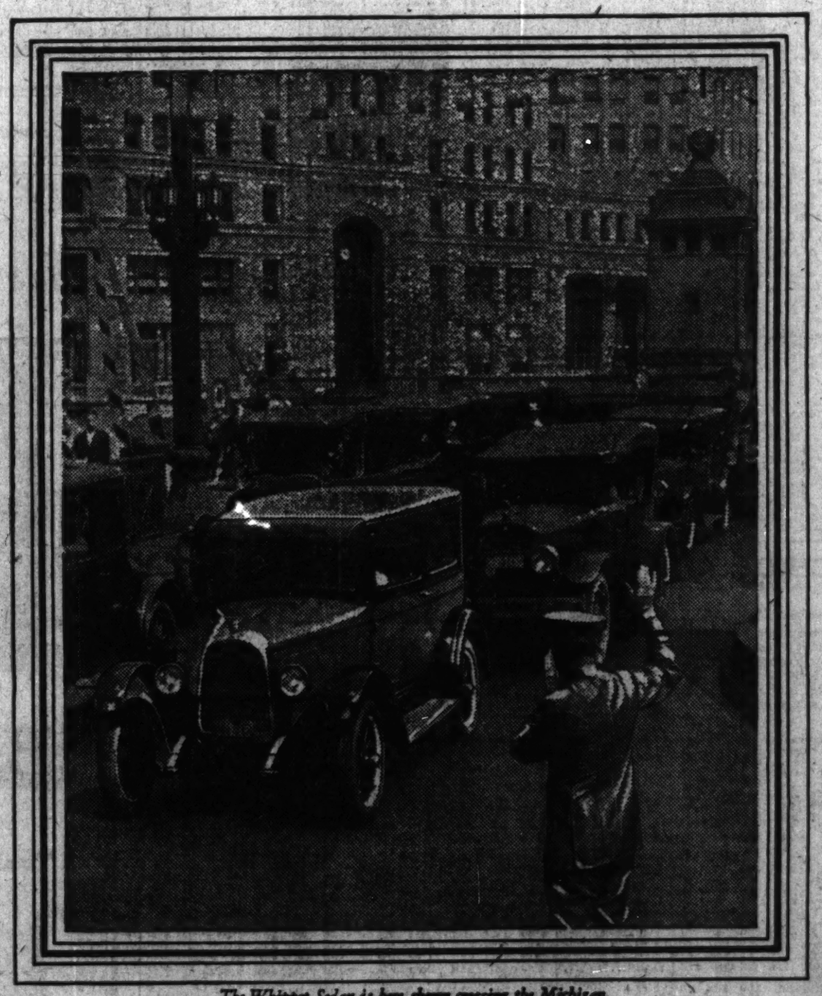
• • • •

This new car has a low European-type body, with height and length in true symmetrical proportion. It is 5 feet 8 inches high . . . not as tall as the average man. Yet it provides more leg-room and comfort than you've ever found in any automobile of this class before.

It has a high-torque, 31-horsepower motor of small bore and long stroke—the same engineering principles used in the fastest racing cars of America and Europe . . . Its center of gravity is extremely low, with ample road clearance . . . thus giving a sense of security you have never found in any light car before.

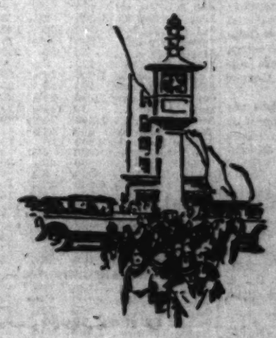
Two engineering ideals combined in this new-type car

The Whippet represents a combination of the most advanced European and American engineering thought. It is a complete new car . . . designed and built as a unit . . . not an old-fashioned reconstructed chassis.



The Whippet Sedan is here shown crossing the Michigan Avenue Bridge in the full tide of traffic

For over three years, Willys-Overland engineers in Europe and America have been developing it. Over 360,000 miles of road tests proved the practical advantages of the Whippet before its release for production.



Here's a car that will do 55 miles an hour in the hands of the average owner . . . with all the reserve power that this implies. You can drive it as fast as you like with the utmost ease of control . . . for no light car ever hugged the road like this before . . . In traffic it gets away with lightning pickup . . . stop-watch tests show that it accelerates up to 40 miles an hour 18% faster than other light four-cylinder cars.

30 miles on a gallon of gasoline

Here at last is an automobile that will run 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline . . . well over 1,000 miles on a gallon of oil . . . with extraordinary mileage on tires . . . and the smallest tax rating of any car in America today.

Imagine if you can what this saving will mean to the average owner in a single year. It cuts present operating costs just about in half—doubles the value of every dollar you now spend for upkeep. Exhaustive tests so far indicate that the average year's operating cost of the Whippet should save you from $75 to $150 in gas, oil, tires and mechanical upkeep.

Come, see the Whippet!

To thousands of Chicago owners this car will bring an entirely new pride of ownership—a new delight in its amazing performance-ability, its comfort and refinements.

You can, possibly, compare the Whippet with all other American light cars on the basis of price alone. But from the standpoint of advance engineering, performance, operating economy, comfort and quality, it has established an entirely new criterion by which all other light cars must be judged.

Come see this new-type car, of which you already see so many on Chicago's boulevards and streets. The Whippet comes in three body styles—Sedan, $735; Touring, $[illegible] Coupe, $735. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice . . . The new Willys Finance Plan means less money down, smaller monthly payments; and the lowest credit-cost. Get the figures—and a demonstration.

BRING BIT O' OLD FRANCE TO OUR BOUL MICH

"Malabry Court" to Be Quaint Spot.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chester A. and Raymond C. Cook, who did much to bring charm to Upper Michigan avenue when they remodeled the antique structures at the southeast corner of Ontario into an old Italian courtyard, have unique plans for another development a bit farther up Boul Mich at No. 671. Here, if Architect Philip Maher's designs are any criterion, the two bold Freres are going to give the north central district one of its most interesting developments in "Malabry court," as M. Hampson has suggested naming it.

KATHRYN STRICKLAND.

Right here, let's explain the suggested name. Chester Cook admitted he was searching for an attractive appellation. Back at the office, we appealed to the adjacent M. Hampson, who promptly drew on his year in Paris for inspiration, when asked if he would suggest a euphonious but pronounceable name. "Malabry Court" is famous and beautiful old French village near Paris, used by Uncle Sam as headquarters for military purposes during the war. Now let's hope the owners O. K. this name.

Sky as Its Covering.

Malabry Court is unusual in that although it's an open courtyard, with the sky as its covering, it's on the second floor. It'll be paved in slate of colorful tones, purple, browns and greens. The walls of the wings will be of white coated brick and the roofs which will surround the entire court will be of hand made shingle tiles of brown, purple and brown. Then there will be wrought iron railings and lanterns and an interesting treatment of coating to add color and atmosphere to the place.

The boulevard elevation of Malabry Court, which Mr. Maher made out of two old residences, and won a gold medal prize for the best remodeled building of the year in the north central district, is probably known to most persons who use Boul Mich. If we can find space, we'll show a picture of it in another page. The design for Malabry Court is shown on this page.

Let Mr. Maher Talk.

Now we'll let Mr. Maher say something about his design: "An interesting feature of the planning of this courtyard is that each of the six apartments surrounding it has its own entrance way directly from the court, so that each suite is, in fact, a small individual house.

"Through the little stone doorways entrance is made to a large studio room with a wood burning fireplace and in a nook, and a kitchenette. A winding staircase, with iron railing, leads to the second floor with its two bedrooms and bath. It'll combine the charm and fascination of the old world atmosphere with modern conveniences."

Malabry court is to be completed about the middle of November, according to Mr. Cook.

To Move from South Side

Frederick M. Bowes of the Bowes realty company, associated with the Bob Freres in the project, reports an interesting lease closed yesterday. Mrs. Strickland and her brother, Harry E. Strickland, who for many years has had one of the city's best known modiste's establishments at 2129 South Michigan avenue, have leased the four floors in the front of the three story building at 671-75. This space, on Malabry Court on the west. Another lease reported by Mr. Bowes is one of the three boulevard level stores to Leonard Moese of Paris, dealer in leather handbags.

DU PAGE COUNTY REALTORS PLAN BASKET PICNIC

Plans for the annual outing and basket picnic of the members of the Du Page County Real Estate board were announced last night by E. Robert Jones of Glen Ellyn, secretary of the organization. It's to be held on the spacious grounds of Alfred C. Hoy, head of the realty firm of A. C. Hoy & Co. Mr. Hoy's home is just west of the south end of the Chicago golf club grounds and is a short distance from the electric rail line. The outing will be held in the afternoon and evening of next Thursday, Sept. 15.

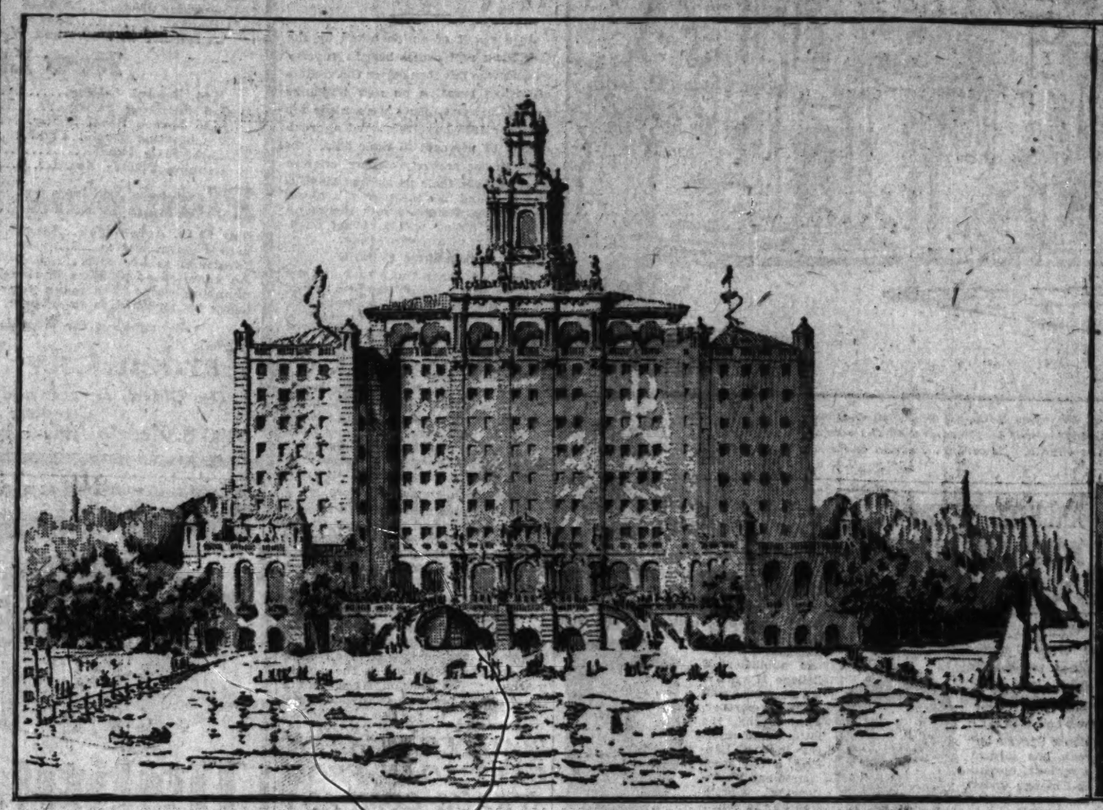
Company Leases Store on East Jackson Boulevard

Ernest Rosfeld has leased the store at 322 West Jackson to the John Hale company, through Ames & Stone, and Wilkins & Co. representing the owner. J. Jess, of Hooker, Slocum & Co. represented the lessee.

THE BREAKERS BEACH CLUB



The above picture illustrates the building to be occupied by the Breakers Beach club, recently told about in this department. The club is to be located on Sheridan road, between Kenilworth and Wilmette. John Eberson is the architect, and his plans call for a structure in the Hispano-Italian style. The building is to be seven stories high and will contain 250 guest rooms. And there are to be countless other rooms for the convenience of the members and residents, including sun parlors, card and billiard rooms.

BEAUTY AND UTILITY

The esthetic is combined with the utilitarian in the eleven story semi-cooperative apartment building which is now under construction at 433-37 Briar place for a syndicate headed by John J. Rosen. B. Leo Stolf & Co. are the architects. C. U. Bagge made the above rendering.

GIVEN TO HELP BRING CHARM TO MODEST HOUSES

$7,500 in Prizes for Architects.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]

Believing that the small home problem is of vital concern to countless families — for what family today is not at least a potential home builder—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE announces a small home competition.

LOUISE BARGELT.
[Chambers Photo.]

The conditions of this contest allow the contestants a wide scope in exterior style as well as interior plans. The winning houses will be chosen for their architectural excellence, their attractiveness and their charm as well as for their essential adequateness in meeting the needs of the small home dweller.

Twenty prizes will be given for the best examples of small home architecture. The competition will include houses of two classes, the five room house and the six room house. All architects and architectural draftsmen are invited to submit one, but not more than one, design in each of these classes.

For nearly a year THE TRIBUNE has sought to show the possibility of small houses possessing both charm and convenience by publishing each week the perspective and floor plans of a moderate priced residence which had attractiveness as well as practicability to commend it.

Smaller Harder to Design.

Although it is admittedly harder to design a small home of distinction and charm than a large one, every effort has been made to demonstrate through numerous examples and varying national types that taste and individuality can be inculcated in the small home as well as the big one.

No object offers greater incentive to endeavor at the present time than the ubiquitous small home. Never were there so many men and women in town and city, suburb and country so interested in building homes of their own. One of the most hopeful of our modern changes for the better lies in this growing desire on the part of the average American family for a small home which is attractive to the eye and at the same time convenient, practical, and comfort affording.

Will Sell Plans.

Through this contest, which will naturally bring forth exceptionally fine designs of modern small home architecture, prospective home builders will be given a splendid opportunity of securing for their own use the best examples of what representative American architects can do in the way of artistically designed five and six room houses. The plans and specifications of prize winning houses will be on sale for one dollar at the Public Service office the day after the prize winners have been announced, which will be on Sunday, Jan. 2.

One can get far, indeed, with five or six rooms from the hackneyed, stereotyped style of architecture seen in such lamentable profusion throughout the country.

May Use Any Type.

No limitations are placed in this contest as to the type of house submitted. The design does not need to be limited to any period or country. The architect may draw from any part of the world and his style of house may be French or Italian, English or Spanish, or Dutch colonial. His individual judgment and preference governs the particular type employed.

A program for the competition is now ready for distribution. Architects and architectural draftsmen may obtain a copy of this program by addressing THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Small Homes Competition, The Tribune Tower, Tribune square, Chicago.

The First Class Small House is the five room house, by far the most frequently built at the present time.

Provision for Eating.

To satisfy popular demand it must have a living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, and a bath. Also a covered porch and a garage, which may be attached or detached from the house.

The dining room may, if the architect desires, be omitted, but in this case provision must be made in the living room or the kitchen or in a dining nook for this service portion of the house.

Its contents are not to exceed 21,500 cubic feet, including the garage. Frontage, 30 feet; depth, 125 feet to the alley.

The Second Class Small House is to have six rooms. Its requirements are similar to the five room house excepting that the contents are to be 23,000 cubic feet, the frontage 35 feet, and it is to have three bedrooms.

Here Are the Prizes.

The first prize designs in each class, $1,000.

The second prize designs in each class, $750.

The third prize designs in each class, $500.

The fourth prize designs in each class, $300.

The fifth to tenth prize designs in each class, $200.

The competition closes Dec. 1. The winners of the competition will be announced on Jan. 2. And last, but not of least importance, the plans and specifications of prize designs will be on sale at the Public Service office Monday, Jan. 3.

Big Hotel and Flat Project for Lombard

Lombard, twenty-one miles west of State street, put in Du Page county, steps forward today with one of the most pretentious and interesting suburban stories in some time. It involves approximately $2,000,000 worth of construction, which includes a 600 room hotel and a seventy apartment building, a nine hole golf course, tennis courts, etc., all to be on a thirty acre tract of land. J. C. Thornton is promoter of the project.

MRS. BURD GRAY.

This improvement, by far Lombard's biggest, is to be carried out by a Lombard woman, Mrs. Mina Marie Burd Gray, who owns the thirty acre site for the project. She is a niece of a well known Chicagoan, Harvey Burd.

The first unit of the development will be the seventy flat building, standing on three acres at the southeast corner of St. Charles road and Grace street, in the extreme eastern part of town, just south of the Northwestern railroad.

It'll be in four three story units and contain four and five room suites. Alex Capire is the architect, and his plans call for the same material on all outside walls. The cost is placed at $500,000.

To the south and east of the big flats will be tennis courts, a swimming pool, a 100 car garage, and a nine hole golf course. These will be on a twenty acre tract.

Next spring Mrs. Burd Gray expects to start work on a six story fireproof 500 room hotel, on a ten acre tract just east of the twenty acres. It will be of southern colonial design and its cuisine will be reminiscent of Dixie as much as possible. It'll be called the Hotel Burd Gray.

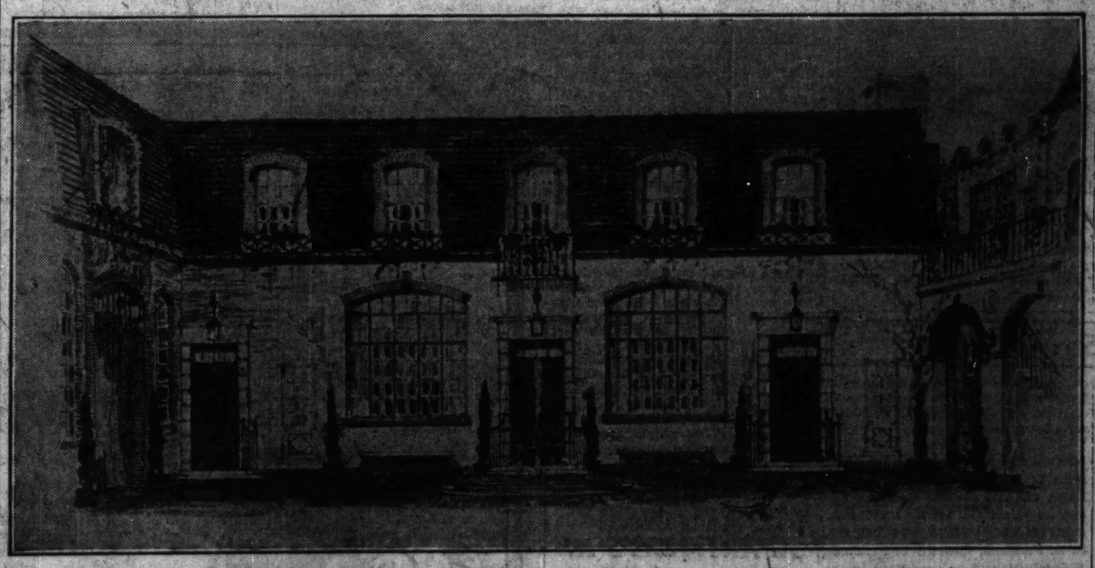
CIGAR COMPANY BUYS PANTHEON MOVIE BUILDING

The United Cigar Stores company has acquired the Pantheon Theater building at 4634-42 Sheridan road from the North Shore Development company through the purchase of the majority of the stock in the latter organization. Most of the stock was owned by Walter W. Alschlager, Carl J. Stein, and Lubliner & Trinz. The price was not given, but the property is understood to have a value of $1,500,000, including land and building. The site measures 250x150 feet. The building contains stores, offices and the Pantheon theater. It was erected about eight years ago.

WARREN NICHOLS BUYS 3 FLATS IN HYDE PARK

Warren Nichols has bought the three apartments at 1015 Hyde Park boulevard for a price reported by James J. Parker & Co., brokers, to have been in the neighborhood of $160,000. Carroll, Schandorf & Boesicke also were brokers.

ANOTHER QUAINT CONCEIT FOR UPPER MICHIGAN AVENUE



Architect Philip B. Maher designed "Malabry Court," shown above, which Chester A. and Raymond C. Cook and Frederick M. Bowes are to give to Upper Michigan avenue, as told more fully in a nearby column.

Eleven Story Building for Briar Place

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

An unusually handsome semi-cooperative apartment building is now under construction at 433-37 Briar place, 200 feet west of Sheridan road, for a syndicate headed by John J. Rosen.

The structure was designed by B. Leo Stolf & Co., and it is a striking example of the new spirit in building in Chicago, where the old fashioned ugly box type structures are headed for the limbo and beauty is coming more and more to the fore.

In this case a mansard roof replaces the uninteresting cornice of old. Further, the mansard will hide the penthouses, tanks and other objects which are about as attractive as our old friend the scarecrow.

The architecture of the building is called pure Georgian. The exterior will be of rough tapestry brick, trimmed with terra cotta, above the second floor. The lower part of the structure will be solid terra cotta in a rough bark texture.

Slate Mansard Roof.

A number of balconies will relieve the monotony of a plain surface. The mansard roof will be of slate. And the entrance will be dignified, getting away from overornateness.

The building is to contain ten seven-room apartments, which are to be sold, and twenty five-room apartments which will be rented. The total cost will be about $900,000 and the Greenebaum Sons Investment company has underwritten a bond issue of $550,000 for twelve years at six and a half per cent on the project. Title to property is held by the 433 Briar Place Building corporation.

An interesting feature of the ground floor will be a loggia opening off one of the sides. Mr. Rosen got his idea for it while in Cuba last winter. He had the original in Cuba photographed and the architects used the pictures in drawing their plans.

May Be Thrown Together.

As in a number of other buildings announced recently, the apartments will be laid out so that the parlor and dining room may be thrown together to make one large room. At the top of the building there are to be two studio apartments where the layout will be slightly different.

And of course there will be all the latest wrinkles such as "intra-apartment annunciators," which, we suppose, is a local telephone system.

It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by May 1, 1927. It will occupy an important position in the de luxe apartment building district lying north of Diversey and west of Sheridan road.

TWO N. W. FRATS GET HOMES ON THE GOLD COAST

Kappa Rho chapter of Phi Chi fraternity of Northwestern university has leased the former Charles S. Pope residence, 1040 Lake Shore drive, from Louis G. Caldwell for five years from Sept. 15 at an annual rental of $6,000. H. Lowell Baker of the lake shore office of W. K. Young & Brother was broker. Kirkland, Patterson & Fleming were attorneys.

Robert H. Reid bought the twelve room residence at 1316 Ritchie court from Regen Tench and has leased it to the Nu Sigma medical fraternity of Northwestern university. Louis C. Sadler of McMenemy & Martin was broker.

N. York Firm to Invade Loop 'Clothing Row'

Jackson boulevard's "men's clothing row" is to receive an important new addition from the east. Finchley & Co., of New York, owned by the Fashion Park Clothing company, of Rochester, have subleased the six story building at Nos. 19-23, from Abraham Liebling.

Mr. Liebling, publisher of the Jewish Daily Press, leased the building from Clara Bam some time ago for thirty years, paying $35,000 net annually for the first fifteen years and $40,000 net for the balance.

DR. JOSEPH FREY BUYS RESIDENCE OF J. D. BRADLEY

Nanby R——, who knows all about the doings of society folk, scored a partial scoop on this department the other day when she announced that John Dorr Bradley of Aldis & Co. has sold his residence at 66 Bellevue place. But she didn't tell the name of the buyer, who happens to be Dr. Joseph P. Frey, a dentist. Dr. Frey paid a reported price of $45,000 for the property, which measures 24x129 feet. Dr. Frey will remodel the four story residence on the site and occupy it as his town house. Neil J. Ruppert was broker in the deal.

Joseph Seeburger Buys Hyde Park Flat Building

Joseph Seeburger has bought from Newton C. Farr the eighteen flats at the southeast corner of Hyde Park boulevard and 55th, lot 47x150, through H. R. Axelson & Co.

CUBA TO CHICAGO

The above picture illustrates an attractive loggia which will form a part of the semi-cooperative apartment building being erected at 433-37 Briar place for a syndicate headed by John J. Rosen. Mr. Rosen got his idea for the loggia while traveling in Cuba last winter. B. Leo Stolf & Co. are the architects.

Old English Tea Shop for 180 Delaware

Mrs. May Vaulry, who has been in charge of the Woman's Exchange tea room at 942 Upper Michigan avenue, yesterday signed a lease for ten years at a term rental of $46,000 for space just off the lobby in the new "180 Delaware place building" now nearing completion.

Architect B. Leo Stolf has designed an interesting and quaint "old English tea shop" with beamed ceiling, fireplace, etc., which Mrs. Vaulry will open Oct. 15.

Samuel Cole announces a long list of tenants for the apartments in the upper floors of "180." Among them are: Raymond S. Jennings, Robert Beck, Harry Wallack, John Patton Jr., Longley Taylor, M. S. Greenebaum, William Hersey, Jesse Holdom, and Julius Balke.

Winnetka Makes Official Its Town Plan Commission

The Winnetka village council recently passed an ordinance which makes official the town's plan commission. The board consists of nine men who have authority over an area extending a mile and a half from the village border. The board has been in unofficial existence for some time, and it has been cooperating with V. F. Nicholson, county plat officer, in developing a plan.

CHURCH ADDITION WILL BE ERECTED BY METHODISTS

South Siders of the Faith Announce Plans.

An important building program is occupying the attention of the congregation and pastor of St. Stephen's Methodist Episcopal church, located at 11300 South State street. The present plans call for the construction of two units which will be attached to the present church building, and it is hoped to have work under way early in the fall. The Rev. Logan Hall is pastor.

REV. LOGAN HALL.

Edward F. Jansson is architect, with Harold B. McEldowney as associate. Their design is collegiate Gothic of red brick with stone trimming.

The building will be set around a court facing on State street. It will have seven assembly units with seventeen separate class rooms. It is planned to have a system of departments similar to those of the public schools, with rooms for children according to their age and mental abilities.

A Small Chapel.

A feature of the new plant will be a small chapel which may be used for weddings and funerals where the main auditorium is not required. Further, mid-week prayer meetings and Epworth league services will probably be held in this room. The capacity of the chapel will be 130 persons.

The club room on the first floor will have a wood burning fireplace and other features to make it attractive to the young people of the congregation. There will be a kitchenette adjoining it and storage space for tables and chairs for use at socials.

On the second floor there will be a parish hall measuring 44x60 feet. This hall will have a stage 14x26 feet. A complete lighting system will enable regular theatrical performances, so the local talent may show their abilities. The matter of food is given important consideration and there will adjoin the hall a preparation room, 17x21 feet, and a cooking room, 11x15 feet. The cooking room will be equipped with steam tables.

Will Seat 440 Persons.

The parish hall will have a seating capacity of 440 at ordinary entertainments and 265 when banquets are the order.

The second floor will also have the pastor's study, overlooking the court, which will be comfortably equipped.

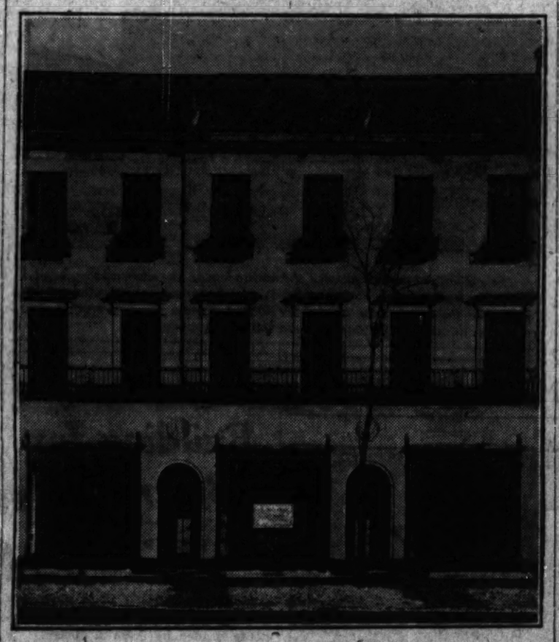
The third floor will contain shower rooms for boys and girls, three large classrooms, and storage space. The parish hall extends through this floor. The first unit will measure 60x80 feet and the second 36x52 feet.

There will be no changes in the original structure, built about twelve years ago, although it is contemplated having a handsome new main auditorium at some future date.

TO KEEP THE WORLD IN ORDER

It is hoped to have work under way early in the fall on an addition to St. Stephen's Methodist Episcopal church, at 11300 South State street. The main church auditorium, at the right of the picture, now stands, and the addition will be placed around the court. It will contain the latest equipment for the modern church plant. The Rev. Logan Hall is the pastor of the church. Edward F. Jansson is the architect. Harold B. McEldowney, associate architect, made the above rendering.

GOLD MEDAL DESIGN



This is the elevation of the building at 671 Upper Michigan avenue, made over from three old residences, which won the architect, Philip B. Maher, a gold medal as the best remodeled building of the year in the north central district. In the rear of this structure, on the second and third floors, will be "Malabry Court," told about and pictured on page 1 of this section.

BROKERS' NOTES

GIVES $56,500 FOR CORNER SITE IN ROGERS PARK

Alexander Hannah has purchased the property at the southwest corner of Rogers and Greenview, at Howard avenue, Rogers Park, 80x153 feet, from the Chicago Congregational Missionary and Extension society for a reported price of $56,500. The property is now improved with two old residences which are to be razed. Theo. B. Prescott of G. H. Schneider & Co. represented the sellers as broker and F. J. Keogh of Ross & Newton represented the buyer.

ARCHITECTS' SMALL HOME BUREAU OPENS NEW CHICAGO OFFICE

With THE TRIBUNE'S announcement of its small home design competition, added interest is given the news that the Architects' Small House Service bureau has formed a regional bureau at Chicago under the direction of a number of prominent architects. This step was taken to provide for the increased activities of the bureau in its service to the modest home builder.

The bureau has been established by the architects as a public service to help the man who cannot afford the individual architect's service. In this way it enables the small home builder to secure a well designed and properly constructed small home at moderate cost.

C. Herrick Hammond, Chicago architect, is the chairman of the national committee on small houses of the American Institute of Architects. Edwin H. Brown, past secretary of the American Institute of Architects, is president of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc. Robert T. Jones is the national technical director. Maurice I. Flagg is the national director of service.

There are 182 practicing architects who are active members in the bureau. An architect's work in connection with the bureau is considered primarily as a public service. He devotes this part of his time to the betterment of architecture in the field of small homes.

The Chicago office has been established for three years and has been under the direction of Allen E. Erickson, A. I. A., for the last year. During the year 300 people have been served by the Chicago office in this way.

PAY $225,000 FOR APARTMENTS IN COLES AVENUE

Alvin L. and Percy E. Wagner of Wagner Bros., south side real estate men, purchased from Frank E. Dohany of Detroit the thirty-six apartment building at 7331-39 Coles avenue for a reported price of $225,000, subject to an incumbrance of $158,000. Wagner son erected the building in 1923 and sold it to Mrs. Norma Flanders, widow of the Detroit automobile manufacturer. At that time they took in part payment the $60,000 yacht Adolar. Louis J. Victor was attorney in the deal.

BRONS SELLS HIS HALF INTEREST IN LANSING HOTEL

If you don't believe that a joke produces something beside a laugh read this. John M. Lansinger, owner and publisher of College Humor, has purchased from his partner, Fred Brons, the latter's half interest in the Lansing, a ten story apartment hotel nearing completion at the southwest corner of Dearborn and Maple streets. He paid a reported price of $230,000, part cash and the balance in prepaid rent. Mr. Brons took back a twenty year lease at a rental of $70,000 for the first five years and $75,000 for the rest of the term. This is the third of a string of hotels in which Mr. Brons is interested.

WAUKEGAN BANK GETS LOAN FROM STRAUS COMPANY

S. W. Straus & Co. have completed arrangements for the financing of the six story building being erected by the Security National bank at 208 West Washington street, Waukegan, with a first mortgage bond issue of $315,000. The bank will occupy the first and mezzanine floors and basement as its quarters and the upper floors will be rented for offices. The project was described in THE TRIBUNE early last winter.

OAK PARK REALTY BOARD IS VICTOR IN HIGH TAX ROW

Secures a Reduction of Assessments.

As a result of action taken by the Oak Park real estate board, property owners who felt themselves the victims of unjust taxation on new buildings on which assessments were made for the year 1925 have recovered approximately 60 per cent of their bills.

When the property owners' cries of anguish over their ponderous bills began to sound like the roar of a tornado, the board stepped into the scene. The first action was to bring about the election of a new assessor.

A Committee Formed.

And then, when this was found not to be enough, a committee was formed to aid the hundreds of unhappy taxpayers. The members consisted of Ted R. Leth [chairman], Ralph W. Skillin, Samuel Spitzer, C. H. Hanson and W. T. Easter.

The committee employed the firm of Carroll & Schaefer as attorneys who were to be paid from $15 to $25 in accordance with the size of the property on which they were to secure alleviation of assessment instead of the usual 50 per cent. Louis S. Gibson, an Oak Parker, was made consultant attorney.

Court Sustains Objectors.

The attorneys filed objection in each case to the demand of the county collector for judgment for delinquent taxes, having first offered to the county treasurer the amount which they believed justly due.

The cases were heard by Judge Jarecki of the County court and his assistant, Judge Biggs. After hearing the cases the judges gave a decision sustaining the objections in all cases and refusing judgment to the county treasurer. The decision saved the tax payers sixty per cent of their original bills.

What will we do with the next 100,000— with the next, and the next!

With 300,000 People?

City growth and Increasing Property Values are the inevitable results of increasing population, which demands increased housing facilities, and locations for more and more homes, business establishments, retail stores, jobbing houses, banks, theatres, apartment houses, etc.

And Chicago increases by 100,000 people each year—300,000 every three years. Think of it!—In five years Chicago adds to itself a population greater than that of New Orleans, Seattle or Minneapolis—Population makes real estate values.

Now—Wm. H. Britigan has succeeded in buying the only remaining large tract available within the city, in the heart of the North Side, and completely surrounded by some of the city's finest apartment and business development—a tract that due to peculiar circumstances has been withheld from the market, while the city has grown up about and far beyond it. It is seven and one-half miles from the loop—less than ten minutes from the Wilson Avenue district. It has transportation, schools, churches, and shopping districts about it now. It includes frontage on a full section line business street. Business corners within three-quarters of a mile of this property are held at $4,000 per front foot.

Here, shortly, he will offer City lots, with all improvements, and at subdivision prices—How he can do this—Why this property was held intact while the city grew up about it—How you can buy here and make money—all these facts are obtainable in advance—and remember this—the way to make money in real estate is to know the facts soon enough. Send the coupon—there is no obligation—it will bring you the facts.

CHICAGO

"Situated in the very heart of the world's most fertile and prosperous valley, at the natural cross-roads between the industrial East and the agricultural West, the ore-producing North, and the cotton-growing South; possessing the cheapest water transportation on earth and the finest railway facilities in the world, it was inevitable that Chicago should grow, and it is equally inevitable that it will continue to grow."

CAISSON DIGGING PERILS WORKERS ON SKYSCRAPERS

Newman Tells Hazards of Occupation.

BY THOMAS WREN.

One of the most difficult and hazardous operations in connection with the construction of any modern skyscraper is that of digging the caissons, according to William J. Newman, president of the William J. Newman Excavating and Wrecking company.

WM. J. NEWMAN.

One of the first items to be considered in building construction of any size is that of caisson digging. These caissons have to be dug down to what is called hard pan, a composition of gravel, blue clay, or in most cases to bedrock. The depths required for the caissons vary in different parts of the city, and at times, when quicksand is encountered, reinforced steel shoring is used.

After the engineers lay out the different locations for the caisson excavations men are started to work digging. The size of the caisson excavation usually ranges from 4 to 7 and 8 feet in diameter. As the depth of the caisson is increased the sides of the opening are boarded with heavy planking.

Bedrock Varies.

The tower of the Holy Name cathedral has to be supported with extra caissons because it was out of plumb and settling. One of these caissons is 140 feet below street level, which is said to be the deepest level in Chicago. The bedrock varies in different parts of the city. At State and 16th streets bedrock is found at about 60 feet. At 22d and State streets it is found at 75 feet. In different sections of the stockyards bedrock is found at from 35 to 45 feet.

The most difficult soil to install caissons in is where the well diggers encounter quicksand and water, Mr. Newman said. After bedrock is located the cylinder piers are filled with concrete to the level of the sub-basements. At this level a giant shoe is placed on top of the pier, and to this are fastened the first steel girders.

Five Day Week.

Demands for a five day week made by certain building trades several months ago are no longer popular, according to a bulletin issued by the National Association of Building Trade Employers.

The bulletin points out that the supporters of the shorter week based their stand on the empty theory that if you, I, and the other fellow do just a little bit less work there will be tasks enough for all and none need fear the possibility of unemployment.

"This shortsighted theory might be termed a race between the dollar mark and the time clock, with the handicap on the latter," avers the National Association of Building Trades Employers.

Some One Must Pay.

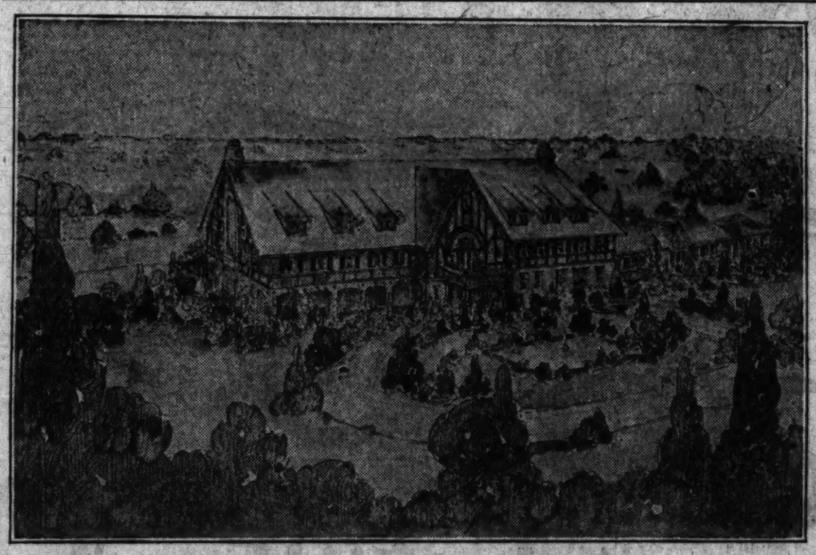
"The veriest simpleton knows that under such a system some group must pay—and in this case the contractor letting the building workmen is the first to do so. To him it means a boost in wages, which in turn leads to exorbitant prices exacted from the buying public, the second to pay.

"The five day week places Saturday among the holidays, when work done must be paid for at double time. It shortens the working year by 26 days, or more than a working month. During the rush season the mechanic could, if he chose, take two days off the week and then work on Saturday and Sunday at double time. The initiation of the five day week in any industry would produce nothing short of a serious industrial situation."

NORTHWESTERN'S NEW CHICAGO CAMPUS GROUP

Here's a new view of the rapidly developing McKinlock campus group of Northwestern university, just across Chicago avenue from the Lake Shore playground and Streeterville. It shows the Gary library building on the left, with Levy Mayer hall just west of it. Then comes Wieboldt hall, with the towering Ward medical and dental building dominating the entire group. Childs & Smith of Chicago are the architects, associated with James Gamble Rogers, former Chicagoan.

FOR KNIGHTS AT PLAY



The Aquilla Country club is being organized for members of the Knights of Columbus. The club is to be located at Powers Lake, Wis., and will have two golf courses, tennis courts, a yachting club, and provision for other sports. Herman Roller designed the above attractive English style clubhouse, work on which will start on Columbus day.

MAX MORDOCK TO DEFEND NEW TAX PLAN IN DEBATE

Members of the Cook County Real Estate board will have a luncheon at noon on Wednesday at the Hotel Sherman which will be featured by a debate on the proposed revenue amendment to the Illinois constitution to be voted on in the November election.

Colin C. H. Fyffe will speak against the measure while Maj. Max Murdock will defend it. Maj. Murdock, who served in France during the world war with the infantry, urged the measure before the legislature.

"The homes, farms, and industries of Illinois must be relieved of the staggering tax burden placed upon them by our obsolete revenue laws if Illinois is to keep step with progress in other parts of the nation," Maj. Murdock said. "Everywhere, the so-called uniform general property tax has proved a failure and all states in the union, except fifteen, have already removed that requirement from their constitutions."

Cremin & O'Connor Make $107,000 Loan to St. Bruno

Cremin & O'Connor have made a loan of $107,000 for ten years at five per cent on the new church and school building of St. Bruno's parish, located at Harding avenue and 49th street.

AQUILLA COUNTRY CLUB IS LATEST FOR CHICAGOLAND

To Be Located at Powers Lake, Wis.

The great chain of rural playgrounds encircling Dad Dearborn's town residence is to have another link in the Aquilla Country club, which will be located at Powers Lake, Wis. This organization is being formed to meet the needs of members of the Knights of Columbus.

A handsome clubhouse of English design will be erected on the club's property at an estimated cost of $250,000. It is to have accommodations for about 100 members, which will bring the capacity to 300, as buildings already on the property can take care of 200.

Work is to start on the new headquarters, designed by Herman Roller, on Oct. 12, Columbus day, when there will be ceremonies in charge of the knights.

The club has set aside 300 acres which will be devoted to golf and it is building one course of eighteen holes and another of nine. The property is naturally rolling, providing a number of interesting hazards.

A Yachting Club.

But golf will not be the only sport on the bill. A yachting club will be organized for the members who like the roll of the wild waves. And there will be clay and grass tennis courts. Powers lake will do its share toward the entertainment by providing fish for the anglers and beaches for swimmers. Shallow water extends out from the front of the clubhouse for 100 feet, so there will be a pleasant splashing field for the children.

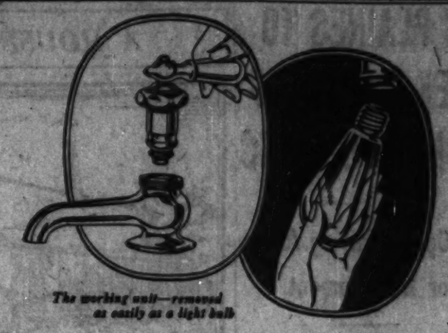
And since this is the good old twentieth century, with its humming airplanes, there will be a landing field to provide a reception place for commuters via the air.

Winter will not end the activities for members of the Aquilla club, for arrangements are under way for parties during this otherwise useless season. There are to be tobogganing, duck hunting, skiing, skating, and ice boating.

Lots for Members.

A lot sufficiently large for a cottage to be erected on it will be given with each membership.

The organization of the club is in charge of Dr. Robert E. Flannery, staff physician of St. Mary's hospital and the organization's president; John L. [Paddy] Driscoll, football player; George S. Halas, president of the Chicago Bears; John P. Noonan and Lee A. Scheuneman. The organization managers are Frank J. Sullivan and Walter F. Lynch. The club's offices are at 612 North Michigan avenue.



The working unit—removed as easily as a light bulb

Faucets easy to fix —and everlasting

NO faucet made can go forever without leaking. What to do then is the question. If you have Chicago Faucets, with the standardized, renewable working unit, your job is as easy as replacing a burned-out electric bulb. Anybody can do it easily in a minute or two, and it costs only a few cents.

In Chicago Faucets the seat itself is replaceable just the same as the washer—and since these are the only wearing parts, the faucet itself can never wear out.

Building Managers and Engineers all over the country are rapidly replacing all other types of faucets with Chicago Faucets, thereby saving the trouble and expense of constant repairs and replacements.

If you want entire freedom from faucet troubles, try Chicago Faucets. If your plumber can't supply you, we can tell you one who will. Write, call or telephone

DES PLAINES TO SEEK SHARE OF CHICAGO GAINS

Will Open Outlying Areas for Development.

With the majority of the suburban towns in the Chicago district progressing rapidly both in population and in beauty, the village of Des Plaines, located on the North Western and Soo line railways to the northwest, has decided that it's about time for it to share in some of the general prosperity.

And as a first step the village officials have decided to make the outlying sections of their town attractive for subdividers. This they are doing through promises to put in sidewalks, water mains, street paving and sewers to be paid for on a ten year special assessment basis. Further, they agree to plant shrubs and trees and to install ornamental street lighting posts.

In connection with plans for the development of the village, there is in contemplation a plan for cleaning up the Des Plaines river, which has been to some extent a liability to the city in the past. The engineers of the sanitary district are already at work on this plan, which will remove the stream's objectionable features, and make it adaptable for boating and bathing. An appropriation to cover part of the cost has already been made by the trustees of the district.

Mayor Tells Aims.

"Des Plaines welcomes any development of the type in which all the improvements are included, and in which there will be an attempt to sell to home owners," Mayor Charles S. Stewart said in explaining the new spirit of the town.

"Ninety per cent of the families in Des Plaines own their own homes, or are in process of paying for them, and we are anxious to make it a home town. The mayor and the city council will cooperate with any firm which does business in a straightforward way and properly develops its property. The engineers of the sanitary district are now working on a plan for the cleaning up of the upper Des Plaines river, and making it adaptable for boating and bathing. An estimate of the cost has been made, and part of the money appropriated."

The first subdivision project to be developed on this basis is a twenty acre tract by the Des Plaines Realty company, at Oakton and Des Plaines avenue, in the northwestern part of the city, where most of the activity is taking place. This property is owned by W. H. Allen, city engineer; Ning Eley, city attorney; John McElligott, contractor; John Krahl, and Walter Tallent of the Des Plaines Realty company.

Cherry Tree Land.

The Foreman Trust & Savings bank, taking titles as trustees for clients of Loeb & Hammel, has also acquired two holdings at Greenview and Prairie avenues, which will be developed. It is the aim of the owners to make them the most artistic subdivisions of the vicinity.

The properties will be developed as Cherry Highlands and Cherry Highlands First Addition, the two tracts being a part of a former cherry orchard. More than half the lots will have cherry bearing trees. The initial plot containing six acres will be divided into irregular lots with a public park in the center, encircled by Orchard court, which will extend through from the park to Greenview avenue.

The second tract, consisting of seven acres, will also have irregular lots. A smaller public park in the center will be encircled by Crestwood drive, a beautiful curving thoroughfare to be cut through the subdivision.

To Erect 50 Homes.

Loeb & Hammel, who with John F. Simpson, acted as brokers in the purchase from Peter Baldanzo and Louis Michelsen, will also develop the property. As soon as improvements are in the owners intend to erect fifty modern suburban homes. Special attention will be given to the architecture and the homes will be individual in design. They will be built to sell for from $8,500 to $12,000 each. Prizes will be awarded to architects submitting the most attractive elevations.

This property is about three blocks from the Soo line, and is within walking distance of the North Western. A bus company has recently established a transportation line from Jefferson along the northwest highway to within one block of the subdivisions and negotiations are under way to extend this line past the property as soon as building operations are under way.

Buys West North Avenue Site for Modern Building

The Foreman Trust & Savings bank has bought 72x130 at 2513-16 West North avenue from three owners for a reported $30,000 as trustee for an undisclosed purchaser. The new owner, according to Rosenberg & Lurie brokers, will tear down the present wooden improvements and erect a modern building.

Andel & Company Will Erect Plant on Lamon

H. F. Andel has taken title from Sidlah and Edwin Romberg for Andel & Co., contracting engineers, to the property at 4630-32 North Lamon avenue. The firm plans to erect a one story shop, warehouse, and office building on the site, which measures 80x134 feet, to cost about $30,000.

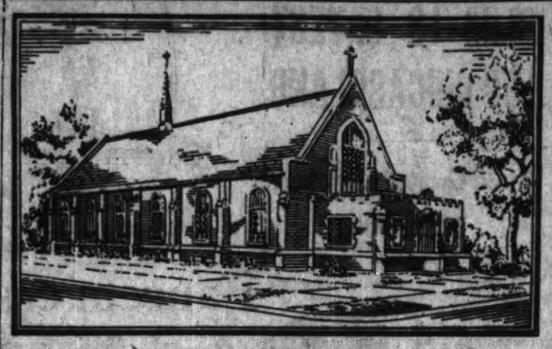
Rent South Clark Street Store for Men's Clothing

Matt Golden has leased the store at 4 South Clark from Albert Hoefeld for men's clothing at an annual rental of $11,000. H. R. Jess of Hooker, Sloscon & Gallup, was broker.

SUTS WINNETKA RESIDENCE.

Jesse W. Gillette has sold his residence at 1109 Spruce street, Winnetka, to George Rodgers through Mahrer & Orr.

A HOUSE OF WORSHIP



Completion of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Episcopal, at Euclid avenue and 34th street, Berwyn, is expected shortly, following a successful drive for funds among members of the parish recently. The Rev. Harold B. Hoag is rector of the parish. Robert M. Hyde is drawing plans for the church, which is pictured above.

DRIVE FOR CASH TO BRING BERWYN ANOTHER CHURCH

Episcopalians Will Finish Home.

With the financial arrangements nearing completion as a result of the loyal efforts of the congregation, work is expected to start shortly looking toward the finishing of a house of worship for St. Michael and All Angels' Episcopal church at Euclid avenue and 34th street, Berwyn.

The basement of the structure was put in some time ago, but lack of money held up the completion of the entire project. The basement has been in use by the congregation. That part of the building now to be erected will cost $50,000 and when all the church's plans are carried through there will be an investment of $100,000. This sum will include the cost of a new rectory.

Robert Hyde Is Architect.

Robert M. Hyde is the architect. His plans call for a brick building of a dignified, if not ornate, style. There will be a full basement which will be equipped for recreational activities. Surmounting the church will be a small spire and the customary cross of the Episcopal church.

The Rev. Harold B. Hoag is the rector of St. Michael and All Angels' church, one of the smaller parishes in this Episcopal diocese, but one which has been thriving in recent years.

A Drive for Money.

The parish has recently been the scene of an intensive campaign for funds. Pledges of eighty members bring a promise of $21,000 and the woman's guild has promised $2,500. And in addition huge piles of leaves are to be raked, mountains of ashes carried out, and the dust will fly from carpets all over the town this fall as a result of a pledge by boys of the parish to gather in $500 through all sorts of work.

News of the Architects

Three architects have been admitted to membership in the Illinois Society of Architects at a recent meeting of the board of directors of that body. They are: Louis R. Christie, Walter F. Swanson, and Blaine B. Gemeny.

Carl Hauber has moved from the 16th to the 18th floor of the Kimball building, where he has larger quarters.

Rents West Adams Street Space for New Restaurant

R. M. Thayer, who for several years has been in the restaurant and confectionery business at 212 South Clark, has leased the two stores at 162-64 West Adams from the Leopold Mayer estate, in which the first of the Thayer system of eating places and candy shops will be opened. Albert H. Wetten & Co. were brokers.

Hardwood Firm to Erect Factory in 48th Place

The E. Bartholomew Hardwood company has leased 25,300 square feet of land in West 48th place, 300 feet of South Turner, from the trustees of the Central Manufacturing district on which will be erected a plant to cost $60,000. H. E. Poronto, J. B. Whidden and J. C. Erickson represented the district in the deal.

LOOKING BACKWARD

To Sept. 12, 1916; 10 Years Ago Today

It was announced that George C. Nimmons is preparing plans for an attractive new clubhouse for the Ravisloe Country club. The plans are not completed, but they are being drawn for a structure to cost approximately $70,000. A building of one and two stories in height and of stucco construction is contemplated by the building committee, of which O. N. Mayer is chairman.

GEO. C. NIMMONS. [Keehne Photo.]

The McCormick estates, represented by John A. Chapman and Judson F. Stone, purchased from three different owners the property at 523-29 Plymouth court, being 125 feet north of Harrison street, for a little more than $110,000, and will improve with an eleven story and basement reinforced concrete building which they have leased to Charles S. Peterson, who will occupy it with his three printing concerns.

To Sept. 12, 1906; 20 Years Ago Today

The Chicago Lying-In hospital and dispensary, now located at 394 Ashland boulevard, bought from the Old Peoples' Home the property at the northwest corner of 51st street and Vincennes avenue, 274x163 feet, for $52,200 upon which it will erect a new maternity hospital. The land, which was bought by the Old Peoples home from Augustus S. Peabody last July, has an east frontage of 168 feet on 51st street, a west frontage of 273 feet on Washington park and 202 feet on 50th place. F. A. Delano, president of the Wabash railway, is president of the board of directors, and Dr. J. B. De Lee is medical director.

DR. J. B. DE LEE.

Andrew J. Brulitt sold to Mathilda S. Jensen the flat property in Kenmore avenue sixty-two feet south of Leland avenue, with 60x142 feet of ground, west front, for $30,000, subject to $14,000.

To Sept. 12, 1896; 30 Years Ago Today

The George Cummings Hotel company has sold the Clifton House to Mrs. Hannah E. Collins, who formerly conducted the Continental Hotel. The deal, which is a complicated affair, was carried out by C. S. Ennis, of Dunlap, Smith & Co., who acted as agents for J. L. Hudson of Detroit. Mr. Hudson appeared as the trustee for the estate of Carr & Reade of Detroit, whose affairs are in the hands of the courts. The land belongs to the estate of Joel C. Waters. It was leased to Carr & Reade.

CALLISTUS S. ENNIS.

Jacob Franks has purchased from Henry Cohn the property on West Madison street, 30x181 feet, south front, 210 feet west of Desplaines street, for $36,000. It is improved with a three story store and flat building. Mr. Cohn has leased the property for ten years at $1,560 a year.

EAST ELM FLATS SOLD 3 TIMES SINCE MAY 1

Thomas A. Quan of Evanston has bought the four apartments at 38 East Elm from Harold Wakem for a reported $75,000 cash. Louis C. Sadler of McMenamy & Martin and John Holland of Ross & Browne were brokers. This is the third transfer of the property since May 1, each time at a reported substantial increase.

WEST MADISON STREET LEASE.

The Goodyear Raincoat company has leased the store at 114 West Madison at an annual rental of $12,000, according to H. E. Jess of Hooker, Sloane & Gallup, who represented the lessee. Dibble & Manierre represented the lessor.

Pays $175,000 for Sawyer and Lawrence Ave. Corner

George W. Prassas has bought from G. J. McCabe and Stanley Chadwick the northwest corner of Lawrence and Sawyer, 82x125, fifteen flats and three stores, for a reported $175,000 through George A. Boersta.

BETTER HOMES FOR CHICAGOLAND

ANNOUNCING

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SMALL HOMES COMPETITION

EARL H. REED JR., A. I. A.
Professional Adviser.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS IN CASH PRIZES FOR WINNING DESIGNS

THE Chicago Tribune, recognizing a strong demand for better five and six-room homes and the need for greater physical comfort, economy and architectural excellence in the bungalow type of small house, offers prizes in an international Small Homes Competition. Prizes aggregating $7,500 in cash will be awarded to the architects submitting the winning designs.

The program for The Chicago Tribune Small Homes Competition calls for designs for either of two classes of homes—a five-room house with two bedrooms or a six-room house with three bedrooms. Cash awards for the winning designs will be made as follows:

For First Prize Designs in each class at $1,000 each	$2,000
For Second Prize Designs in each class at $750 each	1,500
For Third Prize Designs in each class at $500 each	1,000
For Fourth Prize Designs in each class at $300 each	600
For Fifth to Tenth Prizes in each class at $200 each	2,400
Twenty cash prizes totaling	$7,500

Modern science has contributed so many aids to the home builder by developing composition materials, electrical devices, etc., that great progress has been made in devising new methods of construction. Designers of small homes, however, have been slow to make use of these many advances. Instead of capitalizing on them they have been largely content to make use of old forms and elementary designs.

In conducting the Small Homes Competition, The Chicago Tribune hopes that the most competent architects will be encouraged to bring their talents to bear toward the development of ideal types of small homes, but all architectural draftsmen, regardless of whether they are licensed architects or not, are eligible.

Each set of prize winning designs will be published in The Chicago Sunday Tribune Real Estate and Home Builders' Section beginning with Sunday, January 3, 1927, and continuing each Sunday thereafter until the plans are exhausted. The Chicago Sunday Tribune Real Estate and Home Builders' Section is the largest in Chicago and has commanded interest and respect from a large audience for many years. In this way prospective home owners as well as the winning architects will receive the maximum benefit from the competition. Readers will then be encouraged to own their own homes.

The competition opens with this announcement on Sunday, September 12, 1926, and will close at 5 p. m., Wednesday, December 1, 1926.

The jury of award for The Chicago Tribune Small Homes Competition follows:

JOHN M. HOWELLS and RAYMOND HOOD, architects of Tribune Tower.

LOUISE JAMES BARGELT, Home Builders Editor of The Chicago Sunday Tribune Real Estate and Home Builders' Section.

AL CHASE, Real Estate Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

HOLMES ONDERDONK, manager of Chicago Tribune properties.

EARL H. REED JR. of the American Institute of Architects will act as professional adviser.

Architects and architectural draftsmen are invited to submit one, but not more than one, design in each class. All designs will be considered anonymous until after the jury makes its awards, at which time the professional advisor will, in the presence of the jury, lift the seals covering the names on the individual designs.

The program of this competition is approved by a subcommittee on competitions of the American Institute of Architects in form and method of procedure only.

For complete information and prospectus, write immediately for a copy of the Program. Address The Chicago Tribune Small Homes Competition, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

REALTY SCHOOL TO HAVE COURSE ON HOME ADVICE

To Be Given in Rooms of Y. M. C. A. College.

Because of the increasing number of homes being erected in the Chicago district the Chicago Real Estate board has outlined a course in building construction and design to be given at the Chicago Central College of Commerce of the Y. M. C. A. to enable realtors to advise their clients on the type of homes best suited to land purchased.

The board has selected August C. Wilmanns, a Chicago architect for many years engaged in this type of work, to teach the course.

Attention will be given to the various styles of structures, including apartments, bungalows, colonial and Spanish types of homes, and their cost. The course will also include a discussion of letting contracts, supervision of construction, and elements of architectural design.

For Many Lines.

The course is intended for the man engaged in buying and selling real estate, the executives of banks and real estate mortgage organizations that lend money on buildings, the man who is preparing himself to enter the real estate profession, the man who is planning to build for himself, and the man who is just entering the field of contracting.

As an aid in avoiding costly mistakes and better to protect the interests of his clients, a knowledge of real estate law has long been regarded as fundamental to real estate men. A seventeen weeks' course covering titles, leaseholds, liens, contracts and agency and other phases of real estate law, will also be given at the recommendation of the board.

An advanced course in the preparation of legal documents the real estate man meets in his various transactions also will be given. The course, known as "Real Estate Conveyancing," will cover all problems that are encountered in the transfer of property. The documents will be worked out in class.

Here Are Hours.

"Real Estate Law" will be taught by Charles F. Grimes, Clarence Bassler and Calvin George. Classes will meet Tuesday evening at 7:55, or Thursday at 6 or 7:55 p. m.

"Real Estate Conveyancing" will be taught by Calvin George and Harold L. Reeve. Classes meet Tuesday at 7:55 p. m., or Thursday at 6 p. m.

The building construction and design classes will meet Thursday evening at 6. All classes open Sept. 21.

PAYS $235,000 FOR BOSWORTH-DEVON CORNER

The northeast corner of Devon and Bosworth, improved with a large public garage, seven stores, and one flat, was sold by G. Rosen to S. Dubrowsky for a reported $235,000, subject to $135,000. Isadore Fried and Andrew D. Collins were attorneys and Deemar, Schwartz & Plonsky brokers.

PREDICTS SUBURBAN POPULATION WILL BE 2,200,000 IN 1950

One third of the 6,600,000 population, or 2,200,000 persons, forecast for the Chicago metropolitan district in 1950 will be suburbanites, according to the statistics made public yesterday by Earle Thurston, engineer of surveys of the Illinois Bell Telephone company. His analysis of metropolitan development showed that the suburbs are growing more rapidly than the city itself and three times faster than the suburbs of any other American city.

Areas to the west of Chicago must be prepared to absorb at least forty-five per cent of this increase, he told Westchester division salesmen of George F Nixon & Co. This spread of population to the west, he stated, would result because of the relatively larger amount of vacant property in that district.

Relatively important in the order they are named, Mr. Thurston gave some of the elements which must be carried out to ensure this growth and to serve it after it has been accomplished. They are: Building of new electric lines into zones now unserved by rapid transportation; subdividing of property along orderly lines; providing adequate homes, churches, schools, parks and playgrounds and a conscientious observance of the rules of regional planning and civic improvement.

Canada Farmers Send Their Cattle to England Now

Tariff Takes Profit from Former Trade with U. S.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

CATTLE trails from Canada into the United States are gradually growing over with grass, while the paths toward Great Britain are being worn deeper each year as a result of the tariff wall built on the international line to protect beef producers in the states. Four times as many cattle went out of the dominion's pastures and feed lots to the English market during last year as were exported to the old country in 1923. Before the tariff was put on Canadian cattle a half million were being shipped into this country every year, but since the tariff has been effective the shipments of live beef animals has fallen off to as low as 173,000.

Canada's beef cattle industry has made a remarkable recovery since it was paralyzed by the United States tariff and Europe's embargo against the shipment of cattle except for immediate slaughter. The tariff wall still stands, the embargo has been lifted, and Canadian farmers are bending their backs to adapt their product to a new market. Ultimately the tariff may prove to be a blessing, while at first it was disastrous to the cattle men who had developed a profitable business of raising steers on the range of western Canada, where land is cheap and natural grasses grow abundantly. The two cent tariff on cattle over 1,000 pounds and one and a half cents on beef animals under 1,000 pounds, has taken most of the profit out of cattle marketed in the United States.

Change in Tactics.

Despite the discouraging elements Canada continues with a cattle population between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000, but farmers soon realize that this cannot continue without a profitable outlet for their products. Profits were slim for the man who produced feeders while the European embargo was on. For several years English slaughterers had no competition from the Great Britain feeders. Today conditions have changed; when a load of feeders go to England there are butchers and farmers bidding for them.

In the last few years a great change has taken place in Canada's beef cattle industry. Instead of rangers sending their steers to the market in an unfinished condition, they are fattening them, in many cases. At least thousands of them are being finished before they are sent to the market and the practice is rapidly growing.

When the tariff first left farmers without a profitable outlet for their feeder steers they had no money or facilities for feeding. Along with the unfavorable cattle situation was the task of getting rid of coarse grains that were often left on hand because of an oversupply grown in the dominion. The logical thing is now being rapidly developed—the steers are being fattened with the coarse grain, so that both the steers and the grain can be marketed much more profitably.

Using Canadian Feeds.

The range of western Canada is being used as a breeding and grazing section, like the western part of the United States, and the grain sections of the prairie provinces, corresponding to the central west states, are gradually being developed as feed lots where cattle are brought to be finished for the market. Hundreds of farmers are building feed bunks and hay racks and fencing off feed lots in Canada. Officials of the provincial governments, especially in Alberta, and experts at the agricultural colleges, are doing everything they can to encourage the feeding of cattle.

Big companies are in the business of demonstrating the great money making possibilities in the fattening of cattle with feeds grown in Canada. There is a big cattle feeding company at Edmonton, Alta., for example, fattening more than 10,000 head of steers each year, having as many as 4,200 cattle in the feed lots at a time. Alberta is producing from a million and a half to nearly two million cattle a year and more than a million are beef animals. With all these cattle only a small percentage of the grazing possibilities are being used in western Canada's range country.

Canadian cattle are strong competitors for cattle going out of the United States into foreign countries, particularly into Great Britain, where dominion farmers are finding an outlet for both feeders and finished cattle since the embargo was lifted two or three years ago.

Pure Breeds Encouraged.

Since dominion cattle men have become interested in finishing their steers for the market they have started working harder to produce better animals through the use of pure breds. Railroads are coöperating with live stock associations and colleges in aiding farmers in the production of a higher grade of beef animal through the use of pure bred Shorthorn and Hereford bulls. Today Canada's feeders are gaining a firm hold on the old country market where farmers find them superior to Irish cattle. The use of pure bred bulls in building up the western grade cattle has already meant hundreds of thousands of dollars to western Canada cattle raisers, who are now able to produce feeders that do well in the old country feed lots.

Throughout the western provinces farmers are losing interest in the United States and are turning their attention to the beef eaters' call across the Atlantic. The mixed farming idea is gaining a firm foothold in Canada and the growing tendency to feed live stock has added momentum to the diversification of crops.

BEHIND TARIFF WALL.

CANADIAN CATTLE GRAZING SCENE—This is a typical herd of white faced cattle on the range in the province of Alberta. This is the breeding ground for feeders that are now going by the thousands to Great Britain and to the feed lots in the prairie provinces of the Dominion.

WINDOW'S THE THING IN HOUSE PLAN THIS WEEK

Calls to Mind Hillsides of Faroff Spain.

Are you interested in home plans? "Small Homes" plan books may be purchased for ten cents at the Public Service office of The Tribune, 11 South Dearborn street, and in the branch in the lobby of The Tribune Tower. They will be sent out by mail on receipt of thirteen cents in coin or stamps.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Unusual, picturesque in line, suggestive of an old print in its rich color harmonies, this six room house, with exterior effect of Spanish adaptation, is now under process of construction in Glencoe, Ill. C. W. Lampe & Co., architects, 155 North Clark street, Chicago.

On all sides the sunlight has ample access through which to bathe the spacious interior. On the second floor there is a terrace with composition floor divided off into squares to resemble tile.

Suggestive though it is of the small houses which dot the rambling hillsides of Spain, its distinct flair of modernism is shown in many practical ways.

For instance, the brick of the exterior walls, of a soft cream, is especially built so that it may be thoroughly insulated against heat and cold. The roof is of variegated tile, with inconspicuous chimney. Colorful and gay though the roof is, it nevertheless casts sufficiently to withstand our rains, sleets and heavy snows.

Steel sash casement windows are used throughout with provision made for rolling copper screens. The heating is accomplished by the use of a hot water system with the boiler of the gas burning type.

Window's the Thing.

There are three principal details which can always be counted on to offer wide possibilities in individual expression in a house. These are the roof, the chimney and the windows. And it is probable that in the field of fenestration the opportunities are the greatest because in the modern home they are not only so numerous but also so decorative.

It was not so very long ago in this country that windows were considered as objects to be looked through and not at. Now with the changed attitude of the modern American, windows have become a dominating factor in the decorative scheme, both of the exterior and the interior of the house.

Very slimly built steel casement windows are used, and these, a new factor in window composition, offer a wide variety of combinations to the home builder. Small sizes are more particularly suited to the Spanish and Italian types of home, nor are they any longer beyond the financial reach of the average home owner.

Casement's Advantages.

There are many things to be said in favor of the casement which is probably the oldest type of window. A well made casement is easily worked. It does not rattle in windy weather if its construction is sturdy, and if its hardware is simple and standard it can be counted on to last a long time.

There is also a distinct advantage to casements from the housewife's viewpoint for they can be washed without hanging perilously on the outer edge of a sill. On hot days or cold days, when ventilation is desired, they can be partially opened at an angle, fresh air in this way secured without a direct draft.

Screens were formerly more or less of a problem with the casement which opened out. Now the side hung type may be used with the screens in sections sliding past each other, or the roller copper screens can be employed, these hidden away at the top when not in use. In this house screens are provided in the building, which is always a wise plan if the windows are casement, as money is saved in the end.

Word for Awning.

Awnings would add an effective color touch to this house, give it a prominence distinctive but not ostentatious. The use of awnings in a Spanish house is particularly appropriate for the style adapts itself well to their decoration. They can be the conventional stripe or the patterned variety with scalloped edges in points, curves, angles or arches. Colors can be had in every conceivable shade, though red, green, and brown are the fundamental colors chosen as they correspond with the majority of roofings.

The floor plan of this house is fashioned with a view to livableness and convenience. As shown with the accompanying perspective, the front entrance is placed at the top of the chart instead of at the lower edge where it is usually found.

One enters into a long, narrow hall, with clothes closet at one side and the stairs leading up and down just beyond. This hall cuts completely the living room from the rest of the main floor. Phone provision is shown and a generous breakfast nook with wide fenestration opening from the kitchen.

The living room is oblong shape, with sufficient wall space for furniture and a real log burning fireplace without the conventional bookcases on either side or the cumbersome mantel shelf. There is practically no interior trim as the plaster jambs are returned to the window frames.

Has Three Bedrooms.

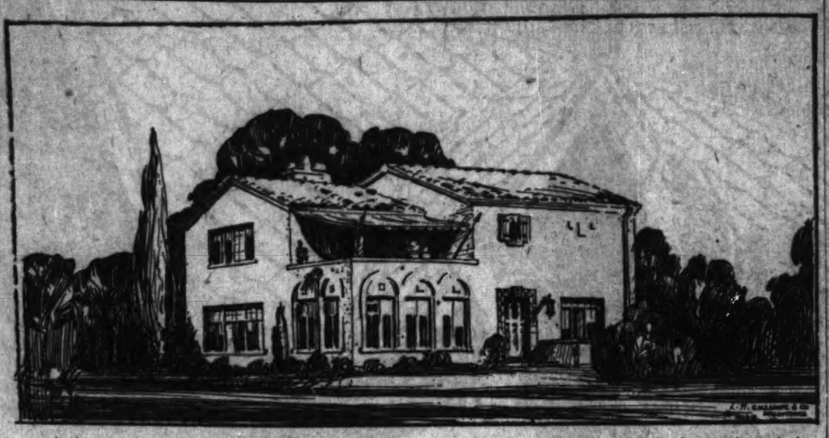
The stairway leading to the second floor is detailed with wrought iron handle rail and spindles which carry out the spirit of the Spanish design.

On the second floor there are a landing hall, from which one enters the bath room, and three bedrooms. Two of the bedrooms connect, which is always a serviceable idea where one of the bedrooms is to be used as a nursery for small children. There is abundant window provision. Sufficient closet space is provided and a terrace opens from the master bedroom which has light and air on three sides.

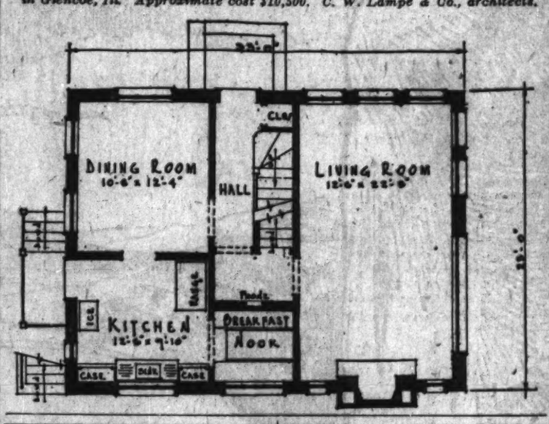
No effort has been spared to make this house an unusually fine example of a small residence practically and economically planned. Approximate cost in Chicago territory at present prices, $10,500.

There is a basement under the entire house, and the plumbing fixtures are vitreous type, first class throughout. General over all, 25x33.

COMFORT AND BEAUTY



A six room house of Spanish adaptation, with a distinct modern flair evinced in all its fundamental, comfort conveying details. Of brick, with red tile roof and gas heating system, it is now under process of construction in Glencoe, Ill. Approximate cost $10,500. C. W. Lampe & Co., architects.



Twelve Flat Building at Ainslie and Irving Sold

The twelve apartments at the southeast corner of Irving and Ainslie were sold by S. Bielweiss to I. B. Eppenstein for a reported $73,000, subject to $48,000. The Hensel-Coffman company and the Chicago-Florida Realty company were brokers.

William Zuetell Acquires 61 Lots in Geneva, Illinois

William Zuetell purchased from Francis W. and George E. Farwell a tract of land containing sixty-one lots at State street and Anderson boulevard, Geneva, Ill., for an undisclosed price.

WHOLESALE FRUIT MARKET FOR SITE OF OLD STEEL YARD

A wholesale fruit market, with an accent on grapes (what does this mean, Watson?), is to be opened by Giuseppi Aiello, Antonio Lombardo and Joseph Ferrara, on an irregular shaped piece of property fronting seventy-six feet on Halsted street, 125 feet on Green street, 252 feet on Kinzie street and 252 feet on a paved court.

The trio, wholesale grocers, purchased the property from the Jones & Loughlin Steel company for a reported price of $176,789.

E. Orris Hart, special partner of Chandler & Montague, was the only broker in the deal.

Buys Glenwood Avenue Site for Six Apartments

Jonas Svenson has bought the 50x125 at 6648 Glenwood, with old improvements, from the Squires estate, for a reported $16,000, and will erect a six flat building. B. W. Wilson of the Cochran & McCluer Co., was broker.

"THOSE STREAKS! Where did they come from?"

You have seen those dirty streaks on ceilings—perhaps you have had trouble with them yourself. They spoil the entire appearance of a room and draw all eyes. Nor does cleaning help. Do you know what causes the trouble?

There are two basic causes—the us of ordinary lath and a thin coat of plaster. Often the air above the ceiling is cooler than the air below it. As a result the moisture in the room settles on the cool strips of plaster between the lath and, in turn, minute particles of dust and dirt are caught in this moisture. Almost before you know it, unsightly lath streaks develop which spoil the interior decorations of any room.

It is absolutely impossible for a ceiling of Better Plastering on metal lath to develop lath streaks. Better Plastering insures a full thickness of plaster and metal lath insures an even temperature throughout the entire plastering surface. As a result, moisture condensation takes place over the entire surface uniformly. The ceiling can be cleaned with ease and brought back to practically its original beauty—a saving in upkeep expense which more than compensates for the slight additional investment in Better Plastering on metal lath.

If you are interested in saving money over a period of years and at the same time attaining a more beautiful home interior—eliminating plaster cracks and lath streaks and making your home fire-safe at one stroke—consult the Better Plastering contractors. They will explain Better Plastering in detail and submit bids for your approval.

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR BETTER PLASTERING

Is it Cheaper to Live in a 100% "Co-op"?

—what are the monthly payments and do you get more in return for them?

If you bought a house you would expect to pay interest on the mortgage and the general maintenance expenses such as coal, light, water, insurance, taxes, janitor, etc., plus a reasonable amount on the principal of the mortgage each year. When you buy a 100% co-operative apartment home all these items are paid through predetermined monthly assessments. As in the case of a house, a certain part of the owner's payments is saved by being used to reduce the mortgage and thus increasing the corporation's and individual's equity in the building. In the case of paying rent on an apartment the entire payment is, of course, lost to you forever. But, you ask, will my monthly payments be less or more while living in a 100% co-op apartment home than when living in a bungalow or a rented apartment? Let us see. Let us take a home in Park Castles—one of Chicago's finest 100% co-ops—and compare the month by month cost of living in this beautiful building which offers advantages you could not rent at any price.

IN Park Castles, adjoining Indian Boundary Park in Rogers Park, you can purchase a most unusual 4 room apartment for $4,500. Let the diagram above represent the subsequent monthly payments of $57.60. About three-fourths of this amount or $45.45 is for your share of the maintenance of the building and interest on the mortgage. (See section 1 above.) The balance or $12.15 is used to reduce the mortgage and thereby increase your equity in the building. Each year the interest charge decreases. In the 11th year your original $4,500 equity will have increased to $6,103.80. And thereafter your cost to live in Park Castles should be less than $40 per month. In the meantime you could not have lived in a $12,500 bungalow for $57.60 per month or rented a comparable apartment for this amount plus interest on your investment. Similar savings apply to all the beautiful 4, 5 and 6 room apartment homes in Park Castles which can be bought for $4,200 to $8,500. Terms as low as one-third of the purchase price may be arranged.

But the figures tell only half the story. You must see Park Castles to appreciate the advantages which cannot be measured by the yardstick of dollars. A glorious 15 acre state park for your front yard! A Roman swimming pool, gymnasium, nursery! Discriminating neighbors! An environment unsurpassed! Everything for the wife, husband and family! See Park Castles at once. Reservations are nearly completed. Come to 7000 North and 2400 West. (Just west of Western Ave., near Lunt Ave.)

BUILDING BILL OF FIRST 8 MONTHS $4,500,000,000

New York Holds Big Lead Over Other Cities.

—Uncle Sam's building bill for the first eight months of this year approximated $4,500,000,000, according to a recent survey made by the Indiana Limestone company. The figure is based on reports from several hundred cities and towns.

"This total," says President A. M. Dickinson, "is a gain of more than $350,000,000 over the same period last year, when all previous records were broken.

"For the remainder of the year the prospects are particularly bright, and a high rate of building activity may be confidently expected. There is indisputable evidence that many cities have not maintained a building pace commensurate with population growth, and until requirements are met the industry is safe from any possible stagnation.

Southern States Gain.

"Southern states continue to chalk up large gains, despite three years of pronounced activity. A feature is the marked gain in public works and utilities construction. That class of work is taking precedence over all other construction in the south.

"New York records a slight recession at present, due, in some measure, to the labor situation. But to visualise that city's huge program it is only necessary to point out that the volume of construction since the beginning of the year has been greater than the combined building permits of the next ten leading centers of the United States—Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Washington, San Francisco, Boston, St. Louis, and Newark.

"Chicago's program has taken an upward swing and gives promise of exceeding the big total of last year. Home dwellings constitute the bulk of the building activity, more than twenty-five thousand families being provided with living quarters so far this year.

Some Are Underbuilt.

"Basing contruction demand on population growth, government reports show many cities underbuilt. Among those which have not kept pace with the population increase are San Francisco, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Mobile, Ala., El Paso, and Galveston, Tex., Baltimore, Savannah, Ga., Kansas City, Mo., Butte, Mont., Salt Lake City, Pittsburgh, Binghamton, and Rochester, N. Y., Altoona, Pa., Lynn, Mass., Peoria, Ill., and Dubuque, Ia.

"Preliminary figures for August covering the entire country show a building volume of approximately $875,000,000. This is a decline as compared with the same period last year, when new contracts reached the peak of the year. The building industry, however, is becoming more and more stabilized. It is a favorable sign that the peaks and depths which have been prevalent since the world war are being substantially leveled."

Realty Transfers for U. S. Break Previous Records

All records for real estate transfers or sales have been surpassed in the first six months of 1926.

According to statistics obtained from Washington bureaus by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company, of Chicago, the total number of transfers and sales for the first half of the present year has reached 950,000 as against 800,000 in 1925, 840,000 in 1924, 830,000 in 1923, 660,000 in 1922, and 550,000 in 1921.

Rents North Clark Street Space for Men's Store

J. J. Burns, restaurateur, and Harry E. Littler Jr., lessees of the five story building at 18-20 North Clark, yesterday rented the store at No. 20 to George Ross for thirtene years at a term rental of $145,820. He will occupy it with a men's furnishing store. An elaborate new store front will be installed. The Brownlee Realty company was broker; Eddelson & Paullin were attorneys.

George F. Nixon Company Plans 3 Day Celebration

George F. Nixon & Co. have announced plans for a three day celebration to take place on the occasion of the opening for traffic of the Westchester branch of the Metropolitan elevated on Oct. 1. There will be a barbecue and other features. The firm has opened offices at 6138 West Twenty-second to handle sales in this district.

Talman and Thiele Sell Block in Niles Center

The Talman and Thiele Realty association report the sale of a block of lots in their Howard avenue subdivision of Niles Center to a group of loop business men for a reported price of $50,000. Negotiations are under way for the construction of a number of bungalows and two flat buildings on the property.

Albert F. Keeney Buys 240 Acres in Du Page County

Albert F. Keeney has purchased 240 acres on Lake street, in Du Page county, two miles west of Bloomingdale, from Henry Luersaen and Mrs. Emil P. Johnson, through the George R. Hemingway organization, of Oak Park. The new owner has no definite plan for the immediate future.

Widow of Judge Bradwell Buys Hubbard Wds. House

Mrs. Hattie Bradwell, widow of Judge Thomas Bradwell, now living at 6815 Crandon avenue, has bought the residence at 1415 Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods, from Morgan E. Cartier, who will occupy it. Judge Bradwell was one of the owners of the Chicago Legal News.

BUY EVANSTON SALESROOM.

W. R. Bunn and R. E. Fischel have purchased from Victor C. Carlson the automobile salesroom at 1570 Ridge avenue, Evanston, now occupied by the Hudson-Essex Motor company, for an undisclosed price, reported to be $60,000. The size of the lot is 50x132 feet. Edwards P. Goldsmith was broker for all parties in the deal.

Up from the earth's foundations come these permanent Roofings of Asbestos

The blow torch test proves the fire-safety of Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles

BLASTED from the rock beds of the earth, asbestos gives your roof a permanence already tested by the centuries.

From it are made the beautiful Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingles in many shapes and colors—shingles that match their beauty with a permanence that defies weather, time and fire.

For Asbestos is an indestructible mineral fibre that will not rust, rot, burn or corrode. Hence Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles and Roofing should outlast any building they cover. You never need to replace them or waste money on repairs. The first cost of Asbestos Roofings should be the last cost and that need not be high. The real or long run cost is less than that of any other roofing.

Fire-safety, too

With this endurance and economy goes the famous fire-safety of all Johns-Manville Asbestos Roofings—fire-safety that in countless cases has saved homes and businesses and often entire communities from destruction.

Asbestos for every roof

There is a type of Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles or Roofing for every style of building. Look at the chart on the right for the economical one for your home or place of business.

It will pay you to get in touch with the nearest Johns-Manville dealer listed below, or, if you prefer, fill in the coupon and send it to us.

Re-roof for the last time

Lay Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingles right over the old roof. You save the time, money, and muss of torn off shingles and get a beautiful permanent fire-safe roof.

What Kind of Asbestos Roofing?
This chart will help you decide

Kind of Building	Type of Asbestos Roofing	Brand or Trade Name
Small buildings	Slate surfaced asbestos ready roofing or hexagonal asbestos shingles	Flexstone roofing No. 70 rigid asbestos shingles—appropriate colors
Dwellings $3,000-$7,000	Hexagonal asbestos shingles	No. 70 rigid asbestos shingles—appropriate colors
Dwellings $7,000-$25,000	Hexagonal or rectangular asbestos shingles	No. 70 rigid asbestos shingles or Colorblende—appropriate colors
Dwellings $25,000 upwards	Rigid asbestos shingles—rectangular	Rough texture colorblende—five tones: brown with or without red or gray accidentals
Factories, shops and mills — monitor and sawtooth roofs*	Asbestos ready roofing or asbestos built-up roofing	Johns-Manville Asbestos Ready-to-lay or Asbestos Built-up Roofing
Flat roofs—all buildings*	Asbestos built-up roofing	Johns-Manville Asbestos Built-up Roofing
Skeleton frame buildings—standard or excessive temperature or condensation conditions*	Corrugated asbestos roofing	Johns-Manville Transite Corrugated Asbestos Roofing and Siding

*NOTE—Industrial buildings call for expert advice. A roofing expert is available at all Johns-Manville Branches

Re-roof for the last time When re-roofing an old house, you can lay either hexagonal or rectangular asbestos shingles right over the old roof. This saves tearing off the old shingles which remain in place to insulate your home against heat and cold.

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

by Sara Moore

Tragedy Modern Style.

Mary wore a " step-in " belt
Of rubber 'round her hips,
The kind held down and kept in place
By patent garter clips.

The garter moorings slipped—all four.
(O let me get my breath!)
The " step-in " promptly squoze aloft,
And choked the girl to death

Faith.

I lack belief in Santa Claus
Since I saw three of him one day.
I've lost my faith in fairies 'cause
No fairy ever came my way.
But there are angels. Don't I know?
A pink, fat angel saved the show!

MAMIE HICKEY'S SHORTHAND DIARY

Mamie Drops a Wrench.

Efficiency may be the plan of heaven,
(The new boss tries to make it so on earth.)
But Paradise, well organized, won't tempt me.
In some untidy Hell I'd choose a berth,——
Where nothing's filed or scheduled, checked or vouched for.
And no one has to figure what you're worth.

No " ten year program " takes much heed of kisses——
And yet—a kiss might wreck a deal—or throne!
Romance can't be cross indexed, weighed or charted——
Man cannot live, I've read, on bread alone——
My lipstick, please! This bozo must be shown.

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

THE lines of pattern No. 2496 will be the most becoming to stout figures. The back of the dress is cut in one piece and the front in two, with a narrow panel joining them. All these pieces extend the entire length of the dress, which materially helps in giving a slenderizing effect. The inverted plaits on both sides of the dress are extensions of front and back pieces.

There are perforations of the fronts showing where the edges are to be turned under and the front panel set in. This is stitched to both fronts, but on the left side of the front a perforation shows just how far up from the bottom it is to be stretched. Then it is left open the rest of the way and finished for closing.

The dress is cut square across the neck in the front and in the back it is rounding. A collar that is round in the back and reaches to a square neck in front makes an attractive finish there. There are long, close fitting sleeves finished with turned back cuffs, and the pattern is perforated for a shorter length.

The dress at the bottom, for size 36, measures with the plaits drawn out about 1¾ yards, giving ample room to walk in.

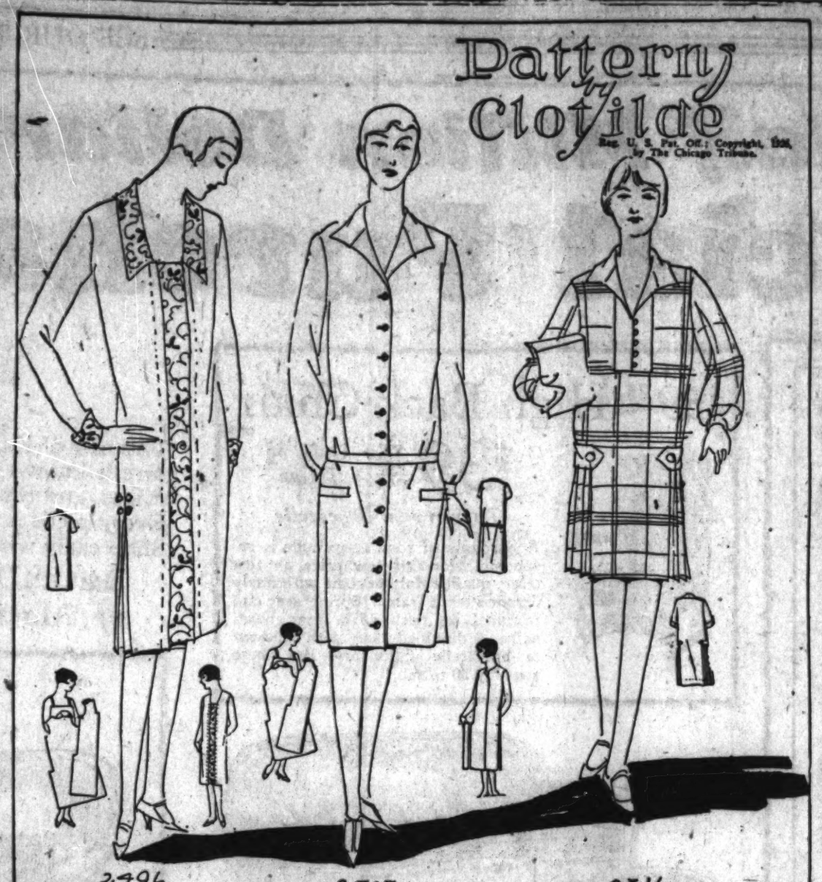
Georgette is a fashionable material for any time of the year and this design would be lovely made of a printed georgette crêpe, with taffeta in a contrasting shade for the panel, cuffs, and collar.

Pattern No. 2316 is a smart design for a dress for school wear. Any of the lightweight woolens will make up attractively and the long one piece sleeve will be the right one to use. Front and back are each cut in one piece and the plaited side sections are cut separately and set in. Instead of having the belt go all around the body it is cut simply to cover the tops of the plaited sections, finishing in a point at each end.

There is a small inset front cut in one with the facing. This is joined to the collar and rolls back in the front, forming revers. These convertible collars are both practical and pretty, and they can be left open as shown in the sketch or closed the entire length.

Plaided or checked materials are always pretty for school wear, and if something on this order is chosen use a plain color, matching one of the colors in the stripes, for the collar, vestee, belt, and cuffs.

Pattern No. 2547 is a style that any woman may wear any hour of the day, made of a printed silk crêpe, Canton, Chinese damask, or crêpe Elizabeth. For street wear nothing could be prettier than a navy blue flat crêpe—the belt, cuffs of the long sleeves, collar and facing, belt and pocket welts made of the same material in the right shade of tan.



2,496—Woman's dress. Sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 40 inch material with 1¼ yards of 18 inch contrasting.

2,547 — Woman's and misses' dress. Sizes 16 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 40 inch material.

2,316—Girl's dress. Sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 42 inch material with ½ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

The dress buttons the length of the front, which will make it a joy to take on and off. The neck is finished with a convertible collar, and the one piece sleeves are gathered at the wrists and set into narrow bands. At the sides below the removable belt there are inset plaits—these give a graceful fullness and make the dress measure at the bottom, with the plaits drawn out, for size 36, about 1⅝ yards.

After the seams are finished and the inset plaits put in place finish the fronts. Cut two collars and put one on the dress, pinning it in place in the middle back and at the ends. Pin so that the seam will come to the wrong side. Then stitch and press the seam open flat, first clipping seam edges where the line curves. Then sew the rever facings to the ends of the other collar piece, perforations and notches on the pattern showing how. Press these seams flat. Then lay the two right sides of the collar together, pin, baste, and stitch, going down the fronts of the dress. Press the collar and facing seams open flat, using a sleeve board. Then turn to the right side, basting the seam edges carefully so they can be pressed. The rever facings extend the entire length of the fronts, and then the fronts lap and are finished with buttons and buttonholes.

Opportunties for Girls in Business

By Georgia Bayne

VOCATIONS FOR GIRLS

This is the second of a series of six articles dealing with vocations open to girls and women today. The Tribune will be glad to answer any questions relating to different lines of work which girls and women may undertake with a fair chance of lucrative returns. articles dealing with vacations Address VOCATIONS FOR GIRLS, THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

IF you are a girl who would enter business and succeed you will find that the way you look at your work, your mental attitude, is the thing which counts above everything else. You want to make good like your brother. Then you will have to be willing to work as hard as he does.

You want to make good money the way he does. Then you will have to be as keenly interested in your job as he, be willing to work overtime if necessary, keep your employer's interests foremost in your mind, watch for opportunities around you, study the job just ahead so you can be ready for it when it comes.

It is the lackadaisical girl who gets by with the least possible effort, who obviously regards her job as a makeshift until matrimony comes along, who is making it hard for other girls to get a chance to show what they can do.

Be Eager to Learn.

You may not be intending to work all your life. Most decidedly not. But act as though you are during office hours. Be avid to learn instead of being constantly driven to it by some harried supervisor. Then you can naturally expect and obtain advancement along with men. But before you can demand what they do you will have to show a proportionate absorption in your work.

Of course, other factors count, too. Finish high school if you possibly can. Get this some way, somehow, for even if it means a struggle it will make your struggle later on less hard.

Not that the diploma itself means so much, but the knowledge you have obtained in the years you were working for it counts. Your mastery of spelling, punctuation, your ability to express yourself well in writing as well as in speaking, your knowledge of history, of foreign languages, your acquired science facts all help. All these become a part of you and will be useful in many ways once you have entered the business world.

Education Is Vital.

Take whatever education you can afford. Afterward if you find you need more training along any special line you can probably get it at night school or by correspondence courses.

The following suggested opportunities for girls in business today are necessarily brief, but they give some idea of the many lines which are open to women.

Only know a little something about yourself before you start out. Ask yourself frankly what you do best and answer yourself frankly. Of course there are examples of women succeeding where they have had to overcome enormous natural handicaps. But these are the exception, and if you can find out what you really possess a natural aptitude for, you will make your business life infinitely happier and more financially remunerative.

Work in Department Stores.

The modern American department store offers a fertile field to girls who wish to enter business. There is clerking, which is most known to the average person because it is the most obvious. Patience, tact, a certain knack in selling goods convincingly, and a sense of what the public wants go a long way in advancing a girl to such positions as department head, buyer, and assistant buyer. While a clerk usually starts at about $15 a week, these latter positions pay from $35 to $75 a week.

The advertising end of a department store is also a promising one. Here are chances for girls to read copy, take ads, file, and read proof. Stenographers and typists are always needed, and a girl can often work up to positions of responsibility from a stenographic beginning.

Again, in the department store restaurants, a girl with ideas and executive ability can start as an apprentice and make herself valuable in helping to solve the many problems of service and food which are always connected with a restaurant. A course in dietetics is an advantage to a girl starting in this line.

Another branch which might be mentioned here, of a specialized sort, is found in the employment offices of large stores. Salaries here usually run from $35 a week up. This employment field in many business houses is a promising one. To judge the possibilities of applicants and judge correctly is one of the duties of an employment manager.

Girls are also employed, by many department stores, to visit other stores and compare what they are selling with their own firm's merchandise. This is a nice line of work as it takes a girl out part of each day. A faculty for observation and discrimination as well as a basic knowledge of merchandise values is necessary for her success.

Stenography and Typewriting.

For the girl who wants to forge ahead in business, a knowledge of shorthand and typewriting is one of the best entering wedges, an "open sesame" to innumerable business offices, wholesale and retail houses, mail order concerns and various small specialty and merchandise shops.

A beginner starts at about $15 or $18 a week and can eventually hope to earn as high as $40 or $50 a week. Usually these higher paid positions are secretarial, however, and the position becomes one of much greater responsibility and importance.

Court Reporting.

This is an extremely interesting line and a well paid one. The work is strenuous. Several years of experience as a stenographer and typist are necessary before the girl can hope to aspire to court reporting. She must also possess unusual speed, physical endurance and a knowledge of legal terms and phraseology. If this is her eventual aim, she can secure stenographic work at first in some law office where she will obtain knowledge of court proceedings. Demand for workers in this field is constant. Court reporting pays from $4 to $20 a day. Some expert court reporters get even more.

Railroad Positions.

Railroad companies offer many varieties of work for girls and women. Much of it is clerical, with the bookkeeper, the stenographer, the typist, always in demand. Cashiers and station agents are also employed, and a large force in railroad restaurants and lunch counters.

Besides this, college women are holding responsible positions in the laboratories of railroad companies as chemists, etc. If a woman is competent enough to hold an executive position she can earn as high as $75 a week, though such positions as these are necessarily few and require years of experience, coupled with unusual ability. The average girl in the clerical department receives from $20 to $30 a week.

The Woman Detective.

Out of the beaten path is this fascinating line of work. For the girl or women who can do it the financial returns are extremely good, but it requires courage, aggression, persistance, and straight from the shoulder nerve.

According to men who have succeeded in this work experience is about the best training school. Once a girl has really made up her mind she wants to be a detective she should endeavor to connect herself with some established detective agency. It may take considerable persistence before she is even permitted to show what she can do, but once she has made the connection the rest is up to her. As a beginner she may receiver about $5 a day and her expenses. After she has proven herself of worth she can expect to earn a good deal more.

Gift and Specialty Shops.

This line is one which started in the east, but is spreading rapidly westward. It appeals especially to the girl with a desire to own her individual business some day, and who has plenty of initiative and capacity for business management. Apprenticeship is best served as an assistant in some shop. Later on, with a little capital and considerable daring, she can hope to go "on her own."

Telephone Operators.

The demand for this work is usually greater than the supply and there are opportunities for advancement to the positions of supervisors, chiefs of departments, ad takers, etc., in large business and publishing houses. The minimum salary is $15 a week after a girl has become an operator. Telephone operators have risen to positions paying as high as $50 a week, where the responsibility of their work was great.

Camp Directors.

Here is delightful outdoor work, demanding executive ability, social tact, and common sense for the athletic girl. There are considerably over a thousand camps in the country at the present time. The salary of a camp director is largely determined by the size of the camp. It should average between $25 and $40 a week.

The File Clerk.

A high school education with a natural ability to spell will be found helpful to the girl who takes up filing. There are schools in the large cities which teach the fundamentals of this work and such a course provides one with much valuable preliminary knowledge. Filing clerks receive from $15 to $25 a week according to the importance of their position and the work they do.

Book Publishing Houses.

The staffs of book publishing houses employ many women, clerical, stenographic, and those which include proof reading, copy reading, and manuscript reading. Many women are also found in the advertising departments, writing copy and preparing bulletins of interest to the public.

Some literary knowledge, together with stenography and shorthand, is an excellent combination for a girl to have who wishes to advance here.

Personnel Work.

For the girl with an instinct for teaching and yet who does not wish to enter the school room, this business of directing the training and education of store employés is an interesting one. The younger workers of a store as well as newly selected saleswomen need instruction in the business principles and customs of the concern. The salary of assistant managers and managers usually runs from $1,500 to $5,000.

Government Service.

This field is so broad that at the start it may be said that the government uses girls and women in practically every known type of employment.

A woman who wishes to enter the government service can write to the Civil Service bureau at Washington for lists of positions open to her and for examination announcements. These jobs call for teachers of all kinds stenographers, typists, nurses, librarians, translators, post office positions, and for the college woman who can work as assistant, managerial scientific experts, textile experts, inspectors of dairy products, draftsmen of all kinds and child and social welfare experts.

Salaries for government work are steadily improving and now most of the examinations are open to women.

Real Estate Saleswoman.

This is a field into which women are entering in greater numbers each year. They have already proven their ability, in numerous instances throughout the country, to sell real estate.

The young woman who is anxious to enter this line will have to take intensive training for a few months either in some school of salesmanship or as apprentice in the office of some realty firm. A knowledge of salesmanship principles and technical information regarding established methods of selling, trading, etc., is necessary. Besides this, aggression, personality, and ability to judge values as well as people are all necessary attributes for success. She will probably work for some time without much salary, but once she proves her worth in the selling game, she will find the financial returns take care of themselves.

Life Insurance Saleswoman.

Like the real estate saleswoman, the life insurance saleswoman must possess certain inborn traits; she must have the gift for talking convincingly, but not boringly, and in addition have definite knowledge of the principles of life insurance and also of salesmanship.

Training for this is usually intensive and lasts for from four to ten months. If a girl has the gift for selling there is no better line to apply it than in the insurance business. The work is not confined to any one city or even one country, and the financial returns are excellent.

Camp Fire Girl Directors.

Leaders for Camp Fire Girls are constantly in demand; women who can introduce this organization into schools, factories, communities. Universities and colleges offer courses in Camp Fire leadership, and there is always a series of such courses at the summer Camp Fire camps. A woman, to succeed in such a line as this, must have personality nd the gift for leadership. She must not only be able to talk well before groups of people, but have the capacity for making the girls like her and work with her. The remuneration is ont high, but the work is pleasant and varied.

Book Canvassers.

Selling books is perhaps the pleasantest of any agent work followed by women. Many standard books for children and mature people are sold by women who go to a small town and remain there until every promising family has been visited and the home women thoroughly acquainted with the merits of the book, or set of books. It has the advantage of being largely healthy, out door work, usually on a commission basis, and if the girl or woman who takes it up has a knack for selling, together with an agreeable personality she can generally make fair money. Her time is her own, there are no hours to keep, and the financial returns are in most instances "up to her."

Another article in this series will appear next Sunday.

Appropriate Gifts for Showers

By Persis Standish

Have You Wondered How to Plan a Surprise Party, or What to Take to One? These Suggestions, Then, Are Just What You Want

Persis Standish will answer questions of all kinds on etiquette, manners, and customs. Self-addressed, stamped envelope must accompany each request for information. Send your letters to Persis Standish, Sunday Department, Chicago Tribune.

"HOW do I write an invitation to a shower?" So write my correspondents. The answer is, "You may not!" Properly speaking, showers should not be given. It is in the strictest sense of the word bad form to give either bridal or stork showers. But there are certain people who like them and who insist on giving Mrs. Grundy that mild slap in the face, and since these people are numerous it is necessary to talk about showers. Because, after all, they have become numerous enough to constitute a custom.

Then, if you must give showers, the next thing is to make them as nearly correct as it is possible for such events to be. They are often a great deal of fun and cause merriment that is not soon forgotten. All that has been said about showers applies also to "surprise parties."

I went to a kitchen shower for a bride once which was most amusing. Each guest was told to bring something for the kitchen and was limited in the sum of two dollars. Each apparently decided to be original, and when the time came for the showing of the gifts no one but the donors knew for what purpose each article was used. One had brought an egg beater, another an intricate salt mill, and so on. As the bride had no idea what a kitchen pantry contained or how to use the articles in it she had a list made and a crude drawing by the donor of each implement, and the result was quite amusing.

No Written Invitations.

To get back to the original subject, invitations to a shower should never be written. First, because such an event must of its very nature be most informal; second, because there is no proper form for such an informal invitation except the verbal one. If you give a shower you should, of course, consult your guest of honor first, because some people with whom I am in entire sympathy would rather have a major operation than a shower of any kind. You can tell whether she really means no or yes by her manner.

Then you should make your guest list and submit it to her, so that if there is some one on it to whom she does not wish to be beholden she may say so. The guest list should, of course, be made comparatively small, and should contain the names of only those who are intimate friends of the bride-to-be.

Then, the kind of shower you give should be simple. I heard of a woman once who gave a "surprise" silver shower for a bride whose family were in rather straitened circumstances. Of course she thought she was doing the girl a favor, and was more or less pleased with herself. But the bride was all but nauseated, yet she had to grin and bear it. Of course, it was the end of any but the most diplomatic relations between her and her hostess. Such vulgarity is a thing one can forgive, but one cannot chance its performance a second time.

So it is wise to choose something extremely simple like a domestic shower, that is, articles that can be used in the kitchen or for the cleaning of the house. Such a shower can be made amusing and useful, since the experienced housewife will bring her pet household help and a great deal of valuable time will be saved the busy bride-to-be in having these necessities provided for her.

To such a shower you may bring anything from a dishpan to a tiny measuring spoon, and it is surprising how attractive such articles look.

Other showers that are attractive are towel showers, cushion showers, and book showers. Any kind of entertainment one wishes can be provided at such a party. Luncheon and bridge is the usual thing. Three tables of bridge is as large as any shower should be. Showers should, of course, never be given at night. They are feminine affairs, strictly. Needless to say, a shower should never be given by a relative of either bride or groom.

Sometimes a card club of small membership gives a member who is to be married a shower. The shower then is something that the bride must accept with courtesy, even if she is a non-shower person like myself. There is no way out for her but to accept the shower or to be both rude and stingy. For a stingy receiver is just as stingy as a stingy giver.

Arranging the Gifts.

Each gift at the shower should contain the card of the giver with an appropriate message. The gift can be given before luncheon and bridge, or after, as the hostess chooses. It seems a little better to me to give the gifts first and get it over. They should be put in a pile in the center of a table or arranged on a separate table in a corner of the room. All these details are a matter for the hostess to decide, herself.

One hostess cleverly put the gifts on a large tray and had them brought in to the bride by her two attractive little daughters. The tray was decorated with flowers and the picture was a most pretty one.

A stork shower is much like a bridal shower except that it seems more allowable to me, since the gifts are not for the recipient herself but for her child whom her friends in this way welcome into their midst.

Surprise Parties.

Surprise parties, like showers, are a delicate matter. No invitations can be written for them, either, first because they also must of their nature be most informal, and second because one cannot invite people to another person's house.

Unlike showers, they may be given by members of a family. A wife may give her husband a surprise party or vice versa. However, if my husband did it to me I should never forgive him. But that is just my own taste in the matter. I do not like to be surprised. Perhaps that is egoism on my part. Perhaps it is because I do not think there is much in life that can surprise me and I am disappointed when I find something—even a party which does.

I do not advise wives to give surprise parties for their husbands because, as a general rule, men hate to be made conspicuous. They like very much to be the center of attraction, but they do not like to be conspicuously so.

Tapestry or Brocatelle

A purchase of such magnitude is responsible for this low price on this large, quality Karpen chair with finely finished birch frame. Spring seat and trimmed on back with large brass nails. A dignified chair with tapestry or brocatelle upholstery. But there are only 50 to sell.

$527 2-Pc. Mohair Suite

Massive Design $335 Pay Only $35 Down

If you are looking for the more massive, the out-of-the-ordinary suite, you can stop your quest. Here it is in a style that is not usually seen, with an intricately carved frame of gumwood, all over covering of fine quality mohair plush and brocatelle reversible cushions. Velour covers the spring seat instead of the usual denim. The detail and make-up of this suite can be recognized as the finest. Only the first eight can save on this buy, so HURRY!

$375 All Over Mohair Suite

$235

Only $25 Down

Solid Mahogany

A richly carved solid mahogany frame with genuine Angora mohair covering makes this a suite really beautiful. To put on the finishing touch are the reversible cushions in colorful brocatelle trimmed with black moss edging. As you can see for yourself, the design is very new and attractive. The suite is not the small type, but one of generous proportions.

$296 Overstuffed Suite

Serpentine Front $189 Pay Only $20 Down

Such a suite will please homelovers! Its birch base is richly carved. Covered with mohair on fronts and plain velour on outside, and its reversible cushions are in a rich brocatelle and trimmed with black moss edging. The shaped front provides the unusual that all desire.

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

Smart Frocks for Autumn Favor the Clinging Softness of Crepe Satins

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

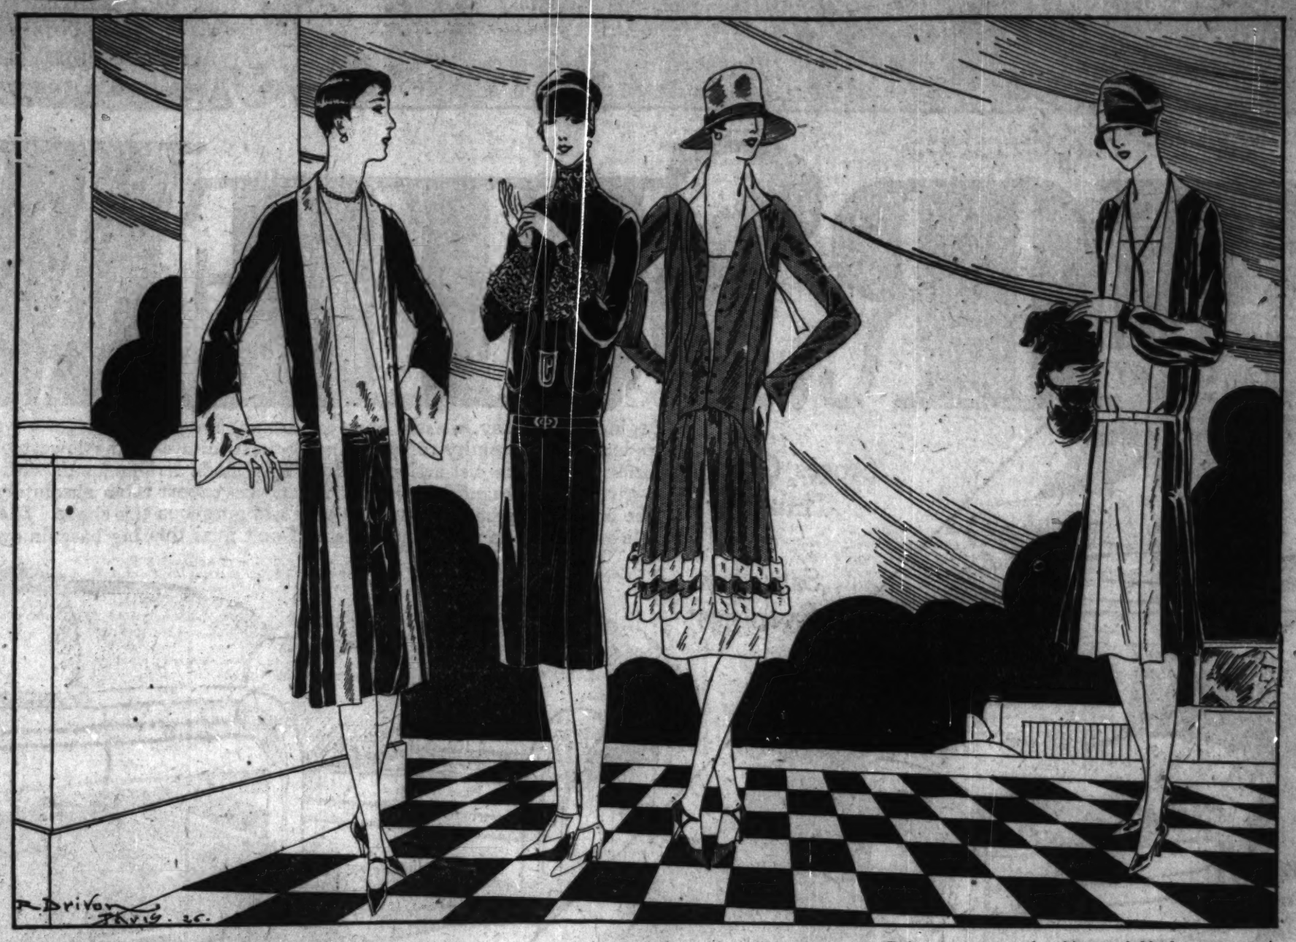
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—The big fall fashion shows in Paris are drawing to a close, and all of the secrets of the autumn mode are now disclosed, being gossiped about, and offerings chosen or rejected. For many are called but few are chosen. I am going to tell you today about an accepted mode, which is already one of the certain successes, and that is the vogue for crêpe satin. This is, anyhow, a season when satiny surfaced materials will be worn by almost everybody. There will be velvets, crêpes Leda, moire, and a host of others, but in the meantime, in between time, and all of the time, crêpe satin. Every Paris style creator approves of this fabric, and each of them is showing a lot of models that demonstrate vividly the charm of this supple and elegant material. The whole trend of fashion, anyway, is toward a more decorative, feminine and clinging sort of thing, and crêpe satin is one of the best materials ever conceived to produce this trinity of effects.

You remember a few seasons ago when they used crepe satin and then turned it over and employed the crepe side for garniture. This season they are instead, using two colors of the same fabric to get the new effect which must be produced in any season. Your clothes are not supposed to match; they are divided up into different color sections, and usually if they do match there is something wrong. There must be some note of different color, and this also frequently a different fabric, too. These contrasts can be as strong as you like, and there are a good many such posterish unions as red and black, dark blue and red, black and white, and so forth. There are also more subtle and more refined combinations of color, such as gray or beige and black, huckleberry blue and black, etc., etc. You don't have to have black, although it is the smartest single color in fall fashions. You can have many other shades, too, always united to still another tint.

The Parisienne loves black, and for Paris it will be a leading color, for even when you don't hear it, it is never any farther away from the top of the heap of fashions than Versailles is from Paris. Dark blue is good, too, and the American loves this shade almost as much as the Parisienne adores black. The motto is then, if you are going to have a crêpe satin frock or ensemble, trim it with some other color, and some other fabric, if you like that idea. Paris approves thoroughly.

Our first costume is a two color two fabric ensemble from Nicole Groult, who, as you may know, is Paul Poiret's sister, and inherits the family genius for creating clothes. It is an ensemble, and the kind of ensemble that you wear to an afternoon party or informal evening affair under your fur coat. It combines black crêpe satin with a lovely pinky-gray crêpe romaine. The coat has a straight upper portion, cut loosely enough so that it blouses above the high-hip waistline, and a side-flaring skirt part. The sleeves are flared gently from the armhole and banded at the bottom with a deep band of gray crêpe romaine. The only other trimming on the coat is the gray crêpe romaine band that forms the full length revers and collar at one and the same time.



At extreme left is a smart ensemble of black crepe satin with waist and revers of gray crepe romaine. Next, the black crepe satin frock with lace collar and cuffs, bloused waist and piping of rose is an important item of Fall Paris styles.

Over a slip of ivory white satin, Anna puts a three-quarters tunic of black crepe satin trimmed with loops of ribbon and cut steel buttons, as pictured second from the right.

Pale rose crepe de chine and black crepe satin form the fashionable Autumn frock from Brandt, with vertical tucks to create a fitted hip line and bloused waist, sketched at the extreme right.

The crushed sash girdle serves for two important functions. It indicates to the world that waistlines this year are higher than the hip line, and it also officiates as a belt for the dress, by passing through slits in the side front of the coat, and tying in a knot at the center front. The frock is equally divided between gray and black, crêpe romaine and satin. The waist is gray crêpe romaine, without sleeves, and utterly simple, with a surplice closing in front and attached to a crêpe satin skirt that flares exactly like the coat at the sides. It has the kind of assurance that only the woman of notable taste would dare select, and for such it is perfect.

Our second model is also in crêpe satin, also black, and in this case more black than otherwise. Its color variation comes in the cream point de Venise collar and cuffs and in the extensive piping which is done with rose crêpe satin. Philippe et Gaston, who designed this model, intended it for the young lady not over 24 (in looks). It shows a popular autumn silhouette, with a bloused waist and slender short skirt. The waist is cut up into pieces particularly intricate, all of this expert cutting being clearly shown by the rose piping that outlines it. You notice that a bolero is suggested, and that the band that outlines the front closing suggests a long tie, ending with a monogram "P. G." The collar is a wide turnover and the cuffs are full gathered mousquetaire. The above-the-hip waist and skirt division line is marked by a narrow belt with a rose and gold enameled buckle.

The skirt, which is narrow, is decorated by curved pieces set on the sides, two to a side, and outlined with the same rose piping that distinguishes the waist. It is the kind of a dress you can wear to almost any place and look smart, as well as be sure of a becoming and rather elegant aspect.

Our third model is another crêpe satin frock, this time from Anna (Madeleine et Madeleine). It is for simpler occasions. You could, if you are Somebody's private secretary, wear it in a be-rugged office, or if you are Mrs. Millionaire it would be appropriate for the simple afternoon visit or luncheon. The three-quarters waist and skirt tunic of black satin is an important style item of the new season. Everybody's showing them. This one is especially nice with its waistline that curves down over the hips, its gathered skirt and its open front trimmed with none-working cut steel buttons. The collar is faced with white satin, and so are the ties, which don't tie. The bottom of the tunic is trimmed with loops of satin ribbon in black and white. The straight underslip is of white crêpe satin, and it forms the gilet at the same time.

Our fourth model has so many autumn style virtues, I don't know which one to tell first. It is made of black crêpe satin with a full length panel in the center front of pale rose crepe de chine. Brandt, whose creation it is, has added to the width of the rose front with full length revers of rose, hanging from a little pointed collar of the same material and color. The tucks on the hips are particularly worth remembering. They fit the skirt from low hip to above the hips, and give a blouse to the waist when they are released at the top. The belt of rose satin disappears beneath them at the sides, and reappears in the back. The sleeves have a gracious flare from the elbow to the fitted wrist band, and the tucks at the hips make the skirt flare piquantly at the sides.

MARITAL COMMANDMENTS by Doris Blake

Rules for Husband and Wife That May Help Steer the Marital Ship Clear of Rocks.

TEN commandments for the husband and wife is a hackneyed form of administering aavice to the "weds." Nevertheless, for the success of the home, commandments are not bad guides, you must admit. It matters not so much whose hand writes them so long as they involve the cardinal virtues of comfortable domesticity. A couple could write their own, granted they had the interests of the home and inmates thereof at heart when they sat down to the task, and perhaps have a set of rules governing their conduct that would outwork any hitherto prescribed.

However, there is no use having rules of conduct unless one observes them. To observe them properly, it is necessary every now and then to retire to some quiet corner, go over them carefully and ask yourself if you are living up to them to the best of your ability.

It is with this idea in mind that I present you today a set of commandments for both husband and wife, compiled by one H. W. T. for a recent issue of "Health Culture." You might take your pencil off to the corner with you, check off as you read them, and see what your score is.

FOR THE HUSBAND.

"I am the source of many an unhappy marriage," says the Mighty Dollar, therefore shalt thou make mutually satisfactory arrangements with thy wife concerning her pecuniary allowance immediately upon entering the matrimonial ranks.

Thou shalt not make thy wife's duties burdensome by comparing her cooking and household management to thy mother's, for every true wife doeth the best that she possibly can.

Thou shalt not take thy wife to account for shortcomings, but overlook failings and bear patiently with faults, as thou wouldst that the Lord thy God do unto thine own weaknesses.

Remember that thy wife is assisting thee very materially (financially) by being maid of all work, housekeeper, seamstress, nurse, and cook. Six days shalt thou overlook unavoidable delays and mishaps (which annoy thy good wife as much as they do thee) and every seventh day thou shalt allow her to rest from household duties and enjoy thy cheerful companionship.

Honor thy wife with thy implicit confidence in all things, that she may counsel and advise thee and lend her assistance over hard places in time of trouble.

Thou shalt not kill thy wife's respect for thee by doing those things which would grieve thee if done by her.

Thou shalt not commit the great error of being ashamed to apologize to thy wife, and thou shalt always do unto her as thou wouldst that she should do unto thee.

Thou shalt not steal happy moments from thy wife by parting from her in anger, but "forgive and forget" and avoid the quarrels which are the greatest destroyers of matrimonial bliss.

Thou shalt not bear ill will against thy wife without just cause, but shalt at all times permit her to defend herself.

Thou shalt not covet the pleasures of the club, nor any other entertainment where thy wife must be excluded, but find comfort and enjoyment in the bosom of thine own family, whom it is thy duty to love, cherish, and make happy.

FOR THE WIFE.

"I am a great barrier to perfect matrimonial harmony," says Quick Temper; "thou shalt, therefore, either make every effort to get me thoroughly under control or be sure thy husband doth not possess the same unfortunate trait."

Thou shalt not make unto thee any evil imaginings concerning thy husband (being jealous and suspicious), for thou canst never be truly happy without placing implicit confidence and trust in him.

Thou shalt not take for granted that matrimony is the chief end of woman's existence and thou requirest no further knowledge and cultivation, but, rather, keep thyself thoroughly posted upon all interesting topics, and endeavor in every way to retain thy husband's admiration and respect.

Remember it is the wife's first duty to please her husband. Six days shalt thou labor as a good cook, a tidy housewife, and a cheerful companion, to satisfy thy husband, and every seventh day thou shalt strive to make the happiest in his existence.

Thou shalt not kill his affections by being unsympathetic about his troubles or expecting too much lovemaking.

Thou shalt not commit the error of restricting this husband in his own home. Let him do as he pleases and do thou thy utmost to make home the most charming spot on earth to him, where he will forget business cares and worldly troubles, and where he will find comfort, peace, and genuine happiness.

Thou shalt not steal from thy husband his respect for thee by becoming less attentive to dress and manners than during courtship.

Thou shalt not bear tales to others concerning thy husband's actions and family affairs, nor unveil his shortcomings to a third person.

Thou shalt not covet luxuries which may bring thy husband to financial difficulties, or perhaps ruin; nor social pleasures which thy husband doth not enjoy; nor much work which causeth thee to neglect thy household duties, for home is woman's sphere, and here, in blissful communion and happiness with husband and children, should lie her chief duties and pleasures.

Practical and Fancy Needlework By CLOTILDE

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang right or making a sleeve that doesn't pull? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, if a personal reply is desired.

MOURNING VEILS.

THIS week's article on millinery is something entirely different. It is something we do not like to think about, yet have to have on certain occasions. The mourning veil pictured is made of Brussels net, a fine mesh that comes in different widths. If any of my readers has a millinery shop great economy can be effected by buying the five yard width. This will make four veils with one and one-quarter yards and will allow enough to go around a large hat and still leave plenty to put two plaits in the back, as illustrated. If the veil is to be draped on a small hat, the plaits are made deeper in the back. If only one veil is to be made, buying the one and one-half yard widths is best.

Cut the veil twenty-one and a half inches deep, or five-eighths of a yard, leaving all the edges raw, as net is wrong so closely it will not ravel.

If the veil being made is for a widow buy a band of dull black grosgrain ribbon two and one-half inches wide for the ends and across the bottom. If the veil is for any other relative put two bands of the same kind of ribbon, only one inch wide, one inch apart. Put the first row one inch above the wider ribbon. Some people prefer the tear crêpe band on the veil instead of the ribbon. This crêpe is put on by hand and is used on the bias.

In draping the veil on hat, have the person to be fitted seated. Take the center of the veil and mark the center of the hat. Pin the veil to this mark, and let it fall loosely. The lower edge should measure ten inches below the chin when the head is held straight. The upper part of the veil is let to fall back on the hat.

Small dull black headed pins are used for pinning wherever the plait, or fullness. The veil is then brought back to the back of the hat, being careful not to pull it too tight on the sides; both ends are laid in plaits and these are pinned on the center back of the hat, close together. The veil can be worn thrown back over the hat also.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

The Melon Family Was as Popular in the Times of the Greeks and Romans as It Is Today

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

AS IN PERSIA, where melons are the daily food and sustenance of the poor people for four months of the year, the melon season in this United States is almost that long. In a dozen years the season has been lengthened from one month to four or more. In Mid-July this year there was a melon climax, when cantaloupes were sold inexpensively by the crate. Formerly the selling by the crate was rare in any month save September.

Not only has the season been extended, but the varieties have increased, and the uses of these varieties multiplied. The honey dew is rather new to us, and the honey ball newer. Both appeared among the fresh fruits seen on an elaborate hotel menu perused recently with studious intent. Honey dew with lemon juice is at present enjoying a great vogue, although the melons of that type just a few years ago were forbidding because so undependable of character. It is now considerably more economical to eat these at home than at a hotel where they are likely to cost one dollar per melon.

As old uses—two thousand year old or older uses—have been restored, the favoring of melon as an appetizer seems to lead any other service. The Romans used them to begin a meal but, as for that, they used them in no end of ways. In commendation of this use now common with us an English cooking journal had this to say at the start of an article on the melon:

"The popularity of the slice of melon as a hors d'oeuvre or appetizer introducing the dinner menu is a tribute to its real and great value, for the very sight of that luscious fruit not only tempts the appetite but also stimulates the flow of digestive juices."

It is exceedingly important to remember that in cutting a melon for this, or any other service, it should be done at the last minute before it is served because exposure to the air and heat will quickly reduce a melon of even the rarest aroma and flavor so much in quality that we may rightly call it spoiled. Many people do, in this sense, eat spoiled melon.

Both the cantaloupe and the pink-fleshed melons may be a little too soft, and so rather tasteless, even at the moment when they are cut open, in which case some people cut them up and serve them with a cold tart fruit juice. Yet too often they are tasteless still, as the best tasting may be if cut up and left to stand. Ice in a melon may also lessen and injure the flavor and, besides, as some one has said, it is in the way.

The Flesh of the Melon.

The horticulturist is likely to divide the melon family according to the color of its flesh although different varieties are so diverse in appearance. The Persian melon, which looks somewhat like a giant cantaloupe, is described as having the most melting and honey-like of flesh because it is so thin skinned. Watermelons of our market today seem to have a thinner skin and a sweeter heart than those we knew years ago. Colors of flesh vary from green, or a greenish gray, or an almost white, to deep rose shades, like that of the watermelon, and to the salmon pink of the muskmelon. There are yellow sorts, and one has been described as of a brilliant orange shade.

The Antiquity of the Melon Family.

There are suggestive facts known which give one the idea that it might be possible to write a real history of civilization by telling the complete story of melons and their near relatives—the gourds, the pumpkins and squashes with marrows, and the cucumbers, all together forming that family of sounding name, the cucurbitaceae. As an ancient family it seems to have been partly honorable and partly quite common. As is well known, the gourds are full of freaks, while the pumpkin family is plain and solid and useful.

But it seems a bit curious that when you cook the esthetic pink fleshed melon, to make an imitation of citron melon, it gives off an odor exactly like that given off by pumpkin cooking, which proves them brothers in the pot. The Roman baker evidently treated melons just as he did the pumpkin. We find it recorded that he made them into mince meats, patties and with them imitated fish and sausages and mushrooms. The old Roman poet Martial, in describing these uses, says: "This dextrous cook exhausts the powers of art to disguise them in every way, sometimes by means of Capellian rue. Thus he fills his dishes and side dishes and polished plates and tureens, and congratulates himself at furnishing so many dishes at the cost of a penny."

Greek and Roman Melons.

In the article in "Food and Cookery" [June, 1912] it says: "The melon has been cultivated in the warmer countries of the east from the earliest time, and was probably brought to Europe by the ancient Romans, when returning from their expeditions against Persia. It quickly became popular among the Romans, who, with the Greeks, believed it to be good both for the stomach and head. The former people had served with their melons a sharp sauce made of vinegar, pepper, pennyroyal, honey or a special wine, and other constituents, while the latter believed they could vary the flavor of the fruit by steeping the seeds in wine or mixing them with other odorous constituents before sowing them." One of the odorous ingredients was the rose petal, and they believed they got the rose scent by using it. Probably the Romans would call a French dressing, which is excellent with cut up Cassaba melon, and may be used with almost any sort, "a sharp sauce."

An Egyptian Recipe.

In the article mentioned it gives us an interesting direction which we might follow. It says: "The ancient Egyptians also valued the melon very highly as food, drink, and medicine alike. A favorite method of treating it for the purpose of obtaining a cooling and refreshing beverage was to push a stick into one end and work it about so as to crush and beat the flesh to a pulp, then withdraw the stick, seal the hole with wax, and bury the melon for two days. On opening it again the outer case was found to be filled with a delicious fluid, which was not only refreshing and thirst-quenching, but cooling and possessed of medicinal properties. The juice of the watermelon obtained in this way and mixed with honey was regarded as of high medicinal value, especially in cases of fever."

Breakfast Melon.

It is no new thing to use melons for breakfast. The Dutch three hundred years ago used them for this purpose and their artists put them into "breakfast pieces." In India the American residents like watermelons and waffles for a meal.

Fancy Melon Service.

What a hotel cook might call "Melon Supreme" we thought of as a melon medley when devised. While experimenting with ways of cooking and candying melon we had three sorts on hand, and we considered as most attractive a ring of peeled pink melon filled with watermelon balls, with little pointed pieces of honey dew melon to complete the pretty picture. Any fruit sirup might have been served with it, or even a French salad dressing—best when seasoned lightly with some special salad vinegar with a blend of spices or herbs—but we used a plum sirup which made itself inconspicuous, but was enough to season the whole. Sometimes rings of melon are filled with ices or ice cream.

Watermelon Ice.

It seems much more suitable to fill the half of a cantaloupe with some sort of melon ice than with an ice cream with which it has constituted a famous service of the two. Perhaps the best way to make a watermelon ice is to sieve the melon, after which its ninety and more per cent of water seems a very real thing. Sweetened enough to make it agreeably sweet when frozen, and frozen with the addition of a bit of egg white, it makes a pretty filling for the half of a melon or a slice of sweet melon. The amount of sugar must vary just as the sweetness from the center of the heart to the part next the skin does.

Watermelon Granite.

To make a partly frozen or sherbet-like preparation of the watermelon, strain the sieved watermelon or not, as you choose, and add to each two cups of it half a cup of rather thick sugar sirup and the juice of an orange or use a little lemon juice. Freeze for half an hour without stirring, or stir and freeze only till it is a mush.

Cantaloupe Ice or Frappé.

The proportions for making a half frozen or entirely frozen cantaloupe ice that will usually be all right are three cups of sieved cantaloupe or cantaloupe puree, one cup of sugar and the juice of one lemon.

Candied Melon.

If one does not want to wait for the citron melon, which seems to come much more scantily into the market than formerly, and late, in order to make a candied fruit that will enhance a cake or pudding greatly, either the honey dew, or pink fleshed, or perhaps the cantaloupe might be used, but with the honey dew preferred. Now if you try to cook honey dew in plain water it will go all to pieces, but if you soak it in lime water first it will not. The soaking of watermelon in lime water, in preparation for watermelon pickle, instead of using alum, has been taken up and worked out by one of the leading teacher writers in home economics, and we think the method one worth extending and exploiting. Lime water is not the evil thing alum is.

Suppose the melon to be candied is the honey dew. Slice the melon, remove the rind and seeds, and cut into cubes or shapes, as citron melon is cut. Soak the cut melon over night in lime water, using two ounces of powdered and purified lime to a gallon of water. You can buy lime water for less than you can buy the powder the chemical name for which is calcium oxide.

In the morning rinse the melon with clear water and drain. Make a sirup of two parts sugar to one part water. The amount needed will depend upon how much melon there is. There ought to be enough of the sirup to cover the blocks while they are cooking in it slowly for from one-half to three-fourths of an hour, or until the melon becomes transparent or clear. When this happens drain the cooked melon from the sirup, roll each piece in granulated sugar—a fork in each hand will facilitate the work—and dry in the slowest of ovens, or better, in the warming over. The wire pie tins or something of the sort are best, but the tins with a perforated bottom are next best.

Uses of Candied Melon.

This fruit will take flavors and give more of flavor than all but a few of the candied fruits which cost a dollar or a dollar and a half a pound. Try a half cup of it or even a whole cup of it—cut up and well floured—in an ordinary cup cake without any other fruit. You will like it, and you will like that cake better when you make it a part of a cup of fruit filled, for the rest, with raisins and nuts.

The Citron Melon.

The citron melon will keep well into the winter and can be candied when ever something of the sort is required It is a great deal of work and requires a nice experience to make candied fruit that will keep in good condition. A way to have it at any time is to make a preserve of the melon and then it can be drained and dried a day or about for use. In making a candied citron melon the lime water—weak—could be used.

On Eating Cold Melon.

A modern dietitian lists melons and says, "All are appetizing, but a word of caution; if there is any digestive disturbance let the melon go, for the flesh is fibrous and irritating to a delicate stomach." Perhaps that is it, but we have another theory, which refers to the unwholesomeness of a bulk of the chilled stuff. Many people will sneeze inordinately soon after eating chilled watermelon in any amount—and the service used to be a large one—and cantaloupe also may give the same result. It was a sad tale, but delightfully told, about the queen who ate cold melon and died because she did.

And we find this in a beloved book printed 100 years ago: "There is also a small African or Egyptian melon, the flesh of which is green, of particular excellence. Frederick the Great was passionately fond of these melons, and Zimmerman, who attended him in his last illness, finding him very ill from indigestion, discovered that he ate three or four of them daily for breakfast. On remonstrating with the king, the only answer that the physician could get was that the king would send him some of the fruit to taste the next day—as if its excellence would be sufficient apology for the habitual indiscretion."

We think that small boys have great difficulty from being indiscreet when presented with a gloriously large piece of watermelon. But Mr. Southey, in verse, tells how joyfully a boy brought a plugged watermelon. This begins:

"Whither is gone the boy?
He had pierced the melon's pulp,
And clothed with wax the wound."

Results of Jealousy

JEALOUSY—father of doubt, suspicion, and anxiety. We're all acquainted with the monster that smashes love affairs, wrecks homes, causes business quarrels, and generally plays havoc with us mortals. We'd like to know your most notable experience with a jealous person or persons. If you have encountered a situation where jealousy led to a tragic or ridiculous climax, tell us about it. The Tribune will pay $1 for every story published. Address Jealous Editor, Chicago Tribune.

A Modern Delilah.

I had long curls when a tiny lass and a little friend of mine had straight hair. She was so jealous of my curls that one day, after a little quarrel, she took revenge on them. I had fallen asleep in our hammock and when I awoke I was minus half of my prized tresses.

We found them, together with her little shears, under a lilac bush in her garden. When questioned about it she admitted the deed. L. P.

Once Is Enough.

I had secured a comfortable seat on a crowded street car and was engrossed in the paper when I happened to glance up into the fair face of a young woman, whose weary expression promptly bade me get up and offer her my seat.

In the act, a rough hand grasped my shoulder, jerked me around and the owner of the hand, a regular heavyweight, roared "Set down!"

Needless to say, I did so, noticing at the same time, the wedding ring on the woman's finger.

The only kind of the opposite sex who gets my seat now has a baby in her arms or is old enough to be my mother. H. H.

Over a Sock.

At the home of an aunt I met my brother and his bride on their honeymoon.

My new sister-in-law and I were seated on the lawn when my brother approached us with a pair of torn socks and said, "I want each one of you to darn a sock; then I will give a kiss to the one that does the neatest work."

I expected her to get it and, in fact, did not want to win. To my surprise my brother held up a sock and said, "Whose is this?"

It was mine.

My sister-in-law was so jealous she grew red and white in turn and refused to speak to her husband and me the rest of the day. A. H. Z.

Bring Out the Hidden Beauty

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or wrinkled complexion is one fair to look upon? Mercolized Wax will gradually and gently peel off the devitalized surface skin, revealing a new, fresh, white, beautiful skin underneath. The new complexion is a perfectly natural one, therefore in no way to be compared with a make-up. The wax leaves no trace but that of increased loveliness.

A New Skin—Your Own!—at small expense and effort. Simply apply Mercolized Wax at bedtime as you apply cold cream; wash it off in the morning. Fine, almost invisible skin particles are flecked off with the wax. No harm possible. No detention indoors. The lively young, healthy underskin is brought gradually to view—you have the exquisite complexion of robust girlhood—and every one will tell you.

You Look Years Younger—Assist Nature if she needs your help. Obtain an ounce of Mercolized Wax from your druggist or department store, use as directed—and you will bless the day that you made the acquaintance of this wonder working product.

Glossy Hair Ever Curly

By Edna Wallace Hopper

That glow in my hair, that fluff, that wave are not due to a hairdresser. I have no time for that care. They are due to a dressing some famous experts made for me. I call it my Wave and Sheen. That glitter, that curl, that seeming abundance come from using that dress twice a week.

I think every girl and woman will be glad to know it. Your hair's beauty will be doubled in an hour. You will need no more Marcel waves.

All toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 15c. You will find my guarantee with the bottle. It will cost you nothing if it doesn't do what I say. Go try it today.

You know that we can make practically no profit on these sets—Why do we offer such values just as the Radio Season is getting into full swing?

—Because our Founder's Day sale is one of our greatest events of the year, and we are offering values in every department which we want you to remember for years.

—Because we bought these sets before the season opened at a time when the manufacturer would rather see us carry them than to do so himself.

—Because one year ago we conducted a radio sale which added a great amount to our volume of sales in a single day, and our buyer is faced with the problem of beating those figures. He promises that this sale should double his last year's figures in one day! Undoubtedly the sets will sell very fast—so again we say—Come tomorrow—and come early!

We Want You to Note These Facts!

This is not a set made up for this particular sale, but a set of which this well known manufacturer has sold several hundred thousand! The set employs the well known tuned radio frequency—and, combined with the Fleetwood tested accessories, you will get something which will give untold pleasure in your home.

And every accessory we give with the outfit is the same that we give with sets retailing up to $300—genuine highest grade CX 301-A Cunningham tubes, storage battery made by the U. S. Light & Heat Corporation of Buffalo, New York, and the largest size Bristol Audiophone with probably the largest loud speaker unit made. The Fleetwood Laboratories of New York City will not approve any radio apparatus which has not first passed their rigid laboratory test, and everything we sell in our Radio Departments has been submitted to them to be passed upon by scientific machines and instruments so that we may be certain our customers will get absolute satisfaction from the radio products we sell.

Beautiful Hands and How to Acquire Them

by Antionette Donnelly

Well Manicured Nails Are an Essential Part of the Attractive Woman's Appearance.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—It isn't the shine on the nail that counts so much as the condition of the skin at the base of the nail.

A good many women are particular enough over the cleanliness of the finger tips and a luster on the nail itself, but the scrutiny to which hands are subjected today does not allow the minutest detail to escape attention.

I have observed again and again the demand in present day woman of absolute perfection. And this is one of the outstanding reasons why visiting foreigners are impressed so with the beauty of our American women.

Some time back women rouged their faces, for instance, out of one national jar, so to speak. Now, the particular woman knows she has an individual coloring to be studied in connection with her cosmetic purchases. It was the same with powders, creams, shampoos and so on.

This same application of fastidious care is seen in the generally improved appearance of hands in the last few years. Women study the shape of the nail that will improve the look of the fingers. If the nails are naturally stubby, they elongate the nail. If the tip is pointed, round or oval it is to give character to the individual hand. The most striking improvement I detect is in the condition of the cuticle at the base and around the edges of the nail. It is freed of the nail and shaped in perfect ovals on the good looking hands.

In the hygiene of the nails, the first step is to see that everything in the manicure perfectly clean and the hands themselves scrubbed thoroughly clean and dry. This very obvious rule of hygiene is of special importance in the manicure, because the torn and rough places of neglected nails and cuticle germs may wedge their way in and cause infection.

Use warm water, soap, and a nail brush. Scrub the finger tips briskly, particularly under the nail tips and at the nail base, where grime and dirt are apt to cling.

After washing the nails are filed to give the proper shape and length. A long, flexible, steel file is best for this. Use it with even strokes from the base of the nail to the tip. Filing from tip down against the natural grain, causing an unpleasant sensation. File the nail close at the corners to leave it longer at the tip.

Then the emery board is used for the final rounding of the tip and smoothing of the nail edge. The emery board removes the tiny roughness left by the file at the under side of the nail base.

The actual shaping of the nails—pointed, round or oval—is a matter of personal taste and should be decided upon in connection with the shape of the individual hand. For the majority of hands, the oval shape that follows the natural curve of the finger is best. The pointed tip looks a bit unnatural and for a girl who uses a typewriter is impractical. A broken finger tip here and there on a hand is distorting.

Now, for shaping the cuticle, the thing I think is of great importance at the moment. The cuticle, as you know, of course, is the fold of skin at the base of the nail. It is very thin and delicate and should receive careful handling. Upon it really depends the shape of the whole nail.

If neglected, it grows tight to the nail, splits and roughnesses and hangnails are likely to occur. It should be freed from the nail and the old skin removed. There are antiseptic liquids that soften and loosen the cuticle so it can be shaped in perfect ovals.

Dip the orange stick in the liquid after twisting a bit of absorbent cotton around the end of it. Work gently around the nail base and smooth away the rough, uneven, dead cuticle. Wipe these loosened shreds away with a soft towel, pressing the cuticle lightly back each time to shape the rims in nice, even ovals.

Cutting the cuticle with scissors or pushing it back with a metal pusher is not a satisfactory measure as a rule. With the scissors it is hard to escape cutting through to the live cuticle, drawing blood, and causing hangnails.

For the nail tips, pass the orange stick dipped in a nail bleach under them. It is necessary to use some kind of bleach under the nails to rid the parts of the stain and the more stubborn dust and grime that remain there in spite of the scrubbing with a nail brush.

It is wise to use a bit of cold cream or liquid oil under the nail tip and around the base of the nail to keep the cuticle and the flesh under the nail tips soft and pliable. Before polishing the nails, this cream or oil must be wiped off thoroughly. Liquid polishes will not stay on a surface where oil remains.

Even when the nail tips are perfectly clean and free from stains, they are often quite colorless. A little nail whitener is applied with the flat end of the orange stick. Use the tiniest bit. Too much will be lumpy and uneven. Smooth it carefully under the tip itself, keeping it as clear from the flesh as possible. Wipe off any surplus that remains.

Your personal taste will again influence your choice of polish — paste, cake, powder, and liquid. They all give a luster and gloss the nails and some give a pink tint as well as brilliance. A higher brilliance results from the use of two polishes. A paste polish may be superseded by a cake or powder polish. And a liquid polish is often preceded with a powder or cake polish. If any liquid remains from a previous application it should be removed, however.

For cake, paste or powder polish use either a buffer or buff your nails on the fleshy part of the palm. Keep the buffer clean always. You can wash the chamois repeatedly in warm sudsy water and rinse in light suds. If you rinse in clear water it dries too stiffly to be satisfactory for further use. Professional manicurists usually buff in one way only so as not to overheat the nail.

To get a liquid polish on evenly, the trick is to take care to have only a little on the brush and start a trifle away from the cuticle to keep the surface nice and even.

A final washing of the fingers in soapy water is advised to remove traces of the bleach, oil and powder or cake polish. A few strokes of the buffer will restore the polish. When a liquid polish is used this washing should be done just before applying it and the nails carefully dried.

I do not know of anything that subscribes so perfectly to that sense of well being that puts a woman at ease with herself as hands she is proud to show. A manicure takes so comparatively little time for the returns one gets on it that a woman just simply cannot afford to be neglectful at all. As I have already said, we are living in a most particular age where beauty is concerned and by the nature of their usefulness hands have to be exposed to view most of the time.

Beauty Answers By Antionette Donnelly

EMMA T.: Bobbing your hair is not responsible for its present condition. If you allow it to grow again I doubt if it will ever be as long as before you cut it. The peroxide you are using makes it dry and brittle. I should discontinue its use. Wash the hair every two weeks, at least, and brush it every morning and night. Bobbed hair requires just as much attention as long hair, if not more, and if neglected is most discouraging.

VIC: Why not darken the eyebrows with an eyebrow pencil? They may be darkened just as the hair is darkened by the use of dye, but I wouldn't advise your attempting to do this. Such work must be done by a skilled operator, or it may easily be detected. The eyebrow pencil is a much simpler method.

FRANCES J.: For those who are no longer young the safest way to reduce is by dieting, placing the main reliance on dietetic regulation rather than upon exercises. Walking, swimming, and golf are advised, with a precaution that only a moderate amount of exercise should be taken, but be persistent in adhering strictly to a proper diet. If you wish diets, send stamped, addressed envelope repeating your request.

F. M. S.: Foot and ankle exercises, also walking, are found helpful for those suffering from cold feet. It improves circulation. A cold plunge, followed by vigorous rubbing with a turkish towel will stimulate the circulation, also. Send along a stamped, addressed envelope for the exercises.

EDNA: For brittle nails, soak them every night in olive oil which has been slightly warmed. Put sufficient oil in a cup to cover the finger tips, and allow them to remain there for about ten minutes. Use the same oil several times.

ART P.: A weak solution of bicarbonate of soda and common salt makes an excellent mouth wash. Use a teaspoonful of each to a quart of water. The lime mouth wash is also recommended. Send stamped, addressed envelope for instructions on how to make it.

A FRIEND IN NEED
by Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friends in deed and the friends in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

USE FOR OUTGROWN CLOTHES.

VACATION is over and the children are back at school, and how they've grown since last spring!

They've been given new suits, new coats, and new shoes, and they trudge off eyes and cheeks aglow with the touch of September for another year of school.

But what of the clothes: the suits, the dresses, and shoes the little ones have outgrown? Throughout the city are thousands of boys and girls starting off to school who lack new clothes. Their garments are threadbare and utterly inadequate to keep out the nip of early fall. Their parents—fathers who've been ill, perhaps widowed mothers—are unable to provide for their little ones.

Won't the clothes your children discarded be just the thing? I'm certain you'll find among the discarded articles many that still have long usefulness left in them. The children outgrew them, perhaps, before the clothes were worn out. Frayed edges can be turned in to make an excellent garment for a younger child. Shoes may be half soled, thereby helping considerably.

Please take stock right now, and I'm sure you can help. We have many requests, and your children's outgrown garments will help tremendously. So look them over, let me know what you can give—and we'll have these poor children outfitted and ready for school in the coming winter before the week is out.

Offers Phonograph Records.

"I have several phonograph records I would be pleased to give to any one who would care to have them.

"C. E. D."

One never has too many phonograph records and if you'd like to increase your supply our correspondent will be glad to give you these.

Do You Need These Slippers.

"I have a pair of almost new patent leather slippers, size 5½ C, with 3 inch heels, which I will gladly give to some one who can wear them.

"MRS. A. E. W."

If these slippers are in your size and you need a pair, let me know. I'll be glad to put you in touch with the donor.

Pets to Give.

"My mother has three darling kittens and two cute puppies. If any little boys and girls would like to have them we'll be glad to give them away if they will have good homes. T. B."

This offer seems to be for our young readers. How would you like to have one of these dear little pets, boys and girls?

Spreading Joy.

"I belong to a club but it has only four members. We are all going to make doll clothes and toys and would like to give them to some poor children who haven't any toys. L. L."

These are generous children, indeed, to be so thoughtful of their less fortunate brothers and sisters! Would you like to have the toys they are making?

A Kindly Offer.

"My husband is a sewing machine man and will gladly fix up a machine for any one who is in need of one and cannot afford to buy it.

"MRS. W. S. H."

This machine would probably solve a big problem for some mother with small children. Write in for it at once if you can make use of it.

A Seamstress Could Use These.

"I have goods which could be used by some mother who sews—a plaited skirt, suit, and other pieces.

"MRS. B. K. G."

These pieces would make suitable school clothes for the children and if you are a fairly good seamstress they might be a big help to you.

Asks for Health Magazines.

"I have been a tuberculosis patient at this sanitarium for the last eleven months and would like to know if any of your readers have any health magazines they have no further use for.

"F. K."

If you've finished with your health magazines why not send them to this patient? He'd appreciate having them.

You Can Help.

"My children are all in need of clothing and shoes—especially coats—for school. They are girls, 8, 10, and 12. I am also in need of a heater, one or two beds, and floor covering of any kind. I had to leave my husband a few months ago and my oldest boy and girl are the sole support of the family. E. S."

Can you be of any assistance to these people in their need? If you are discarding any of the above articles you can relieve their burden greatly.

Alone and Old.

"An elderly woman, unable to support herself, is in need of clothing. She wears size 40 or 42 and shoes size 6. Do you think your readers might be able to help her? L. W."

This woman is absolutely alone and is too old to take care of herself. Can you help her? She'd appreciate so much any discarded clothing you might have in the size she wears.

In Need of Aid.

"Mrs. S. has been left alone to support herself and two children. She has taken a small flat, but has no furniture for it. Could you get for her a dresser, beds, and anything else she might be able to use? She will have to go to the hospital herself in a short time and is also in need of gowns, a warm robe, and slippers. MRS. N."

This poor woman is having a hard struggle caring for her little family and making a home for them. She is not well enough to work, herself, and will appreciate any assistance you may be able to give her.

Shouldering a Heavy Burden.

"My husband deserted me three months ago and left me with three children. They are all in need of underwear and clothing for school. There are two boys, 3 and 5, and girl, 7. I'd appreciate anything you could get for them. MRS. E. M."

It's a heavy burden this mother is shouldering alone, but perhaps we can help a little with the clothing our children can no longer wear.

Widow Needs a Coat.

"I am a widow and in need of a coat. I work but it takes all my money to keep my home together and so I can't buy any clothing. I wear size 46, and shoes, size 7. Anything in the line of clothing will be appreciated. "MRS. B. M."

I am sure there are a number of wardrobes with clothing to fit this widow. Take an inventory and see if there won't be an article or two to spare for her.

Doris Blake's Answers TO LOVE PROBLEMS

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped addressed envelope.

Her Mistake.

"Dear Miss Blake: I went with a fellow six months. Then we had an argument and broke up. Now I am so heartbroken I could cry when I see him. It was my fault. What can I do to make up? GLORIA."

It has taken you quite some time to realize your mistake, and I'm afraid you've waited too long. By this time he has made other friends and forgotten, don't you think?

Out of Luck.

"Dear Miss Blake: There is a girl whom I put my whole heart and mind on. I really love her. I have written to her twice and she answered once and will not answer the second one. What can I do. J. M."

You're out of luck, J. M. You can't force her to answer your letters and her failure to do so indicates her interest has died.

Take a Chance.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young girl of 18 and go with a fellow, although I am not engaged to him. I would like to go with others, also, but would not want to lose him.

"BRIGHT EYES."

Take a chance, Bright Eyes. He'll stick around if he likes you well enough. If not, you'll find others you like just as well or better.

Up to Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend, who is now on his vacation has asked me to correspond with him during the summer. It is already three weeks since he went away and I have not even received a card. DOO-DOO."

Let him be the one to break the silence.

Change Your Tactics.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a boy who I am sure cares for me, although he is ignorant of my feelings towards him. We have had a quarrel and he seems to avoid me. Outwardly I dislike him, but deep down in my heart I would like to have him back. What shall I do? TOWHEAD."

Your indifference will get you nothing, Towhead. He'll find girls who know how to treat him, who will be pleasant and encouraging in their manner. Change your tactics if you wish to hold him, dear.

NEEDED INVENTIONS

Strange Weddings

Have you ever seen a wedding outlandish that it upset all the ideas of the traditional ceremony? Some marriages are design and quaint in their adherence to ancient customs; others are ultra-modern in their haphazard speed and unconventionality. The Tribune would like to have the story of the strangest wedding you've ever seen. We will pay $1 for every letter published. Address Strange Weddings Editor, Chicago Tribune.

Making It Gay.

The strangest wedding I have ever seen was one in which a successful merchant got married. Preceded by the bridal party was a band of men blowing trumpets and beating drums. The men wore red jackets with gold braided frogs, while the bridal party was dressed in white.

M. J. E.

A Freakish Setting.

The strangest wedding I ever saw, and hope to see, was solemnized on the fifth rung of a ladder at the entrance of a small cave in an Indiana village. Below a large sign over the cave entrance which read, "He who hesitates is lost." I presume the power of suggestion played a strong part in choice of such a freakish setting for a wedding.

R. E. A.

On the Eve of War.

The wedding which I shall never forget took place in July, 1914, in Austria, one day after Austria's declaration of war to Serbia. Fifty-two couples formed a horseshoe with the minister standing in the center.

After a touching sermon of a few minutes' duration he pronounced these couples married. They hardly had time to give each other the bridal kiss when the martial trumpet sounded, calling the grooms to their places in the ranks.

I hope I shall never witness such a heart breaking sight again.

R. K.

A Small Affair.

A carnival came to our town a few years ago. Among the actors were two midgets—Filipinos.

I was working in a tailor shop, and the male midget came in and was measured for a suit of clothes. He measured 21 inches in height and wore a No. 2 infant size shoe. When the suit was finished he told us it was his wedding clothes and asked us to the nuptials.

We assembled in the tent, the musician played the wedding march. The manager, weighing about 180 pounds, gave the bride away—she sitting on his arm.

She was only 20 inches tall and she wore a real wedding outfit, lace veil, orange blossoms, and all. When they met at the altar, the minister, a tall man, stooped, picked them up and stood them on the table.

Thus they were married. The player swung into a waltz, and the tiny couple danced for us and then sang a song. Then the manager took one in each arm, walked over to the stand, and told everybody to "order up."

F. C. L.

Time Off to Wed.

He was the son of a wealthy but miserly farmer. She was a maid in their family. We had heard that wedding bells were to ring, and on account of the miserly reputation of the father, were prepared for almost anything, but not quite.

The season had been late. Plough-in was long overdue and all hands, even the women were at it. The minister lived at some distance, and transportation was poor so he could not tell to the minute when he would arrive, but he had been given orders to ring the dinner bell, which he did.

Hurriedly all hands appeared from the field, washed up in the same basin, patted down their hair and then stood around while the bride and groom plighted their troth. After the ceremony, all hands went back into the fields.

L. P.

At Death's Gates.

A marriage ceremony may be ridiculous or it may be sublime.

As a nurse in a hospital I answered the emergency bell to admit two patients who had been in an automobile accident. The first stretcher carried the young woman, fatally injured, and following was the man to whom she was to have been married the next day.

The minor injuries of the man permitted him to stand at the bedside of his dying fiancée, the next morning, to fulfil their promise of marriage, and say "until death do us part," knowing that death was near.

The solemnity and holiness of that ceremony can never be questioned.

Mothers! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at once and you will help to prevent real sickness.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine, the more it shocks the system, so most parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian Senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Always keep a bottle of Syrup Pepsin in the family medicine chest. Give it to any one from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients, which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels open.

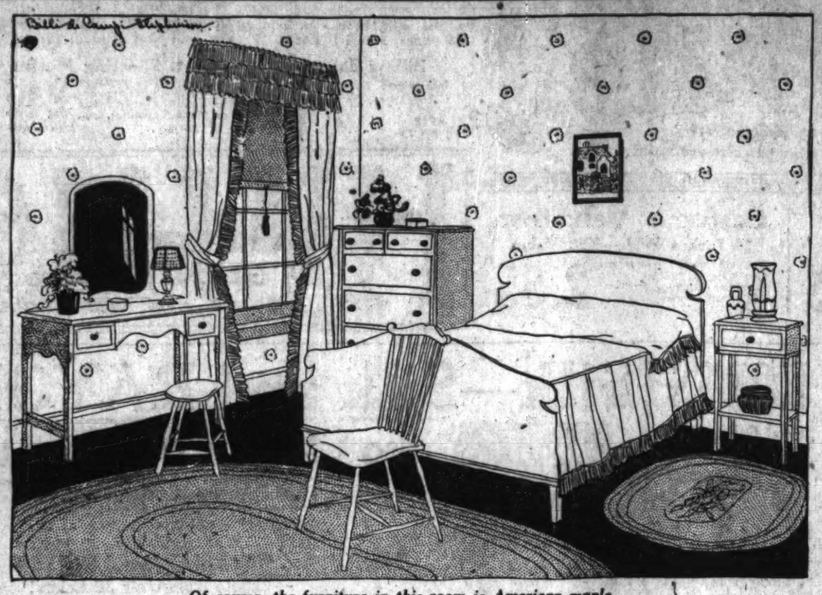
The HOME HARMONIOUS
by Anita de Campi

Simplicity, Quality and Artistic Worth Make the Furniture Our Forefathers Used as Appropriate Today as It Was in the Eighteenth Century

Anita de Campi will be glad to assist the homemaker in any problems pertaining to home building and home furnishing. Address your letter to Anita de Campi, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped addressed envelope for personal reply.



Of course, the furniture in this room is American maple.

WITH its charm of simplicity, the early American style of furnishing successfully expresses good taste and quiet effectiveness. We of the present day are becoming more and more appreciative of the fine qualities of decoration attained by the early American craftsmen. We strive to furnish our homes as those of old were furnished with the comfortable addition, of course, of modern conveniences. As a result, many interesting and delightful interiors are planned today along the lines of 17th and 18th century Americs. One lovely little house which has just been completed is decorated and furnshed throughout in this style.

Walls in the living room are gracefully paneled and painted a pale green, as is the woodwork. In the space above the mantel shelf, a group of silhouettes, cleverly arranged, shows to advantage against this pale green background. At one side of the fireplace a wing chair upholstered in black glazed chintz, sprinkled with tiny roses. A wrought iron reading lamp with an adjustable bracket and an accordion plaited, corn yellow shade bound with green, accompanies the wing chair. At the opposite side of the fireplace, a Chippendale chair is supplemented by a drop leaf table which holds a jade green lamp base, rated with old flower prints, and a pair of old book ends with several interesting books. A high boy, with brass hardware, graces one corner of the room.

Against the wall, across from the fireplace, is an old-fashioned sofa, done in deep green velvet. Two little end tables hold green glass lamps with white parchment shades. At each side of the davenport is a window, and in the two corners beyond these are hanging corner shelves on which odd pieces of old china are displayed. Between two more windows, in another wall, is a secretary desk with a ladder-back, rush-bottom chair. A mahogany flip-top table in the corner holds a gay bowl of flowers, a decorative wooden box and a glass lamp, with a parchment shade. Besides it is an arm chair done in green and gray denim. At the windows are narrow wooden cornices, painted to match the walls. Draperies of glazed chintz showing tiny flowers on a pale green ground hang to the floor and are caught back just above the sill, over green glass knobs. Glass curtains are not used. Hooked rugs add a note of interest.

In the adjoining dining room, woodwork and wainscoting are painted ivory. In the upper walls a plain ivory paper is used, with a decorative paper border just above the wainscoting around the windows and below the picture molding. This makes an unwith a yellow parchment shade decousual and pleasing effect. Window draperies of honey colored taffeta are drawn together at the top and caught back, quite high up, by green glass knobs. The furniture is brown mahogany, with chair seats upholstered in ruby red damask. On the buffet and dining table are green glass candlesticks and candelabra fitted with ivory white candles, and green glass bowls filled with gayly colorful flowers.

A glazed sun porch at one side of the dining room has been made into the most charming breakfast room. Where the wall space is not taken up by windows it is done in a chintz paper. The woodwork is natural pine. In front of the corner windows narrow shelves have been built, on which a collection of old glass is displayed. The light shining through these many colored pieces of glass creates a most fairy-like effect. The furniture is made and consists of a drop leaf table, little rush bottom chairs, a serving stand and a lowboy.

Shown in today's illustration is the main bedroom. Walls are done in an old fashioned flowered paper with a white ground, and the woodwork is painted white. All of the furniture is that glowing golden maple which is in such favor today. The window draperies and bed cover are of organdy in the same shade of golden brown as is the wood of the furniture. They are finished with accordion plaited ruffles of the same material, and valances at the windows are made of three depths of these plaited ruffles. Lamp shades on the glass, dresser lamp, and on an iron reading lamp beside a comfortable wing chair in one corner of the room are of tiny figured calico. Braided rugs on the floor are done in blue, brown, and white.

Another bedroom has a white wall paper marked off in small diamonds by means of fine, amethyst cross lines. The woodwork is painted white. Furniture is brown mahogany and includes, among other things, a four post bed and a commodious chest on chest. On the bed is a lovely old pieced quilt, which reaches to the floor at each side and covers the pillows, too. It is done in a colorful star pattern. Hooked rugs are used on the floor. At the windows are brass cornices, and from beneath them hang draperies of amethyst poplin, lined with white. These hang to the floor and are caught back at the sills by brass knobs.

The guest room is beautifully done. Woodwork is ivory and the walls are covered with an ivory paper flowered with little tulips in soft blue, rose, yellow, and mauve, with pale green leaves. All of the furniture is brown mahogany. On the twin four post beds are deep flounced covers of ash rose silk rep, piped with mauve. Window draperies match these covers. A little dressing table is fitted with a full, double flounce of the same material. On a stand between the beds is an old fashioned glass lamp, electrically equipped and fitted with a parchment shade stained pink and finished with bands of mauve. Ash rose wool chenille rugs are used on the floor.

ISN'T IT ODD
by William Atherton DuPuy

ISN'T it odd that one should be able to buy an ounce of moth eggs and from them raise himself ten pounds of silk? Yet this can be done if one but follows the rules of silk worm culture, one of the oldest industries under the sun.

One buys silkworm eggs out of cold storage as he would any other eggs. When he wants them to hatch he exposes them to the natural warmth of spring, or puts them in an incubator. The ounce of eggs should hatch out into some 40,000 young ones.

These caterpillers are tiny at first, and hungry. A piece of paper is spread over them, a paper full of holes through which they can barely crawl. Mulberry leaves are put on top of the paper. Soon the whole colony is upstairs converting this apartment into a stable for livestock.

When all the food is gone another sheet of paper is spread over the scene. It is a bigger piece of paper with bigger holes in it, allowing for the growth of the herd. Another meal of mulberry leaves is provided. The silkworms come up again to gorge themselves. The first moss hall, not so clean as it once was, is taken away and burned.

These domestic animals are thus led from one stable to another as they grow. In the end each worm is three inches long and to accommodate the 40,000 a space must be provided that is 60 times as great as was that with which the start was made.

The time has now come for the spinning of the cocoons. Each of the 40,000 sets about squeezing little pots of glue that are within him. The glue is forced through tiny holes in the worm's head and hardens into thread as it strikes the air. The worm moving its head about as the thread comes out, winds itself up in its cocoon.

The silkworm farmer must now sacrifice the lives of these little creatures he has so carefully reared. It is the silk of these cocoons he wants and if he waits for the moths to come out, they will cut it to pieces. So he puts the cocoons in trays and bakes them.

He then soaks the cocoons in warm water to soften them and unwinds the silk from them as though they were so many spools of thread. He is likely to get some ten pounds of it as the harvest from an ounce of eggs.

Only a few moths are allowed to come out of the cocoons and lay their eggs on a sheet of muslin for next year's crop. These little moths cannot fly. They have been man's domestic animals for 5,000 years and he has bred them into that helplessness which best serves his purpose. They never move more than a foot or two, lay their eggs and die.

CHEEKIEST PERSON I EVER MET

Send us a short, to the point, reminiscence of the cheekiest person you ever met, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. All letters must be addressed to the Cheekiest Person Editor, The Tribune, Chicago.

A Birthday Gift.

One day a girl acquaintance borrowed two dollars from me. It happened to be a few days before her birthday. I hadn't known her very long so I never thought to give her a present.

I waited a long time for my two dollars, but as she didn't seem to have any idea of paying them back I decided to borrow the same amount from her. On one occasion I borrowed one dollar. I didn't pay it back and at the end of two weeks she asked for it. I then told her she hadn't yet paid back the two dollars and she replied, "O, I considered that a birthday present."

H. G. M.

Give and Take.

The cheekiest person I know is a girl who gave my sister a beautiful pillow for a Christmas present and my sister gave her a nice present in return. She borrowed the pillow to show to another friend and never brought it back.

MRS. H. J.

Borrowed.

One evening in the spring a friend who lived in the country was calling on me. When it came time for her to go home I offered her my winter coat, as it had turned cool. Spring passed, summer came and passed, and I heard no more of my coat.

When it began to get cold I thought of it and told my sister I'd get it and she could make it up for one of her children.

I phoned and received this startling reply: "O, I gave that to my cleaning woman to wear home one night when it was cold, but I'll get it for you and you can have it cleaned and it will be all right."

L. L.

Charging It on the Bill.

I ordered a dozen oranges from the grocer, and when they arrived, I noticed that there were only eleven. I called up and complained about it. "How is it," I asked, "that you have only sent eleven?"

"Well, ma'am," explained the grocer, "one of them was so bad, that I took the liberty of throwing it away for you."

E. C. A.

Undoing the Good.

My young son, 8 years old, found a bicycle left on the field after a ball game. He was so pleased, but we said, "It belongs to some one else and they will advertise for it." They did—and offered a reward of $5. It was a well known business man and he could well afford the money, but we thought it a good chance to teach the boy a lesson of "To do as he would be done by," and so we convinced him much against his will that half of that would be plenty, as long as the bicycle belonged to the other boy, anyway.

The man thanked my son and said, "Here, bud, here's a dollar for you."

Instead of my teaching a lesson in morals, he taught a lesson in dishonesty.

K. G.

When Words Fail.

The cheekiest person I ever met was a girl in my Sunday school class. For Christmas she gave my sister and me each a story book. One Sunday morning she called us up and asked us to bring them for a sick friend of hers, and if we had some other good books to bring them, too.

We brought them and two others besides. A few months later she told us she had just finished reading them and so had her friend, and that they were good.

She also told us that her brother had sold them with some of his books to help pay for a bicycle he was going to get, and that she knew we wouldn't mind because we had read them.

E. C.

Plenty of Money.

One evening last summer while my wife and I were attending a band concert a man who formerly lived in the same rooming house with us approached us and said his wife was away and that he was "baching."

Then he said he was hungry and asked us if we could give him something to eat.

Thinking that he was broke, we asked him to our home, just a couple of blocks from the park, and set before him what was left from our evening meal. He ate everything in sight.

Later in the evening, as we were passing a drug store, he said he wanted a smoke. I went in the store with him and, much to my surprise, he pulled out a roll of money and ordered two ten cent cigars. He lighted one of them and put the other one in his pocket.

M. R. C.

That Was That!

One of my neighbors borrowed six cups and saucers from me for a luncheon. The next day she returned five cups and saucers; informing me that she broke one of the cups and kept the saucer, as I would have no use for the odd saucer, and she also informed me where I could buy another set to match mine.

BRIGHT SAYINGS of HUSBANDS & WIVES

The snappy comeback of the better half when cornered has often been a source of wonder to husbands and wives! The husband or the wife has come across with a bright saying that will never be forgotten by the other half of the matrimonial sketch. What was that bright saying, Mr.? Mrs.? Send it to us, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. Address Bright Sayings of Husbands and Wives, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Honest.

Some friends of ours wanted hubby and me to go with them to a dance and we agreed to do so. On second consideration I found lots of reasons why I didn't want to go.

We walked over to our friends' home to tell them we would not go. Before I had a chance to break the news to them diplomatically, hubby blurts out: "We are not going to your dance. My wife has changed our minds."

A. E. H.

Once Was Enough.

Mrs. N. Peck—"I never spoke a cross word to my wife but once."

Thompson — "Quite remarkable, that."

Mr. N. Peck—"Not so very. See that scar?"

S. A. E.

Setting an Example.

My wife said to my small son at the breakfast table, "Why don't you be a good little boy?"

"I'll be a good little boy if you give me a nickle," was my son's reply.

Then my wife piped up, "Why don't you be good for nothing like your father?"

W. B.

Holding His Own.

A friend came to call on my husband and me. I was not in the room when he came, but entered later, greeted the friend, and, seeing no chair handy, I just rested for a moment on my husband's knee.

Just then the friend, who was going on to visit a friend of my husband's some distance away, turned to him and said, "What shall I tell Dick for you, Melvin?"

To which my husband replied, "O, tell him I'm holding my own."

I. P.

O, Yes He Had!

Mrs. W. [angrily]: "You have no excuse for staying out so late."

Mr. W.: "Haven't I? Whatcha s'pose I've been standing at the corner thinkin' 'bout for the last half hour?"

S. A. E.

And Teachers Get Them.

Friend wife came to breakfast with a starched old fashioned dress on.

Friend husband said, "I've seen old fashioned pictures that looked like you do now!"

F. W. snapped back, "I've seen pictures like you, too. They give them out the 14th of February."

G. W. C. B.

Fiction.

Hubby (as wife boards train for the country)—Will you take some fiction to read?

Wife—No, I'll depend on your letters from home.

$5 Apiece for Bright Sayings

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Sonny, aged 6, was calling on some neighbors. A visitor asked him if he had any sisters, and he replied he had two.

He was then asked if he had any brothers, and replied, "No, I'm the only brother, except I have a dog."

D. P. C.

Lucy's family had rather bad luck on the vacation trip in that they struck a road with an unusual number of detours. When they got home one of her playmates called and said, "Where did you go this year?"

"Oh, just mostly back and forth," said Lucy.

E. L. R.

Margaret, aged 7, after carefully inquiring the duties of officers, organized a club of her playmates. Her mother one day, coming in upon a meeting of this club, noticed that one little girl was holding the clock in front of her face.

"You had better put that down," said the mother.

"She has to have it!" exclaimed Margaret. "She is the secretary, and she's keeping the minutes."

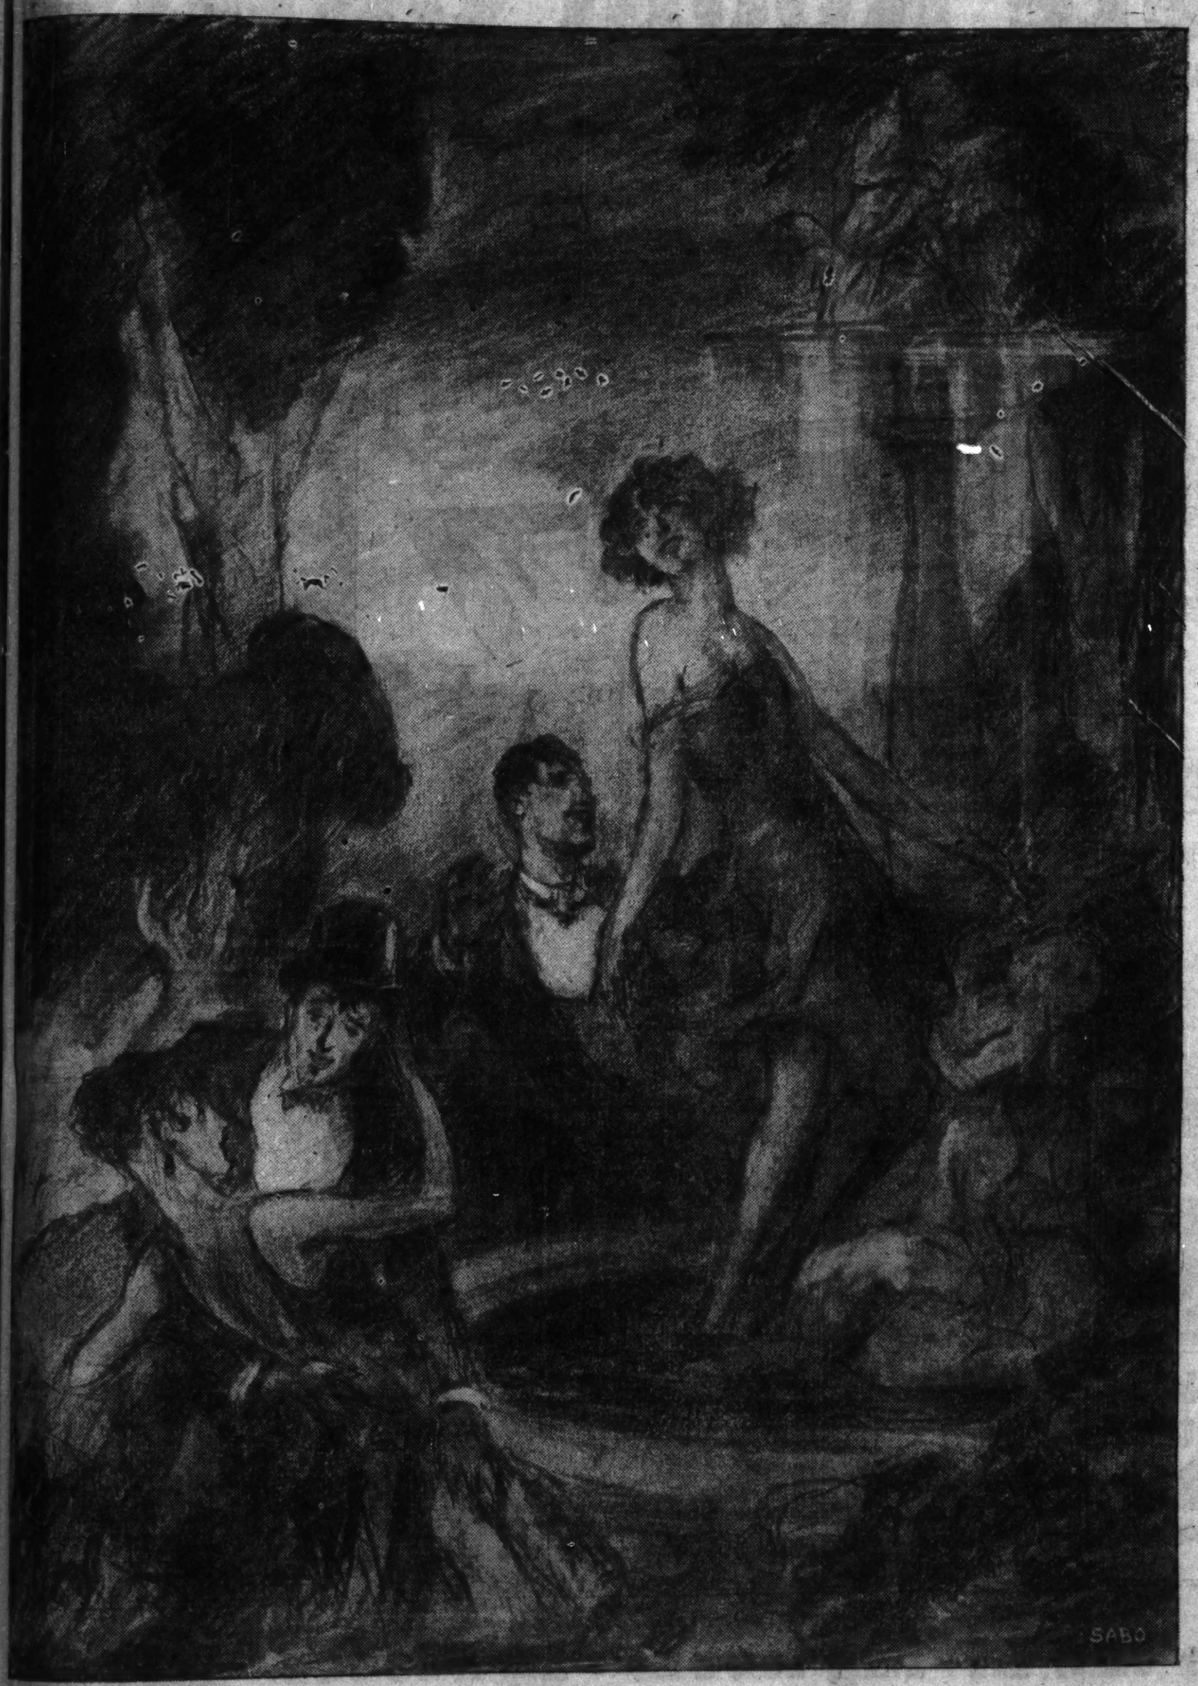
Black Butterflies



....Again the four companions had been cabareting... "I dare you take bash in fountain your fron' lawn," Chad had said unsteadily...Brilliant inspiration!—Dorinda, flimsy frock flying, had gaily carried out the dare. Such was hilarity among the "Black Butterflies"—it was great talk for the town.....

by

ELIZABETH JORDAN

Dorinda Maxwell had been repressed all her young life. But at last, as this new Tribune daily serial starts, she begins the pursuit of happiness—with a vengeance. And she has the money to carry out her wild program. . . . . .

So we find Dorinda doing nearly everything that a nice young lady is supposed not to do—the night club at midnight, the fountain bath in the garden at dawn, the roadhouse for breakfast, the wayside police station on the journey home. Dorinda leads a reckless pace for the Black Butterflies—and wonders a little why some of her old friends neglect her.

Here is a fascinating story, with action and romance—hilarious parties, speeding, daring and dancing—and then love—the greatest adventure of all. You'll be interested in the unique method this heroine employs to continue her gayeties without scandal, and the unexpected consequences.

Read this story of youth and freedom. It starts next Sunday in the rotogravure magazine section and continues with an enticing chapter every day thereafter in The Tribune. Elizabeth Jordan's last daily serial in The Tribune, "The Lady of Pentlands," was one of the most popular of Tribune daily serials. This story is even more charming. Look for the opening installment next Sunday!

News of the Great Salzburg Festival

By Edward Moore.

To Irving Schwerké, who is doing the European gadding for the music department this summer, is presented the head of the column this morning. Mr. Schwerké, in case you have missed his previous accounts of doings on the continent, is the musical critic of the Paris edition of THE TRIBUNE.

MAX REINHARDT
Producer of plays at the Salzburg music festival.

SALZBURG, Aug. 14.—The Salzburg festival of plays, operas, and concerts opened on Aug. 7 with a concert of sacred music. The festival ends on Aug. 29. The repertory includes "Everyman," a German mystery play staged by Max Reinhardt; "The Bat," operetta by Johann Strauss; a series of chamber music concerts given respectively by the Rosé String quartet, Oscar Ziegler (New York pianist), Rozsi Varady (New York 'cellist), Richard Mayr (Viennese basso), wind orchestra of Vienna State Opera; Hans Duhan (Viennese baritone); Johann Koncz (Budapest violinist); Vienna Philharmonic orchestra concerts conducted by Clemens Kraus, Bruno Walter, and Franz Schalk; historical sacred music concerts; "La Serva Padrona," by Pergolesi; "Ariadne auf Naxos," by Richard Strauss (conducted by the composer); "Elopement from the Seraglio," by Mozart; ballets of Gluck and Mozart, and lastly, "Servant of Two Masters" and "Turandot," both Max Reinhardt productions.

Weather permitting, "Everyman" is given in open air, on the cathedral steps. The operas and operettas are given in the Stadttheater, the chamber music concerts in the Mozarteum, the orchestral concerts and Reinhardt productions in the new Festspielhaus. The latter, which is hardly finished, covers a vast area. It has a large, barnlike auditorium with uncomfortable seats and defective acoustics, and a foyer the walls of which are covered with some of the most hideous decorations (so called modern) to be seen anywhere in Europe. As seen from the names already quoted, the performances are conducted and interpreted by reputed personalities, one or two of whom are among the highest in their professions.

Three Performances Stand Out.

Thus far three performances have stood out from the rest. First, "Turandot." It is a Max Reinhardt staging of five acts of Gozzi, rendered into German by Karl Vollmoeller, with incidental music based on time honored pieces of Chinese melodies by Bernard Paumgartner. Turandot is played by Helene Thimig, Prince Kalaf by Lothar Mundel. The sprightliest measures of the musical score are Daquin's "Cuckoo." The comedy of the play is occasionally feeble and low. The chief interest of the performance is in its presentation. The costumes, settings, and lighting are splendidly realized and forever pleasure the eye. It is interesting to note that many of the features of modern German stage lighting science, as they are everywhere else, are the direct descendants of the principles which the American dancer, Loie Fuller, was the first to enunciate and to put into practice.

The success of "The Bat" increases with each representation. The artists are good singers and comedians, and with Bruno Walter conducting, the score is a sheer delight. In other evening of sparkle is provided when are put on "Don Juan" pantomime ballet by Gluck; "La Serva Padrona" by Pergolesi, and "Les Petits Riens," ballet by Mozart. The three are directed by Franz Schalk. In "La Serva Padrona," Richard Mayr (Dr. Pandolfo), Elisabeth Neumann (Serbine), and Victor Madin (Scapin), are as merry trio as could be desired.

Crowds of tourists arrive here every day to attend the festival and to enjoy the charm of quaint old Salzburg (ecclesiastical as the birthplace of Mozart) and of surrounding mountains and neighboring lakes. It must be admitted that the atmosphere is not what it used to be. It can hardly be called artistic. The artistic atmosphere which has hitherto distinguished and endeared the Salzburg festivals seems to have given way to a grasping commercialism. The administrative organization of the festival needs perfecting, and the townfolk (special reference to hotels, tradespeople, etc.) need to learn that festival and holdup are not necessarily synonymous terms. Unless something happens quickly to change the attitude of commercialism now reigning in Salzburg and spelling the visit of all sensible people here sojourning, the festival will cease to be an artistic manifestation and turn into nothing more dignified than a money making scheme. Tourists naturally expect to pay high prices in festival towns, but in their anxiety to make hay while the sun shines, the Salzburgers are forgetting to create the atmosphere of cordiality and welcome on which a festival so largely depends for its success.

Defining the Role of Operatic Conductor.

Would you know a bit about the functions of that much misunderstood man, the operatic conductor? Read, then, how Henry G. Weber, he of the Chicago Civic Opera company, conceives of his job:

"I can readily understand that many may ask themselves the question, just what is a conductor, and why is a conductor?

"It is a question that is asked every day in the week by people of musical understanding. For that matter—and I am not entirely in jest—it is sometimes asked by opera singers.

"The operatic conductor is a good deal like the umpire at a baseball game, very useful, but not particularly popular at any quarter.

"The common understanding is that the conductor's function is to regulate the time of the orchestra. That is a huge mistake! He is the great correlating medium that coordinates the efforts of the entire artistic personnel and molds them in a complete and balanced whole. There is no phase of an operatic performance that falls to visit some responsibility on him.

A Common Error.

"The greatest mistake commonly made in estimating conductors is to associate them with accompanists. This is all wrong—it is the very antithesis of fact. The term 'leader,' commonly applied to a conductor, aptly defines his function. He controls and inspires and draws out of the orchestra of nearly one hundred men everything that they have to give to the performance, and he leads the singer through anticipating the latter—not by following as an accompanist does. The tempo is established long before the performance and it is the function of the director to hold it concurred, on both sides of the footlights, to that tempo.

"This does not mean, as is sometimes stated in perfectly good faith, that the conductor is a cair and that one and all must 'follow the stick,' referring to his baton. The conductor studies the singer, learns his or her possibilities and their color and acts accordingly, but always with the knowledge that he is an interpreter and not a creator. He is there primarily to carry out the wishes and the intentions of the composer. It is up to him to determine what liberties may be taken—and singers never cease their attempt to take liberties with the written score!

"The simplest, most easily understood description of his function is to liken the conductor to a lawyer. The latter devotes himself to interpreting the purpose of the lawmakers; the conductor or director likewise seeks to execute the purposes of the composer, who, often enough, is long since dead.

"Singers are prone to be selfish. They cannot help it, for their thought very naturally centers upon personal

THIS PICTURE RANKS WITH THE GREATEST

"VARIETY"

Produced by UFA. Released through Paramount. Written and directed by E. A. Dupont. Presented at the Roosevelt theater tomorrow.

THE CAST.

Boss ..... Emil Jannings
Bertha ..... Lya de Putti
Artinelli ..... Warwick Ward

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!

I wish I hadn't eaten my cake, because then I would still have my cake to eat! Meaning—"Variety" is so good I wish the pleasure of seeing it for the first time were still in store for me.

It is an all around bellringer. Marvelous acting. Brilliant direction. Gripping story. Settings to remember always. Never to be forgotten detail. Thrilling mob scenes and poignant personal "bits" that get you where you live. And such camera work as I think you have never seen before. It is simply immense!

EMIL JANNINGS
is at his best in "Variety."

Taking it for granted that you are not a trapezist—most of us aren't—the photographer of "Variety" makes you one. High up over a black and swaying mass, topped with pin points of light—the mass being the huge audiences at the Winter Garden's Variety show in Berlin, and the points of lights the electric lamps lighting the place—you find yourselves leaping, falling, being thrown and caught—somersaulting in midair. The breath catches in your throat. Your palms are cold and wet. Your scalp prickles, and a chill, damp, mausoleum-like breeze seems to be blowing through you as, heart just about stopped, you go hurtling through the air, and——

THAT scene is over, thank the Lord, and you're still alive! Just so does the wizard photographer of "Variety" make you live with the characters of the story. His name is Carl Freund, and he is a genius and he should start a school.

Two Reels Are Cut Out.

This version of "Variety" is only the six reel version. "The eight reel one," a movie man told me, "would never have got by the censors. You see," he said, "she is not his wife——!"

That's all he told me, but I found out some more.

In the two reels that were cut out you see the hero married to his real wife, who has always worked with him. The girl, Bertha, is only a protégé.

The girl develops beauty and attractiveness. The wife, on the other hand, begins to ail, and loses, finally, health and looks. Before she dies the affair between her husband and the ward is well under way, and when she has gone Bertha becomes the partner of the Boss, who adores her.

She isn't his wife, but, well—the six reeler sort of gives you the idea she is, and as the idea doesn't spoil the story, here's telling you about the six reeler.

"Variety" is a drama of the show world. Its three principal characters are a huge ace aerialist—Boss—his supple, sloe eyed, black haired childish partner—and sweetheart . . . Bertha, and Artinelli, famous acrobatic star.

Convict 28 tells the story of Boss and Bertha and Artinelli.

At Last Boss Tells His Story.

Convict 28 is—Boss—who, after many years in the penitentiary, where he has been sentenced for life, is recommended for pardon and is brought before the warden to tell, if he will, his story. Through all that dreary time he has been a silent man. Neither prosecution nor sentence could force him to answer the charge against him.

"Now," the warden tells him, "your name is up for pardon. WON'T you take me into your confidence? I feel that you have been wronged. Will you tell me why you did what you did, and the circumstances leading up to your act?"

Convict 28 lifts his heavy head, and, looking straight ahead out of leaden eyes—talks.

This is what the warden learns: Boss and Bertha had a trapeze act that lent great distinction to the small carnival company with which they traveled. Both the big man and the little girl were skilled and fearless performers. And Boss loved the warm, wistfully appealing, gay, and acquiescent Bertha with a love that was nothing short of adulation.

Nothing was too much for him to do for her, no task too small nor menial. After the act he would gather her up like a baby and, taking her back to their quarters, minister to her with the most touching care and tenderness.

The small, hot body must first be vigorously dried, or Bertha would take cold. Then the child must rest. Flat on her back on the cot Boss would place her and, while she lay there, stretching luxuriously like a little cat, he would busy himself preparing food. This he would carry to her, feeding her, if Bertha felt disinclined to exert herself over knife and fork.

So it was with everything, and you will find something infinitely pathetic in the blind worship and unselfish devotion of this big, common fellow for his fragile trapeze mate.

This Villain's a Shrewd One.

One day, to the lot where the show was playing, came the great Artinelli—champion trapeze worker, at loose ends and exceedingly low in his mind. Because of the death of his partner he faced the loss of a sensational and profitable engagement at the Winter Garden.

"But get another partner," some one urged. Artinelli shook his mournful Italian head. No use looking. The deceased was the only one capable of appearing with the great Artinelli. Or so thought Artinelli. Until, on this lot he spied Bertha.

"Who," Artinelli asked, "is that?"

"That," he was informed, "is Bertha, trapezist, partner of Boss."

"I will watch them act," decreed Artinelli.

He did. The result of his observation was the engagement of Boss and Bertha to appear with Artinelli at the Winter Garden.

Now it wasn't because he thought the pair such wonders that Artinelli secured their signatures on the dotted line. It was because he was mad for Bertha. It was fortunate for him that she was the artiste as well as the woman.

A shrewd man, Artinelli had sized up the situation in a minute. It would be no easy matter to cut in and win Bertha from such a man as Boss. He must go slow, that he knew, and, if he valued his life, make no missteps.

The three started on their engagement at the Winter Garden, and Artinelli commenced his subtle seduction.

Slow Awakening.

A much smarter man than Boss, it is a long time before the huge lover of Bertha even suspects that anything untoward is in the wind. Then, at first, he suspects only faintly. Measuring the fancied love of the girl for him by his own all consuming passion for her, it was hard for him even to imagine that she could be untrue. When the idea did occur to him he forced himself to put it in the background of his mind, and to Artinelli was kinder because he thought perhaps he was unjust.

Which attitude lulled the fears of Artinelli, who, as his own passion grew, became careless, unaware finally that menacing eyes were always upon him—high on the trapezes, in moments of social intercourse, on the street—everywhere.

Enough of the story, here. The screen will go on with it

Another Long-Awaited Book.

By H. L. Mencken.

SINCE Philip Dormer Stanhope, Earl of Chesterfield, published his celebrated letters to his morganatic son, in 1744, there has been no adequate book, in English, of advice to young men. I say adequate, and the adjective tells the whole story. There is not, of course, a college president, or a boss Y. M. C. A. secretary, or an uplifting preacher in the United States who has not written such a book, but all of them are alike filled with bilge. They depict and advocate a life that no normal young man wants to live, or could live without ruin if he wanted to. They are full of Sunday school platitudes and Boy Scout snuffling. If they were swallowed by the youth of today the republic of tomorrow would be a nation of idiots.

I point to the obvious example of the volumes of so-called sex hygiene. If there is anything in them save pious balderdash then I have yet to encounter it—and in the pursuit of my dismal duties as a critic of letters and ideas I have read literally hundreds of them. All of them are devoted to promoting the absurd and immoral idea that the sexual instinct is somehow degrading and against God—that whenever a young man feels it welling within him it is time for him to send for a physician and perhaps even for a policeman. If he is moved to kiss his girl he is in grave peril. If he yields to the devil and actually necks her he is already halfway to hell.

What could be worse rubbish? The sole effect of it, assuming it to be believed, is to send the young reader into manhood full of preposterous fears and shames and to shut him off from one of the chief sources of human happiness. For life without sex might be safer, but it would be unbearably dull. There would be very little hazard in it and even less joy. It is the sex instinct that makes women seem beautiful, which they are only once in a blue moon, and men seem wise and brave, which they never are at all. Throttle it, denaturize it, take it away, and human existence would be reduced to the prosaic, laborious, boresome, imbecile level of life in an ant hill.

But it is not when they address young men as males but when they address them as citizens that the current authors of such books achieve their worst nonsense. The absurd cult of Service, invented by swindlers to conceal their knaveries, is hymned eloquently in all of them. The chief aim and purpose of civilized man in the world, it appears, is to Do Good. In other words, his chief duty is to harass and persecute his neighbors. If he shirks it, then he is a bad citizen, and will go to hell along with the draft dodgers, tax evaders, atheists, and bachelors.

It seems to me that this highly dubious doctrine is responsible for much of the uneasiness and unhappiness that are visible in the United States today, despite the growing wealth of the country. Accepting it gravely, the American people have converted themselves into a race of nuisances. It is no longer possible, making a new acquaintance, to put any reasonable trust in his common decency. If he is not a policeman in disguise he is very apt to be a propagandist without disguise, which is even worse. The country swarms with such bores, and the chief aim of the current instruction in the duties of the citizen seems to be to make more of them.

No argument, I take it, is needed to show that this is an evil tendency. The happiness of men in the world depends very largely upon their confidence in one another—in A's belief that B is well disposed toward him and will do nothing intentionally to make him uncomfortable. But the whole purpose of the uplift is to make other people uncomfortable. It searches relentlessly for men who are having a pleasant time according to their lights and tries to put them in jail, or, still worse, to stir up their consciences. In other words, it tries to make them unhappy. It is an engine for the dissemination of the disagreeable. Seeking ostensibly to increase the number of good citizens, it only increases the number of bad ones.

But the young, it is argued, must be schooled in public spirit, else they will all become highwaymen, just as they must be schooled in virtue, else they will all become debauchees. That argument, in various mellifluous forms, is constantly heard. It constitutes the fundamental postulate of such organizations as the Y. M. C. A. and the Boy Scouts. To question it becomes a sort of indecorum and is commonly represented as a questioning of public spirit and virtue themselves. Nevertheless, it remains nonsensical. There is not the slightest evidence that the normal young American, deprived of his books of civics, would take to the highroad, or that, deprived of his books of sex hygiene, he would set up practice as a roue.

The young come into the world, indeed, with a great deal of innate decency. It is their inheritance from the immemorial dead who fashioned and gave a direction to the delicate and complicated organism known as human society. That organism arose out of mutual good will, out of tolerance and charity, out of the civilising tendency to live and let live. It emerged from the level of savagery by yielding to that tendency. The savage is preëminently his brother's keeper. He knows precisely what his brother ought to do in every situation and is full of indignation when it is not done. But the civilized man has doubts, and life under civilisation is thus more comfortable than it is in a Tennessee village or an African kraal.

If the young are to be instructed at all it seems to me that they ought to be instructed in the high human value of this toleration. They should be taught what they learn by experience in the school yard: that human beings differ enormously, one from the other, and that it is stupid and imprudent for A to try to change B. They should be taught that mutual confidence and good-will are worth all the laws ever heard of, ghostly or secular, and that one man who minds his own business is more valuable to the world than 10,000 cocksure moralists. This teaching, I fear, is being neglected in the United States. We are hearing—and especially the young are hearing—far too much about brummagem utopias and far too little about the actual workings of the confusing but not unpleasant world we live in.

I know of no course in honor in any American Sunday school, yet it must be plain that human relations, when they are profitable and agreeable, are based upon honor much oftener than they are based upon morals. It is immoral, in every rational meaning of the word, to violate the Volstead act, and it is moral to give the Polizei aid against any one who does so. But what is the practical answer of decent men to these facts? Their practical answer is that such giving of aid is dishonorable. The law does not punish it; it rewards it. But it is punished swiftly and relentlessly by civilized public opinion.

My contention, in brief, is that there is room for a book showing why this is so—for a book of advice to young men setting forth, not what some ancient hypocrite of a college president or Y. M. C. A. secretary thinks would be nice, but what is regarded as nice by the overwhelming majority of intelligent and reputable men. In other words, there is room for a book of inductive ethics, based upon the actual practices of civilised society. Such a book, in the department of sexual conduct, would differ enormously from the present banal manuals. It would denounce as ignoble many of the acts they advocate and it would give its approval to others that they ban. And in the wider field of the relations between man and man it would differ from them even more radically. It would have little to say about ideals, but a great deal about realities.

Most boys admire their fathers and take their notions from them in this department. The boy who has a father who is a genuinely civilised man needs no advice from outside experts. Common decency will be in him when he grows up. He will not be afraid of women and he will not succumbing to the Service buncombe, have ceased to be safe guides for their sons. Their practice is misleading and their counsel is dangerous. Thus the way opens for a counselor less credulous and more sagacious. Thus a vast market shows itself for the sort of book I have been trying to describe.

WARMED-OVER LOVE SERVED A LA MODE

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Apparently Alice Brady is not to go touring this fall with the hysterical heroine of "Bride of the Lamb," which was her rather tremendous success of last spring. She began acting this week for William Harris Jr. in a tart little dramatic comedy called "Sour Grapes." Being a play that should appeal strongly to romantic ladies out of love, with which the apartment houses bulge hereabouts, the new piece seems likely to keep her busy until holiday time at least.

ALICE BRADY
is Mrs. Overton in "Sour Grapes."

Here we have a sane, young play maker of the theater, Vincent Lawrence by name, frankly and honestly facing the unhappy problem of the love that flies out of the window once the family settles down to the colorless routine of the average married mates.

The Overtons are his examples in point. They are the usual upper middle class two who were desperately in love when they married, or believed they were. Now, some years later, when Mrs. Overton, still attractive, is wooed by a more imaginative man, she suddenly discovers she hasn't loved her husband for a long time. And husband is shocked to realize he doesn't care. He will be awfully glad to be free.

They arrange the usual divorce, but before they can get it the passionate wooer who is to marry Mrs. Overton discovers he really will have to withdraw his offer. There is another girl looking to him to make her "an honest mother," though with the frankness of the moderns she confesses she is "as much to blame as he."

Thus the Overtons find themselves again facing the breakfast coffee cups and the future with all the joy of life missing.

It is Overton who suggests a way that they might recapture the old love, if they had the intelligence to try it. They might pretend they were in love just as a sort of game, without meaning it, which they do. And find it is still real.

Miss Brady and John Halliday play the Overtons with sufficient sincerity to make their problems real and read their titles with enough beauty to make them appealing.

Frank Conroy and Flora Sheffield are the other two.

Reviewers Like "The Adorable Liar."

The most agreeable of the early light comedies is one called "The Adorable Liar," staged by Edgar Selwyn for the Dorothy Burgess who last season played the flapper daughter in his "Dancing Mothers" company on tour. At least I say he staged it for her in the belief that if it had not been for his faith in Dorothy's immediate future he never would have bought the play from Roy Briant and Harry Durant, who probably wrote it to sell to the movies.

Miss Dorothy, incidentally, has just moved into one of those romantic careers that keep hope fluttering in the breasts of half the profession. Despite the fact that her mother is an actress, now playing in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and her aunt is Fay Bainter, she has been skirting the edges of the show business for three years without creating any excitement at all.

She did a half-portion dance in one of the Music Box Revues a season or so ago, and later got the job of understudying Helen Hayes in "Dancing Mothers" just by her sheer persistence in hanging around the theater. But she was not, as she confesses, getting anywhere—until Miss Hayes decided to go into a piece called "Quarantine" and Mr. Selwyn saw Miss Burgess rehearse and afterward play the Hayes part.

It was that view of her that convinced him she was the girl for this "Adorable Liar" comedy, and it is the "Adorable Liar" part that has set a good many of her reviewers raving about the freshness of her youth and the charm of her. She has a future that will carry her well into her twenties on the crest of the ingénue wave, unless signs fail.

The Age of Imaginings.

In "The Adorable Liar" the heroine Miss Burgess plays is an imaginative girl still dreaming her way through games of pretense at 17. She simply will not subscribe to the ways and beliefs of the sophisticated generation of which she is a member, save in the fact that she does hope she has sex appeal. Otherwise her Prince Charming, as well as her Sir Galahad, had better come a-galloping on a snow white charger or jolly well stay where they are.

She is also given to making up stories—not with the intention of deceiving any one, nor yet of scaring the daylights out of her younger sister, which she does, but just because made-up things are always so much more interesting.

Therefore, when she meets a youthful real estate agent with curly hair and an appraising eye she imagines herself a married lady, about to be compromised—and invites the salesman to her boudoir for a near-midnight lunch. He, naturally, is perturbed and a little nonplussed, as well as apprehensive as to what might happen if he were to be seen skinning down the drain pipe outside the lady's window. Especially if he were to be seen by her father. So he quickly secrets himself in a cedar chest when he hears the family coming.

There are, of course, numerous complications of one sort and another, but the important item is that through it all no one seems to mind how implausible the whole thing is, because Miss Burgess and Eric Dressler, who plays opposite her, make it so charmingly unimportant. Henry Stephenson is in the cast and so are Tom Wise and William B. Mack.

Here's a Riotous Farce.

Florence Moore is an accommodating comedienne. She adjusts herself to any situation she finds it necessary to meet. For example, Florence has just made the leap from Orpheum vaudeville and Broadway revues into a straight farce.

"She Couldn't Say Know" is the title, and a lawyer named B. M. Kayne the author. And in one of the scenes arranged, devised, and built up as these things are, Florence is in conversation with one character who has been inhaling hair oil of high alcoholic content until he can no longer stand. Gradually he sinks to the floor and lies supinely upon his stomach. Whereupon Florence, still continuing the conversation, lies down beside him and goes merrily on with the dialogue.

It is a riotous burlesque, this farce. Miss Moore, as you who remember her may easily credit, is all over the place and fearfully funny if she happens to strike you so. In the story she is a lawyer's stenographer who decides to take over a breach of promise case to help him in his absence. Her knowledge of law is more or less limited to the conviction that mandamus is swearing and that habeas corpus is where they hide the body. The first question she puts to the lady plaintiff in the case is: "How old are you, you liar?"

But she has the judge with her and wins her case, even against her own employer, who arrives in time to complicate matters. Despite her extravagant clowning, Miss Moore manages to stay pretty well in character, and her audiences laugh their scalps loose at her.

Introducing a New Abe and Mawruss.

The new Potash and Perlmutter play is of less importance to the trade than the new Abe and Mawruss who play it. And yet the new play is, I think, the bigger attraction of the two.

In "Potash and Perlmutter, Detectives," the new Abe is a comedian from the Yiddish theater named Ludwig Satz and the Mawruss is a fat young fellow who had had some

This Thing and That Thing of the Theater

By Frederick Donaghey.

NEWS this morning is that the Chicago run of "Castles in the Air" will end October 16, when it will round out forty-seven weeks in the Olympic: the run started November 23. Its record will be of two weeks below that of "No! No, Nanette!" and five or six weeks below that of "The Student-Prince"; admiring commentators have compared "Castles in the Air" to both, owing to its being quite unlike either. The notable vogue of the work has been to me among the inexplicable phenomena of recent seasons,—like the craze for "Topsy and Eva" and the prosperity of "The Green Hat"; and its being inexplicable to me has nothing to do with it. . . .

Down in New-York, where the first cast is giving "Castles in the Air," the deputy-critics assigned to tell about it exhibit the expected tendency to be derisory about Chicago successes, but seem to be in agreement in saying that the piece will last a long time there. Also, in giving credit for what is really fresh in the show to John Boyle, the variety-stage hoofer who taught the quiristers to dance in a fashion that would have been hailed ten years ago as virtuoso in a high-waged principal. . . .

DENNIS KING
He's like this to look at when not made up as Villon.

The next thing in the Olympic will not be "Princess Flavia," as expected, but for three weeks an issue of Earl Carroll's Vanities, with Frank Tinney, after a long absence, and Joe Cook, who provided all save less than one percent of the deliberate fun in the two issues of the Vanities already shown in Chicago. . . . Another incoming show is the melting-pot piece named "My Country," which the reporters for the New-York papers were certain, when they recently wrote about it, was "another 'Abie's Irish Rose.'" August premières make the lads pessimistic, it seems. Anyway, "My Country" will be put into the La Salle after "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em!"; and the change will be made before the end of the month.

Other Bits of News.

Mr. Belasco, after talking it over with Willard Mack, has changed the name of the latter's play from "All the Way from Texas" to "Just You, Sue!" . . . Mr. Mack is the principal performer in it.

And Mr. Belasco, again talking it over with Mr. Mack, has made many changes in "Fanny" since Miss Fannie Brice tried herself out in it down Jersey-way, and thinks it is about right for New-York to see. . . . Which reminds me that one of Mr. Belasco's amiable and hopeful brother-managers expressed to me the other night the amiable hope that "Fanny" would fail, as he would then have a chance of obtaining her for a show he has in mind. Most of 'em are nice babies!

The Theater Guild, making ready to stage in New-York Franz Werfel's "Juares and Maximilian," asserts that the cast of the piece will constitute the nucleus of "a permanent acting-company in repertoire"; and I hadn't been long out of the cradle of babyhood when I first read those words with reference to an enterprise of the day. . . . In the cast will be Alfred Lunt, Dudley Digges, Edward G. Robinson (a good actor), Henry Travers (another), Miss Clare Eames, and Miss Margalo Gillmore, with Arnold Daly, Albert Bruning, Philip Leigh, and Erskine Sanford as what the Guild elegantly terms "guest-players," indicating, I take it, that they're impermanent, and hired by the job. . . . Mrs. Lunt [Miss Lynn Fontanne] is, of course, of the company, but is not in the cast of Werfel's play, which is held in Central Europe to be quelque-chose.

And Other Bits.

John E. Hazzard, most of whose performing has been in the song-and-dance pieces, has been engaged for the title-rôle in "The Good Fellow," the play by George S. Kaufman and Herman Mankiewicz about a chronic joiner of all the lodges, the guilds, the fellowships, and the brotherhoods. Sidney Toler, who serves well enough in rôles wherein he serves well enough, was the try-out actor of this rôle. . . . And Mr. Mankiewicz, one of Mr. Kaufman's bright deputies in giving information to theater-goers in the New-York Times, is said to have written another piece in collaboration with Marc Connelly, who was Mr. Kaufman's co-author with "Dulcy," "To the Ladies!" "Merton of the Movies," "The Deep-Tangled Wildwood," and "Beggar on Horseback."

Al Jolson is gone to work again in "Big Boy." . . . And the Messrs. Shubert are putting out a show that will perpetuate last season's snap title of "Gay Paree."

Reports about "The Ramblers," wherein Clark and McCullough are pro-forma stars, are that it is all right in kind. . . . A play by Sir Patrick Hastings named "Scotch Mist," which some of the London critics and clergy regarded as shameful, is to be acted in this country with Philip Merivale at the head of the cast.

Another change in the title of George Kelly's new play makes it "Daisy Mayme." It was "Daisy" for a time; and before that it was "Philip Goes Forth." . . . Hale Hamilton, the first actor of Wallingford in Mr. Cohan's dramatization of the late George Randolph Chester's tales of that conman, is to be in "Yellow," the piece by Miss Margot Vernon which Mr. Cohan is about to stage. And I've read or been told that the name of this has been or is to be amplified to "Deep Yellow."

Miss Iris Hoey, a London actress, is to be imported by the Messrs. Shubert for a piece named "Wet Paint"; and this, too, was held to be lacking in decency by some outspoken Englishmen.

And Others.

"Private Life" is the name of a piece by Miss Gladys Unger; and "Private Jones" is the name of one by Richard Schreyer. . . . Vincent Lawrence (whose "Sour Grapes" is said by the New-York scrutators to be pretty thin) is making over "Private Jones," the principal part in which is to be played by John Wray, who was so effective as the cornered rat in the Chicago performances of the bad piece named "Silence."

The author of "Silence," Max Marcin, has written something new named "A Hollywood Party." . . . And Miss Unger has turned over for production by the Messrs. Shubert the libretti of song-and-dance pieces named, respectively, "Green Fruit" and "Breakfast in the Sun," with Mitzi indicated as the star of the former, which is from the French.

Alfred Savoir is soon to be represented again on the American stage this time, by "The Lion-Tamer," said to have been a success in Paris. . . . Many years have passed since Francis Wilson capered with Miss Lulu Glaser in an operetta of like title.

"The Prisoner" is a new title for a piece previously called "A Woman Desired Among Men" or something equally fussy. Lowell Sherman is to act in it; and I take it that he preferred the earlier title. The play is derived from one of De Maupassant's tales.

Odds-and-Ends of Stage-News

MISS QUEENIE SMITH, Harry Watson, and Andrew Toombs in "Tip-Toes," a New-York success of last season, are indicated for the Illinois after "Dearest Enemy." . . . Otis Skinner, in a revival of "The Honor of the Family," is expected in the Blackstone in succession to "Coal-Oil Jennie." . . . When the time set apart for "Song of the Flame" is used up in the Apollo, the issue of the Greenwich Village Follies shown last season in New-York will be put in there: that is, if present plans be carried out. . . . Not in a long time, it seems, will something new be needed in the Great Northern, where "The Vagabond King" went to sell-out business as early as Thursday night of last week. . . . And "The Cradle-Snatchers" will be put into the Harris, it is thought, after "Treat 'Em Rough!"

Louis John Bartels, who went from something like the obscurity of the minor two-a-day into Broadway eminence when he originated the title-rôle of George Kelly's "The Show-Off," is to act in a piece named "Mr. Sweeney." It is about an American in Russia: present-day Russia, I assume.

Eddie Buzzell, who seems to have a hard time in finding good employment, is going with Miss Pearl Regay into "Lady Fair," for which Sigmund Romberg has selected the tunes. He knows all the tunes there are; and he usually makes a good selection: vide "The Student-Prince."

* *

New in Manhattan.

These are the new things announced for the week in the New-York theaters:

"Henry's Harem," by Fred Ballard and Arthur Stern, with Miss Olive Reeves-Smith and Al Roberts. . . . Mr. Ballard has all but succeeded with some earlier pieces, including "A Rainy Day," shown three years ago in the Cort.

"Just Life," by John Bowie, with Miss Marjorie Rambeau and Miss Vivian Tobin, whose sister, Geneviève, is now here in "Treat 'Em Rough!" . . . Miss Rambeau was recently reported as too ill to act for months to come.

"Broadway," by Philip Dunning and George Abbott, with Lee Tracy, Miss Sylvia Field, Robert Gleckler, Miss Clare Woodbury, and John Wray. . . . The authors are actors; and Mr. Abbott is the fellow who fixed up John V. A. Weaver's "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em!" into what it is in the La Salle. As to the play, it seems to have looked so commercially good in its try-out performances that every manager in the country is busy explaining that he was a fool to have turned it down.

"Naughty Riquette": the farce with music shown a year ago in the Apollo. Mitzi and Stanley Lupino still head the cast.

"Countess Maritza," an operetta from the German with a score by Emmerich Kalman, with Miss Yvonne d'Arle, Miss Odette Myrtil, Walter Woolf, Carl Randall, Harry K. Morton, and George Hassell. . . . This work, which has been shown in some cities near New-York, is reported to be good. Miss D'Arle has sung with the Metropolitan Opera.

Incoming Shows

Tonight:

The Passing Show in the Four Cohans.—A revue of English origin and American revision that has been on view in New-York under the respective titles of "The Merry World" and "Passions of 1926." Morris Harvey, a new-comer from London, heads the company, which includes, in its American aspect, Walter C. Kelly and Ted and Betty Healy.

"Pay to Bearer" in the Adelphi.—A farce by the authors of "The Cradle-Snatchers," with Miss Laura Hope Crews, Miss Alison Skipworth, and Reginald Owen.

Tomorrow Night:

"H. M. S. Pinafore" in the Auditorium.—Gilbert and Sullivan's early and enduring operetta in revival by the Messrs. Shubert, with the cast including Frank Moulan, William Danforth, and, excepting the Japanese soprano, the others who have been singing "The Mikado" in the big theater.

Next Saturday Night:

"The Mender" in the Central.—A new play by Edward E. Rose, author of "The Rosary" and other pieces.

Monday, September 20:

"Sweetheart-Time" in the Garrick.—A song-and-dance make-over of the farce named "Never Again!" wherein William Collier acted here in 1913. Stanley Ridges and Harry Kelly will be in the cast.

Monday, October 4:

"Alias the Deacon" in the Studebaker.—A play about a likable card-sharp by John B. Hymer and Le Roy Clemens, with Berton Churchill. The piece was taken through a run of months in New-York.

FIRST time Wednesday evening, September 15, at 8:15. The greatest array of artists ever assembled on one programme in the history of the theatre. Warner Bros., by arrangement with Vitaphone Corp., Western Electric Co. and Bell Telephone Laboratories, Present—

Frank Keenan in Black Velvet

The Play

"A theatreful expressed admiration for the play and remained to cheer Mr. Keenan."
—FREDERICK DONAGHEY, Tribune.

"Rousing applause, plenty of laughter, some approach to tears, huge mental arguments, silent but thrilling, made the evening at the Playhouse an adventure of considerable moment. . . . Truer, cleaner, finer, and bigger than either 'Lulu Belle' or 'The Shanghai Gesture.' . . . A sensation of much glory and truth, much vitality and plain language."
—AMY LESLIE, News.

"'Black Velvet' is great with Keenan. . . . The audience sat spellbound." FREDERICK McQUIGG, American.

"A 'White Cargo' in terms of these United States. . . . In every way 'Black Velvet' is capably and carefully done."
—JOHN JOSEPH, Herald-Examiner.

"In the spirit of a 'Birth of a Nation.'"
—C. J. BULLIET, Post.

The Star

"Frank Keenan comes back as genuine, as forceful, as brilliantly romantic and attractive as he was when his black hair and glowing eyes mean submission for any romantic role, and all the audacious villains. Mr. Keenan invades the character of a fine old southern gentleman and makes him a personage of tottering splendors, recognizable and powerful. The audience at the Playhouse quite lost its head over Keenan."
—AMY LESLIE, News.

"Frank Keenan, one of the finest character actors on the stage today, makes of the old general a worthy addition to his gallery of vivid portraits." —C. J. BULLIET, Post.

"Frank Keenan has a great part in a strong play. . . . His acting is great." —FREDERICK McQUIGG, American.

"Keenan a welcome visitor. As one of the theatre's 'fine old actors' he is among the keepers of its traditions."
—VIRGINIA DALE, Journal.

Ashton Stevens, Herald and Examiner—"There are with us for many months a good cast, an immense chorus that can act, a big and beautiful production of a beautiful romance and an undoubtable Dennis King."

J. Theodore Kruse—"Acclaim poured the Great Northern last night in gusts and [illegible] . . . after the 'Song of the Vagabond'."

Claudia Cassidy, Journal of Commerce—"A thrilling show worthy of its romantic swasher lavished upon it."

Amy Leslie, News—"Dennis King a revelation. No other actor could set the role so brilliantly; no other could approach King's climax acting of the part."

The Optimist, American—Chicago gave The Vagabond King a rousing welcome. The inspired singing and action of Dennis King as Francois Villon made him a stage hero for the season."

Virginia Dale, Journal—"It is extravagantly fine entertainment, original and stunning; the chorus is likely to set the town talking."

resistance with the rôle, named Robert Leonard.

It would be foolish to contend that fixed character comedy creations must die merely because there is no longer a Barney Bernard to play the mild but persistent Abe, or because the mercurial Alexander Carr is not available for Mawruss.

But just how are we, who have never seen any but Barney and Carr play the parts, to accept these newcomers as their successors? They are no more than a couple of so-so actors pretending to be our old friends, and we rather resent them. They should, at least, have a sign over the theater as they do over the delicatessens: "This place changed hands"—to alibi their assumption of the rôles.

However, there are a good many there who never have seen the original Abe and Mawruss, and to them the new firm of Satz and Leonard will probably prove satisfactory.

Unwilling Sleuths.

Satz is a little fellow, wistful in a simple Yiddish way, and a better actor of the sentimental bits than he is of the broader comedy. At least that was the impression the opening night, when he probably had all the comedy stuff frightened out of him.

Leonard is loud and vigorous and rough on the Carr order. They will play better together with practice.

The new play, written by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman, shows the garment men at the head of a detective agency which, as executors named in the will of the deceased proprietors, they are forced to run.

The first jewelry robbery they investigate gets them into trouble as the outstanding holders of the loot, and for as yet they are residents of a comic jail. Here their quarrels range from Abe's tearful disappointment when Mawruss forgets and brings him no pickles when he asked particularly for potato salad to their meeting with one of the swellest burglars they have ever known.

The lines are good, the situations strange, the fun as frequent and as well sustained as in any of the previous plays. But it is going to take a little time for the old guard to get used to the new players. Mathilde Cottrelly is again the Rose.

Loud and Cheap.

Of our other recent visitations there was "If I Was Rich," a popular comedy drama in which Joe Laurie Jr., five feet of bantam manhood as much on the Street Truez order as his type and engraving permit, is the star.

A little loud and cheap, this one, but possessed of popular values that suit the Laurie public, for which it was written. Joe, his friends are willing to swear, is a great little guy and he does his level best in the play to prove to you they are right.

This is the adventure of a $46 a week shipping clerk who has an expensive and extravagant wife. He helps with the housework while she is out buying silk step-ins and such things. He is behind with the rent, but he is far ahead with the undies and the cheap jewelry.

For a time they tide over the inevitable break by pretending that Joe is the son of a multi-millionaire. As such he is accepted by even as wise an old bird as Joseph Kilgour. But the smash comes, and the awakening follows. They must be on the level for the time. They had an excellent cast when I left the theater. Little Mildred McLeod plays opposite Mr. Lewis, and Charles Dew Clark, as a sentimental wolf of Wall street, scores the evening's hit.

A Little Theater Worn.

There is also a farce called "Service for Two" which I fear will not go far, though it is well played and has good road and stock company values. Hugh Wakefield, an English comedian of the social blunderer school, plays it and in it and furnishes the best of the fun.

He is in America on his honeymoon and, as the deuced luck would have it, is assigned a hotel room next that of the cinema queen he had flirted with years before. She, pounding on the connecting door until he unlocks it, keeps him busy and worried trying to push her off his lap before his bride, resting in the second room beyond, comes to investigate.

The complications are conventional and seem a little theater worn, to me. The illusion of the three room suite is nicely established. Marian Coakley is the peppy flirt of the movies, and both Florence Flair and Grace Griswold are in the company. Martin Flavin, Chicago linoleum merchant, who still has "The Children of the Moon" to his credit, is the author.

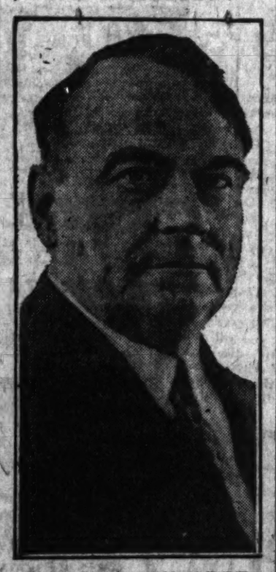
IMPORTED COMEDIANS OF THE WEEK

REGINALD OWEN — MORRIS HARVEY

MR. OWEN acted here for the first time two years ago, in the Blackstone, as the sorely-tried heir-apparent in Molnar's "The Swan," and was then called a good actor by the theater-man of The Tribune. He's returning tonight in the farce named "Pay to Bearer." . . . Mr. Harvey is a comedian in revue who is of high popularity in London. He will appear in Chicago for the first time tonight in the Passing Show.

VETERAN



WILLIAM DANFORTH

He's been singing the title-rôle in "The Mikado," which is to be given tonight for the last time in the Auditorium. He goes tomorrow night into a revival of "H. M. S. Pinafore," wherein he will be Dick Deadeye. . . . He has been for many, many years in the operettas and the plays with music.

Similar

but oh, so different!

By characteristics just as sharply defined you can distinguish and select the thoroughbred

PIANO TONE

ANY particular mule, regarded as simply a mule, may fulfill a useful purpose and rate as a fairly excellent specimen.

But, subjected to comparisons with the highest development in his species—the thoroughbred—the mule loses caste as a thing of beauty.

Think of this comparison when you purchase a piano. The first piano you try may sound good to you. And it is good, till compared with a better tone. But, if you seek the best, you will take no chance of buying the mule when a thoroughbred is what you want.

Make comparisons! If you think a tone is good, it isn't good. When you find the tone you are seeking you will know it—absolutely. There will be no doubt about it.

The Knabe Piano was chosen as the official piano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, because of its beautiful tone. And you can never really appreciate this reason until you actually hear the Knabe piano.

Listen to the marvelous, bell-like sonority that "allows the artist to bring out all shades, gradations and tints of tone, from the softest whispers to the most thunderous climaxes" (as stated by Rosenthal).

When you hear the Knabe you don't think—you know—that this is the most beautiful tone the piano has ever achieved.

No really fine home should be without a really fine grand piano, no matter how many other musical instruments it may afford.

Hear the Knabe. See the beautiful Period cases and woods in which it may be obtained. You will find our terms such as to remove all purchasing obstacles.

When Teeth are Film Free

Smiles are Charming

The dangerous film on teeth to which science ascribes many tooth and gum disorders. What numbers of authorities suggest doing for it

BY running your tongue across your teeth, a film will be felt—a slippery sort of coating.

Recent dental research proves that film is chief enemy of healthy teeth and gums—the source of most dull teeth, a chief cause of many gum disturbances.

Because old ways of brushing failed to remove film successfully, a new way in tooth and gum care is being widely suggested by dental authorities. These are embodied in the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

Now an effective film combatant

For years dental science sought ways to fight film. Clear teeth and healthy gums come only when film is constantly combated—removed every day from the teeth.

Film was found to cling to teeth; to get into crevices and stay; to hold in contact with teeth food substances which fermented and fostered the acids of decay. Film was found to be the basis of tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and most gum disorders.

Thus there was a universal call for an effective film-removing method. Ordinary brushing was found ineffective. Now two effective combatants have been found, approved by high dental authority and embodied in a tooth paste called Pepsodent.

Curdles and removes film—Firms the Gums

Pepsodent acts first to curdle the film. Then it thoroughly removes the film in gentle safety to enamel.

At the same time, it acts to firm the gums—Pepsodent provides, for this purpose, the most recent dental findings in gum protection science knows today. Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And thus aids in neutralizing mouth acids as they form.

It multiplies the starch digestant of the saliva. Thus combats starch deposits which might otherwise ferment and form acids.

No other method known to present-day science embodies protective agents like those in Pepsodent.

Please accept Pepsodent test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights, massage the gums with Pepsodent, using your finger tips; the gums then should start to firm and harden.

At the end of that time, we believe you will agree, that next to regular dental care, Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, provides the utmost science has discovered for better tooth and gum protection.

Home Looks Good After a Fight Camp - - - - - - - - - - By Rosalind Shaffer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Estelle Taylor, who recently returned from the eastern training camp of her famous husband, Jack Dempsey, is enjoying to the full the delights of her new Los Feliz home. The training camp was hardly the most luxurious quarters in the world for a woman, and Estelle says she had no idea of how beautiful her home was until she returned to it.

"Jack and I spent weeks waiting for a cheap grass rug that had been ordered for the living room of the training quarters, but it never did get there, and we had to use one of the bedroom rag rugs for the floor." As she spoke she poked one dainty toe, encased in a red kid boudoir slipper, with white fur top, into the handmade roses of one of her own living room hooked rugs.

The new home is of English style, set far back within a terraced garden and broad lawn, with towering eucalyptus trees, forming a setting for the lofty gables of the gray stucco home. The whole house carries out the idea of the dwelling of an English country gentleman. A broad flagged veranda surrounds the living room with its long glassed doors opening in pairs. English chintz in shades of brown and rose in floral pattern form the hangings, and the simplicity of the large fireplace is inviting. Wrought iron furnishings of the plainest sort stand ready for the winter's fire, while a large oaken chest with a ship's model above it on the wall stands against the opposite wall.

A Beautiful Setting.

The gray carpeting of the floor is relieved by the deft placing of the old fashioned hooked rugs with their quaint colorings. The dining room shows the same tasteful simplicity. A large and golden tinted painting of an English landscape, with a flock of sheep in the foreground, is a contrast to the oaken furniture.

The boudoir of Estelle herself is a beautiful setting. A pale almond green forms the coloring of the woodwork and the draping of the canopied bed and dressing table, and the filmy curtains, with their ruffled overdraperies of taffeta. One large room on the second floor Estelle has left uncompleted. It is to be the den of Jack Dempsey when he returns from his bout in the east. Estelle confesses she has no desire to see him fight, as she is sure she would be overcome with the excitement. Jack also does not wish her to be present. Worry over her and how she might be taking things would be a strain on him, they both feel. Estelle will hear the news round by round over a specially arranged wire.

Meanwhile worries of her own are occupying the attention of Estelle. She was to have played with Valentino in his next picture, based on the life of Cellini, the famous goldsmith and artist, and her fate, pictorially speaking, now hangs in the balance.

She is under contract to play in the picture, and since $100,000 has been to be made of the story. Schenck of United Artists is of the opinion that putting any other actor in to do a role Valentino was to have done might offend public taste, in which case the spent on it, some disposition will have picture will not be made for some time. Estelle had given up the idea of playing Mary Magdalen with De Mille in his "King of Kings" because of the five year contract she would have had to sign with him following it, and now the picture she did choose is held up indefinitely.

About Hollywood there is talk that John Barrymore may make the Cellini picture, or that Fairbanks may. Meanwhile Estelle is doing her best to erase any hint of dull care from her brow by a new beauty recipe, that of using pure strained honey for her complexion. The honey is spread on the face and then patted gently. The skin of the face sticks to the hand on account of the honey, and the resultant pull is more stimulating than a massage and yet is gentler than the regular rubbing.

Back from a Voyage.

Elinor Fair and her husband, William Boyd, have recently returned from their voyage aboard the clipper ships Indiana and Bohemia, which were used for filming scenes off Point Concepcion in "The Yankee Clipper." It will be Elinor's last appearance before the camera for some time, as an heir to the fortunes of the Boyd family is expected in the early winter. Elinor and Bill Boyd fell in love while both were working as the hero and heroine in "The Volga Boatman" and were married at the completion of the picture.

Marie Prevost, who used to be one of the lively dancing figures at the Hollywood cafés and parties, seems to have had about enough of that particular form of entertainment recently, for the dance floors see her no more. The reason is easy to understand. She is working at the Metropolitan studio in a picture that requires her to play the rôle of a taxi dancer, one of those girls who dance with partners for ten cents a dance.

After seven or eight hours a day shooting this sort of stuff she loudly proclaims her preference for a show as the evening's entertainment, where the fretting dogs may be put at ease under the seat of the man ahead.

Making a New Record.

DeMille, the man who made bathrooms socially acceptable, is outdoing himself in the gorgeousness he is using on the scenes for Mary Magdalen's home in "The King of Kings." The home of Magdalen, who is presented as a gorgeous courtesan of the time of the apostles, is a spacious palace with pools of water in the great reception room on which swans float gracefully among the vari-colored water lilies.

The walls above the fluted columns are extraordinary. They are totally covered with genuine gold leaf attached in small squares, with one side fluttering free, and the constant motion of the air makes the walls appear to tremble like quivering molten gold. Magdalen, herself, is represented as a gorgeous creature clad mostly in jewels, black chiffon and quantities of auburn hair. A battle between a man and a leopard is staged in the palace to amuse her. The jewels worn by her are numerous and magnificent, in elaborate settings. The bystander counted thirteen rings on one hand.

A Bit of Temperament.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer proved to be the scene of some recent strife, according to reports. Greta Garbo and Jack Gilbert are playing in "The Flesh and the Devil." Greta, who is nothing if not temperamental, became quite angry at something—at the studio it was agreed the prominence accorded Jack in the filming of several scenes was the cause of her outburst. Anyway, she was so angry that for three days she refused to work and sulked. The hard headed heads of the studio decided that if Greta didn't want to play in the picture some one else could be found.

Betty Compson was being given film tests for the rôle when Greta decided that perhaps Jack wasn't such a bad fellow, after all, and came back to work like a good little girl.

The next day the two were working on such perfect terms of friendship that they slipped out the door of the set for a friendly little tête-à-tête. A passerby inadvertently glimpsed a perfectly good closeup of warm reconciliation that the camera was missing entirely, and Jack and Greta seem to be great pals now since Beatrice Lillie is taking herself back to England and her titled English husband.

On the Lot.

The charming lyric of the A. E. F. with a mention of some article on the menu for every day in the week was forcibly called to mind on the Universal lot. This particular day seemed eating day, for on four adjoining stages the viands were being passed around simultaneously. Otis Harlan was eating an enormous meal in a race track restaurant in "Down the Stretch."

Charles Puffy was making a comedy just around the corner, in which he was devouring a delicatessen lunch including watermelon, Swiss cheese, pumpernickel and such.

Edward Laemmle, directing his picture, was having mouthfuls of cold lunch between megaphone remarks.

Joe Murphy, playing "Andy Gump," was devouring some of Min's biscuits on the last scene noted and then the visitor left, headed for the studio lunchroom.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have made up a joke that they are springing on all the fall guys they can find. It goes like this:

Q.—When is a rope not a rope?

A.—When it's a board.

Q.—Aboard what?

A.—Aboard a ship, for then it's a line.

They got this witticism from their new picture, "We're in the Navy Now."

News of the Great Salzburg Festival

By Edward Moore.

season, whereas the conductor divorces himself from every personal ovation and is concerned only and solely in the perfection of the performance as a whole.

"The singer typifies personality—the conductor is the spirit and essence of the abstract. Were the singers allowed to do so, they would make of opera a mosaic, each doing his or her best and distorting the performance to that end, whereas the conductor, unmindful of personal ambitions or idiosyncracies, struggles for a well rounded, perfect performance! The results in that performance mean nothing to him; the complete result means everything!

"The arbitrary rule, 'follow the stick,' obtains at La Scala in Milan and brings about results that are most satisfactory musically. This, because the musical director, Toscanini, happens to be one of the great geniuses of the world. In the absence of a plentiful supply of Toscaninis the rule is dangerous. The ideal relation for the conductor is judicial rather than dictatorial."

Where the Money Went.

How did the Chicago Civic Opera company come to spend so much money last season? It was the whole box office income for nearly twelve weeks, which was not published, plus the call on guarantors, which was just short of $400,000.

The Civic Opera company rises to explain. It gives figures and percentages. The largest single item went to salaries of artists, yet this was by no means as large a section of the total as most people suppose. It was 21.96 per cent. The next two items are exactly alike in size. One was for orchestra, musical staff, chorus, ballet, and stage hands, the other for theater, warehousing, and transfer, and each was 20.25 per cent. Then comes repairs to scenery and costumes, 15.68 per cent. At the end are three items all much smaller: publicity, administration, etc., 9.23 per cent; rehearsals, 7.35 per cent; and miscellaneous, 5.23 per cent. These add up to the 100 per cent total, and if there is any way to decrease any of the items, the Civic Opera company would probably not be averse to learning it.

An Opera in English.

"Tiefland," by Eugen D'Albert, is to be added to the English opera schedule of the Civic Opera company this winter, taking its place alongside of Charles Wakefield Cadman's "The Witch of Salem," which will have its first performance on any stage; W. Franke Harding's "A Light from St. Agnes," which will be revived, and "Hansel and Gretel," which has become a standard item.

"Tiefland," says Manager H. M. Johnson, has been sung over 2,000 times since its first performance of Prague in 1903. Contrary to popular impression, Mr. Johnson insists that its psychology is not essentially German. It was originally a Spanish story, "Martha of the Lowlands," by Guimera, depicting life in the Pyrenees, also play of the same name, and adapted for the lyric stage by Rudolph Lothar. D'Albert is of Scotch birth, and though a German resident for years was a pupil of both Liszt and Sir Arthur Sullivan. He married Mme. Teresa Carreno, the Brazilian pianist, and Mrs. Richmond Harris of Chicago is their daughter. This history, Mr. Johnson maintains, is enough to prove its cosmopolitanism.

It has been carefully readapted for the English speaking stage. The English translation by R. H. Elkin was revised this summer by Charles Moor, the stage director of the company, himself a former conductor, and by Henry G. Weber, who will conduct it. The phrasing has been given liberal alteration in order to fit the text to the music. For that reason it is referred to as an adaptation rather than a translation.

"The Merry Widow" in German.

The Teutonic Players of America send word of a performance of Lehar's "The Merry Widow," to be given at the Apollo theater this afternoon for the benefit of the German Aid society of Chicago. Erni Belian and Angelo Lippich, both members of the Irving Place theater of New York, will take the leading parts, and some of the other names bulletined are Anna Mueller-Kaeuffl, Johanna Eiseman, Willy Diederich, Willy Schubert, Hans Zoder, Jose Danner, and Otto Ludwig.

Grace Holst, a few years ago a member of the soprano wing of the Civic Opera principals, sends word of her recent marriage to Frits S. Olsen. The ceremony took place in Oslo, Norway, July 24.

for you in the most thrilling manner that you can possibly conceive of.

Lya de Putti and Warwick Ward, strangers on these shores but great favorites in Germany and England, respectively, do memorable work. Miss de Putti you are to see, you know, in "Sorrows of Satan," which D. W. Griffith is making.

A Gallant Defender.

Dear Miss Tinee: I am writing this letter for two reasons—just to let you know how I enjoy your column, and second to let the old world know how I feel about the criticism you received last Sunday because of your joke about Chief Plentycoos. I enjoyed that joke and then to have some one criticize it and take it to heart! That criticiser [?] will have to dismount from his high horse in a little while.

Sincerely yours, H. Y. B.

P. S.—The main reason for writing was to have the letter printed. I'd like to tell that man [face to face] what I think of him for criticizing your column!

Editor's Note: Thanks for writing, Most Gallant Knight. Your allegiance makes me happy—and maybe brave enought to have a little joke some other time.

WIGLESS

MISS IRIS WEST

She is Miss June Walker's successor as Lorelei Lee in the Chicago performances of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes"—wherein, by-the-way, she is now associated with a new cast. . . . Miss West is remembered in Chicago as Miss Beverly West.

The Voice of the Movie Fan - Conducted by Mae Tinee

If you would like your letters printed in this column, please write on ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY. If you want a personal answer, send stamped, self-addressed envelope—please!

From Kalamazoo.

Miss Mae Tinee: Not being a chronic fan I am not up to date enough to make my opinions count for much among so many wise ones. While the alleged celebration of our glorious Fourth was proceeding, I attempted to escape the fusillade by dodging into a movie show, and, by the way, what a blessing it would be if the Fourth could be honored by having all the action transferred to the screen, where the smoke and flash can be seen without the ear splitting bams and bangs. Well, anyhow, what I saw gave me the idea just expressed, for I witnessed "Born to the West" with Jack Holt as the hero quick "on the draw" with his automat. I can't recall much now except clouds of dust, running horses, mobs shooting at all points of the compass, dance halls with silent music, drinks galore without a gurgle and terrific squabbles minus any noise.

If this sort of guff is from Zane Grey's book, he would have something like a feeling of mal de mer if he should be unfortunate enough to glimpse it. I cannot help feeling that Jack Holt is not chesty over being in such an orgy of pseudo western life. And the finale was punker than an old stump, but quite a fitting end to a might play.

—For contra, on Sunday, I saw for the first time what I call a humdinger of a play—the kind that gets under your vest, and makes you take off your Harold Lloyds to wipe the mist away. It was entitled "Camille of Barbary Coast," and believe me, Gerty, it had a punch that was worth our going 25 miles to see. The gist of it was that all bad girls are not bad; that, given the chance, the innate feeling of motherhood will assert itself to the glory of the sex, and the man who inspires it. It's the story of a rich man's son who serves time for a youthful error, is picked up by a dance hall girl in mid winter, and given shelter in her humble quarters. She offers to buy him an overcoat, and that arouses his dormant manhood. He smilingly declines the offer, and proceeds to hustle himself a job instead of going home to beg coin from his paterfamilias.

Dad had been informed of his boy's doings and resolves to rescue him from the wiles of this modern vamp. The old man gets a jar when the boy tells him he has found something better than "all his d—— money," and proceeds to clinch the girl to his heart. Previous to which the young couple were married and found they were happier than they thought they would ever be.

Dad yields to the situation and invites the bride and groom to nestle under the paternal roof. Tableau and curtain.

It is the old story of Camille with reverse English which makes it all the more palatable. Possibly an immoral story, BUT with a moral to it, nevertheless, notwithstanding, plus, although, BUT. I thank you.

H. F., Kalamazoo.

Editor's Note: And thank you for an interesting letter.

Thanks for the Bouquet.

Dear Miss Tinee: I've just seen Ramon Navarro for the first time, and I couldn't help writing you my opinion of him and I hope it agrees with yours. I think Mr. Navarro is the handsomest fellow of the screen and has the sweetest smile I've ever seen. I hope to see a lot more of his pictures in the near future.

The picture I saw him in was "The Midshipman." He certainly looked good in those uniforms! I was somewhat disappointed at the girl, Harriet Hammond. I don't see why they didn't give him a prettier and more capable actress!

I have read all your writings on "Ben Hur" and can hardly wait to see it. I love to read your column and consider it one of the most interesting parts of THE TRIBUNE. I hope I didn't bother you much.

See you tomorrow. N. M. P.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ramon and I will go out immediately and buy new hats for ourselves, N. M. P.

Music for "Stella Dallas."

Dear Miss Tinee.—I wonder if you could tell me the name of the piece that the orchestra played all through "Stella Dallas" shown at the Roosevelt? It was played mostly during the sad scenes. Sincerely, LOUIS B.

MOTION PICTURES NORTH

CHICAGO
Still Making History

Here's How—

In 1830 Chicago was a log-hut hamlet of about 100 people. This sparse population was scattered about what is now called the South and West Sides.

The sixty years following 1830 developed Chicago to the point where it was selected as the site for the World's Columbian Exposition in 1892-'93. Over 27,000,000 people attended.

In 1925, the Chicagoan who was observant could see the greatness of the Wacker Plan and feel in his heart a touch of pride for being privileged to live here.

BUT in 1926 an event of equal importance takes place when Marks Brothers throw wide the portals of their magnificent GRANADA THEATER at Broadway and Devon. This mighty structure brings to Chicago a combination of old world grandeur and modern comfort. Being the newest of the Cinema palaces it naturally embodies greater beauty and improvements, as no effort was spared to make it the ultimate in every way.

Saturday, September 18, is the Big Day.

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Jews Hold Noonday Services This Week

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

MORE careful provision than has ever been made heretofore has been made this season for downtown noonday meetings under Jewish auspices, beginning tomorrow noon and extending over Thursday noon. The meetings will be held in Woods theater, Randolph and Dearborn streets, from 12 to 12:45 each day and will be under the auspices of the Chicago Federation of Synagogues and in charge of the Chicago Rabbinical association. Choirs from several temples will lead the music. The meetings are open to all and it is believed they will be found interesting to others than Jews as well as to Jews of all branches of the faith. Visitors in Chicago and transients at hotels are especially invited.

Rabbis of the largest and best known synagogues have promised to take part. They include Rabbis J. H. Stolz, Abram Hirschberg, B. S. Freehof, C. George Fox, Mendelsohn, Lassen, Gurfeld, Schwartz, and David Rosenbaum. Those who desire to have the names of their friends mentioned in the memorial part of the service will hand the names to the officiating rabbi. Fred Bernstein will conduct the opening service tomorrow.

THE REV. FATHER JEROME, C. P.
[Young & Carl Photo.]

Father Jerome, using no other name or initials, is the newly elected provincial of the Passionist Fathers, whose headquarters are at the monastery at Norwood Park, Chicago. He has been provincial of the order twice before with an interim and now assumes the task for the third term. His jurisdiction extends from Cincinnati, O., west, including a portion of California, south to St. Louis and Louisville, and north to St. Paul.

The Passionists are the strictest in their discipline and most austere in their requirements of any of the Catholic orders. The members of the monastery rise every morning at 2 o'clock and spend an hour in prayer. They fast three days in the week, wear sandals, and perform other acts of self-abnegation. They have a schedule of 30 missions which they will preach this fall in the home mission fields. They also conduct foreign missions.

The North Austin Lutheran church, Mason avenue and Le Moyne street, will celebrate today the sixth anniversary of its founding. Because of the growth of the congregation to 1,118 with 1,400 in the Sunday school, it is necessary to hold two morning services, at 8:30 and 11 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. F. W. Otterbein, will be in charge. Dr. Simon Peter Long of the Wicker Park church will preach at 7:45 p. m. Next Wednesday evening the Rev. H. M. Bannen of Rockford will be the speaker.

The corner stone of the Salem Evangelical church at 6813-24 South Emerald avenue will be laid today at 3 p. m. The pastor, the Rev. Joseph A. George, will lay the corner stone and the address will be given by the Rev. Herbert J. Brodt, pastor of the Evangelical Church of Peace. The church will cost $125,000 and will make the value of the church plant $200,000. The pastor came to the church eleven years ago as his first pastorate after graduation from McCormick Theological seminary.

The Morgan Park Methodist Episcopal church, 110th place and Longwood drive, will break ground today at 3 o'clock for a new $220,000 church house. The Rev. Arthur D. Klontz, who has been pastor of the church for seven and a half years and has seen the membership grow from 500 to 1,300, has been invited by his official board to enter into an agreement to remain as pastor for a period of ten years, subject to the approval of the bishop of the area. Dr. King D. Beach, pastor of St. James Methodist Episcopal church, will make the address at the ground breaking in addition to various ceremonies.

The corner stone of the Edison Park Methodist Episcopal church, Pratt and Oliphant avenues, the Rev. Carl D. Gage pastor, will be laid today at 4 o'clock. The Rev. J. H. Odgers, assisted by C. A. Wheldon, president of the board of trustees, will lay the stone, the Rev. Fred D. Stone, president Chicago Preachers' Meeting, will make the chief address and Drs. John Thompson, Chicago Temple, will give greetings. Others on the program will be the Rev. W. B. Waltmire, the Rev. S. B. Edmondson, the Rev. H. P. Bloesch, Thomas Peterson and Mrs. George B. Campbell. Music will be given by the church choir and quartet. The new church under construction will cost $55,000. The grounds, parsonage and old church to be used as a gymnasium make a plant valued at $110,000.

The Propagation of the Faith confraternity of the Catholic archdiocese, one year old, but a branch of a society 100 years old, with headquarters in Rome, will make a call today for the renewal of membership in all the churches of the archdiocese. Last year $167,000 was contributed for home and foreign missions. The Rev. James J. Horsburgh, who was appointed a year ago diocesan director by his eminence, Cardinal Mundelein, with offices at 755 North State street, calls attention to the fact that once the Chicago diocese received aid from the international society when it was poor and struggling and now it is able to help in other fields which now are as needy as Chicago once was.

St. Mary's Catholic church at Riverside will be dedicated today at 10 o'clock by his eminence, Cardinal Mundelein. The pastor, the Rev. T. R. Shawbridge, will be assisted by several visiting clergymen. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. D. J. Tuohy. The church will seat 550. The parish school is ready for classes.

Francis Moore, formerly choir director at the First Presbyterian church, 41st street and Grand boulevard, will assume the directorship of the music at the Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal church, 64th street and Woodlawn avenue, beginning next Sunday.

One of the speakers at the Jewish New Year's day services was Rabbi Max Kadushin, the new spiritual leader at the Humboldt Boulevard temple. He declared we not only need the practice of self-discipline and prayer but we need also an inspiration to use these means which comes only from the preaching, influence, and stimulus of a vital synagogue.

"We need," he said in closing his address, "a new and regenerated synagogue, which shall be the home of fellowship of the men and women who strive for a finer life."

DOING HER BIT IN OPERETTA

MISS ALETA EDWARDS

SHE has the incidental part of Lady Mary in the current performances of "The Vagabond King," and is good to look at in the costume of the court of Louis XI. Miss Edwards, according to the press-agent, is "a direct descendant of Jonathan Edwards"; and Jonathan Edwards, if you don't happen to know it, is always mentioned favorably by the criminologists when they desire to explain that heredity is an important element in human conduct.

Finds Man Thinks Best if He's Cold

OXFORD, England.—[U. P.]—Mankind does its best thinking when the weather is a little too cold for comfort, according to Prof. H. J. Fleure, surveying the year's advance in anthropology before the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"We must not argue too crudely that man's 'ideal climate' is the climate of the region in which modern man originated," he said.

"The most we can say, in that respect, is that as his constitution became attuned to certain climatic conditions those conditions are probably not very far from the conditions obtaining in the region in which he evolved, admitting at the same time that quite possibly he migrated into a region colder than the one to which he was accustomed and so gained, perhaps, an access of vigor.

"Certainly man's mental processes are most active at a temperature below that of the greatest comfort physically. Olbricht has gone so far as to venture the suggestion that the great mental advance to the fully human condition of the race previously occurred in a cold, bracing period, perhaps one of the later phases of the 'Ice Age.'

"The conditions that make us today function most actively are those of a climate with temperatures usually varying between 70 degrees and 75 degrees Fahrenheit, without too long spells at either of these limits, with enough but not too much bright sunshine and with variability and storms as a feature.

"Very great cold appears to have deleterious effects mentally and physically."

Uncle Sam's Appetite For Ice Cream Grows

WASHINGTON, D. C.—[United Press.]—Increased American consumption of ice cream is indicated by the gain noted in estimates by the United States department of agriculture in the use of whole milk during the year 1925 in comparison with the figures for the preceding year. In 1925 the consumption of whole milk for the manufacture of ice cream exceeded that of 1924 by 811,211,000 pounds. The per capita consumption of whole milk for 1925, 54.75 gallons, is the same amount as reported for 1924.

The Parade of the Features begins tomorrow on the first page of

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

For New and Old Readers Who Follow The Daily News Parade of the Features

THE PARADE

The purpose of this Parade is to "spotlight" the many exceptional, entertaining features that appear regularly in The Chicago Daily News. Twenty-four important features published regularly by The Daily News will be taken in turn from their usual position in the paper and "paraded" on the first page.

The Daily News publishes every day a great many exclusive features—in number, variety and excellence unexcelled by those appearing in any newspaper in the world. The Daily News has more than a million daily readers, but not all readers, of course, read all the features every day. The Parade of the Features stages a contest that will help familiarize Daily News readers, new and old, with the wealth of attractive reading matter which makes up the editorial content of Chicago's great home newspaper.

In order that closer and more comprehensive attention may be rewarded, large cash prizes are offered for the best letters commenting upon the various features. Read the rules of the contest and the list of prizes offered. Then follow the Parade and enter the contest; you will enjoy the fun.

556 Cash Prizes

$3,000.00

The following cash prizes will be awarded for the best letters of comment on the features of each group—139 prizes—$750.00 per group. The aggregate for the four groups is $3,000.00.

First prize	$250.00
Second prize	100.00
Third prize	50.00
Fourth prize	25.00
10 prizes—$10 each .	100.00
25 prizes—$ 5 each .	125.00
100 prizes—$ 1 each .	100.00

CONTEST RULES

The features are divided into four groups, as follows, and will be so classified when published on page one. Remember, prizes are offered for the best letters covering each group:

1. Those classed as Editorial features.
2. Those classed as Humorous features.
3. Those classed as Women's and Home features.
4. Those classed as General features throughout the paper.

The contestant must write a letter, of not more than 100 words, stating which is his favorite Daily News feature (of the 24 selected for this contest) and why. The best letters will be those showing the clearest understanding and appreciation of the features commented upon.

Any contestant may write four letters, one for each group of features in the contest, thus having four chances to win a prize, though only one prize will be awarded to any one person.

Neatness, grammar and spelling will not be counted in the contest, but contestants are asked to be as careful as possible in preparing their entries.

As many members of a family as wish to do so may enter the contest.

The contest is open to all except employes of The Daily News and their families.

It is not necessary to be a reader of The Daily News to compete in this contest. Neither need one buy a copy of The Daily News. It may be seen free at the Public Library or in the Reference Department of this newspaper.

The Parade of the Features will last until October 9th. Watch it carefully and then write out your entries and mail your letters to the Parade Editor, The Daily News, 15 North Wells Street, Chicago, during the week ending October 16. No entries will be accepted post-marked after that date.

The Parade Starts Monday, September 13, and Finishes Saturday, October 9th—24 Days

GAS the Fuel

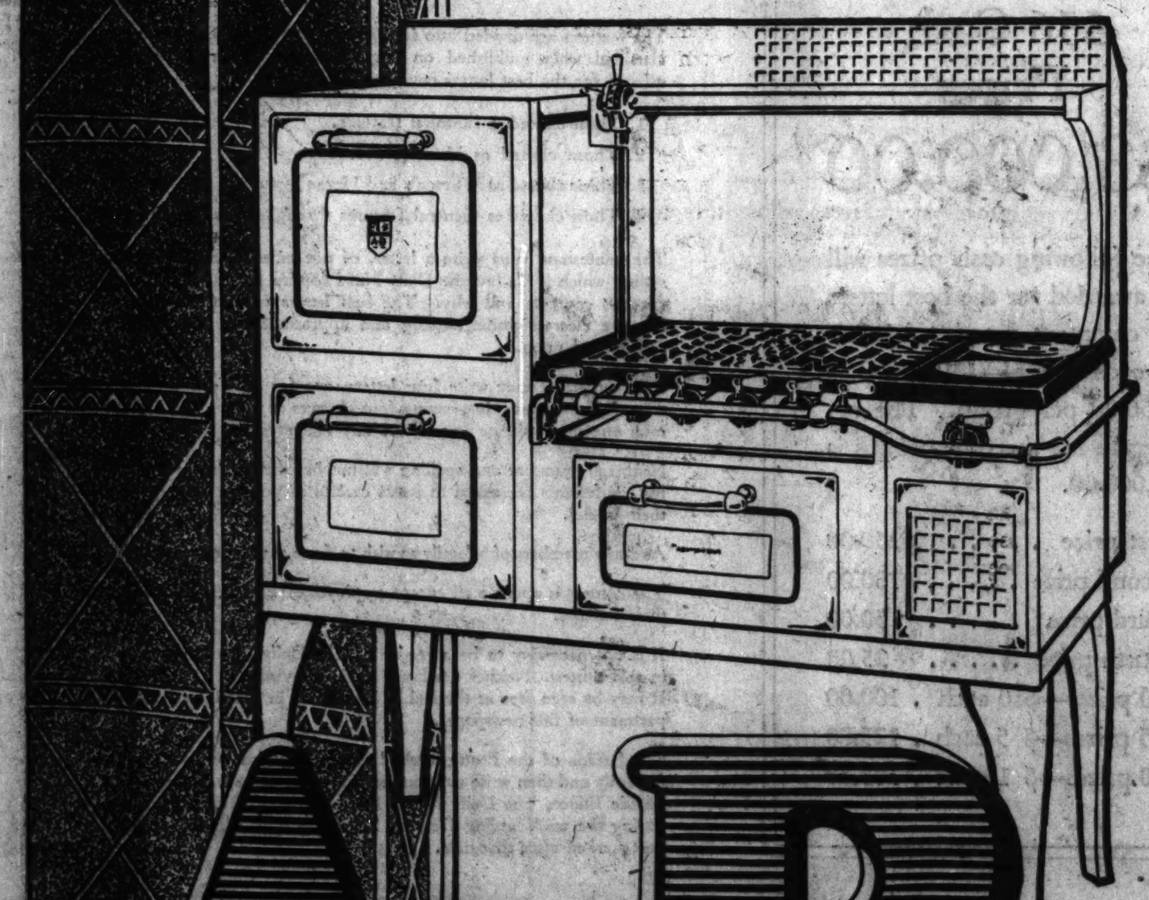
A Fuel that Marks the Modern Home

WHEREVER the magic of gas has been applied, there we see progress. With the introduction of gas into our homes we see the dawn of a new era — an era of new conveniences, new comforts and new economies. We see the realization of a new triumph over household drudgery, aggravation and waste.

Those Towers of Progress

The great steel towers in your city are the symbols of achievement — the landmarks of progress. They are the fuel bins of a new era. Their presence is a pledge of service—a confiding assurance that no home piped for gas need suffer the consequences of fuel famines, that their fuel supply will be always and instantly available without the necessity of annually laying in and paying for large supplies of expensive and wasteful coal and wood.

The dirty wood box, the coal bucket, the soot-laden chimney and the cumbersome cook stove have no place in the gas-serviced home, and the fuel is paid for only as and when used.



The A-B UNIFIED Cooks the Meals

Gas, the clean, invisible and economical fuel gives us, among other things, the indispensable benefits of the A-B Unified Gas Range which cooks, bakes and heats with gas. No kindling of fires, no carrying of wood and coal, no ashes. With the A-B Unified Gas Range, should we wish to cook, or bake, or take the uncomfortable chill out of our home, we have but to press a lighter button and immediately the gas responds with an intense heat that quickly cooks our meals or heats our room as we like.

Every modern improvement is embodied in this remarkable range. It has a standard four-burner cooking top, large size baking oven with rust-proof linings and oven—and automatic oven-heat control. In addition, it has the wonderful in-built gas-heater section.

Warms and Purifies the Air

The heater section has solid top with two stove lids. Specially designed gas burners heat the cold air as it is drawn from the room, whence it passes through the heat chambers in the back of the range and into the room, while fumes are drawn up through the flue. Thus the cold, impure air of the kitchen is sterilized and sent back into your home fresh, pure and comfortably heated.

Kitchen Plan Book Free

Mail the coupon TODAY and receive a beautifully-colored booklet giving plans of convenient kitchen arrangement, wall color schemes, etc., etc. The booklet is full of illustrations and good ideas. All Free.

A-B Unified

of A New Era

For Convenience Comfort and Economy

Immaculately clean kitchens are possible for the home on the gas service line, for gas-stove kitchens can be easily kept clean. The comfortable, delightful kitchen is the gas-stove kitchen. There is no question about it. And when we remember that for the quick heating of water for the sick patient, or the preparation of food at any hour for the sick room, gas is the one fuel always dependable, its real importance is increased many fold. No home can be called modern without gas, and no gas-serviced home is complete without the latest and best appliances for using it.

The New Era Has Come

Thanks to the genius of master men, the skill and brawn of thousands of workers, and the investment of millions of dollars, we have come into an era of new-found comforts and greater conveniences; we see the mysterious magic of gas in daily unfailing service without thought of effort, no irritating disappointments and no exorbitant expenditures.

GAS RANGE Heats the Kitchen

Not a Luxury--a Necessity

For the sake of our comfort—for the health of our children who must be dressed early on chilly mornings of the early fall or late spring when we hesitate to fire up the furnace—for the sake of a warm kitchen in any season before the furnace has had time to heat it comfortably—this double-duty range must be considered as a necessity.

And it need cost no more to enjoy these comforts, for the breakfast may be cooked over the heater top with the same gas that is heating the kitchen.

Thousands Now in Use

The A-B Unified Gas Range has brought a new appreciation of modern comfort and convenience into thousands of homes, more than two thousand of them in Chicago alone.

15 Days' Trial In Your Own Kitchen FREE

We can hardly appreciate what a truly indispensable service awaits us in the Unified Gas Range until we get it into our home where we may see and feel and enjoy its advantages. Upon request the A-B Stove Company will have one of these remarkable ranges placed in any gas-serviced home for private demonstration, where it may be used to cook and bake and heat for fifteen days. If, after a two weeks' trial, the old method is preferred to the new, your Gas Company will remove the range and replace the old one without argument, without obligation and with only the satisfaction of having done a duty to those whom it aims to serve. Thousands of these ranges have been sold on this basis.

See Your Gas Company

More complete details about the A-B Unified Range, the description of the different sizes and styles made, prices and terms, will be gladly given upon request. Also all information regarding the Free Trial. Remember to fill out and mail the coupon in this advertisement, which calls for the beautifully-illustrated booklet of Kitchen Plans.

Makes It Safe for the Babies

A-B Stove Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Gentlemen:—The A-B Unified Gas Range I have in my home was installed and put into operation on October 1, 1925—8½ months ago. On April 9th of the same year a pair of babies came into our home and, as you may guess, the ordinary methods of caring for them had to be altered to accommodate two instead of one, which meant some changes. One of these changes was the place of bathing. We decided our kitchen was the best place, but the heating was important. So we bought a Unified Range and had no difficulty in raising the temperature of the kitchen 10 to 15 degrees in as many minutes, making it safe for the babies. Last winter was a cold one, so the service your range gave was doubly appreciated, as it did something not before possible, and economically, too, twice a day, mid-morning and night.

This evening is very cool. The thermometer reads 55 degrees in our kitchen. We lighted the heating section and in a little while it was comfortable. Friend wife likes the oven very well, and the heat control still more. She appreciates, too, the ingenuity of your designer in making a catch for the pan under the burners, as our little girls are on their feet now and would have it on the floor as fast as their mother could return it, were it not for that device. She wants me also to mention that she takes a great deal of pride in the general appearance of her stove (we have the all-white enamel). The walls and ceiling of our kitchen are white, our sink is white, the linoleum on the floor is a sort of checkered white and blue and with the all-enamel Unified Range you can picture for yourself what an inviting kitchen we have.

Lowered the Gas Bills

A-B Stove Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Gentlemen:—It is with pleasure we write to let you know we are very much pleased with the Unified Range in all respects. We have found it just as we hoped it would be when we purchased it. We used the heating section for cooking and found it very satisfactory both for cooking and heating, also found it heated the room very nicely. We used the gas a great deal for baking and heating, and were surprised our gas bills were not as high as they used to be with our old stove which we used nearly as much. The oven control is giving us very good satisfaction.

Originals of these letters on file in our office. Name and address on request.

A-B STOVE CO., BATTLE CREEK, MICH.

Gentlemen: I will be interested in learning more about the A-B Unified Gas Range, and would like to receive a copy of your new booklet showing kitchen plans and giving color schemes for the kitchen, without obligation on my part.

RADIO SEASON ON TOMORROW IN NEW YORK

Two Big Meetings Will Feature Show.

BY FRANK HINMAN.

The 1926-1927 radio season will be ushered in tomorrow with the usual ceremonies at the Radio World's Fair which opens at 2 o'clock in Madison Square Garden, New York. There will be the usual parades, ceremonies, introductions of notables and predictions "that this year is destined to be the greatest in the history of the industry."

Whether these predictions come true remains to be seen, but there is no doubt of the fact that the present show will be the greatest in the history of radio. For the past few years New York has had two radio shows running in opposition to each other, but this year the managers of each got together and there is to be just oneexhibition.

Much of Interest to Fans.

At this show practically every manufacturer of sets, parts, or accessories in the country will be represented and the value of exhibits will far outstrip any other previous affair of a similar nature. While advance notices of the show do not indicate that anything of a revolutionary character will be on exhibition there will be much to interest the radio fans.

Manufacturers have been working all summer in perfecting their lines of goods and fans will see sets more beautiful and easier to operate. Numerous manufacturers will show receivers operating direct from electric light sockets, while the number of one and two control sets will be far greater than last year.

Two Big Meetings.

The show, which lasts all week, will be the occasion for two big get-together meetings on the part of the radio industry. On Wednesday morning there will be a joint conference of the National Association of Broadcasters, the Radio Manufacturers' association, and several other bodies and the much talked of "chaos" will be the chief topic for discussion.

Wednesday night will witness the banquet of the radio industry in the Hotel Astor, which will be featured by the greatest hookup of radio stations ever undertaken. More than 30 stations, probably 36, will be tied together in one great chain for the event and will carry to a radio audience estimated at millions the entire proceedings.

Sam 'n' Henry on Air.

Vice President Charles C. Dawes will be the principal speaker, and for entertainment features the directors of the banquet have obtained the services of the leading radio artists all over the country. Opera stars, comedians, singers, musicians, and orchestras will follow each other in an endless procession before the battery of microphones which have been installed.

W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, which will broadcast the affair for local listeners, will be represented by its colored comedians, Sam 'n Henry. The boys are making the trip to New York for the single purpose of appearing in the banquet for their 10 minute dialogue.

The first day of the show will see the crowning of the Queen of Radio, an honor which fell this year to an Illinois woman, Mrs. Lotta Harrauff of Princeton, Ill. Mrs. Harrauff was selected after a nation wide contest conducted by the management of the show as the woman best typifying the spirit of radio. She has made a remarkable record in the reception of stations and wrote an inspiring essay on what radio means to womanhood.

Following the New York show the manufacturers will pack their exhibits and ship them to Chicago for the local exhibition which officially opens the 1926-1927 radio season as far as the middle west is concerned. This show, which is to be held in the Coliseum, is scheduled for the week of Oct. 11 and will extend to Oct. 17.

POLITICIANS TO DO CAMPAIGNING ON RADIO SOON

The forthcoming elections are causing political aspirants to again utilize radio in reaching the public. Both parties are busy making arrangements for use of stations and big hook-ups will be utilized to broadcast the final speeches of many campaigns. It is expected that listeners will be interested in the elections this fall because the entire house of representatives and one-third of the senate is up for reelection, with a change in the balance of power in congress pending.

Inside the Loud Speaker

By Quin A. Ryan, W-G-N Announcer

WE HAVE lately been residing on an island in Lake Superior where radio is a thing unknown. The extreme dampness and the underground ore deposits make it impossible to receive radio signals in the neighborhood.

The futility of trying to set up radio apparatus for summer entertainment has considerably lessened the island's desirability as a vacation resort. Many vacationists have tried, and have gone away mad.

This situation brought home to us the probable truth of many airy theories we've been hearing about radio's effect on real estate. Of course, it is generally known that many localities are "dead spots" for certain radio stations and many other localities are "dead spots" for all stations. A number of impediments, known or impossible to discover, annihilate all radio reception in the vicinity. And admittedly such a bailiwick would go hard on the dialed in the wool radio bug.

Some one has advanced the notion that the future purchaser of suburban property will have as much of an eye on radio receiving conditions in his territory as he has on the other items that go to make up valuable real estate. A home situated close to a high powered sending station, or close to an electric power plant or elevated lines may encounter much interference, and thus find its property value lopped off in the estimation of the good citizen to whom his radio set has become as vital a chattel as his bathtub.

Certain it is that in one village just outside of Chicago the townsfolk nightly rise in their wrath against a radio station that has planted itself in their midst. They can't get another blessed thing!

And Prof. Jome of Denison university has said in his "Economics of the Radio Industry": "The popularization of radio may tend to cause a shift in our urban populations. The interurban train has made the suburbs desirable. May not the radio, by enabling the commuters to take a part of their entertainment and instruction into their homes, cause more migration from the centrally located sections to the suburban districts?"

ONCE AGAIN, here's the "Ask Me a Hard One Man." The Man will answer any and all questions pertaining to radio personalities or their intimate affairs. Address him in care of your nearest bicycle dealer:

Razbb.—The real names of the "Harmony Girls" of radio fame are the Misses Carpenter and Ingram. They used to play professional football before coming into radio, and they like radishes.

J. W. B.—No, Jack Nelson, of WJJD, is not running for constable this fall. It is probably another man by the name of O'Leary you're thinking of. Anyway, Jack is married, and formerly played professional football with Gen. U. S. Grant.

Plug Hat.—As far as I know Polish has never been taught on the radio, and I really don't know where you could take lessons.

J. P. T.—Yes, it is odd. In New York City the legitimate theaters have a "silent night" and the radio stations have none; and in Chicago the radio stations have a "silent night" and the theaters have none. All the legitimate theaters are closed in New York on Sunday nights.

E. W. P.—The announcer at WQJ is Harry Geise. You were right. And, yes, I do agree with you in thinking that over the radio it sounds something like Harry Geise. He used to play professional football in the commercial league, wearing the uniform of the Medicine Hat company.

Constant Reader X.—Goldy and Dusty have had quite a history. They were the first colored children born in Illinois. Early in the last century they migrated to Chicago with a covered wagon minstrel show and are generally credited with discovering the Municipal pier. They used to play at professional football, and one of their collaborated novels, "Ivanhoe," met with great popularity in its day.

Mama.—I am very sorry that I cannot tell you of any station hereabouts which would broadcast your baby's crying so that its grandmother might hear it in Omaha. Grandma might be stepping out that night, anyway.

Rosie.—I have referred your question to the Floradora Alumnæ society and they report that the Floradora sextet never sang on the radio.

Lo, it has come to pass! A radio station (KTAB of Oakland, Cal.), is broadcasting once a week "Fifteen Minutes with Stamp Collectors."

And lo! and lo! again. Out in Omaha this week they're broadcasting a "hog calling contest." Whereupon Mr. Marconi, in his Italian residence, snorted so loudly that Vesuvius commenced to smoke!

KELLY SMITH IS NEW DIRECTOR AT STATION WBBM

Kelly Smith, the business manager of WBBM, is now studio director, succeeding to the post held by Charlie Garland. He will combine in his new position the duties of both offices.

Mr. Smith is a comparatively new comer in the field of radio broadcasting. Mr. Smith is qualified by reason of his mechanical knowledge of radio and the fact that he has had a musical education. He is, in fact, an accomplished violinist.

Mr. Garland is one of the best known studio directors and announcers in the country. He has gained a reputation as a pianist, as an organist, and as a composer of music. He is leaving the station to start a piano school.

RUSSIA SHOWS WAY TO U. S. IN USE OF RADIO

The government of Russia is showing the way to the United States and other countries by adapting the radio to its most useful purposes, according to Frank Reichmann, member of the Chicago Radio Commission. Receiving sets are being installed in every city, village, and hamlet of Russia so that every one, no matter how poor, can enjoy all the benefits of high powered radio receivers.

"This plan should be worked out in the United States," says Mr. Reichmann. "It could very easily be done. Many small communities have already installed community sets in the town hall, or some other place centrally located.

"In Poulan, Ga., for instance, the woman's club of the town installed a set and the batteries are renewed by popular subscription. This set is in operation almost continuously. Any one who wishes to drop in at the town hall and hear what is going on can do so.

"I believe it will not be long before every community will do the same thing. Once these sets are installed it would be very easy for the government to spread warning of disastrous storms, etc. The same system of communication could readily be used for the speedy apprehension of criminals. When a crime is committed in a small community and the criminal has escaped the town police could telephone the nearest broadcasting station and this station could then spread the alarm. In this way it would be practically impossible for the criminals to get away by following any road which ran through a village.

"In connection with community receiving sets, it must also be borne in mind that in every community there are persons, even in the United States, whose incomes are not sufficient to justify the investment in a high powered, long distance radio set. These people, however, are just as much entitled to enjoy themselves as any one else. This is especially true of the children. In the more remote towns a community radio set is just as essential to the progress and welfare of the community as is the public school."

An Amazing New "A" Power Unit Necessity

Operates as trickling charger or fast rate charger. Two chargers in one compact unit and yet the price is lower than the standard charger

The HANDY Trickle Booster, a new invention by Interstate, fills a well known need of radio owners. It acts as a trickling charger employing AC house lighting current to keep batteries up to full capacity. Unlike all others, should batteries become weakened through unusually prolonged use, the HANDY can be instantly converted to a fast rate charger by simply throwing a switch. The charging rate is then converted from one-half to 2½ amperes per hour. Low batteries are quickly brought up to normal. These exclusive features insure positive freedom from irritation or disappointment over lost or poor radio reception due to weakened batteries. The HANDY Trickle Booster is the doctor for all sick "A" batteries regardless of how serious the case.

By merely flipping the small toggle switch the Handy is instantly changed from a trickle charger to a fast rate charger, or back again. Bulb type.

There are no moving parts to wear and get out of order—no chemicals to spill and ruin rugs or furniture. It is absolutely noiseless in operation. It requires no attention. All connections to battery and light sockets are permanent.

The HANDY Trickle Booster fits in any radio cabinet which has provision for an "A" power unit. Size is 5" x 3⅝" x 7⅛". Weight only 9½ lbs. Encased in all metal container beautifully finished in Duco Brewster Green. Attractive to the eye—essential to the set—economical in price. Sold on a guarantee of entire satisfaction.

RADIO SETS

$190,000 Stock of These Fine Sets at Savings of Nearly Half!

RADIO RECEPTION is good now—and, with the fall and winter seasons ahead, this is the ideal time of the year to buy your radio set. When comparing the Thermiodyne with other sets at or near these prices, we found that it is far superior in construction, reception and ease of operation. After you have seen and heard the Single Control THERMIODYNE, you, too, will be convinced of its outstanding superiority. Make no mistake—these sets are not being sold at practically half their value because they are in any way undesirable. The manufacturers, after preparing for a nation-wide output, did not have proper methods of distribution. They were tremendously overstocked and were, therefore, forced to sell these sets to us at a remarkable price concession. Now we offer them to you at remarkable savings to make the opening of our radio section an event long to be remembered. And, after all, every Thermiodyne is fully guaranteed by Mandel Brothers.

4 Facts About the Thermiodyne That Make It First in the Opinion of Over 6,000 Chicago Radio Fans

At these sale prices, Thermiodyne represents the utmost in radio value. Below we quote 4 of the outstanding reasons for its popularity in Chicago and throughout America.

Thermiodyne's Single Dial Master Control

The master control of Thermiodyne shown above is a control so simple that a child can operate it. It is merely a master knob that regulates all tuning after the receiver is once set, although separate controls are on the set for the finer tuning or for the radio fan searching for distance. The Master Control THERMIODYNE is for all radio enthusiasts—those, advanced in the art as well as beginners.

Clarity of Tone

You'll appreciate the clear, bell-like tone of the THERMIODYNE. Whether you're listening to grand opera or the baseball scores, every sound will come in true and easy to hear.

Selectivity

A powerful, highly selective set is this six tube THERMIODYNE Master Control. It has three stages of thermionic frequency, two stages of audio frequency, and one detector.

Long Distance Reception

Under favorable conditions your Thermiodyne will bring in long distance stations with amazing ease. Many a thrill will be yours on cold winter evenings when you tune in one long distance station after another. No other radio set, under similar conditions, will outdo the single dial Thermiodyne in tuning in long distance stations.

BROADCASTING PROGRESSES FAR IN ITS 5 YEARS

Revolutionizes Field of Amusements.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—This month marks the fifth anniversary of the issuing of the first broadcasting license in this country. Since then radio has proved such a remarkable medium for reaching people in their homes with free entertainment that it has revolutionized the amusement field.

In fact, so marked has been the trend that station directors who began in the electrical industry now find themselves in the show business. Radio audiences have grown during the last five years until they number millions of persons. Twenty million listeners seems to be the accepted figure.

The development is of such alarming proportions to theatrical and moving picture people that they are asking what will the radio give the public for nothing next. That would be a hard question to answer. Far easier to enumerate the astounding presentation of notables and entertainment heard on the air during its first five years.

Fans Hear Celebrities.

During that time American radio fans have heard four Presidents or ex-Presidents—Taift, Wilson, Harding, and Coolidge—while the list of cabinet members, grand opera stars, athletes, moving picture celebrities, actors, and politicians who have appeared before the microphone is too lengthy to mention.

While the radio spoken drama is in its infancy in this country it has evidently progressed ahead of us in England, for there they give them the real thing for a scenic background. They have portable relay broadcasting trucks which they take anywhere they choose to stage a play.

If the scene is in a railroad station—as do the movie people—to the railroad station the broadcasters go. Thus you hear locomotives and trains actually arrive and depart. The same with a play on a sea beach, where the ocean breakers may be heard, or in a crowded London thoroughfare, where the listener is afforded the traffic roars.

Heard Dempsey Hit Floor.

Even so, looking back over our own first five years of broadcasting, some mighty spectacular things have happened. One of these was during the Dempsey-Firpo championship fight in New York City, Sept. 14, 1923, when Firpo knocked Dempsey down with a dull, sickening thud, carried realistically by radio to fight fans who were listening all over the country.

Entirely different but even more dramatic was the farewell utterance over the radio by the then stricken former President, Woodrow Wilson, on Armistice day, Nov. 11, 1923.

It was the sad duty of the radio three months later, Feb. 5, 1924, to broadcast the funeral services of Mr. Wilson from Bethlehem chapel in the Episcopal cathedral in Washington.

There followed the broadcasting for the first time of the great political conventions. At the Republican national convention at Cleveland, June 12, President Calvin Coolidge, sitting in the White House at Washington, had the unique experience of hearing himself renominated for the presidency.

Fans Go to Bed.

And then came the never-to-be-forgotten Democratic convention in New York City. Through the miracle of radio this gathering literally had the country by the ears from June 24 until July 10, the most protracted convention in the history of the United States.

Due to the fight unto death between Al Smith and William Gibbs McAdoo, the affair seemed interminable, the struggle always being lightened by the beginning of the roll, when the faithful southern delegate could be heard as far west as the Pacific ocean shouting "Alabama votes 12 for Underwood!"

Finally, when John W. Davis was nominated on the 103 ballot at 2:30 on the morning of the 17th day, radio fans shut off their receivers and turned in for a good long sleep.

MANY GREAT EVENTS HAVE BEEN BROADCAST IN 5 YEARS OF RADIO

In the five years since broadcasting was first undertaken for the amusements of the radio public, many great events have been put on the air. A few of these follow:

The returns of the presidential election in 1920, by a Pittsburgh station.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight on July 4, 1921.

World series, 1921.

Funeral service of former President Harding August, 1923.

Last public appearance of former President Wilson at the Armistice day celebration in the Arlington National cemetery, Nov. 11, 1923.

A national hook-up broadcast the President's message to Congress, Dec. 6, 1923.

Funeral services of former President Woodrow Wilson from Washington cathedral, February, 1924.

Democratic and Republican national conventions in 1924.

Addresses of Coolidge, Davis, and La Follette, candidates for the presidency in the political campaign of 1924. Also speeches by Gen. Dawes and Senator Wheeler, candidates for the vice presidency.

National Defense day programs of Sept. 12, 1924, and July 4, 1925, were carried by broadcasting stations throughout the country.

Program incident to the inauguration of President Calvin Coolidge, March 4, 1925.

Memorial day services from Arlington National cemetery, 1924, 1925, and 1926.

Pleas for aid from many stations in the middle west on March 18, 1925, when the cyclone destroyed towns in Missouri, southern Illinois, and Indiana.

Announcement of the death of William Jennings Bryan, who died in Dayotn, Tenn., July 26, 1925, was made over the radio by the Associated Press.

CANADA STILL BEST BUYER OF U. S. RADIO GOODS

Spent $3,662,928 with Us in 1925.

Canada was our leading market for radio apparatus during 1925, Asia ranked second, Europe third, and Latin-America was fourth in importance, according to the electrical equipment division of the department of commerce.

Canada purchased equipment valued at $3,662,298, or over 37 per cent, of our total radio exports in 1925. South America bought $999,123 worth, or over 10 per cent of total exports. The periods of maximum sales of radio equipment in Canada and South America are directly opposite. Sales during September to February are large in Canada, while the South American market is dull, and, conversely, South America is an active purchaser from May through August, when the seasonal decline is in effect in Canada. Because of this variation sales promotion activities may be regulated by the American exporters so as to divide his efforts between the two markets according to the seasonal changes.

South Americans Interested.

Radio development in South American countries has progressed, but less rapidly than it has in Canada. The general economic and social conditions, lack of broadcasting stations, and the static interference of reception in many South American districts have limited sales. The marked gains in purchasing made by Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay and Peru in 1925 show the public interest in radio. Other countries are promoting its use, and, although advancement is gradual, further increases in sales should be made in this area.

Mexico, Central America, and the West Indies are, in general, handicapped in radio development by the low purchasing power of the population and the almost constant static which makes reception nearly impossible in some regions. Broadcasting in the English language is of little value to most of the people in this area, and adequate service in Spanish has not been established. Some of the countries have overstocked markets, others have a tendency to make small purchases in order to prevent the accumulation of unsold stocks, and sales have decreased.

Canadian Imports Jump.

Canadian imports of American radio apparatus during 1925 showed a gain of $1,269,241, or more than 52 per cent over those of 1924, while South American imports increased $233,286, or a little less than 40 per cent. Sales to Mexico decreased $121,382, or about 30 per cent, and shipments to Central America declined $123,061, or a little less than 40 per cent. Despite the decreases shown for Mexico and Central America, the total of United States radio exports to Latin American countries increased $28,843 for 1925.

Radio Saves U. S. $74,313 in First Half of 1926

The report of the war department for the first six months of 1926 shows that the use of the radio net saved $74,313.74. The cost of radio communications during the period was $27,598.62. The same messages would have cost $101,912.37 had commercial wires been used.

EXPERT THINKS WE WILL NEVER CONQUER STATIC

Know Little of It After 20 Years' Research.

Atmospheric disturbances, commonly called static, probably never will be eliminated entirely from radio reception, according to Dr. L. W. Austen, head of the Laboratory of Special Radio Transmission Research of the bureau of standards. Dr. Austin is an international authority, having conducted radio research for twenty years.

"Our knowledge concerning the atmospheric disturbances is still very meager," declared Dr. Austin. "The observed facts may be catalogued as follows:

"In general, atmospherics are stronger at the longer wave lengths.

"Except for the effects of local storms, they are nearly always stronger in the afternoon and night, while for the higher frequencies this increase in strength is confined usually to the night alone.

"They are stronger in summer than in winter, in the south than in the north, and on the land than on the ocean.

"A large proportion of them appear to be directive; that is, to come from definite regions or centers, as mountain ranges, rain areas, or thunderstorms. It is also reasonably certain that at least most of the long wave disturbances travel along the earth with a practically vertical wave front, like the signals; that a considerable portion are nonoscillatory and give rise to shock oscillations in the antenna at all wave lengths; and that disturbances sometimes occur simultaneously at stations thousands of miles apart."

U. S. WILL DANCE TO MUSIC FROM BRITISH BANDS

Overseas Broadcasts to Start Soon.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—David Sarnoff, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, who has been in Europe for several days, has announced that the main object of his visit is to arrange for a closer interchange of radio programs between England and the United States.

Mr. Sarnoff had succeeded in keeping his presence in London a mystery for nearly a week, during which time he had numerous interviews with officials of the British Broadcasting company and when discovered at last he was in a position to say that the new arrangements will be brought into force in the early fall.

"A feature of these trans-Atlantic programs," said Mr. Sarnoff, "one that has not been followed before, is that they will only be given for trans-Atlantic consumption and at hours most suitable for our listeners—4,000 to 6,000 miles away.

Too Early for America.

"Up to now the programs given in London and transmitted to America have generally reached the United States too early for the ordinary radio fans.

"What I have now arranged is for the Savoy bands to broadcast beginning at two o'clock and going on till seven o'clock in the morning, London time. This program will reach the United States at a time when the whole continent is able to dance to it. These American bands will play in the empty Savoy Restaurant foyer and there will be no audience visible or ethereal in England.

"I am completely assured from past experience that the United States wants programs from other countries.

"But continents do not want the leaving from other continents' broadcasting programs, sent off on a bit more power. They want programs specifically designed for their own moods; when that is done the biggest step will have been achieved in organizing international programs.

No Longer a Novelty.

"The day is gone when people in the United States listen to Europe for the novelty. The object of my visit has been to arrange for United States listeners to hear items from Europe—whether it be artists, soloists or famous dance bands—which they cannot hear at home.

"Listeners are no longer interested in how they get their air food, but in what they get."

SEVEN PROMINENT PASTORS TO TALK FROM WLS IN OCT.

Seven of the nation's best known clergymen—representing as many leading cities—will be heard from station WLS in the fall quarter of the religious services of the University of Chicago.

The quarter starts at 10:45 a. m. on Oct. 3, with Chaplain T. G. Soares of the university delivering the day's address and with a program of devotional music furnished by the school's choir under the leadership of Mack Evans.

Music will be interspersed with the services, the choir filling out only as the address of the day ends. A twenty minute chimes program will follow each service.

Oct 10 and 17 the pulpit will be occupied by Rev M. H. Krumbein, pastor of the Parkside Evangelical church of Buffalo, N. Y. The program for the remainder of the quarter follows

Oct. 24 and 31—Rev. Harold E. B. Speight, Kings chapel, Boston, Mass.

Nov. 7 and 14—Rev. Lynn Harold Hough, Central Methodist Episcopal church, Detroit, Mich.

Nov. 21 and 28—Rev. C. Wallace Petty, First Baptist church of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dec. 5 and 12—Rev. David Bryn-Jones, Trinity Baptist church, Minneapolis, Minn.

Dec. 19, Convocational Sunday—President Bernard Iddings Bell, St. Stephen's college, Annadale-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.

WEATHER MAPS VIA AIR TO AID SHIPS AT SEA

Mariners Can Now Avoid Danger.

Following a successful demonstration of the transmission of weather maps to ships at sea by radio, the regular transmission of these charts has been begun by the naval station NAA at Arlington, Va.

The necessary apparatus was invented by C. Francis Jenkins, who gave the following description of the process.

"The map is put on a glass cylinder with a light inside the cylinder. The light passing or shining through the rotating map falls on a light sensitive cell, whose function is to charge the lights and darks of the picture map into the electric current. The high lights represent a strong electric current and the absence of light means no current at all, for there are no half tones in a map. It is comparable to a telegraph key which opens and closes an electric current. The key modulated electric current is then put on a broadcasting electric transmitter, which sends out these signals.

All Very Simple.

"They are picked up at all receiving stations on land and on shipboard. The incoming radio signals operate a pen to apply ink to the white paper on the rotating cylinder of the machine. The map is therefore built up by a succession of little dots of ink on the white paper. That is all and very simple."

According to government officials the invention is going to be a tremendous aid to navigation and safety at sea. The mariner now will be in a position to know weather conditions so that he can avoid danger, such as the direction of hurricanes for instance.

Two Vessels Now Equipped.

At present only two naval vessels, the cruiser Trenton and the transport Kittery, are equipped with the necessary receiving apparatus. It is believed, however, that all ships plying the waters in zones where these signals may be received will hasten to equip their vessels.

It is said by the inventor that these signals may be received at distances up to 1,500 miles in day time and two or three times as far at night. They will be sent through the 20 kilowatt tube at Arlington.

Three More Stations Get Broadcasting Licenses

The department of commerce last week issued broadcasting licenses to WGGM, Robert B. Bridge, San Antonio, Tex., 263 meters; KGCM, Abe E. Smith, Concordia, Kas., 210 meters; KGCL, Louis Wasmer, Seattle, Wash., 230.6 meters. Station WWAK, Electric Park, Ill., changed its wave length from 241.8 to 234.4 meters, and KGH, A. C. Dailey, Seattle, Wash., from 209.7 to 227 meters.

SHORT WAVES

Sweden is to have a broadcasting station with two masts 394 feet high and a minimum capacity of 50 kilowatts.

Radio programs are ninety per cent music.

Lower cable and radio tolls are being urged between the United States and Japan.

There are 304 vacancies in the Navy radio personnel.

Where you get great distance on small power, you usually get great interference.

Trans-oceanic wireless stations use antenna three miles long.

Programs by radio stars and a meeting place for the radio industry will be afforded by the newest of night clubs in the Greenwich Village.

You be the judge of its value—

Dealers who sell the Majestic "B" Current Supply are confident that it improves reception. So confident, they make you this unusual offer: Buy a Majestic today. Attach it to your set and use it for one week right in your own home. If, at the end of this time, you are not fully convinced that it gives you better radio performance—more dependable power at less cost—your money will be refunded!

Economical to Operate

You couldn't want a better proposition than this. The Majestic "B" Current supply, because of its unvarying constant voltage, gives you improved tone, greater volume—all at the low cost of about one-tenth cent an hour. So you can appreciate that here is a practical radio investment.

Your original purchase price will be returned through operating economy alone.

No Filament to Burn Out

All the Majestic "B" Current Supply units are manufactured complete in our factory and are equipped with the famous Raytheon Tube. (Endorsed by numerous radio engineers and editors) which is a neon-filament tube with full wave rectification, no acids or back surge. Tests of the Majestic "B" on the oscillograph demonstrate that all A-C hum is eliminated.

Majestic Standard-B
Especially adapted for sets having not more than seven 201-A tubes, or six 201-A plus one 135-150 volt power tube. Popularly priced for the average set. Improves tone—betters reception.
Price $32.50

Majestic Super-B
Capacity 1 to 12 tubes, including the use of 135-150 volt power tubes. Complete with switch to control current from light socket.
Price $35.00

Majestic Master-B
Rating 60 mils at 150 volts. Particularly adapted for Radiola 25, 28 and 30 and Super heterodynes. Will operate all power tubes, also the new super-power tube UX-171 (180 volts). Unequalled for sets having a very heavy current draw.
Price $42.50

Majestic "B" Current Supply delivers pure direct current from your light socket

Give that set of yours the power it needs—power for any variation in tone. Then you'll have a new appreciation of radio. You will have one delightful program after another—summer evenings—winter evenings—ALL the time!

That's when your set is equipped with Majestic "B" Current Supply. Your set seems Alive with marvelous energy. You sense a new joy in radio.

You at last forget its mechanics, for a simple switch releases all the power you need for any program. Power—clean—constant—abundant! Power that instantly responds to high soprano, and as easily brings you the full resonance of an orchestration! Easily attached to your light socket saving you constant bother and attention.

NAVY TO HAVE WORLD'S BEST RADIO STATION

80 Kilowatt Set Will Be Built at San Diego.

A transmitter radiating 80,000 watts of electric energy, said to be the largest vacuum tube transmitter in the world, has just been installed in the naval radio station at San Diego, Cal., according to an announcement made by the radio division, bureau of engineering, navy department.

Power in radio, as it has become familiar to broadcast listeners, is denoted by this 80 kilowatt vacuum tube transmitter, engineers say.

The transmitter was not designed for broadcast use, but will be employed for the radio-telegraph communication, which code, it was explained. Code messages may be sent at the rate of 100 words per minute.

Can Talk to Japan.

The new station is about four times as powerful as any other vacuum tube transmitter in use by the government. It is capable of radiating about 80 watts as much electric energy as the ordinary broadcasting station and the navy department will be able to communicate directly with NSS, the radio station at Annapolis, Md.; with the Hawaiian Islands, with Japan, and with battleships and destroyers practically everywhere on the Pacific ocean.

The first transmitters used in the navy's stations were of the spark type, which radiated a discontinuous wave. These were replaced by the present type of arc transmitters, which were a great improvement and gave greater effectiveness in providing communication, because they radiated a continuous wave. The tube transmitters, however, are now displacing the arc transmitters because, among other reasons, of their higher efficiency and lower operating cost, according to claims of naval engineers.

Minimizes Interference.

In adopting the tube transmitter the navy officials said they were influenced by a desire to reduce the interference to radiocast listeners. The arc transmitters have always been a source of interference, it is said, producing arc "mush" and harmonics. This did not matter so much, it was explained, before the advent of broadcasting. Now, however, due to the rapid growth of broadcasting, conditions are different, and the navy department is cooperating with the department of commerce to clear the air of interference for the benefit of broadcast listeners.

The example, the Annapolis station, located a few miles from Washington and Baltimore, is shut down two hours every evening from 8 to 10 o'clock in order to clear the air from interference in that area. The Annapolis station has two arc transmitters, each rated at about 300 kilowatts, and except for the daily silent period it is in nearly continuous operation, communicating with various European and South American countries as well as the navy's Pacific coast stations. With the transmitter of equal range installed, naval radio engineers say, the station could be operated 24 hours a

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Sunday, September 12.) (Chicago Daylight Saving Time.)

AMERICAN composers will make up the theme of tonight's musical discussion in "Our Music Room" on W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. Several compositions by American musicians will be presented in instrumental and in vocal form. The following are numbered among the selections to be given: "Requiem," by Homer; "Noon and Night," by Hawley; "Zepher," by La Forge; "Call Me No More," by Cadman; "The Danza," by Chadwick; "From the Canebrake," by Gardner; and "Causerie," by MacMillan.

This program will be on the air between 9 and 10 o'clock. The vocal soloists who will take part are Kathleen Ryan, contralto, and Mark Love, basso.

The Lyon and Healy program at 2 o'clock this afternoon is to be given by Edwin Kempe, tenor; Anne Slack, cellist; and Erma Rounds, organist. Several beautiful old classics will be offered during the course of the hour. Mr. Kempe's portion of the program will include: "Where E'er You Walk," by Handel; "At Night," by Rachmaninoff; "Pale Moon," by Logan; "To a Hill-top," by Cox; and "Ma Lindy Lou," by Strickland. Among Miss Slack's numbers are the following: "Prelude and Allegro," by Corelli; "Kohl Nidrie," by Bruch; "Intermezzo," by Granados; "Polonaise," by Popper, and "Arabian Melody," by Glazounof.

Allen McQuhae, tenor, and Ann Mack, soprano, are the artists to be heard in the program brought by wire from New York tonight and presented on W-G-N. This will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Miss Mack has studied with several well-known teachers, among them Sibella, Harry Spear, and Estelle Leibling. The program to be presented tonight follows:

Opening Air.....
"Songs My Mother Taught Me".....Dvorak
Mr. McQuhae and orchestra.
"Qual Fiamma Avea Nel Guardo," from "Pasfiacci".....Leoncavallo
Miss Mack and orchestra.
"Espana Waltz".....Waldteufel
Nicolai Berezowsky's orchestra.
"When You and I Were Young, Maggie".....Butterfield
Mr. McQuhae and orchestra.
"En Cuba".....Frank La Forge
"Swing Along Negro".....William M. Cook
Miss Mack and orchestra.
"Hail and Farewell".....Gordon Johnson
"Now the Day Is Over".....Barnby
Mr. McQuhae and orchestra.

The W-G-N mixed quartet will give an extensive program of oratorio quartets and miscellaneous solos between 3 and 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The quartet is composed of Olive June Lacey, soprano; Kathleen Ryan, contralto; Frederick Wood, tenor, and Mark Love, basso.

Two organ recitals feature this afternoon's W-G-N schedule. Ambrose Larsen will give an hour's performance beginning at 1 o'clock and Ruth Farley will offer a recital at 4:30 o'clock. Both will play on the Wurlitzer organ.

The melodies to be presented in the "The Million Sing" this evening at 7 o'clock are: "The Old Oaken Bucket," "O God, Our Help," "Long, Long Ago," "Sweet Genevieve," "Old Black Joe," and "Still, Still, with Thee." Artists in the W-G-N studio will sing these old favorites and listeners will have an opportunity to join in.

The Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone string quintet will give a twilight concert on W-G-N at 7:30 o'clock this evening. These two orchestras will alternate in presenting groups of numbers broadcast direct from the Drake and the Blackstone hotels, respectively.

RADIO SCHOOL FOR FARMERS TO OPEN ON OCT. 1

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The establishment of the national farm radio school sponsored by the agricultural department to begin Oct. 1 offering short courses to the farmers and their sons through approximately 100 broadcasting stations seems to bear out the assertion of Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas that the farmer is getting more out of the radio than anybody else.

"He really makes more practical use of it," Senator Capper said. "In Kansas every well-to-do farmer has a radio. He gets his market reports every morning and daily programs from the Kansas Agricultural college. It means more to him and his family to be able to get the entertainment because they are further removed from the cities and haven't the entertainment opportunity of the city folk.

"Farmers and their families are miles and miles from the theaters and the fact that they can enjoy them has a tendency to keep the young people on the farm and add to the attractiveness of farm labor. Altogether the radio does much to take the edge off of any drudgery or the loss in small returns."

OAK PARK PASTOR SPEAKS AT WLS' CHAPEL SERVICES

The second of a series of chapel services to be presented by WLS Sunday afternoons from 1:45 to 2:30 will be on the air today. The speaker will be the Rev. Ernest Bourner Allan, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Oak Park. His subject for the service is "Brass Shields for Gold."

There will be appropriate music for these services, which have been arranged for WLS by the Chicago Church federation. This series of chapel services will continue indefinitely, always being on the air at the same hour each Sunday.

WIEBOLDT HALL the new home of Northwestern University School of Commerce is the first university building devoted exclusively to evening instruction in business subjects located on a university campus. Erected at a cost of a million dollars, it embodies all that is new in educational facilities, and forms an important part of what is justly considered the greatest urban educational project in America

The location is ideal. Situated at Lake Shore Drive and Chicago Avenue, it is near enough to the loop to be convenient to all, yet it is removed from disturbing noise and turmoil. It is close to all research facilities.

Commodious class rooms, enlarged library, ample quarters for student organizations, and dining hall are some of the distinctive features of this building.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

The Leisure Class Changes Its Name

By Mme. X.

THERE is no question about it; modern society life, with its background of domestic duties, does not satisfy the young woman of today. In preceding eras her tight lacing awakened her vitality and sapped its strength; her heavy tresses took so much time to care for and dress; her skirts, both full and long, hampered her activities.

These drawbacks being eliminated, she is left with an abundance of unconsumed energy which must find an outlet somehow and somewhere. Our marvelous national prosperity has relieved her of the manifold household cares such as occupied her great grandmother. Our increasingly high standard in the arts has made amateur music, painting, theatricals, and poetry academic and no self-respecting young woman would think of perpetrating any slipshod hearted achievements in the fine lines which used to take up time and attention of the well-to-do. One is either a professional singer, pianist, composer, painter, sculptor, poet player or actress, or one doesn't dabble in any of these.

For are sports sufficient to absorb the spare hours of the women of the leisure class, while the bearing and rearing of children seems to be carried on a side-line, whatever the main occupation of the women of today, and even that job has reached its conclusion and the offspring are grown up and launched, there is still that reserve supply of unsatisfied vigor.

Using Up Surplus Energy.

In the old days, in spite of the drudgery above referred to, there was often enough vim left to consume the listless victim of many restrictions and to become either a miserable and confirmed invalid, or she turned to social work with a passionate fervor that preempted her waking hours, and effectively satisfying her inchoate longings. This is no longer the case with women either young or not so young. Their physical freedom is reflected in the wide scope of their many activities. Some take up politics; some follow professional; some turn to office work, social editing, keeping shop, interior decorating, writing books, the legitimate stage, art in the many meanings of the word, singing in opera, or professional dancing.

The world knows young and able women of what is known as the fashionable world who have ventured in one or one of these various careers, along with those who have to make their living in them. The time has passed when such competition was considered as an injustice on the part of the

MISS JEAN LOGAN.

MISS MARY ELIZABETH COUCH.
[Bayhuff-Richter Photo.]

MRS. WILLIAM BRADFORD FREER

competing young society woman toward her needy sister. If she can make good in any of these callings she claims that she has a right to do it, today.

Plans for a Repertory Theater.

A particularly striking example of this instance on making a career, or striking out a path for herself, is that of Mrs. Samuel Insull, who is going, heart and soul, into her new undertaking, that of installing a first class repertory dramatic company in the Studebaker theater. She has been in New York since early August devoting herself to securing a play and a troupe of actors and actresses, a manager and scene painters. Besides this she is studying the principal rôle in the piece that is to open the season, and is also busy getting the necessary costumes. She is at the Biltmore, in New York, just now after spending a week or so visiting Mrs. Rensselaer Cox at Sag Harbor, Long Island. Mrs. Cox and her sister, Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, are with their mother, Mrs. Deshler of Columbus, O.

Having had a revivifying taste of sea air, Mrs. Insull is deep in all the intricacies of the task, for let me assure you it is no easy job to do what she is setting out to achieve. She will open in Chicago some time late in October. The Chicago Civic opera is to open November 8, and Mrs. Insull wants to have her theater well launched before that date. Knowing her and her talent, energy and courage it is safe to prophesy real and lasting success to this interesting undertaking. If any one can restore the days of this kind of what used to be called legitimate drama, it is brilliant Gladys Wallis, which is the name under which Mrs. Insull once charmed the theater going world.

Bringing Back the Old Days.

In the old days, before the cinema monopolized the attention of the amusement seekers, we used to delight in such troupes as the Daly company, where fame was made by Ada Rehan, John Drew, Georgie Drew Barrymore, Miss Gilbert, and the rest of that band of delightful Thespians, not to mention a dozen other similar companies. If Mrs. Insull can bring back something of this lost atmosphere of real and high class comedy she will be doing the discriminating public a great service. She is particularly well equipped for this task of actor-manager, having experience, great resources, and a natural gift to back her. Here's wishing her the highest possible success!

Mr. Insull has betaken himself, as he does two or three times a year, to his native land, England, where in Berkshire (be sure you pronounce it "Barkshire"), not far from Reading, he has a delightful, quaint and comfortable little retreat, an ancient farm house fitted up with all the modern requirements for comfort, but with little invasion of the original structure's characteristic architecture. It is set on a hillside overlooking a wooded valley and a little village, one far from the madding crowd, without even a railway station to connect it with the hurrying, noisy modern world. I suppose that our famous fellow citizen, the provider of so much of our light and heat and rapid transit, is happier in that tranquil, other-age refuge than anywhere else on this globe.

He will be back in this part of the world in time to see the opening of his wife's new enterprise and to be on hand when the curtain goes up on the fifth season of our Chicago grand opera on Nov. 8. But he's in no hurry to have his holiday end. He sailed yesterday on the Olympic.

Listing Some Successes.

To continue with my topic, society women's practical activities. Every one knows of the successful business venture of Mrs. John A. Carpenter and her sister-in-law, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, when they established a gift shop on Ontario street, the proceeds of which were dedicated to that excellent philanthropic enterprise, the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society. The board of managers of the Eli Bates settlement, with Mrs. Arthur Farwell at the head of this body, followed suit by setting up a linen shop on East Ontario street, the net proceeds of which go to this oldest Chicago social center.

Last spring Mrs. George F. Porter, whose marriage in India the previous year to Chicago's noted bachelor, George Porter, was the talk of the town, set up a book shop with her sister, Mlle. Manziarly. This was especially dedicated to the sale of books on theosophy and kindred subjects, in which occult themes these two attractive young Russo-French women are deeply interested. Mrs. Porter devoted much of her time to the shop early in the summer, even after she and her husband were settled in a house in Lake Forest which they took for June and July. She went in daily to superintend it.

Other well known young society women who have definite occupations outside of their domestic responsibilities are Mrs. Clay Judson, who is a sculptor of growing renown; Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, Mrs. Graham Aldis, and Mrs. Preston Boyden, each of whom is winning laurels by writing delightful poetry. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, one of our most prominent social leaders, is acquiring an international reputation as a writer of fiction. Mrs. Howard Linn and Miss Cornelia Conger are achieving sizable acclaim as authorities on interior decorating and for knowledge of what is correct in the way of the artistic and desirable. Miss Carolyn Walker, young and lovely, a daughter of the late Judge

MISS MARY ELIZABETH COUCH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch of 57 Cedar street and Golf, Ill., will be presented to society during the Christmas holidays. Miss Couch is a student at Smith college and will return there this month, following a summer spent in the west.

Members of the Service club are returning from their summer days in the country to begin intensive plans for the presentation of their annual play on Oct. 30 at the Auditorium. Mrs. William Bradford Freer is one of the most energetic members working for the success of the play, which is entitled "At Your Service."

Miss Jean Logan, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. William G. H. Logan of 2256 Lincoln Park West, will make her debut at a tea on Thanksgiving day at the Fortnightly. A dinner dance for young people will be given for her on Dec. 28. Miss Logan, who attended school in New York, is to continue her studies after the holidays at the Sorbonne.

A new fitting standard in Women's Stylish Shoes

Red Cross Shoes have established new fitting standards among truly fashionable shoes. It goes without saying that they charmingly and accurately interpret the newest fashions—that they might well be chosen for their beauty alone. But they are more than beautiful shoes—they are perfectly fitting shoes. No wonder America's well dressed and discriminating women have so eagerly adopted the shoe that combines so perfectly comfort and style.

In every pair, whether it be the sturdiest service shoe or the daintiest evening slipper, there is built the "Arch-Tone" feature, giving the needed support to every foot. Every model of the Red Cross Shoe is made over the famous "Limit" lasts. In making these lasts, thousands of feminine feet were accurately measured, and from the averages of these measurements were derived the dimensions of the "Limit" lasts. Shoes made over them cannot fail to fit the foot in action and repose.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

Charles M. Walker, is a professional dancer. The list could be much longer, but it is sufficient to prove my point that the woman of today of the so-called leisure class has no use for leisure and is no longer contented with what has, for uncounted centuries, been considered the only real sphere for her sex, that of the wife, mother and home maker.

And Some New Recruits.

The latest recruits to this growing class of enterprising women are Mrs. Lucius Ordway and Miss Harriet McLaughlin, who are following Mrs. George Porter and setting up a book shop. Miss McLaughlin up to now has been noted as an efficient golfer and for her ability in all outdoor sports. Mrs. Ordway gained what now amounts to an international renown because of the attentions paid her by the Prince of Wales on his tour of this country two years ago when he met her at a dinner given for him at the Saddle and Cycle club by Wolcott Blair, and later when she made a trip abroad. She is a vivacious blonde with charming manners.

Still another well known Chicagoite ought to be included in this list of enterprising and able women and that is Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, whose interests extend from real estate to psychological treatment of the ill, after the manner of the famous Swiss doctor, Jung. Mrs. McCormick gives up certain definite hours a day to this last avocation, and also keeps a close scrutiny of a real estate company in which she is interested. She is familiar with its operations and accountings and is said to show much of the business ability which made her father, John D. Rockefeller a world figure.

Mrs. Potter Palmer's Prophecy.

When that, at that time, extraordinary innovation, the woman's board of the Columbian exposition, was established in 1892, with that remarkable woman, Mrs. Potter Palmer, at the head of it, in her inaugural speech she said that, whereas women had never achieved first place in art or literature or science, they might well hope for it in the realm of the practical, the world of business. For untold ages women, under the rule of men, had had to make one dollar do the work of two, a practice which ought to make them especially efficient in business. The World's Fair gave them an opportunity never before achieved to show what they had done, were doing and would, in future, accomplish.

This body of women and their building with its varied contents, gave a tremendous impetus all over the globe to women in industry and art. It is not too much to say that since that affair of thirty-three years ago the position of woman has enlarged and changed more than it did in all the preceding centuries. Just what it will all lead to none of us can foresee or foretell. Possibly, after going too far in this new direction, there will be a reaction and the relative positions of men and women will finally adjust themselves to that coöperative status which will spell harmony and efficiency.

Another Little Theater Is Started.

The "little theater" movement which has been going on in this and other countries for the last twenty-five years is blossoming with new vigor in Chicago this autumn. If we don't develop into a nation of natural born actors it won't be for want of trying.

I wrote about the Chicago Laboratory Players last week, under the direction of Ivan Lasaref. There is also the Chicago Play Producing company, under the leadership of Marion Gering, another Russian. [Certainly the accent of our budding actors and actresses will be Russian.] This has, as founders and sponsors, a long list of well known citizens. They are Arthur Aldis, long known as a patron of the stage; Robert Allerton, Mrs. Tennessee Anderson, Louis E. Asher, Frederick C. Bartlett, Miss Helen Bennett, Miss Lucy Calhoun, Mrs. Dudley Cates, Theron Cooper, Miss Joanna Fortune, Mrs. David Frank, Mrs. Julius W. Lowenthal, Mrs. J. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. William Vaughan Moody, Murry Nelson, Miss Helen North, Henry J. Patten, Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, Charles P. Schwartz, Herman Waldeck, Mrs. Howard Willett, and Mrs. William Wilms.

Arthur Bissell is president of the organization; Mrs. George F. Porter and Ira Nelson Morris are vice presidents; Mrs. Morris L. Johnston is treasurer and Miss Helen Dupee is secretary. On the board of directors are Arthur Bissell, Mrs. Waller Borden, Miss Dupee, Mrs. Louis Guenzel, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Benjamin Marshall, Ira Nelson Morris, Mrs. George F. Porter, Mrs. Morris Rosenwald, Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, Joseph Ryerson, and Dr. Ferdinand Schevill.

The first production of the present season will be Franz Langer's "Periphery." He is a Czecho-Slovakian, whose work is well known on the continent, though he is as yet little known in this country. It will be presented in Chicago after a try-out in New York. Two other plays will be given here later by the same company. One of them will be Gozzi's "Love of Three Oranges." Wasn't that given here in its musical form by our grand opera company during a recent season? It seems to me that it was, and that I remember a lot of dazzling and expensive scenery as a setting.

A Word to the Reader.

Apropos of my readers: I am terrified at finding that my comments are sometimes taken personally. One of my readers announced to me that she had not had time to have her hair shingled since reading my last Sunday lucubrations. Another said that she was going without her supper and taking long walks because of some comments I made on superfluous flesh. All that this column is doing is to chronicle the passing show. It is not seeking to instruct or exhort its readers to alter in any way their manner of conducting their lives or to change their modes of self-expression. That were presumptuous to an intolerable degree. If we had an insignia, it would be a mirror held up to the times at such an angle that he who runs might see therein reflected this present moment in at least one of its innumerable phases; that which concerns the folk of a certain more or less cultivated and prosperous outlook, what is commonly called good society.

Some of our wandering fellow citizens have had amusing experiences on their European tours. Europeans have a sprightly humor and little of our Puritan outlook. A conspicuous and well liked Chicago couple were much entertained at a fashion show or parade given at a smart hotel at the Lido, the popular sea-bathing suburb of Venice. The parade of beauteous models displayed a choice and startling line of underwear, nightgowns and bathing suits. Male tourists who were at the show displayed as much interest in the spectacle as the women who eagerly studied the designs submitted. It sounds snappy and amusing, though I suspect that there are Americans who would have looked on it with a certain amount of disapproval. Still, it is reassuring and encouraging to know that the wearing of underwear has not been entirely abandoned.

Verily, there is nothing new under the sun. In a chronicle I was reading lately about the days of the directory in France and during the early period of the reign of Napoleon, when slim and classic attire was the mode, there was described an outcry against the ladies of fashion who were so lightly clad underneath their outer garments that embarrassing situations occurred when they were thrown from their horses, or slipped and fell in walking.

The Baltimore belle, Miss Patterson, who married Napoleon Bonaparte's brother, Jerome, wore for her wedding dress a gown so frail and slim that it could be pulled through the wedding ring which her royal bridegroom placed on the third finger of her left hand. Under such diaphanous and ethereal gowns the fewest possible garments were worn by the ladies of that time.

Making Winter Plans.

Frosty winter's shadow is already perceptible on the distant horizon. People are talking about what they will do, whether they will take apartments in town or hie them to some one or other of the comfortable hostelries which serve so many of our townsmen as winter abodes nowadays. Already Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Mrs. Arthur Ryerson and Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney have engaged apartments at the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Mrs. Lathrop is especially foreshadowed, for not only has she made arrangements for her winter's stay in Chicago out she has also taken a villa at Florence, Italy, for the latter part of the winter and for the spring. It is one of the historic places of that celebrated city that she has leased, the Villa Medici, owned by an English woman, Lady Sybil Scott. Four centuries ago it was built for and occupied by the famous Medici family, of which Lorenzo the Magnificent and Cosimo were the best known, not omitting, either, Catherine de Medici, who played such an important part in French history.

The villa is situated far up on those enchanting heights known as Fiesole, which overlook the city of Florence and the valley of the Arno. It is considered one of the most beautiful residences and most wonderful sites in that lovely region. It is a large palazzo so set in beautiful and extensive grounds. In Italian, "villa" means a garden or park, not a house. There is a long, straight avenue of cypress trees leading up to the house, and there are many lovely terraces radiant with flowers and overlooking the city.

Life for an American in one of those Florentine abodes is much easier and more luxurious than it is in Chicago. Housekeeping is reduced to a fine science. Trained cooks, butlers and housemaids are hanging on every bush and at wages that make the American housekeeper's mouth water. The custom is to pay the cook so much money to provide for the table, and that is all one has to do. Delicious and adequate meals are served with no further trouble on the part of the mistress of the establishment, who is as much in ignorance of what she is going to eat as any guest. An American woman living there had four butlers whose combined wage did not amount to that of one of their ilk in Chicago.

Still a further attraction, the wines of the country are light and delicious and make a pleasant adjunct to those savory national dishes for which Italy is famous. Risotto alla Milanaise, spaghetti Napolitana, zabione—is there any one who has ever tasted these who will forget them? A bottle of mellow Orvieto or of Lachrymae Christi crowns any Lucullian feast.

It is small wonder that a numerous group of Americans and English have chosen the city of the Medici as a haven in which to spend at least a part of each year. An easy life in historic and beautiful surroundings—what more could one desire who has passed out of the period of the many stimulating activities which absorb the average American of means and good health? The city of flowers has also drawn to it artists, poets, musicians, writers of all kinds. Nor is it without a scattering of noble families, even those of royal descent who have been driven from their native lands by the cold winds that blow on this unfortunate class, these democratic days. Therefore, society in Florence has a cosmopolitan air which adds to its attractions.

Two Interesting Portraits.

Portraits are among the most interesting and valuable legacies left by one age to those that come after it. A good portrait is one of the most precious possessions that a family can have. A bad one is one of the most painful that can be inflicted on its owners. There should be a public executioner of bad portraits. There is a curious hesitation on the part of families to rid themselves of these latter, a sort of feeling as if the sitter were being harmed if the misbegotten canvas be destroyed. Many an attic has ghastly effigies, face to the wall, waiting the courageous mortal who shall have strength to put them out of the world, either by fire or the knife. It is not too much to say that more bad than good portraits are perpetrated by artists. But perhaps this is inevitable and we have to suffer them to be made in order to get the occasional masterpiece to hand on to posterity.

One of the latest of the really good portraits in this community is Louis Seyffert's full length life size likeness of Samuel Insull, which hangs over the mantel in the Insull country house near Libertyville. This was painted this summer and is a capital piece of work. I hope that some day it will have as a companion piece a portrait of Mrs. Insull, who, as far as I know, has never been painted.

Another one that has been painted this summer, which ought to be a distinguished work of art, as well as an interesting piece of portraiture, is a painting of Cyrus Bentley, which that veteran in this kind of work, Miss Cecelia Beaux of Philadelphia, painted last month at Annisquam, Mass. It is said, by those who have seen it, to be an excellent likeness and a fine piece of work.

A portrait is more than a mere presentation of form, features and coloring. It is, or should be, an interpretation of the sitter by the artist. It is valuable according as personality shines out through the paint and drawing. It is for this reason that it is important that there should be some sort of accord and understanding between the artist and his or her subject. If the artist finds nothing of interest in the sitter, there is small chance of a worth while portrait. The artist who paints merely to earn money does hack work that will not survive the judgment of time.

When that public executioner of bad portraits becomes an institution there will be a lot of canvases waiting his destruction.

"Once More My Wife Convinced Me!"

says a prominent Chicago attorney

"If I could present facts to a jury, as ably as my wife placed her case before me, I would probably be Chicago's most successful attorney. Ignoring the social prestige of living at Hotel Sovereign, I faced conclusive figures proving that Sovereign living offered us more, at less expense than regular apartment living:—

"First, a luxury of accommodation with an environment of quiet elegance and an atmosphere of true refinement. Then, a retinue of skilled servants to relieve my wife of every detail of housekeeping care. An organized staff to do our every bidding. A chef, with his cuisine far surpassing any cook whom we could engage. Dinner parties, even informal dinners for our friends, that would be always comme il faut. And all of this substantiated by friends of ours, who live at Hotel Sovereign. So now, I too live at Hotel Sovereign and . . . I enjoy every minute in my Sovereign home."

INTERNATIONALLY recognized, Hotel Sovereign offers desirable guests a unique hotel-home. While rentals are surprisingly low, Hotel Sovereign makes its greatest appeal to those who know the art of living.

Single rooms—spacious—furnished in good taste, with every nicety of appointment—$90 per month and up. Suites—some with private dining room and kitchen—with beautiful two-room suites as low as $150 per month.

Among other unusual features is the 60-foot white-tiled swimming pool—free to resident guests. Turkish Baths for ladies exclusively. One of America's famous restaurants, with the atmosphere of a smart European cafe, and a fine cuisine—a la carte or table d'hote. The Salle Royale, the Prince of Wales Room and other private dining rooms for large or small social gatherings, weddings, banquets, luncheons.

With polite, dignified, unobtrusive service—genuine Sovereign service—you will find greater happiness here. Visit us, then decide.

"For a stay of a day . . . or a home for the year Hotel Sovereign offers more than any other hotel"

Fifth Avenue to Lose Another Landmark

By Howard White.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Once again Fifth avenue has surrendered another figure of its fast departing glory as a thoroughfare of society. E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, has decided to abandon his home at Fifth avenue and 67th street. The building will be razed and a palatial apartment house will be erected on the site. Mr. Gary is to have a twenty room suite on the top of the building.

The passing of the Gary house wipes out one of the few remaining landmarks on the avenue. The Vanderbilts and Astors and other families were among the first to give over their houses and the rest were not long in following. The beginning of the exodus was caused by extending the business zone past the Forties. Then came the apartment houses. Those dwellings are of such rich design and appointments that the rental and upkeep of a single suite is more expensive than the whole expense attached to one of the noted mansions with the retinue of servants in the old days. But there is this to say in favor of the apartment: It does away with the household help problem, which has become so acute in the last few years. The compactness and modern appliances have eliminated difficulties which wrinkled the brows of many a fashionable hostess.

Lightening the Social Burden.

Another fact to be considered is that the period of home entertaining has gone into discard. Those who wish to give parties, dinners, balls, etc., as a rule obtain necessary accommodations at the smart hotels and restaurants. It is also easy and does away with much of the planning, under adverse circumstances, so necessary when fêtes were held in the houses of the smart set.

Realization of the growth of the custom may be obtained by a glance at the advance bookings of the meeting places of the fashionable folk of the towns. At one hotel the entertainment quarters have been engaged for various fêtes during the season. Reservations for debutante parties are especially large, and as early as last December mothers of girls who were to come out next winter were frantically searching for suitable places to hold entertainments. Thus the club, the restaurant and the hotel have replaced the stately drawing room, with its cut glass chandeliers and highly polished floors, as the settings for gatherings of the elite. However, the famous affairs given in these houses which have crumbled under the wrecker's ax will long be remembered.

When Judge Gary began construction of his home in 1910, it became known that it was intended to be one of the finest in the country. He expended a large fortune on the building and decoration of the structure. The entertainments which he gave on many occasions were unrivaled in splendor.

Miss Dorothy Iselin to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Iselin of Bedford house, Katonah, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their oldest daughter, Miss Dorothy Iselin, to Guy S. Paschal of this city and Washington. The wedding will take place in October at Katonah. Miss Iselin is a great-great-great-granddaughter of John Jay, first justice of the Supreme court of the United States and who at one time was governor of New York. Miss Iselin spent much time at Newport during the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. William Jay. She was president of her class at Miss Walker's school in Connecticut at the time of her graduation in 1923. Later she went to Paris and received a diploma for her studies in the Sorbonne. She made her debut in New York in the season of 1924-'25.

ART AND ARTISTS

Reviewing City's Memorial Statues

By Eleanor Jewett.

ONE of the several features which add to or detract from the beauty and importance of a city is the quality and quantity of sculptured pieces to be found within its boundaries. Sculpture, too, is often a matter of controversy, a case in point being the large masculine statue, "The Sower," by Albin Polasek, which at one time was placed in front of the Art institute and later, through force of a certain element in public opinion, was withdrawn into the museum proper.

Another case in point where the arguments were all against the statue, as a statue being a suitable memorial, is the gigantic statue of, or rather to, the German poet, Goethe, which is to be found in Lincoln park. This, some years ago, created a rabid discussion and many people were all for removing it, for no other reason than because of its incongruity.

Another memorial, that to honor the ability and genius of Theodore Thomas, the founder of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, erected on Michigan boulevard approximately opposite Orchestra hall, sculptured by Albin Polasek, has received more dispraise than praise. The design is stiff and frightfully conventional, the frock coats of the performers being at odd variance with the Egyptian cast of the figures. This is the more peculiar, as Polasek generally is noted for a virile sweep of action that makes of each group created by him a moment of definite life.

The Newest Addition.

Possibly the most recent addition to the statuary memorials of Chicago is the monument to the memory of the French Jesuit priest, Father Marquette, by Hermon McNeil. The mere fact of its newness brings the earlier ones to mind. And, following the line of thought the image of them conjures up, it seems worth while to reflect for a few minutes on the conditions by which and under which they have been presented to the city.

Many of the most important of our memorial groups were made possible through the operation of the Benjamin F. Ferguson fund. Mr. Ferguson, an old and respected business man, died in Chicago on April 10, 1905. In his travels abroad he had noted that the great cities of Europe owed much of their charm to the groups of statuary, fountains, and other sculptured embellishments which abounded in their midst. He noted the lack of such things in Chicago and decided to devote his money toward giving the city, in which he had made it, some of the beauty of the sculptor's art.

In his will, therefore, he made a bequest to the Art institute to be known as the B. F. Ferguson Fund and to be expended entirely and exclusively by the institute, under the direction of its board of trustees, in the erection and maintenance of enduring statuary and monuments, in the whole or in part of stone, granite, or bronze, in the parks, along the boulevards, or in other public places within the city of Chicago, commemorating worthy men or women of America, or important events in American history.

Seven Important Commissions.

To date no less than seven important commissions have been completed. The first to be unveiled was Lorado Taft's "Fountain of the Great Lakes" on the south terrace of the Art institute. It was dedicated Sept. 9, 1913. The next was the "Statue of the Republic," by Daniel Chester French. It is in Jackson park and was dedicated May 11, 1918. The third was the Alexander Hamilton monument, a bronze figure by Bela Pratt, erected in a section of the wall along the Illinois Central railroad, just north of the Art institute, between Monroe and Madison streets. This was unveiled Sept. 28, 1918.

Then followed almost immediately the dedication of the Illinois Centennial monument in Logan square, of which Evelyn B. Longman was the sculptor, and its unveiling on Oct. 12, 1918. Four years later the exquisite bronze group by Edward McCartan, illustrating the charming adventures of "Winken, Blinken, and Nod" on the one hand and the captivating attractions of the "Sugar Plum Tree" on the other, in memory of Eugene Field, was erected in Lincoln park to the delight of the thousands of children who have enjoyed it since. It was dedicated on Oct. 9, 1922.

The middle of November in that same year Lorado Taft completed his colossal group designed for the Midway plaisance and called the "Fountain of Time." Were one to search the world it would be difficult to discover another such dignified and beautiful creation.

"The Spirit of Music," by Albin Polasek, a memorial group dedicated to the life work and inspired spirit of Theodore Thomas, was dedicated April 24, 1924. This, as has been suggested, is not, in the opinion of many people, an entirely adequate memorial. It is cast in too stiff a mold for the liberty which is music's greatest asset.

Lastly has come the Marquette monument, finished and presented to the west park board, July 30, 1926, for the people of Chicago. At present the work in the doing is sculptural ornamentations for the bridge houses at the south approach to the Michigan avenue bridge, for which Henry Hering is the sculptor. At the north end of the bridge the bridge houses will be decorated by James Earle Fraser. This work, however, is to be defrayed by William Wrigley Jr.

A Slav to Portray Indians.

Two rather more imposing memorials are under consideration. It is not generally known that the trustees of the Art institute, in their capacity of administrators of the Ferguson fund, are planning to place at the Grant park entrance of one of the principal downtown streets two colossal equestrian statues of American Indians to commemorate the tribes that once roamed the Illinois prairies. The statues are to be seventeen feet high, of bronze, and they will be mounted upon suitable pedestals to be designed by Holabird & Roche.

Ivan Mestrovic has been engaged to make the designs. It seems in a way an odd choice. It will be surprising if our redskins do not develop either a Hungarian or a Slavic peasant complex.

For the second as yet undecided upon memorial, the trustees of the Ferguson fund have requested the site formed in the center of Wacker drive, near its point of union with Michigan avenue, to be placed at their disposal.

Notes of Art and Artists.

All children and their friends are invited to attend the talks which will be given regularly in the children's room at the Art institute by Miss Helen Mackenzie on Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock and on Saturday mornings at 9:15 o'clock. Sept. 15 and 18 the subject will be "How the Ancient Egyptians Lived and How We Know It." Sept. 22 and 25 the subject will be "King Minos and the Minotaur; the Most Ancient Civilization of Europe; the Palaces of Crete."

A Japanese room is the latest gallery to be fitted up as a special exhibit at the Art institute. It is being arranged in one of the south galleries in Gunsaulus hall by the curator, Miss Helen Gunsaulus.

Wednesday, Sept. 15, will see the close of the summer exhibitions in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. The variety and individual qualities of this group of one-man shows have afforded many pleasurable moments to visitors to the museum since their opening in July.

The Baltimore Museum of Art opened its present season Sept. 7. The first exhibitions on view there are paintings by Maurice Fromkes and William Nicholson.

Helen West Heller is holding an interesting exhibition of her work at 58 East Adams street, in Todros Geller's studio. The exhibit opened on Friday.

"IN THE PARK" by Lauretta Sondag. This clever art student in the Art institute art school furnished much of the merriment rife in the Art Students League exhibit in June at the Art institute. Later, this painting with others struck a gay note in the school exhibition. Miss Sondag gives great promise of being one of the ablest and wittiest of the younger school of artists, when her student years are completed.

CHICAGO'S SMARTEST NEW APARTMENT HOTEL

The SENECA

Designed to meet the exactments of gentle folk

THE Seneca, situated in the heart of Chicago's smartest residential district, marks a new era in buildings of this type, both in point of design and of rental. Its features are unique—features rarely found in apartment hotels either in Chicago or New York. Every detail of design and plan proves, that in this exquisite building, none of the "little things," so important to comfortable living, have been forgotten. Its closets, for instance, are delightfully large. Its baths uniquely beautiful. Its wall-space ample to meet the most rigid exactments of the modern scheme of furnishing. Its rooms commodiously dignified and in good proportion. Apartments are furnished. Real kitchens, complete with Frigidaire ice units, full-size electric ranges, and every modern convenience await those who would keep house. But grill and restaurant in building (no extra charge for room service) do away with the necessity of keeping house. Maid service as desired, commissary on premises, public garages only a block away—these are other conveniences which the Seneca offers. In location the Seneca is unexcelled. The Drake is two squares away. The loop, ten minutes on foot, or a few cents by taxi. Michigan Boulevard is almost at the door. The lake, scarcely a minute's walk. Rentals are designed to meet the new scale which tenants have hoped for—and landlords, sooner or later, must meet.

Rentals of from two to eight rooms ... with or without kitchen ... range from $140 to $800. The Seneca will be ready for occupancy October 1st.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Polo Matches Open Gay Fall Program

NEW YORK, — [Special.] — With the end of the summer season close at hand and many expatriates returning for the intensive autumn program which began yesterday with the first of the polo matches at Meadowbrook, society in the metropolis is beginning to wonder about the future of Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

The former Gloria Morgan, whose romantic marriage to the late Reggie Vanderbilt was a nine days' wonder, has been living quietly during her period of mourning. In Paris this summer she was constantly to be seen at fashionable gatherings, usually accompanied by the equally noted Beth Leary.

That Mrs. Vanderbilt, rather than devoting her existence to the upbringing of her child, will embark again on the sea of matrimony is the opinion of every one in social circles. For some time attention had been focused on eligibles of New York and Newport, but the marriage of Mrs. Vanderbilt's sister, the former Mrs. James Vail Converse, to Lord Furness has somewhat complicated the situation in the eyes of society.

In the Social Limelight.

The rise to social eminence and wealth of the Morgan sisters is one of the most striking episodes in New York annals. Often mistaken for each other, they are both extremely dark, and both quiet to the point of reticence. The marriage of Thelma to Junior Converse, followed by their separation some time later, first brought the Morgan sisters into the social limelight.

A noted figure in New York's semi-bohemian night life, Mrs. Converse departed for the coast to enter motion pictures, where her debut was attended by the same slight success achieved by other women of society, who somehow do not seem able to compete with their sisters of the ordinary classes.

It was at this time that Gloria Morgan burst into public view. The announcement of her engagement to Reginald Vanderbilt, followed by their marriage, gave society sufficient material to talk about for many a day. However, the Vanderbilts lived quietly, dining almost always alone, or with exceedingly small parties at the smartest restaurants, and showing no intentions of dazzling the social world with lavish entertaining.

Some Speculations.

The sudden death of the popular Reggie sent Mrs. Vanderbilt into retirement from which, as yet, she has barely emerged; but the marriage of Mrs. Converse to Lord Furness, which was reported and denied many times before it actually came to pass, has led society to believe that it is quite possible that Mrs. Vanderbilt, too, will become a member of the international society that considers London its headquarters.

Already those who are reported in the know declare that several titled Britons are anxious to make a peeress of the second of the Morgan sisters, both of whom at present are well placed and affluent. A marriage of this sort will not come as a surprise to society, for Mrs. Vanderbilt is extremely young, being in her earliest twenties, unusually handsome, and now wealthy in her own right. Returning travelers declare the winter may bring news concerning even a ducal coronet in connection with the dark Gloria Vanderbilt.

Polo Fash Gather.

The polo matches at Rumson, N. J., were merely a hors d'oeuvre preparatory to the real gathering at Westbury, which opened a period of intense sport yesterday.

Not only on this side of the Atlantic, but across the sea as well, the annual matches at the Meadowbrook club are considered the height of the social season in so far as the outdoors is concerned. Newport, Saratoga, the United Hunts at Belmont, all these take second places to the polo at Westbury.

Incoming steamers are bringing hordes of notables, and the boxes at Westbury are presenting an unusually distinctive gathering. Society is still faithful in its support of those grand old masters of American polo, Devereux Milburn and Malcolm Stevenson, and the presence of these noted players, together with the addition of the Argentine team and several Anglo-American teams, has brought out a gathering of social celebrities such as has not been equaled since the visit of the prince of Wales in 1924.

Among the Boxholders.

Among the noted boxholders are Mrs. William K. Dick, the former Mrs. John Jacob Astor; C. K. Billings, Anson W. Burchard, John McE. Bowman, David Dows, Lewis L. Clarke, J. Sargent Cram, Marshall Field, Elbert H. Gary, W. R. Grace, Albert Zabriskie Gray, W. Averill Harriman, Thomas Hitchcock the elder, whose son, Thomas, is now considered as being among the five foremost American peloists; Foxhall P. Keene, Ogden L. Mills, Devereux Milburn, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Payne Whitney, J. Watson Webb, Percy R. Pyne II., Rufus L. Patterson, John Sanford, R. Penn Smith Jr., Louis Stoddard, R. E. Strawbridge Jr., and F. Skiddy von Stade.

Thus it will be noted that practically all the families identified with American polo are represented at Meadowbrook this year, where, following the heavy rains of the last month, the turf is in splendid condition and superfine polo is expected.

Newport Activities.

The season dies slowly at Newport, where many of the most representative families remain until the opening of the winter season in town. With the horse show, the invitation tennis tournament, which was once the ne plus ultra of American tennis, and Mr. T. Suffern Tailer's gold mashie tournament all things of the past, Newport is settling down to elaborate entertaining until the approach of November and the opening of the opera sends every one off to New York.

While parties to the polo at Meadowbrook are the order of the day, many smart dinners and luncheons are being given, for the Rhode Island resort is still thronged with celebrities.

My Greatest Thrill

Write and tell us about the greatest thrill you ever experienced, and if we print your letter we'll pay you $1. Make your letters short and snappy. Address them to "Greatest Thrill" Editor, The Chicago Tribune.

Unexpected.

My greatest thrill came one summer day in New Mexico. We children were the proud possessors of a sleepy-eyed old burro, "Lady Grey," who usually moved only after a great deal of persuasion.

One Sunday afternoon friends from the city were visiting us. The older folk were seated on the wide porch chatting, while three of us children had chosen the burro as the center of our interest and were perched upon her back. We thought it would be lovely to give our city friends a ride, so we prodded "Lady Grey" with our heels. We exhausted our vocabulary on her, but to no avail. She would not budge.

At last, in despair we gave up and sat there as nearly asleep as was the burro. Suddenly I heard a sound behind me and turned around just in time to see my brother run up to the burro. The next thing I knew we were flying skyward, to come down where the burro was not, and that baked New Mexico soil was hard!

After picking ourselves up and finding we were still whole we looked for the cause of the burro's sudden departure. Around the corner of the house where he had been propelled by the burro's hoofs lay my brother, a sharp pointed stick in his hand. We needed no further explanation of the burro's action, nor did my brother desire further acquaintance with the "business end" of a burro. C. A. N.

Balanced on a Log.

Two years ago my hubby and I were driving along a paved road among the West Virginia hills, when suddenly we came to a stretch of road over a culvert that had sunk in badly and the concrete had broken away. A log had been placed on the outer edge of the road, and just below, about 30 feet, was a railroad track. A train was coming in the distance.

Hubby turned the car into the deep ruts in the road, but in some unaccountable way the two side wheels got up on this log, and there we were balanced and could feel the log slipping.

Luckily for us it was Sunday and lots of travel was on this road. In no time willing hands got hold of front and rear bumpers and pulled away from the hillside and hung on until hubby got the car started.

We slid to safety again. While we were being rescued the train passed just below us. I never want another experience like it.

A Stumble Saved the Day.

It was in the last days of the war. Metz was our objective. Sixteen of us engineers were detailed to build a machine gun emplacement in "no man's land." The night was ideal for such an undertaking. Not a star was shining. All went well until the early hours of the morning, when we heard a large party of soldiers approaching. We dropped our work and grabbed our rifles. On they came, and we judged that they were fifty to a hundred strong. We had been instructed that should we encounter troops, three taps on the gas mask would be a friendly answer to our challenge. They continued to approach. We challenged them—but no reply—the three taps did not come! Then they were the enemy!

We made ready to put up a fight though we were greatly outnumbered. We had orders to fire as soon as we could make out the figures. We heard a slight commotion as one of the approaching party stumbled and fell. The curse words that followed were unmistakably the product of the A. E. F. That little incident no doubt saved many lives, for a minute later we would have been fighting our own infantry, as the scouting party turned out to be.

Through a misunderstanding, they had not been instructed as to the sign of American troops for that night—the three taps on the gas mask. F. A. C.

A Proud Mother.

My greatest thrill came one day when I received a letter telling me my baby won a blue ribbon and a bank account for physical fitness. Maybe I wasn't a proud mother. H. R.

Terrible Moments.

My most intense thrill happened when I was in the back seat of a closed car driving with three friends on a rainy night. We were crossing a boulevard and I saw a large car coming straight toward us. Before I could scream it struck us and the car we were in went over on its side. The next thing I knew, people were shouting my name a long way off. I was sure I was dead—everything was black and I lay huddled up and could not breathe.

Then I saw a familiar face looking through the door and calling me. I could not make a sound and people outside began to scream, supposing I was dead. They tried to reach me, but I could not move—only blink my eyes and wonder whether I was really dead or not.

Gradually I moved a hand, then a foot. Then I pulled myself up and put my head out of the door. Thinking I was a ghost a woman in the crowd became hysterical. My friends were almost too astonished to help me, having given me up for dead, so I climbed out almost unaided and walked to the sidewalk. My coat was cut was glass, but that was the only damage. However, I had had some thrilling moments. M. L.

In the Nick of Time.

Living in northern Minnesota before there were good roads, my husband bought a car. One Sunday morning we started out for a short ride before church. We decided to drive around a lake. To do so we had to cross a bridge over a river. When we got to it we found that this bridge had just been condemned and closed to traffic. We turned back, missed our road some way and got lost.

We drove into swamps, back through forests and simply could not get our road. Finally we came to a stream over which there was a plank crossing, and bent over it was a tree—a fair sized sapling.

The only thing to do was for my husband to hold up the tree while I drove across. But I had never driven a car. My husband held up the tree and I started to cross the stream, but it took me fair across the chest then my neck—bending me backwards.

I screamed and my hands left the wheel. Then for a second I thought my time had come. In some miraculous way my husband reached the car in time to stop the engine, and I was saved. Mrs. J. T. T.

Frightened.

My greatest thrill occurred one evening after a particularly snappy bunch of ghost stories were told and I had to go to the woodshed. It was dark as pitch and somewhere around zero. All of a sudden I felt as if my hair was standing straight up. Not two feet before me was something white. I was rooted to the spot and my hand started to move toward the thing. I was scared stiff, but I could no more have kept from touching it than I could have flown away from there.

Little by little my hand crept out toward it and finally encountered, not something soft and transparent, but a union suit, frozen stiff and left out on the line overnight. R. W. C.

An Odd Occurrence.

One evening it was raining hard when I came out of the shop, and went to the car line, which was two blocks away. As I got there I heard some one say there would be no car around for about half an hour. Hearing this I got under a tree and waited till the car came. Just as I was about to get in, lightning struck the very tree I was standing under just a minute before. It certainly was a thrill. E. P.

A Priceless Thrill.

I have just recently experienced my greatest thrill. While fulfilling a promise made to a dear friend of mine to proof read her new finished book I casually turned to what I thought was the flyleaf and beheld: "To the dearest of friends, M. V., whose help is and always will be invaluable to me, I dedicate this book."

What a priceless thrill I received! M. V.

ENGAGED

MISS RUTH P. WINTZ.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ruth Patricia Wintz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wintz of 926 Argyle street, to Clarence Bradfield Newsom of Buenos Aires, S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newsom of Daingerfield, Tex. The wedding will take place this fall.

WOMEN THE WORLD OVER

Two hundred and fifty women have qualified as barristers in France.

The first women's automobile club in Germany has been organized by society women in Potsdam.

Koudret Hanoum, elected mayor of the village of Germat, Turkey, can neither read nor write.

A recent survey shows that the average salary of nurses in New York is slightly more than $31 a week.

It has been estimated that the women of this country spend $130,000,000 annually for hosiery and lingerie.

Plans are being formulated for the establishment of a club for married women in the East End section of London.

Except at court ceremonials or elaborate state occasions, Queen Marie of Roumania, wears the ordinary peasant dress.

Records show that 20 years ago in England 35 per cent of the working girls were anemic, while today 5 per cent are.

One of the successful entrants at the recent bar examination in London was Ruth Buckley, youngest daughter of Lord Wrenbury.

The women in China are rapidly forging to the front. A woman is head of a hospital and another head of a bank in Shanghai.

Miss Lois Gannaway, recently appointed city treasurer of Huron, S. D., is the youngest city treasurer in the United States.

A fully accredited woman delegate from Great Britain will represent that country at the September session of the league of nations.

Queen Marie not only christened the first locomotive ever built in Roumania, but displayed her skill by driving it at a 50 mile-an-hour clip.

One of England's biggest engineering concerns, with its subsidiaries, is managed entirely by girls, who are shareholders in the company.

In the 34 years she has been druggist, Miss Julia Emanual of Fort Wayne, Ind., has compounded a quarter of a million prescriptions.

A new law recently enacted in England takes from the married woman her privilege of claiming immunity when jointly charged with a criminal offense with her husband.

LOOK at the beautiful women in this supplement.

All slender, all graceful, all charming.

You can be just as slim. Just as graceful. Just as attractive. Neither fat nor flabbiness need embarrass you again.

Figure science now supplies the positive way to slenderness and charm. Quickly, too! Without dieting. Without drugs. Without heavy, hot under garments. Without exhausting exercise. It is . . . FIGURE CONTROL.

The Miracle of the Second Skin

Automatic massage is the best and surest means of reducing. Fat is 85% water housed in tiny cells; automatic massage squeezes out this water and the circulation bears it away.

Rubber garments attempted automatic massage—but they were too heavy, too stuffy, too uncomfortable, unattractive and of unsuitable quality.

But rubber gave a famous Parisian corsetiere a brilliant idea!

She designed a beautiful, fashionable girdle of elastic so light and sheer that it feels like a feather in your hands.

And when girdled about your hips and waist—like a second skin!

Hundreds of tiny pores in the elastic provide skin ventilation . . . oh, it's wonderfully cool!

This magic girdle is named the PERFOLASTIC.

And it won't rip, split, tear or stretch out of shape . . . the quality is superfine.

Pounds Flee Unconsciously

Don this marvelous PERFOLAS-TIC. Instantly it controls the shape of waist and hips—imparts the touch of fashionable charm! (A booklet tells you precisely how). Then this light, sheer elastic goes to work immediately reducing the fat.

With every movement, every breath, every bend the PERFOLASTIC massages away this fat. You are not conscious of it at all . . . but, oh! what a happy story the scale tells!

You will reduce your hips and waistline measurements two to four inches in ten days. That isn't theory—it's fact. Hundreds of women here and abroad testify to its miraculous weight-reducing powers.

Many charming styles. Maternity girdles. Abdominal belts for Men & Women

Create the Figure that Charms—Send at Once for FREE BOOKLET and FREE SAMPLE OF PERFOLASTIC

Convince yourself that this is the truest, surest and easiest way to get rid of embarrassing fat. Try on the figure that is admired—that wins and holds love and friendship. Send for booklet that tells the complete story. See and feel the material. Use this convenient coupon or address

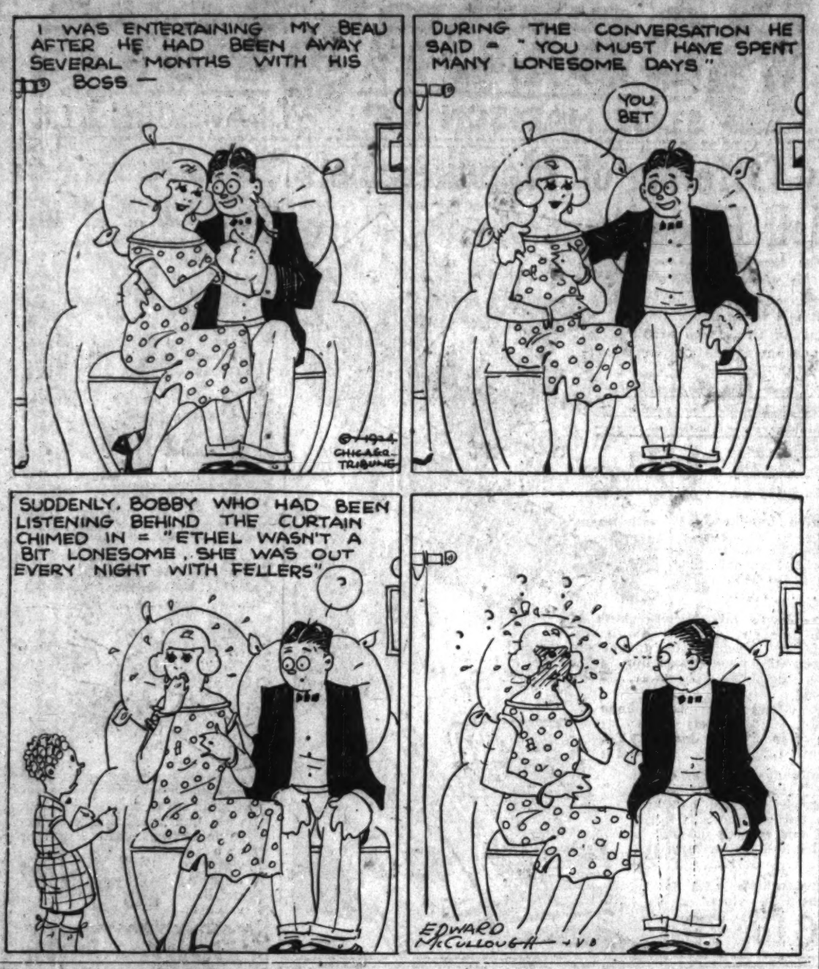
EMBARRASSING MOMENTS—NOT SO TRUE



My Most Embarrassing Moment

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moment, The Tribune, Chicago. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

She Learned a Lesson.

I came down one morning to the office wearing a cheap wedding ring and told the girls I had been married the previous evening. To my surprise they seemed to take it seriously and congratulated me. The following noon when I came in I was surprised to find a large package on my desk, with a wedding card attached and covered with confusion I had to open the package before a large crowd from several departments.

The girls, wanting to teach me a lesson had filled it with a few useless articles. Great was my relief when I found they had not raised a subscription for me.

This assuredly was my most embarrassing moment. V. J.

Appeared Guilty.

I was visiting a friend for several days and at the dinner table one evening she remarked: "I enjoy seeing people eat enough at mealtime, but I hate to see them snooping around the pantry in search of food between meals."

Early the next morning, thinking everyone was asleep, I went to the kitchen for a drink of water, and, not seeing a glass around, I began to search in the pantry. My most embarrassing moment then occurred, for the hostess walked into the kitchen and, of course, saw me.

All the explanations in the world could not have made me feel at ease! G. C. S.

Still Trying to Explain.

I was a bride of a few weeks, and while attending a ball game with friend husband one day, a former admirer, who did not know of my marriage, dashed up to greet me.

He did not seem to notice my escort, and before I could speak, he gave me a hug and said heartily, "Well, how is my little sugar pie today?"

By this time hubby was nearly foaming at the mouth, and I made the necessary explanation and introduction.

Needless to say, my old friend faded out of the picture quite suddenly, but I am still trying to explain. M. N.

Answered to "Dumbbell."

One day my friend and I were playing outside. A woman asked us if we would go to the store and get two boxes of crackers. We went. On our way home from the store my friend insisted on carrying one of the boxes. I let her.

When we got back I rang the woman's bell and she said she would come down for the packages. My friend was walking behind. As I got in the inner hall, not realizing what I was saying, I said, "Hurry up, you dumbbell."

Imagine my embarrassment when the woman upstairs said, "I'm coming." A. E. L.

Meant for Another.

As I sat in the waiting room of one of the department stores waiting for an empty telephone booth, I watched a handsome young man, also waiting. Just as he entered a booth some one dropped into the seat beside me and greeted me. It was a pal whom I had not seen for a year. We spoke of old things and new, during which time she told me she was engaged to be married. I genuinely wished her luck and happiness.

Happening to glance back to the young man in the booth, I saw him smiling at me. Feeling a bit impish, I smiled back. Seeing him coming toward me, I felt myself blushing and loathed myself heartily. As he walked he smiled right past me—into the eyes of my pal. When he came up she introduced him as her fiancé.

Was I embarrassed? S. P.

Photographs of Children

WE have been exceptionally successful in making photographs of children that have won for us an enviable reputation.

OUR photographers are not merely makers of photographs, but are artists who love children—and by playing with them bring out and portray their expressions of joy and happiness that are so cherished in years to come.

Photographs of Grown-Ups

YOU repeatedly promised yourself and your family to have a good photograph taken. You repeatedly disappointed yourself as well as your friends by putting it off.

THIS special offer gives you an opportunity to get six exceptionally good photographs at a substantial saving—and, what's more, duplicates can be had at the same reasonable rate.

This advertisement must be presented at the time of the sitting on or before Oct. 12. Daily, 9 to 5. Sundays, 11 to 4.

We have a special department for copying old and faded photographs. Clair Marcelle copies are better than the originals.

In the Art World

Irving Manoir, whose one man show at the Art institute will close on Wednesday of this week, is planning to sail for Europe in October with Mrs. Manoir. He hopes to stay abroad two years, traveling, studying, and painting.

In the American group of artists in Paris at the moment the most prominent, apparently, are Boris Lovett-Lorski and Hovsep Pushman. "Pushman's exhibit was the biggest success of the year and Lovett-Lorski's ebony and alabaster sculpture has captivated the town."

The Metropolitan museum plans to hold a memorial exhibition this fall of the work of Joseph Pennell. Everything aside from that definite fact is as yet in an undecided state.

Marie Blanke has been summering at Peterborough, N. H., in the bracing atmosphere of the MacDowell colony.

Dudley Crafts Watson and his party of thirty-six intrepid and artistic tourists sailed for home Aug. 20. About Stockholm, Mr. Watson was most enthusiastic in a letter, calling it "the most progressive and splendid city in Europe today." In Paris the party enjoyed visiting Albert Besnard and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kroll. Leon Kroll is a familiar name through frequent exhibitions of his paintings in the Art institute.

ADAPTO-SHOES for STOUT WOMEN

Dull Kid Patent Leather Copper Tan Calf trimmed with contrasting shades of Lizard $14.50

YOU never have to "break in" ADAPTO Shoes. For it is possible to get, in ADAPTO Shoes, just the fit that you require.

Why? Because the "combination last" provides snug, narrow-heel fitting regardless of the length or width size that you require. And, of course, you can get ADAPTOS up to size 11 and in all widths from AAA to EEE.

Then, too, the slightly higher arches of ADAPTO Shoes give greater support to your own arches.

So—in ADAPTO Shoes—your feet are fitted as perfectly as though your footwear were "made to order" . . . And the result is a carefree foot-comfort that it is well nigh impossible to duplicate.

If you suffer from any manner of foot ailment, visit our Foot Service Department for a consultation. This completely equipped department is under the personal management of a specially trained Foot Specialist. Our service also includes the professional supervision of shoe-fittings upon request.

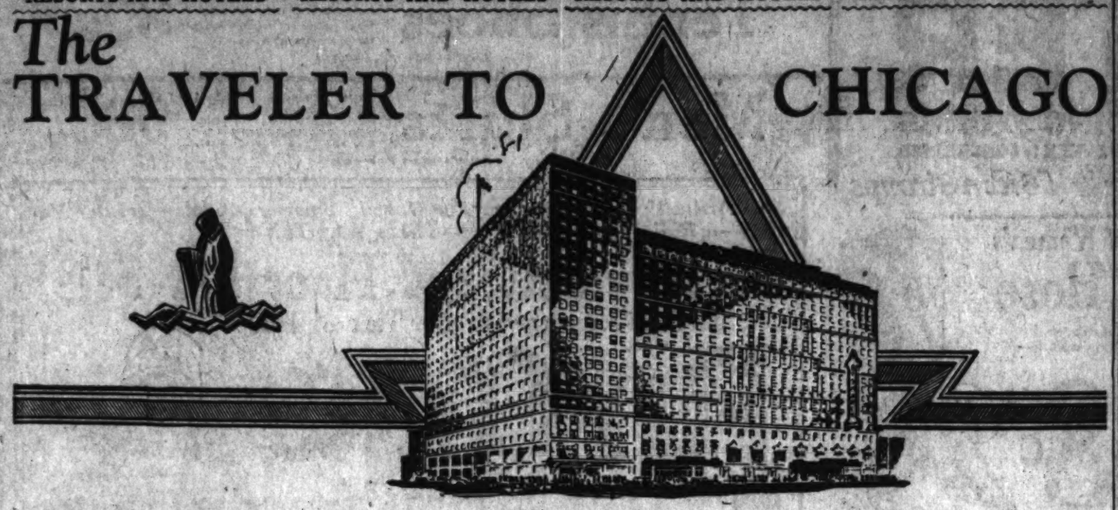
The TRAVELER TO CHICAGO



Here is a quality of service that money alone could not obtain, that time alone could not produce, or management-skill alone could not maintain. Bismarck Service is a product of all, making it the most famous new hotel in Chicago.

Comfortably and attractively furnished rooms, unique in style and faultless in appointment. All are outside rooms.

Stop thinking of where to stop—you're welcome at the Bismarck. Near all of Chicago's business and entertainment centers. In the loop, yet away from its noise.

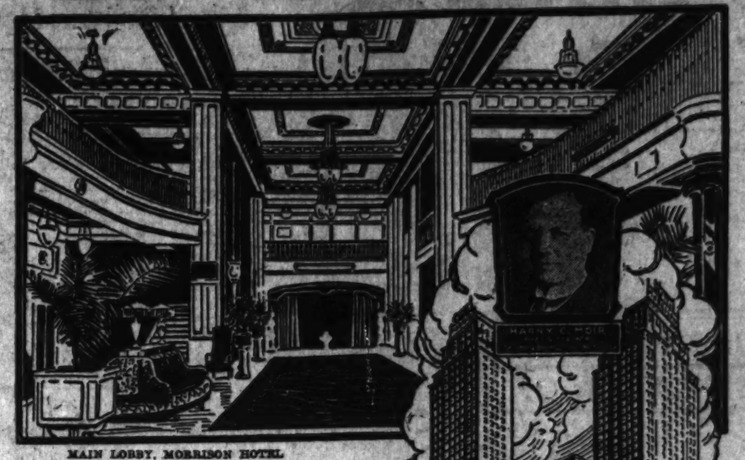
The Old World Hospitality of Chicago's Morrison Hotel



MAIN LOBBY, MORRISON HOTEL

NEARLY all travelers receive the same impression on entering the Morrison Hotel for the first time.

They are struck by the contrast between the rich, decorative beauty of the interior and the simple, friendly informality with which they are welcomed.

Rooms $2.50 Up

Instead of high rates and elaborate, formal service, they find the genial courtesy of an old-time inn, and, for $2.50 to $5, they obtain rooms that would cost $5 to $8 in any other leading hotel.

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel, 46 stories high, with 3,100 rooms.

Closest of All to Stores, Theatres and Railroads

The wonderfully central location not only offers a degree of convenience unparalleled elsewhere, but also makes possible the extremely low rates. The store subrentals at this location are so valuable that they pay all the ground rent, and the guests enjoy the total benefit of the saving.

1,944 Outside Rooms, Each With Bath

All rooms are outside, each with bath, running ice water, bed-head lamp, and Servidor. A housekeeper is stationed on each floor. All guests enjoy garage service. The delicious menus and sparkling dance music in the Terrace Garden are nationally famous, and the entertainment programs are broadcast daily from WSWS.

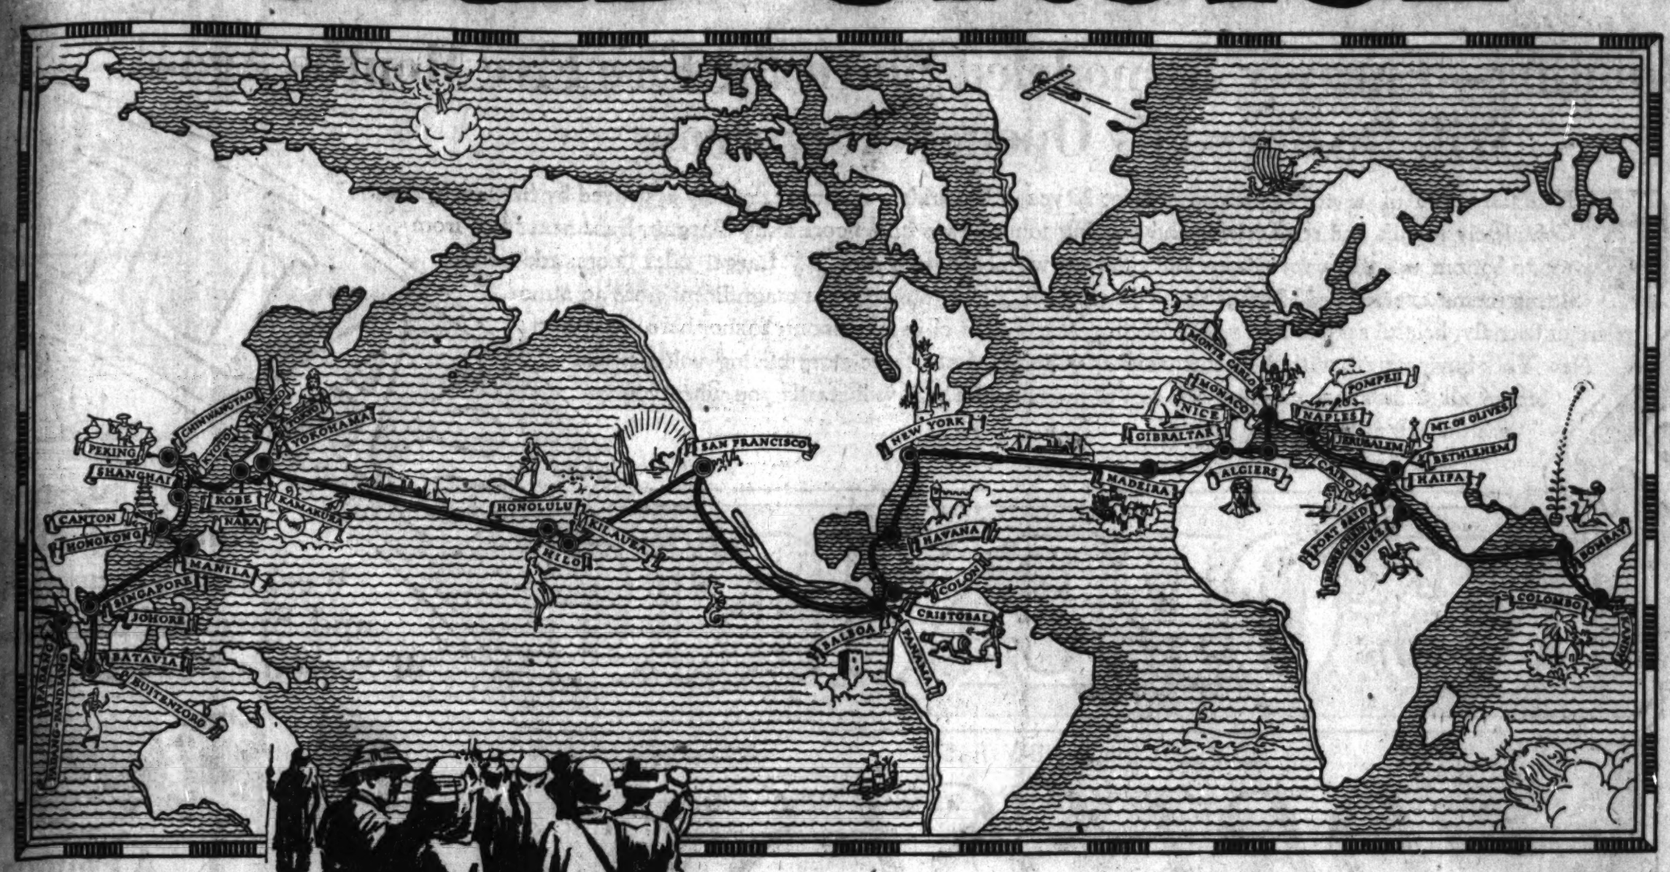
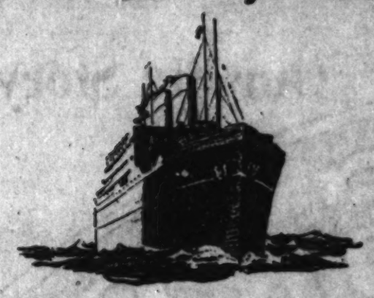
WORLD CRUISE

FROM NEW YORK DEC. 2nd
25 Ports - 55 days ashore





THIS is the map of a never-to-be-forgotten cruise. Observe the feast of places. The Seven Seas! 5 continents! 25 ports enriched by fiction and history in 20 countries far away. Why not go this year? There will be happy excursions at these fascinating ports. There will be engaging vistas of beauty-loving peoples—of sphinxes and pyramids, of Kipling's mysterious India, of strange civilizations in the Far East. You will be in China, Japan and Hawaii when Spring works its wonders upon them. The good ship Empress of Scotland, 25,000 gross tons, will be your club-like home. You will shop for cherished possessions coming only from these far countries. And always, on both ship and shore, you will enjoy the comfort and security of one management—Canadian Pacific—the World's Greatest Travel System. Literature from

FACTS
132 days; 28,400 miles

S. S. Empress of Scotland, flagship, Canadian Pacific Fleet; one of the world's 12 largest ships; great tonnage and large bilge keels make her an uncommonly steady sailer.

Limited bookings; only one-quarter her usual capacity will be booked.

Fascinating excursions at all ports included in fare.

Fare no greater than comparable living at home.

A. A. LEWIS REALTY ASSOCIATION WANTS MEN WITHOUT EXPERIENCE.

You have often been tempted to answer a real estate ad because you've heard that there is a lot of money to be made in that business. But you've hesitated because you lack experience. Now, don't let that stand in your way. A large percentage of our men came to us without experience, and they are making good—you can do as well. I do not promise that you can make a fortune at once, but I do say that if you follow my instructions you will work yourself into the best position you ever held in your life.

All I am attempting to do in this ad is to interest you sufficiently to cause you to investigate. I, personally, am going to talk to you and show you what other men like yourself, who came to us without experience, are doing.

A FAIR QUESTION DESERVES A FAIR ANSWER.

If you were buying a piece of vacant property, you would naturally look for five advantages.

Location,
Transportation,
Improvements,
Building Program,
Restrictions and Zoning.

Property having these advantages would be suitable for your investment funds. If this rule applies to you as salesmen, you naturally should feel the same responsibility toward those whom you sell. Prosperity of this character has least resistance. Buyer and Salesman make more money.

We have this class of property and can use 5 high grade salesmen to follow qualified leads. See me personally. O. C. STEEN, ROOM 932, 160 N. LA SALLE-ST.

AMBITIOUS MEN WHO REALLY WANT TO MAKE BIG MONEY.

We are just starting our big 1926 fall sales campaign on a necessary article that sells throughout the year, but which is in greatest demand during the next four months.

We are one of the largest firms in our line of business east of New York. We advertise extensively and co-operate with salesmen in many unusual ways.

The new men taken on at this time will all be given city territories—no travelling through hick towns.

We require real workers—sales experience is not necessary. We train our men and start them out with field men until they can handle the work alone.

If desired we will pay a drawing account of $35 weekly, but our real producers are earning 3 to 4 times this amount.

Call any time Monday—all applicants courteously received.

BIG MONEY IN SELLING TO FARMERS.

WORK ONE OR TWO COUNTIES.
LIVE AT HOME.

A big, responsible, well advertised manufacturing company, with fifty years of merchandising experience behind it, is enlarging its organization and is willing to train new men in carrying out its plan of intensive selling. They prefer to have a salesman who lives in the territory he works, has an acquaintance with the farmers and preferably has a practical knowledge of feeding, although this is not necessary. He must be willing to make from 15 to 20 calls per day direct to feeders. Working on this plan his expenses are small, and that is why our men are making from $4,500 to $5,000 per month. When you write us give us the names of the counties you would prefer to work in. Openings available in any state in the Union. You can work on straight salary or commission and expenses, just as you desire, and we will back you up with advertising and help you build up a profitable business for yourself. Also give us name of car you drive. Address FEED MANUFACTURERS, Room 635, 105 W. Clark-st. Chicago.

SALESMEN.
Capable Men
for Chicago and Northern Illinois.
We want two or three exceptional men— men who seldom scan these pages—men who possibly for the first time are wondering if they could not make a change with profit to themselves.
Ours is a great and profitable work—HERE AND THERE is a man who will find it offers just the thing he has been looking for: such men will not only make money, but find happiness, profit, and a life business of their own.
We prefer well educated men with knowl- edge of human nature and business; they should be between 28 and 40, with ABIL- ITY, PERSONALITY, and DRIVE. We want men of clean, strong character, men who have made $3,000 or more and know they are worth $5,000.
This has nothing to do with stocks, bonds, insurance, real estate, etc., although "in- triguing" selling experience will be of value. We are rated AAAI by R. G. Dun—are inter- national in our scope. Our new sales policy is opening many fine positions for men with sales ability who believe selling is the greatest profession and who can carry this thought and message to others.
Men selected will be carefully and capably trained, assisted in every way until they get a foothold, and then backed for any position they are capable of handling.
Let's talk it over: if we do not think you can make a success, we shall tell you kindly but frankly.
In reply give age, education, sales experi- ence, home conditions, and PHONE NUM- BER. For appointment address C O 433, Tribune.

SALESMEN.
A large institution, 25 years devoting its resources to business problems, has openings in its sales department.
Your makeup must evidence an ability to approach business executives and handle a new business service salable to the entire business world. To men as we select we give a thorough personal training during which a moderate salary will be paid. There- after, salary, commission, bonus basis of remuneration. This is not a get-rich quick, million dollar proposition, but offers a worth while connection to a few men of the right caliber, interested in the business of selling, and a real opportunity with steady earnings out of which money can be saved.
Those who take the placement of their abil- ity seriously call Superior 8222, extension 1504, Monday before noon and immediate ap- pointment will be arranged.

SALESMAN — I WANT AN experienced real estate salesman to sell business va- cant. To the right man I will make a very liberal proposi- tion and furnish leads. State experience. Answers confi- dential. Address D S 356, Tribune.

SALESMAN.
Are You the Man
wanting to go into business for yourself? We offer a real opportunity for a married man, over 30 who desires a permanent connection. Address C P 86, Tribune.

SALESMEN — LARGE DOWNTOWN BUSI- ness men's club, equipped with first class gymnasium, swimming pool, restaurant, and other facilities, has opening for several men to follow up membership prospects. Not so much interested in past experience of applicants, but we must have men who are live wires, men and take intelligently. Salary $18 a week plus 10% commission will be paid. Men who are willing to work about three hours in the morning $45 to $50 a week, and when they hit their stride considerably more. For interview write brief history of experience and include telephone number. Address C O 551, Tribune.

SALESMEN—ACT PROMPTLY.

SALESMAN,
$12,000 A Year Type.
If you are serious, conscientious, capable of an immediate earning of over $12,000 a year, and interested in a permanent and prof- itable affiliation with a leading National or- ganization wherein you will be given every possible opportunity and assistance to ad- vance into an executive position enabling you to hire and train salesmen.
If you can prove by past accomplishments that you are a real producer with necessary force and personal power to sell every kind of organization employing salesmen, on an abso- lute trial and proven plan that does posi- tively increase business and decrease distribu- tion costs, paying for itself many times over in added sales and profits.
Here is the opportunity of your life. Our Sales Manager will demonstrate by actual sales consummated in your presence that you can earn at least $250 and upward in your first selling week. None but high calibered salesmen who sincerely desire to many times increase their present income and who are ambitious to make a good successful connec- tion insuring future success and financial in- dependence need apply.
Give full experience and past record, also telephone number, as our General Manager will be in Chicago during the week. The Hargrave Co., 455 7th-av., New York City.

SALESMEN.
The Hertz Drivurself Corp., a thirty million dollar corporation, controlled by the Yellow Truck and Coach Mfg. Co., a subsidiary of General Motors Corp., is rapidly expanding its scope of business both in Chicago and throughout the United States.
It is now organizing a local sales depart- ment and requires several high caliber sales- men with broad selling experience. As these are permanent and responsible positions, from which producers will be selected for rapid promotion, every man we select will be required to furnish unquestionable character references and prove his sales record.
We are starting our men on a compensa- tion basis that affords a quick and excellent earnings to capable men.
This is your chance to get in at the right time, at the beginning of a tremendous pro- gram of expansion, as we believe that any man who makes good with us has an un- usual opportunity to develop a highly de- sirable future for himself. For an interview call personally at 14 E. Jackson-blvd., 17th Floor Lytton Bldg. Do not phone.

STENOGRAPHER.

We require the services of a stenographer who can take rapid dictation, involving both mechanical terms and legal phraseology, and who can transcribe her notes accurately, neatly and rapidly. Her stenographic speed should be sufficient to take a nontechnical lecture or public address. She must not wince every time she hears a four syllable word. She must know or be able to learn legal forms.

The disadvantages of this position are, lots of difficult and exacting work and occasional late hours. The advantages are, a pleasant office, intelligent associates, a permanent position, freedom to ask for a day off now and then when work is slack, hours from 9:00 to 5:30, except Saturday, and salary commensurate with the stiff requirements above outlined.

Call in person at 5:00 P. M. or later Monday, September 13. Do not call or telephone before that hour.

A SYSTEM. CLEAR THE COBWEBS.

from your brain. Give yourself an optimistic view on life. See the financial world clearly. Money means energy and vision. Do you possess them? Have you a desire to be your own boss, to possess knowledge, so that business opportunities are offered to you instead of your asking for a job? I want only progressive, high minded women who can see the world through rose colored glasses," and I will make you a financial genius and you can earn while you learn to become a factor in this world of finance and business. Come in, let's talk it over. I will be perfectly candid with you and tell you if I think you have the world of success in you. That is what I offer. If you are not, it will only be wasting my time and yours. Opportunity knocks at your door a few times in life; perhaps this is your opportunity "knocking" now. "Don't hesitate"—call, as my greatest ambition in life is to help women gain their independence. A. SCHULENBURG, 81 E. Madison-st., Room 312.

Live in Streeterville

Douglas Brougham Lived the Leisurely Life Befitting a Gentleman

Douglas Brougham, in the flapperless nineties, lived north of the river, away from the hectic clatter of traffic. He tarried over a savory breakfast, then drove or, if he chose, walked leisurely to his office, and as leisurely returned.

Streeterville today is the home of those who prefer to make a rite of breakfast; its central location makes this possible.

180 East Delaware

Adds convenience of living to this convenience of location.

BUILDING COMPLETED. READY FOR OCCUPANCY.

LOCATION—

In the heart of a most elite residential section, only one-half block east of Chicago's principal thoroughfare, 180 E. Delaware is within walking distance of the great metropolitan shopping, business, and theater centers, select private schools, and renowned churches. In its immediate neighborhood are the Drake and Lake Shore Drive hotels, as well as the homes of Chicago's social leaders. The Casino Club is directly across the street.

BUILDING—

Its exclusive character, intrinsic beauty of design and execution, and convenience are the outstanding attributes of the new group of luxuriously conceived apartment homes. The building incorporates the ultimate in tested and approved appointments in unquestioned good taste. On the ground floor is an exquisite furnished lounge, an old English tearoom with excellent cuisine, and a commissary.

APARTMENTS—

They are unfurnished—three, four and five rooms, convertible, if desired, into six and eight. The apartments are arranged to give infinite comfort and efficiency. The walls are canvased and panelled. Marble mantels and period design lighting fixtures grace the living rooms. Crystal lighting fixtures, made a call in the dining rooms. Chambers have full length mirrors and large closets. In the bathrooms—tile wainscoting, shower and shampoo sprays. There is an mirrored medicine cabinet, linen closet. The kitchens are equipped with electric refrigeration, all-white cooking ranges, and enameled steel cabinets.

SERVICE—

Maid service is optional. High speed elevators of micro precision, operated by efficient attendants, whisk you in a few seconds to your floor. A vacuum heating system regulates precisely the temperature and humidity throughout your apartment. Rental includes mechanical refrigeration, electric light, gas, laundries and driers.

Prospective tenants, of course, are being chosen with discrimination.

180 East Delaware

offers the essentials of hotel service at a cost far lower than is possible in hotels. 3, 4, and 5 room apartments, convertible, if desired, into 6 or 8 rooms; $150 a month upwards.

Personal representatives of the management are on the premises from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. to show you the features and a model apartment decorated and furnished by the French Shops, Incorporated, Chicago, under the personal supervision of Mr. Pierre J. Morel.

CO-OPERATIVE APTS.

It costs us $18 per month to pay the taxes, janitor service, repairs, furnish the heat, hall lights, and water for a 4 rm. apt. We have a mtge. from a life insurance company of $3,796.33 at 5½ interest on this apt., which means $18.21 interest per month. This apt. is rented until Oct. 1 for $100. We will sell to you on the co-operative plan for $5,000. If you have not got the $5,000, but have good references and a determination to own your home, we will sell you this apt. for $100 cash, or one that will be ready for occupancy for a small deposit down and give you a long time to pay the balance. The building is at 2820 Cambridge-av., 1 blk. east of Broadway at Diversey-pkwy.; a location which is bound to increase in value. This bldg. is 3 yrs. old, modern in every detail, large rms., with spacious closets and with extra in-a-door beds in the living room. Why pay rent to your landlord when with your rent when you can buy it for yourself?

THE CORNELIA
APARTMENTS

6, 7, AND 8 ROOMS WITH 3 AND 4 BATHS.

THE CORNELIA APARTMENTS. Located on the northwest corner of Cornelia and Sheridan-rd., have an unexcelled site, being at the north end of Lincoln Park, one block from the Yacht Harbor and having excellent transportation facilities. Nearly every room in the building has a lake view and all the apartments have wood-burning fireplaces, canvased and panelled walls.

This is a COLLINS, MURPHY & JACKSON INC. building and their past success in apartments of similar type—THE BARRY—proves it to the prospective tenant the type of building and service they will receive.

THE CORNELIA will be ready for occupancy NOVEMBER 15, 1926.

In the event that your lease expires Oct. 1, it can be arranged to comfortably accommodate you until your apartment is ready.

Kenilworth.

REMEMBER THIS:

There is just so much ground space in a given area; it cannot be stretched. If you want a building site on the North Shore in a certain place the time to get it is now. Each year of the closed door sees less left in Kenilworth. The lot is wooded, 100x175, and faces southwest. It is three blocks from grade school, three blocks from transportation, and the street is one of the finest in this suburb. It cannot be for sale long. It is too great a bargain to stay. Will it be you? Call us about it.

READY!

YOUR IDEAL HOME

IN LAKE FOREST.

You homeseekers who want a residence now or soon, and who WILL OCCUPY IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY in a strictly residential district of very desirable character, in Chicago's most exclusive suburb, have just completed and are offering 3 beautiful colonial homes, each distinctively attractive in design, of sound construction and with every appointment for luxurious comfort. These homes are situated on one of the finest sections of Lake Forest, less than 1 block from Sheridan-rd. and within 2 blks. of Lake Michigan. The area is completely developed and permanently restricted community. All improvements, including concrete pavements, have been installed. Transportation is excellent, with the Lake Forest depot only 5 blocks away. The fine North Shore lines close by; careful landscaping, together with the unusual beauty of trees and woods in this high class section provide an ideal setting for these homes. Built with the chief object of establishing the high character of Ravinia Park, these 3 homes are offered to responsible parties at unusually low prices and terms. A real opportunity to secure your ideal home. It will be advisable to investigate at once. Your inspection is invited at any time during the week at Ravinia Park (North Lake Forest).

Special Offering of Guaranteed Lincolns

LINCOLN 7 pass. Sedan. Current model, driven exactly 7,865 miles as a demonstrator and received daily inspection by our own mechanics. Would be impossible under the most critical inspection to distinguish it from a brand new car. Tires are practically new and car is completely equipped. Carries new car guarantee and service. Price, $4,000.

LINCOLN 7 pass. Sedan. Current model, driven exactly 9,883 miles with intelligent care and is perfect in every detail. Finished in a beautiful green gray and not only presents a new car appearance but carries our new car guarantee and service mechanically. Has brand new cord tires and all equipment. Price, $3,500.

LINCOLN 5 pass. Sedan. Current model. This car, having been driven but 11,781 miles, still retains its excellent original finish and the interior is as immaculate as the day it was delivered. Equipment consists of 5 splendid cord tires, bumpers, windshield spotlight, snubbers, etc. priced at $3,250 for immediate sale.

LINCOLN Sport Touring. Equipped with 6 slightly used balloon tires, 6 wire wheels, 2 spare wheels, and tires mounted on the running boards, Lorraine driving light, windshield wings, trunk on rear, automatic windshield cleaner, rear view mirror, Houdille shock absorbers, etc. Driven, only 11,656 miles. Presents a sporty and very attractive new car appearance and carries the standard Lincoln guarantee and service. Priced special today at $3,250.

LINCOLN 5 pass. Sedan. An exceptionally well kept motor car that affords high class, luxurious transportation at a moderate price. Refinished in a very deep maroon and finely upholstered in broadcloth. Has complete equipment, including Houdille shock absorbers and bumpers. New car guarantee mechanically. Price, $2,750.

LINCOLN 5 pass. Coupe. Beautifully refinished in Duco and is without a doubt in the very finest coach and mechanical condition. Guaranteed mechanically. Equipped with heater, shock absorbers, Lorraine driving light, etc. An unusually popular body style at a substantial saving in price. $2,750.

LINCOLN 4 pass. Judkins Sedan. Upholstered in imported broadcloth, refinished in a deep Brewster green with wheels in a pleasant contrast. Interior has always had seat cover protection and has a new appearance. Equipment includes trunk in rear, 5 brand new cord tires, bumper and fender guards, etc. Price, $2,500.

LINCOLN Limousine with custom built Fleetwood 7 passenger body. Equally adapted for private use or high grade livery service. Thoroughly inspected mechanically and carries our new car guarantee. Has 6 excellent tires, 2 bumpers, heater, Houdille shock absorbers, and many other extras. Price, $2,000.

LINCOLN 5 pass. Coupe. Refinished and in splendid mechanical and coach condition. Good tires and all necessary practical equipment. Price today, $750.

LINCOLN Touring, 7 pass. This car has been used by an official of this company and especially well cared for. Has good tires and is in excellent condition throughout. Price, $1,350.

MOTOR COMPANY

INCORPORATED.
HUPMOBILE DISTRBS.

CERTIFIED, TESTED & APPROVED AUTOMOBILES ON 5 DAY'S FREE TRIAL

Over 2,600 satisfied customers purchased cars from THE HOUSE OF GAMBILL during the year 1925.

They bought here because they felt that they were obtaining the greatest possible value in motor cars and with the privilege of which means that any car we sell can be driven for 5 DAYS, and if the purchaser is dissatisfied for any reason whatsoever he may return the car and we will allow full credit on any other new or used car in the house.

Our Policy Protects You

We are an old established, reputable house, and have developed and are maintaining a reputation for honest, fair and legitimate dealings, and could not afford to jeopardize this valuable good will for the sake of a few dollars brought in from the sale of a car unscrupulously sold.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

September 12, 1926

MISS AMY REVERE is among the dancers in "Tip-Toes," wherein Miss Queenie Smith is to be seen in Chicago ere winter comes.

MISS GERTRUDE M'DONALD is another of the dancers in "Tip-Toes," and was in Chicago with Miss Smith last year in "Be Yourself!"

MISS ELOISE STREAM has a part in "The Butter-and-Egg Man," a comedy by George S. Kaufman, to be given in Chicago later in the season.

MISS FLORENCE RITTENHOUSE, in Chicago briefly in 1924 in "The Shame-Woman," has succeeded Miss Fay Bainter in a piece called "The Enemy."

Sally Jollyco is married!

Yes, our own sweet Sally—slip of a girl with sparkling eyes and cheeks of roses—has gone and married that nice young nephew of Dr. Verity's.

"Dr. and Mrs. Philip Verity, at home after October first," read the announcement. Here we see the groom following an age-old custom of carrying the bride across the threshold—to make sure she'll never, never leave him.

As if anything but a wedding trip would take Sally from such a home.

Think of having two bathrooms! "Cubicles of luxury," Phil calls them, thinking of gorgeous baths with Ivory. And Sally's name is "salons of Ivory," thinking of precious cakes of Guest Ivory for her face and hands, and lovely Ivory Flakes for her enchanting trousseau fineries. She would tell you that this new home simply couldn't exist without Ivory.

A famous dermatologist explains:

Why your complexion needs soap

"One sometimes encounters the superstition," says Dr. Wm. Allen Pusey, the great authority on the care of the skin, "that washing the face is bad for the complexion, and meets individuals who because of that misbelief try to get along with oils and creams as a substitute for soap and water.

"The layer of dirt and oil that such persons accumulate on the face is a poor makeshift for a clean skin, and is a constant invitation to various disorders of the skin.

"To keep it clean, the face needs at least one good washing daily with soap and water and a washcloth or soft flesh brush."

Of course, the soap you use on your skin must be pure and mild. That is self-evident. It must also cleanse thoroughly without removing all the natural oil while removing the dirt.

Ivory is that kind of soap.

If the soap is good soap—Ivory Soap, for instance, it cleanses quickly and gently without robbing the skin of its oil. To accomplish this purpose, Ivory needs no "rubbing in"—no massaging. It leaves the skin soft and smooth and glowingly clean. That is the very most you should expect any soap to do, for soap cannot have magic powers—it cannot cure or transform your skin.

You may use Ivory Soap with complete assurance that it will cleanse thoroughly without irritating. It has been doing this for nearly half a century. Ivory Soap is pure, mild and gentle, and is made of the very finest ingredients, so an Ivory Soap-and-water washing with a dash of cool or cold water, is the best and safest of all cleansing treatments for your complexion. PROCTER & GAMBLE

IVORY SOAP

99 44/100% Pure · It Floats

Guest IVORY—shaped for slim, feminine fingers: 5 cents

Ivory Flakes meets this important safety test:

Before you trust your costly fine fabrics to any soap in any form, a doubt naturally comes up in your mind:

"Is this soap really safe?"

Ask yourself: "Would I be willing to use this soap on my face?"

A soap which is too strong for your face is naturally too strong for your delicate and costly garments.

Ivory Flakes is simply Ivory Soap in flake form. Of course it fully meets this important safety test. For Ivory Soap, pure, mild, gentle, white—has protected the faces and hands of millions of women since 1879.

Ivory Flakes offers you a real margin of safety for cleansing the very finest garments you own. Many women wash all their clothes and dishes with Ivory or Ivory Flakes, thus saving their hands and preventing redness and roughness.

NANCY LANGHORNE HOME AGAIN—Lord and Lady Astor and their daughter, Phyllis, on the platform of their private car at Charlottesville, Va. These English society and political leaders spent part of the summer in Maine and then visited Lady Astor's girlhood home in Virginia, which is not far from Monticello, the Thomas Jefferson estate. They are visiting other parts of the United States before returning to England.

OUT OF TENNIS FOR THE YEAR, Helen Wills has joined her sorority sisters here at the University of California to be a bookworm again; and in the meantime her old national crown, which she couldn't defend because of weakness following an appendicitis operation, has gone to Molla Mallory. Helen plans to recuperate from now on, and next year—well, it's another year.

THE BEST DAM SITE IN AMERICA, according to Secretary of Commerce Hoover (at the right), is this one at Albany Falls, near Spokane, Wash., where he was photographed with his secretary and engineers of the Columbia basin irrigation project. Two million acres will be reclaimed by the undertaking, and power will be supplied for the entire valley.

THE BEST PHOTOGRAPH OF THE YEAR in the commercial field is this view of Tribune Tower from the south side of the river, it was decided at the convention of the Photographers' Association of America in Chicago. The award went to Raymond Trowbridge, whose camera produced the picture.

THERE'S ONE LESS TITLE LEFT FOR THE MEN, for Miss Helen Barnaby, a 19-year-old farmerette, harvested the New England mowing championship at the University of New Hampshire despite masculine competition from all over the upper right hand corner of the states. The largest—and most lovable—army in the world begins its annual attack on shoes

September! School doors opening. An army of twenty-five million American boys and girls mobilizing. . . . Eager volunteers, carefree adventurers, unwilling conscripts—all surging schoolward. Strenuous days ahead for the shoes they wear!

MAIN STREET—A "regular" shoe for boys. Tan Oxford; rich fall goldenrod shade; roomy, snug-fitting Blucher pattern; new "Norge" last. Caulk welt adds to the smart appearance and keeps the damp out. "Balloon" leather heel with five brass screws.

PRICE $4.00

SOLD AT THE

CUTLER STORE

IN THE LOOP

23 East Monroe Street and 114 South Wabash, Palmer House
—and other leading stores in Chicago and elsewhere

Do you know that of 105 million pairs of boys' and girls' shoes purchased annually by American households, 15 million are Endicott-Johnson shoes? One pair in every seven! Significant, isn't it? There must be something unusual about these shoes. There is: Wear and value such as you simply can't find in any other shoes of similar price range.

An "Industrial Democracy" makes these shoes . . . an organization of tanners and shoemakers in which every worker has a direct interest—a partner's pride—in every pair he makes. The leather in them—tanned by our own special processes, in tanneries that are among the largest in the world—is extra-strong. Designs are based on actual wearing tests—on real boys and girls. Workmanship is the finest you ever saw in shoes selling for so little. They're comfortable, durable, stylish and real money-saving shoes. Try them!

Scores of beautiful new fall styles—for men and women as well as for boys and girls.

Fifty thousand stores sell Endicott-Johnson shoes. Our trade-mark is on the sole.

Boys' and girls' shoes $3, $4, $5.
Smaller sizes proportionately less.

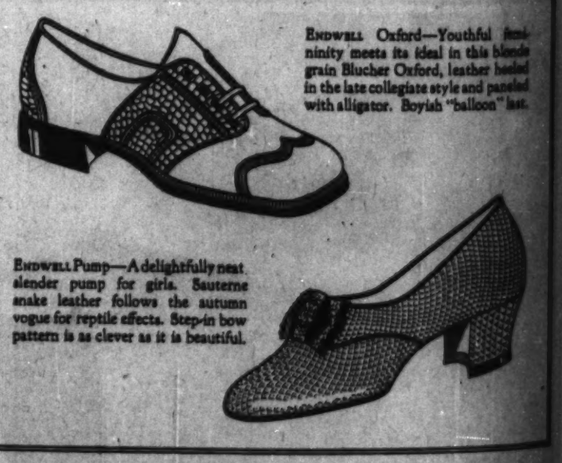
Largest manufacturers of boys' and girls' shoes in the world

ENDICOTT, N. Y.

NEW YORK CITY ST. LOUIS, MO.

Write for "The World at Play," an interesting free booklet for boys and girls—and parents too. And if you don't know where you can buy Endicott-Johnson shoes, we'll tell you—gladly.



ENDWELL Oxford—Youthful femininity meets its ideal in this blonde grain Blucher Oxford, leather heeled in the late collegiate style and paneled with alligator. Boyish "balloon" last.

ENDWELL Pump—A delightfully neat slender pump for girls. Sauterne snake leather follows the autumn vogue for reptile effects. Step-in bow pattern is as clever as it is beautiful.

THE LAST WORD IN DIRIGIBLES noses out of its hangar for a test flight at Yokosuka, Japan, where it has joined the empire's fast growing fleet of aerial craft. At the nose of the ship are convex ribs, designed to prevent rolling; and behind these is an emergency gas outlet valve intended to prevent such a tragedy as befell the American Shenandoah. A CABINET MEMBER ON VACATION doesn't usually pick such a strenuous way of spending his leisure. Secretary Davis of the department of labor wasn't juggling white hot steel ingots for a living, though. He was calling on an old friend in a mill at Seattle, Wash., and he peeled off his shirt and set to jiggling levers just for the fun of it. (Photograph from International.)

HURRICANE SWEEPS JOHN T. McCUTCHEON'S TREASURE ISLAND—This was the prospect upon the possession of the famous cartoonist in the Bahamas after the recent West Indies tempest. Seventy-eight coconut trees went down and four houses were wrecked on this isle alone.

AS A MEMORIAL to General William Crawford Gorgas, conqueror of disease in Cuba and the Canal Zone, his widow has placed in the Smithsonian Institution the decorations and many of the personal effects of the illustrious surgeon. Mrs. Gorgas, who resides in Washington, has completed a biography of her late husband. (Photograph from Underwood & Underwood.)

FOUR OF A KIND and the reason is simple—they're quadruplets, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Keys of Hollis, Okla. They're just 11 years old and are said to be the only quadruplets in the world of the same sex. They're Roberta, Mona, Mary and Leota. Think of father's and mother's troubles when their birthday rolls around. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

HAS A HAPPY NAME and looks it, does Miss Gladys Glad. She has the distinction of being the most beautiful and shapely chorus girl on Broadway, winning the title in a recent Coney Island beauty contest. She belongs to Flo Ziegfeld's Follies. (Photograph from Wide World.)

ADMIRAL SIMS AT PLAY—The commander-in-chief of Uncle Sam's sea forces in European waters during the world war, now retired, spends his time at his Newport, R. I., home. Tennis is the admiral's favorite sport, and we find him here on his way to one of the courts on his estate. He is 68 years old and credits tennis for his being still fit as a fiddle.

The Very Women who Never Dreamed They Would

TWO years ago few women of real refinement would recolor their hair. Then Notox was invented.

Now the very women who would never have dreamed of using the coloring have come to include Notox as an indispensable part of their regular beauty program.

Notox owes its distinguished patronage to its utter difference from other colorings. And that difference is simply this: Notox can never be detected because its method is the same as nature's.

The hair is really a fine system of fibres—finer by far than the finest silken thread—protected by a lustrous, translucent covering. All the color of the hair is contained in those inner fibres. The outer shell contains no pigment. Yet that delicate sheath is responsible for half the beauty of the hair.

The soft tints of natural hair as we see them are a combination of both color and light. And it is through the outer covering of the hair that the light reaches the inner color and is refracted.

When the hair turns gray it simply means that nature is no longer supplying color to the inner fibres.

And once the hair is gray it is futile to try to reproduce its original color by painting over the gray. That merely shuts out the essential light and leaves the flat, unreal effects that women have avoided.

That is what the old colors did and that is why they failed.

Notox owes its extraordinary success to its new principle. It does not paint the hair; it replaces the lost color. The pigment is put back in the inner fibres, where nature first put its own color. No color remains on the surface of the hair. The lustrous outer sheath is untouched and unimpaired, thus assuring the necessary combination of color and light.

Waving, shampooing, permanent waving, or even steam baths leave unimpaired the wonderfully natural shades of Notox. And Notox is so safe and so easy to apply that any woman can use it with perfect success in the privacy of her own home.

No woman need be told what this means to her—relief from the ever-impending apprehension of premature grayness—an extension of her span of usefulness and happiness and Truly, in providing Notox, science has bestowed a boon of inestimable value.

Notox is sold and applied in beauty shops; and sold in drug and department stores. The makers of Notox will, upon request, recommend a beauty shop near you where you may have Notox expertly applied.

CHARLES CHAPLIN will be seen thus in his coming release, "The Circus." Shoes and cane still on deck, you'll notice.

VERA REYNOLDS is that cute little trick who's been making such a sensation lately. They can cast her as they please—she pleases! One prophesies a great future for her. IF—she stays the same sweet girl she is today.

VICTOR VARCONI was seen as the aristocrat-lover in "The Volga Boatman." He has a dark and intriguing personality and is a fine actor.

When friends "just happen in" and you wonder what to serve

Good friends . . . we love them . . . but they do have a habit of dropping in when least expected.

You haven't time to prepare anything elaborate, yet you do want to be an agreeable host—to show your guests you appreciate their coming. And sometimes your whole afternoon or evening is spoiled because you know there isn't a thing in the pantry you can serve.

Why not prepare now for the unexpected guests that are sure to come?

Just order a Hostess Package of twelve bottles of "Canada Dry" while the thought is in your mind—and you will be ready for any emergency. It's a ginger ale that everybody likes and it adds a certain fine distinction to any occasion.

Many, many people have called it "The Champagne of Ginger Ales," and there is, indeed, no phrase that suits it quite so well as that.

You take the bottle in your hand and pour this fine old ginger ale slowly down the side of a thin-edge glass as a connoisseur would pour a rare old wine.

You lift it to your lips and taste—reflectively at first to catch the magic of its flavor and its rich bouquet.

"The witchery of a wonder blend is in it," you say to yourself. "The coolness of the early morning before the sun comes up." "A stimulation like that of mountain air."

Tasting "Canada Dry" for the first time or the five-hundredth time—knowing it—hearing your friends talk about it—you begin to understand why it has been famous for so many years in Canada and why it has created a sensation ever since it was first introduced into this country.

Try it soon! At luncheon and dinner! When entertaining! When foraging for the bedtime snack! You will never forget the wonderful flavor.

TRY THIS DELICIOUS DOZEN

A new way of packing "Canada Dry." Ideal for home use. Twelve bottles in a substantial carton. You will be especially glad to have it handy when friends drop in unexpectedly, for the formal or informal dance, for luncheon and dinner, for a refreshing bedtime snack. This Special Hostess Package is sold by all "Canada Dry" dealers.

Always look for the name on the bottle cap to be sure of the original

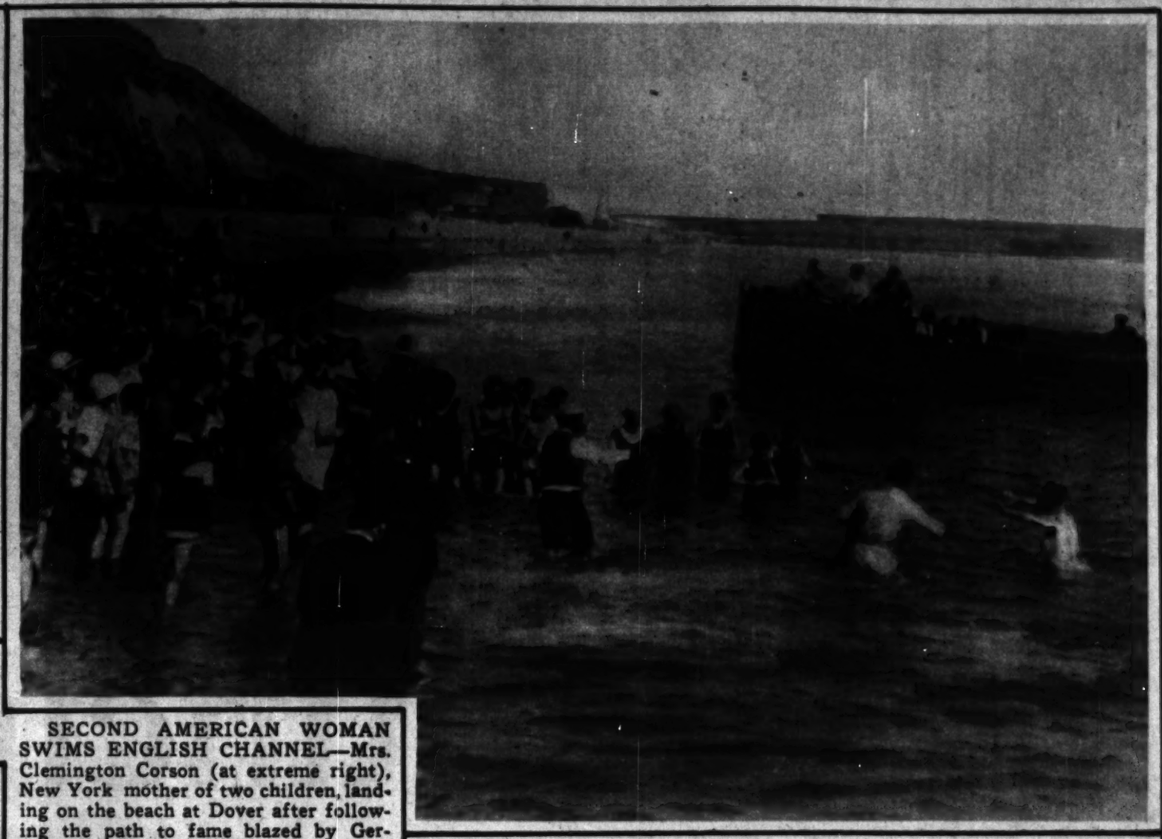
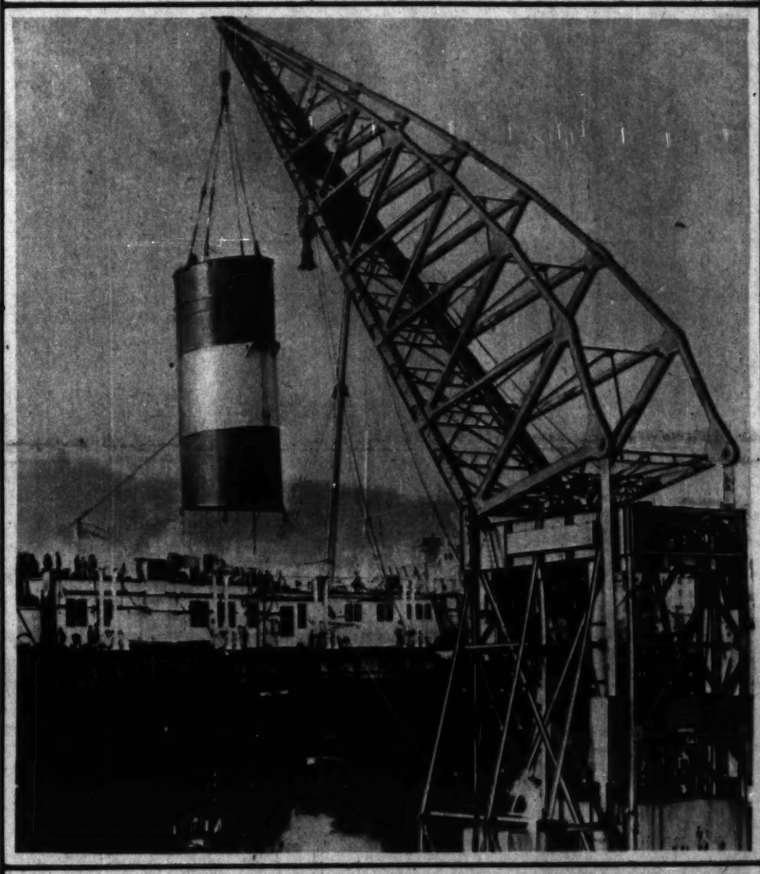
UNCLE SAM LAUNCHES "PEANUT PLANE"—The first American submarine-borne machine taking off from the mother vessel in trials at New London, Conn. It is kept in the tube visible at the left and assembled for action when desired. In the tryout the undersea boat, the S-1, dived and came to the surface, the tube was opened, and the plane took to the water in exactly nine minutes. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)



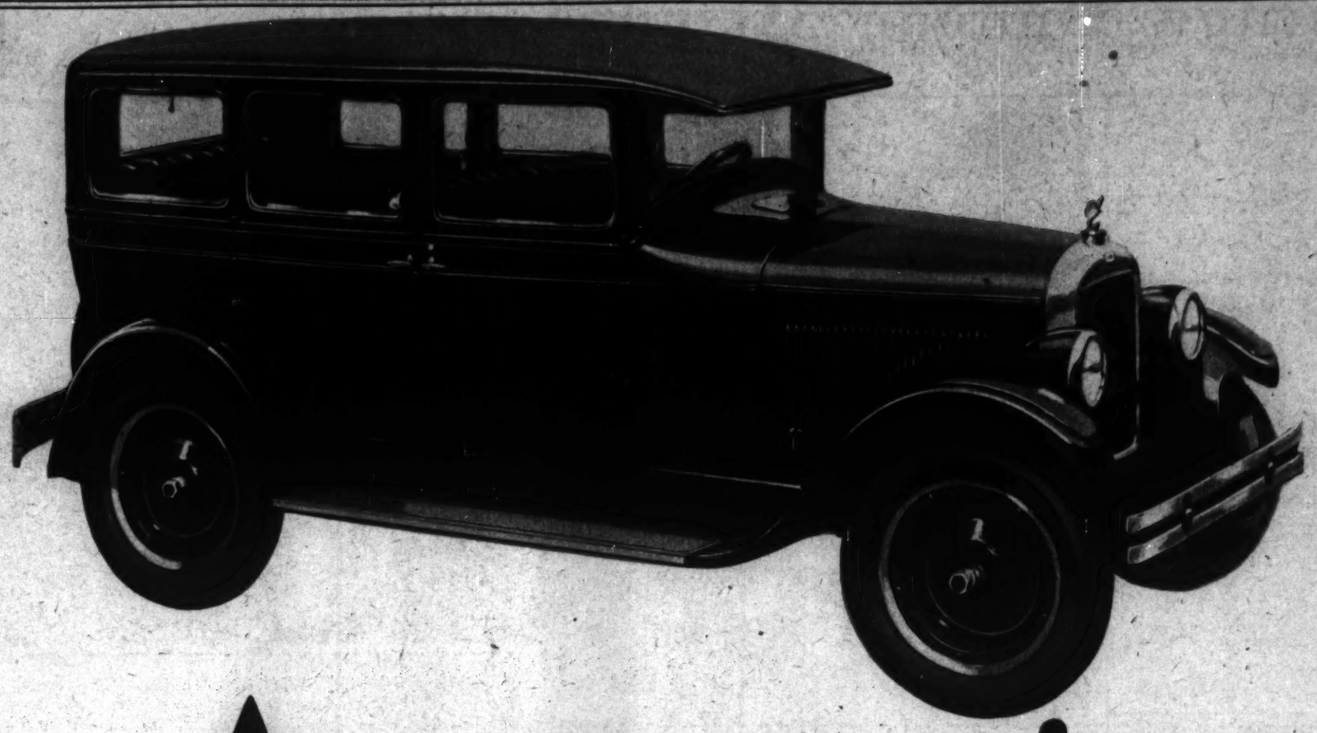
SECOND AMERICAN WOMAN SWIMS ENGLISH CHANNEL—Mrs. Clemington Corson (at extreme right), New York mother of two children, landing on the beach at Dover after following the path to fame blazed by Gertrude Ederle. Miss Ederle, first of her sex to tame the strait, crossed it in 14 hours 41 minutes, for the moment the swiftest conquest of all time. Though Mrs. Corson failed to equal Trudy's record, she also excelled the masculine mark with a figure of 15 hours 28 minutes. A few days after Mrs. Corson's feat, however, Hans Vierkoetter, a German, established a new time of 12 hours 42 minutes. Arriving in New York by liner, this picture was dispatched to Chicago by phone.
(Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic: Transmitted Over A. T. & T. Wires.)

BARLEYCORN WINS! Three leaders, with the winner in the van, clear the water jump in the Bowling Brook steeplechase handicap at Belmont race track, on Long Island, with a spectacular flash of action. Jockey Byers piloted the winner, with Brantome second and Uhol third. (Photograph from Wide World.)



ITALY'S BIGGEST LINER, ROMA, gets a smokestack with the aid of a powerful steel crane. When completed the steamship will be 709 feet long and 97 feet from keel to bridge. Its tonnage will be 33,000, 26,956 less than that of the Leviathan, America's queen of the waves. (Photograph from Wide World.)

CHICAGO POURS OUT HOSTS FOR POLICE FIELD DAY—The start of the 880 yard run, won by Officer McEllinghott of the Fifteenth district, in the annual games brought to a halt last Sunday by rain. Twenty-five thousand persons braved the storm for the spectacle at Soldiers' Field, following record-breaking performances on the previous day. (Tribune photograph.)



Indirectly lighted grouped panel with gasoline gauge, speedometer, ammeter, oil pressure gauge. Lights controlled from wheel steering wheel. All controls in easy reach. Coincidental lock.

Announcing The Beautiful New Jewett!

Wide doors open upon spacious rear compartment. Beautifully finished and fitted doors. Quarter lights in the rear panels. Convenient foot rest.

Upholstery is of finest mohair over individually nested, comfort-type springs. Heavily plated rotary lifts for the windows. Smoking sets. Pull straps. Ingenious arm rests. Luxury everywhere! Walnut finished panels artistically inlaid.

JEWETT has built a new car. A newer motor car. It is a Jewett of exquisite beauty and charm. As smart as the dinner hour at the Ritz. As easily driven as a blind horse. Roomy as your favorite knickers, and as comfortable. And back of its beauty and charm and grace—a perfect mechanism that has made the dependableness of Paige and Jewett cars the envy of the industry for 17 years.

This new Jewett will enter into your affections as quickly as did (or will) your first child. And it will grow on you quite as engagingly.

Let your anticipations run high when you first go to see this newest and smartest Jewett. For the builders of Jewett have gone far to embellish this car of moderate size and moderate cost with things that in the past have been reserved only for those of great wealth.

The very lines of this Jewett instantly bespeak style. Its cushioned seats resemble those of the drawing room. Its walnut-finished panels, skillfully inlaid, give an air of custom-exclusiveness quite uncommon. Its instrument panel is as charming as a beautiful watch, and the instruments as accurate.

Silvered cases attend to the smokers' comfort. Its rear-panel lighting fitments, its cleverly placed arm rests. its perfect facilities for ventilation and clear vision through all weathers, these things all add to that perfection for which Jewett builders have so long striven. And which, we feel, they have now attained.

See this Jewett soon. Its appearance is bound to win your instant admiration. Let one of the Paige-Jewett dealers listed below explain its hidden mechanical merit—the tremendous power and speed its ultra-modern motor (considerably larger than the former Jewett motor) generates so economically, the length of life assured by its positive, high-pressure lubrication, the strength of its chassis, and the safety of its Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes.

Come to know this car as quickly and as thoroughly as you can—for you'll like it immensely, and you'll buy it.

The Worsted-tex Suit

A Custom-Tailor Cloth in a Ready-to-Wear Suit

WORSTED-TEX is an entirely new cloth. It is similar to the goods you see at a fine custom tailor's. Now used for the first time in a moderate priced suit.

Worsted-tex keeps its shape like the old-fashioned worsted. But it drapes and feels like a soft imported fabric.

The Worsted-tex suit is guaranteed to wear as well as the best suit you can buy at any price or your dealer will replace it.

It is made with one pair of trousers only. The wearing quality of the cloth makes an extra pair unnecessary.

Worsted-tex is shown in a variety of rich colors, mixtures and patterns that suit the taste of every well-dressed man. Made 2 button or 3 button, single-breasted or double-breasted.

If the Worsted-tex label is not in the suit, it is positively not made of genuine, guaranteed Worsted-tex cloth.

Price $40

The Knit-tex Coat

The Knit-tex Coat is Guaranteed for 3 years

THE Knit-tex Coat is different from any topcoat you have ever worn. Light as a feather, warm as toast, soft as velvet, never wrinkles and can be worn ten months in the year.

Knit-tex is knitted but you wouldn't know it. It looks like a fine, imported fabric. The yoke and sleeve lining are of Skinner's satin.

In every city and town in the United States a clothing store with this Knit-tex photograph in its window carries Knit-tex in new shades of light and medium grey, oxford, brown, tan, polo, blue-grey, sage, beige, mode and heather mixtures.

If some one shows you a coat without the Knit-tex label and claims the material is like Knit-tex—beware!

If the Knit-tex label is not in the coat it is positively not made of genuine, guaranteed Knit-tex cloth.

She doesn't fear the dentist

Wise men and women go to the dentist at least twice a year for a thorough mouth inspection. They don't put off the dental appointment until forced to seek relief from pain and the dentist has to hurt. If you see your dentist in time he can keep your teeth and gums healthy and may prevent serious illness.

Neglect punishes

FOUR out of FIVE

Failure to take a few simple precautions lets pyorrhea, dread disease of the gums, become entrenched in the mouths of four out of five at forty, and many younger, according to dental statistics.

Start today to brush teeth and gums night and morning with Forhan's if you would be with the lucky who escape pyorrhea's ravages. Forhan's firms the gums and keeps them pink and healthy. It doesn't give this insidious infection chance to steal upon you.

If you have tender bleeding gums go to your dentist immediately for treatment and use Forhan's regularly. The chances are your own dentist will recommend it. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid dentists use to combat pyorrhea.

Besides safeguarding your health, Forhan's is a pleasant tasting dentifrice that gives the teeth perfect cleansing; and forestalls decay.

Include Forhan's in your daily hygiene for your health's sake. Pyorrhea is no respecter of persons. Four out of five is its grim count. At all druggists', 35c and 60c in tubes.

Flavoring is the thing that counts in cooking

THE success of a cake, pie, pudding, custard or ice cream depends largely on the flavoring. When you can buy Dr. Price's Vanilla Extract for a few pennies more than you would pay for an imitation flavor, why take chances? It is made from the finest vanilla beans—the true fruit of the vanilla vine. It is full-strength. It is mellowed and its rare tropic flavor developed by the slow aged-in-the-wood process. The picture of Price's Tropikid on the bottle is your guarantee that the contents are absolutely pure.

We will mail, free of charge, an atractive recipe book, "Delicious Desserts and Candies," compiled by leading culinary artists. Address the Price Flavoring Extract Company, Dept. C, Chicago, Ill.

CHARMOSETTE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Pat. Dec. 22, 1925.

The Priceless New Elastic Fabric

Entire garment may be laundered daily . . . Will three times outwear other fabrics

Today, finer figure-moulding garments are essential. Charmosette is a response to this urgent demand. Only in a fresh series of Gossard garments can this perfected elastic be obtained.

Every modern woman will appreciate these outstanding features of Charmosette:

Charmosette garments may be safely laundered daily.

Charmosette has three times the wearing qualities of other fabrics.

Charmosette may be cut at any angle or altered to please—it will not run, pull, tear or break.

Charmosette will not suffer deterioration from acidity of any description.

Delicately, Charmosette moulds itself to the figure. Its sensitive resilience permits it to yield with every breath, with every movement. Charmosette is combined with a new material, Royal Batiste, having the beauty of satin yet the durability of the best quality brocade.

Charmosette is a luxury and convenience indispensable to the beauty and comfort of the modern woman.

Remember, you can obtain garments fashioned with Charmosette in all cities, but only in stores which regularly carry Gossards, and only in garments honored with the Gossard label.

How many people actually have halitosis (unpleasant breath)?

Read what dentists have to say about this:

EVERY reader of Listerine advertising knows about halitosis (unpleasant breath), that insidious thing that not even your best friends discuss with you. Yet there are still a few "doubting Thomas" folks who think halitosis is only a state of mind.

Out of simple curiosity we put this question up to a carefully selected list of dentists—1000 of them—and in a letter asked them the following:

> Do you ever use Listerine, in self-defense, in the mouth of a patient troubled with halitosis, unpleasant breath?
> Please answer if you use it this way (1) Frequently, (2) Occasionally, or (3) Never.

Four hundred and forty replied as follows:

83% said "Frequently"
15% said "Occasionally"
Only 2% said "Never."

Now, what human being meets halitosis at closer range, face to face, than the dentist? And who would be a better judge of this condition—and how to combat it—than the dentist?—Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, U. S. A.

These Two Creams are all a sun-dried, faded, roughened skin needs to bring back its freshness, its clear, smooth charm

After summer . . . How to bring back the clear smooth beauty of your skin . . .

MISS ELINOR PATTERSON successful as "The Nun" in "The Miracle" and a skilled horsewoman, says: "Pond's Two Creams are sure in fulfillment."

FALL is here with smart, new fashions, races, horse-shows, polo matches. Just when you long to look your best your poor burned skin, won't let you!

If only your faded sunburn and tan, that coarsened texture of your skin, could be changed back to softness, a fresh, clear glow!

You can bring back—and quickly, too—that clear smooth beauty summer's robbed you of. Follow the method the beautiful women of social prestige pursue. Carefully every day use the two delicate fluffy Creams made by Pond's. In place of the damage summer did will come a finer, more velvety quality than your skin has ever known before. In the next column read how. The Pond's Extract Company, 131 Hudson Street, New York City.

For a sun-dried sun-burned skin—Often by day, and before retiring, cleanse with Pond's Cold Cream patting it on generously, leaving it long enough for its fine oils to cleanse the dry pores of all deep lodged impurities. Wipe off and repeat. Add more Pond's Cold Cream and leave it to be gradually absorbed. This will restore your skin's suppleness.

Then to protect the skin, apply Pond's Vanishing Cream thinly, before going out.

For a tanned, roughened skin—Cleanse often with Pond's Cold Cream and follow with occasional applications of Pond's Vanishing Cream. This smooths away all roughnesses, keeps the skin soft, restores its delicate flower-like quality.

Blemishes, sallowness, that sluggish muddy look, will also gradually yield to the gentle ministrations of these same Two Creams by Pond's.

MISS BARBARA STREEIGH the daughter of Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and a user of Pond's is awaiting her turn on a California golf links.

You'll have a lot more fun in life—and better health, too—if your teeth are white and lovely. Don't ever let your teeth embarrass you. Use Colgate's . . . and say "Yes" when he telephones.

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream will make your teeth glisten gloriously. It will whiten them and bring out all their natural beauty. But even more important . . . it will help keep your teeth and gums healthy.

Colgate's penetrates every place where it is possible for germs and food particles to collect. It loosens these impurities at once. Then it washes them away, leaving your teeth and gums absolutely clean. The warm, dark interior of your mouth is an ideal breeding place for germs. Colgate's literally goes right into their hiding places and removes those causes of tooth decay.

And you'll like its taste . . . even children love to use it regularly. Large tube 25c—Giant tube 45c.

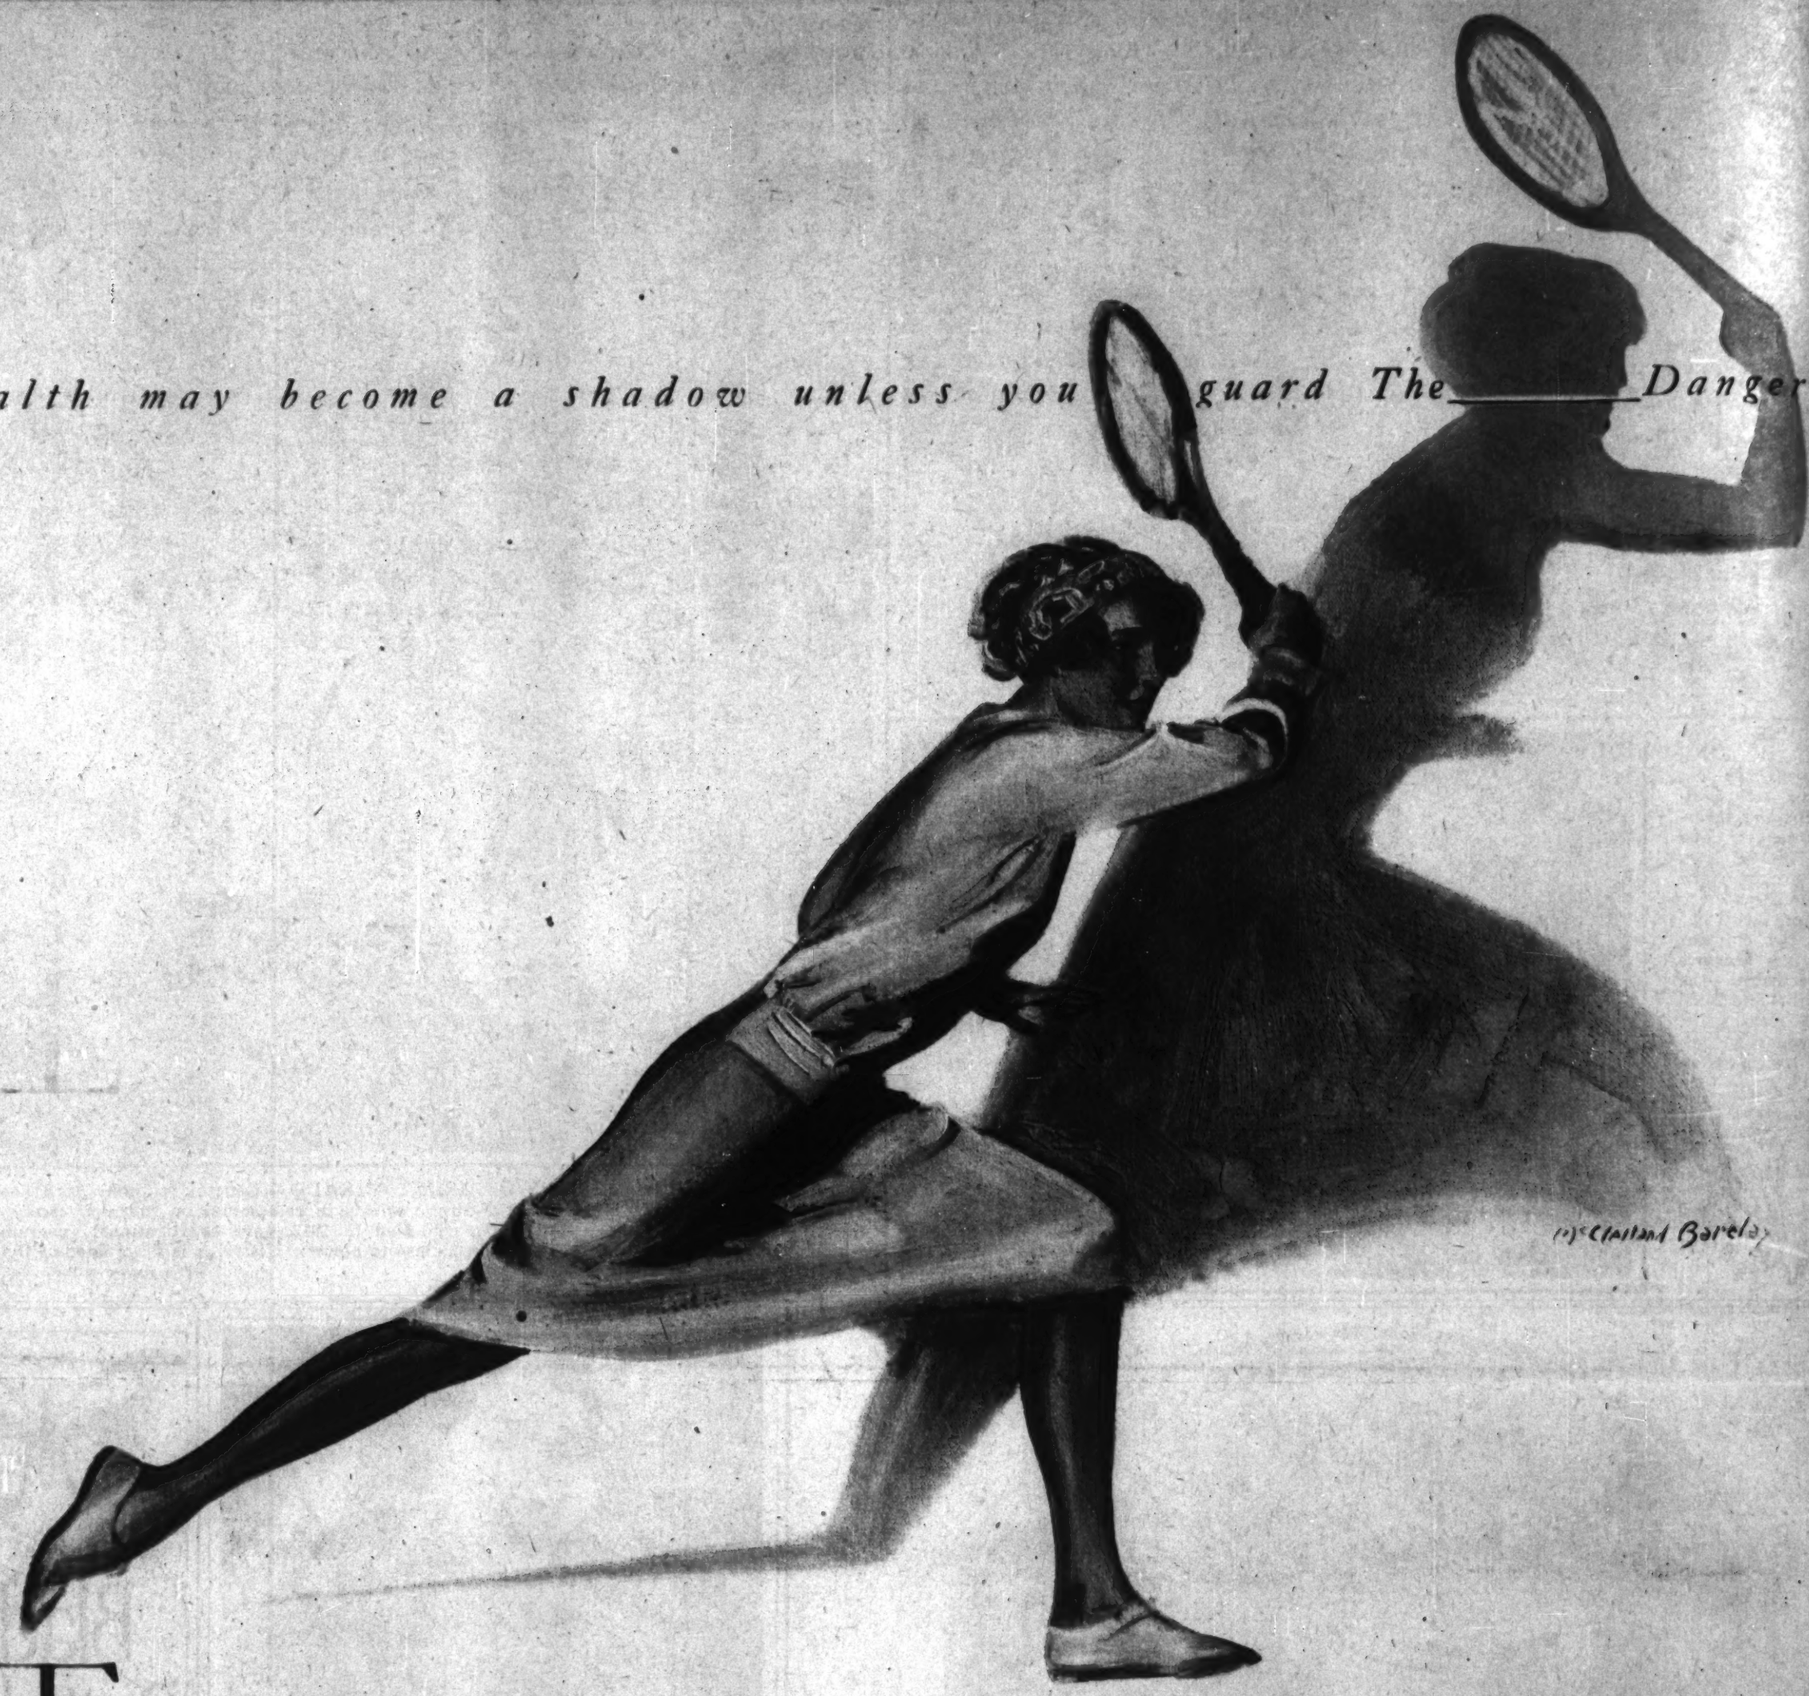
Health may become a shadow unless you guard The Danger Line



To modern women vitality is most precious . . .

yet millions risk it daily for lack of this new knowledge

WE LEAD such crowded lives! Every hour of the twenty-four is precious! The woman who must hoard her energy—who is tired before the day is over—misses countless moments of gayety and joy which never can return.

And too often, it is lack of this new knowledge of The Danger Line that is responsible for tiredness, premature old age—or such disorders as rheumatism, heart or nervous troubles.

Science today knows that many serious diseases gain entrance to the system through decayed teeth, exposed root canals and Pyorrhea pockets between the gums and the teeth. Proper care of the mouth should be a safeguard against this danger. Yet thousands who regularly brush their teeth suffer from tooth decay and gum troubles.

Brushing is not enough

No tooth-brush can reach into all the pits and crevices where acids may form and cause decay. This is especially true at The Danger Line where teeth and gums meet. Here, the edges of the gums form tiny V-shaped crevices in which food collects. Acids form which cause that decay, which is hardest to control. Here, too, Pyorrhea and other gum infections usually begin.

To safeguard your health, these acids must be neutralized. One dentifrice can do this—Squibb's Dental Cream. It contains more than fifty per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—long recognized by medical authorities as a safe, effective antacid. Every time you use Squibb's Dental Cream, tiny particles of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia remain in the crevices at The Danger Line. They neutralize the harmful acids and protect from danger afterwards.

To protect your health use Squibb's Dental Cream at least twice a day and see your dentist twice a year. Squibb's Dental Cream is on sale at all druggists. Only 40 cents for a large tube.

In almost any drug store you will find 20, 30, even 40, different kinds of dentifrices. Many people buy these dentifrices . . . changing from one to another. They seem disappointed. They brush their teeth regularly . . . yet they still have decay and gum diseases . . . WHY?

Because teeth need more than brushing. They must be protected at The Danger Line. Try this simple test—Tonight, just before going to bed, take a tablespoonful of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia in water, swallow a part of it—and use the rest to swish about the mouth and as a gargle. You will be surprised in the morning to find how clean and sweet your mouth feels. The Milk of Magnesia will not only have neutralized the acids in your mouth, but sweetened your stomach also. The same result may be obtained using Squibb's Dental Cream—it contains over 50 per cent Squibb's Milk of Magnesia.

In Which the Master Writer of Boy Stories Has a Chuckle Over Women and Girls

APROSTY and turbulent October relented abruptly and, like an angry lady becoming all at once unreasonably gentle, followed an almost snowy morning with an afternoon warm from August. The small town relaxed in the hazy sunshine; shirt-sleeves were seen upon the more informal; colored people went forth hopefully to fish in the creek; and old Mr. Wilover, foremost citizen, returning home at a little after three from his bank, felt encouraged to renew his summer custom of taking the air upon his "front porch." A rocking-chair was brought from indoors for him and placed near the stone railing of the broad veranda, and here he sat down to a cigar, rocking himself intermittently and waiting until the evening newspaper should be tossed over the iron fence into the front yard.

Not long after he had thus pleasantly established himself a lovely school-girl of twelve turned in at the gate and in deep meditation walked slowly up the long path of flagstones that led to the veranda. She was a child exquisite in profile and in all contour, though not yet aware that she was, and so the more beautiful because of the angelic innocence of look produced by this rather surprising ignorance of hers. Certainly she was angelic to Mr. Wilover's eye, which became wholly unbankerlike at sight of her; for she was Clytie Wilover, his grandchild, the daughter of his dead son, and she and her grandfather lived alone together in the large brick house. She ascended the stone steps without speaking, absorbed in the profundities of some inward problem, and it seemed that she would pass indoors without being aware of her elderly relative's presence upon the veranda; but he spoke to her.

"Clytie?"

"Yes, sir?" She looked up, surprised; then went to him and kissed his cheek with a conscientiousness still preoccupied. "What do you want, sir?"

"Did you have a good day in school?"

"Yes, sir—pretty good."

"I wonder," he said fondly, and he touched the close curls about her head, all bright with suavely curved gildings in the afternoon sunshine. "I was wondering what could be in this thoughtful little topknot of yours as you came up the walk. You looked as if something had got into it that you couldn't get out. What in the world were you thinking?"

"Nothing, sir."

He laughed. "People don't look like that when they're not thinking about anything at all. Let's have it."

"Well." She frowned and pinched her lower lip dubiously between forefinger and thumb. "I was thinking—" She broke off; then spoke with conviction. "Grandpa, I believe boys are odious."

"What have they been doing?"

"Nothing. I was just looking at some on the way home from school. They were across the street from me and I didn't even know 'em."

"Did they say anything to you, Clytie?"

"No, sir. They didn't notice me. I was just looking at 'em."

"Then what made you think——"

"I just thought so," she explained. "They're—well, of course, they're terrible looking. And they sound so horrible. Some of 'em's voices were changing. They jump around and make so many motions all the time, and then hit each other and kick and squawk. They laugh as if they wanted to hurt somebody. They call each other names and they get themselves all over dirt and let it stay there. They don't care. They're really horrible, grandpa."

"Are they?"

"I believe I hate every boy that was ever born," she went on. "I don't see what they're for, grandpa. Why did they have to be? Just so's they'd grow up into men?"

"I suppose probably, Clytie."

"It seems a shame," she said musingly. "It ought to've been fixed so't there'd be men without there having to be a lot of awful boys first. Oh, well."

But upon this she went indoors, leaving her "Oh, well" in the air behind her with the implication that her conclusion would be, "We can't have everything!"

She did not return to the veranda, but presently, having emerged by some rearward door with a large slice of chocolate cake in her hand, she appeared again within her grandfather's range of vision. There were croquet wickets upon the lawn of the "side yard"; she had a mallet in her hand and began to knock the striped balls over the clipped grass, now and then musingly nibbling her slice of cake. He watched her for a little while, then turned his idle attention to the street.

SUDDENLY he stopped rocking himself and sat up straight in his chair. A station taxicab, known to him, was turning in at his driveway and he was expecting no one. Moreover, he recognised the two figures on the back seat as those of his daughter Miriam and her young son, Frankie. Miriam had never visited him before without any forewarning, at least by telephone, though she lived only sixty miles away; and when she came it was always in her own car. This arrival by taxicab from a train was therefore unexampled, and not only surprised him but appeared to him as a portent of impending disturbance. Miriam had always been what he called "emotional"; he feared she was bringing some emotion of hers to him now.

There was a porte-cochère at the side of the house opposite the croquet ground and, when the taxicab stopped there and Miriam descended, her father perceived at once that his prophetic disquiet had been warranted. Agitation was but too easily perceptible in her expression, in her voice, and in the gesture with which she drew her son to her side when he followed her out of the cab. She seemed to cling to him and to lean upon him in a widowed manner that the twelve-year-old boy himself little appreciated.

"I wish you'd let me alone, mamma," he said peevishly. "You're all right now—you've taken ammonia enough, heaven knows!"

His mother smiled pathetically. "Yes, Frankie," she said, and turned from him to greet her father, breathing upon Mr. Wilover's cheek, as she kissed him, the heavy sigh of one who expects soon to sob aloud.

"You're staying over night with me?" he asked.

"I'm—staying," she replied, and as he glanced nervously at two small traveling-bags the cabman was delivering to a white-coated colored man, who came from the house, she added, "Our trunks will be here tomorrow, I suppose."

"Your trunks, Miriam?"

Before replying she placed a black-gloved hand upon her visibly heaving breast, closed her eyes, bit her tremulous lower lip hard and, having thus temporarily controlled herself, inquired for Clytie. "If she's here will you send for her and let her entertain Frankie, please?" she said. "I must have a talk with you instantly; but the poor child has been through enough. Perhaps Clytie could play with him outdoors while we go into your library."

"I'll call her," Mr. Wilover said, and went to summon his granddaughter, though Frankie showed no enthusiasm.

"I don't want to 'play,'" he said. "Anyhow, I certainly don't want to with that old Clytie. She may be my cousin; but I don't care if she is, she's of no interest on earth to me."

"Hush!" his mother warned him. "Here she is."

Clytie, making her appearance with her grandfather around a corner of the house, gave her aunt a kiss of polite welcome, but was noncommittal in greeting her cousin.

"Howdydo, Frankie," she said, and looked at him with a grave but enigmatic attention. He nodded, and looked at her not at all.

"Run and play, children," his mother said gently; then, with a sudden impulse, caught Frankie tightly in her arms, kissed him hurriedly, uttered a sob, and rushed into the house with a handkerchief busy at her eyes and nose.

Her father followed her to his library and closed the door. Already she was extended upon a leathern couch, weeping convulsively. "Oh, dear me!" he said. "What is it now, Miriam?"

"'Now'?" she sobbed. "You say 'What is it now,' as if it were always something with me—as if I were always coming to you with something wrong! Is that fair?"

"It was just an inadvertence," he said wisely. "I mean: What's the matter?"

She sat upright and checked her sobbing. "I've left him," she said. "I'll never consent to see him again—never! I've left him."

"Left George? Left your husband?"

She laughed unhappily at the useless question. "Who else could I leave, since I've brought Frankie with me? Frankie's all I have in the world now."

"Is he? Why?"

But Miriam was not quite ready for so direct a question, and probably she intended to tell her story in her own way. At all events, she made no reply, but, opening a small handbag, procured a fresh handkerchief and substituted it for the sodden one she had been applying. "Frankie's an angel," she said brokenly. "A pure, bright angel! I oughtn't to mind having only him to live for. It ought to be enough; and I couldn't have lived at all, this whole last week, if it hadn't been for him. I couldn't have, father."

"Why not, Miriam?"

"He loves me so," she said, weeping gently into the fresh handkerchief. "I mean Frankie does. He's been so sympathetic—so sweet! If he'd been three times his age he couldn't have shown more understanding or more Christian manhood. He intends never to speak to his father again as long as he lives. He wouldn't any more than I would, myself."

"You mean George?" Mr. Wilover asked, and, much perturbed, he sat down in a chair, facing her. "You mean that you and Frankie have stopped speaking to George?"

"We've left him." Her voice became louder and sharper. "Don't you understand? We've left him!"

"You mean—permanently?"

"I mean forever," Miriam said. "I suppose he may have the decency to express our trunks over, tomorrow; but if he doesn't I'll have to get you to send somebody after them, and I'll give you a list of the things I want out of the house. I may have to ask you to go, yourself."

"Oh, dear me!" her father groaned. "When did it happen?"

"It's always been happening, father. He's never cared for me, and I've found it out, that's all. And so I'm through!"

"But how——"

"How did I find it out?" she said. "How does any woman find that out? By the way he's been treating me, of course!"

"But what's he done?"

"What hasn't he!" She choked upon a sob, brought suddenly into her throat by her thought of the wrongs she had been suffering so lately; but she was able to begin her recital. "The last thing he did—oh, it wasn't the worst—it was to tell me to go and kill myself. He just invited me to commit suicide, that was all, papa!"

"What? You tell me George said such a thing as that to you?"

"But it's nothing!" she cried. "It's nothing at all compared to the other things he's done."

MR. WILOVER passed his hand over his forehead. "I can hardly believe, it, Miriam. You mean to tell me deliberately that your husband——"

"'Deliberately,'" she cried. "You don't know him! Indeed he did do it deliberately. He's done it all deliberately. But telling me, to go and kill myself was only his last little pleasantry for me. That was this morning as he started to his factory. He just left it with me to spend the day with!"

"But why did he say such a thing to you?"

"Just to make it clearer how he hates me. But I tell you it's nothing to what he did last Thursday."

"What was that?"

"I'll show you," Miriam said, and, drawing up her right sleeve almost to the shoulder, she exposed a graceful arm upon which were seen several rosy transverse streaks and the blue area of a substantial bruise. She spoke quietly. "Do you see, father?"

Mr. Wilover's voice trembled. "You mean—— but you can't mean——"

"Can't I?"

"Do you mean me to understand that he did that, Miriam?"

"I do. He did it."

"How?"

"You know the steam radiator in our front hall. It was a cold day and that radiator is always overheated. He crushed my arm down on it and held it there until I screamed for help."

"What!" Mr. Wilover made a gesture of strongest protest. "I can't believe such a horrible thing."

"You have eyes, haven't you?" his daughter said. "These are pretty distinct proofs of burns and bruises, I should say; and the pain kept me awake all that night."

"But what——"

"What made him do it?" she interrupted, and she smiled icily as she drew her sleeve down over the marks of injury. "Because he wanted to kill me, I suppose, but didn't quite dare."

"But why?"

"Just because he's grown to hate me and would like me out of his way."

"Why should he want that?"

"I don't know, father. He may want to marry somebody else, or he may just want to be rid of Frankie and me; I don't know."

"But no decent man could do such things, and I'd always thought——"

"Of course you did," she said. "Everybody thinks George is one of the best men in the world. The difference is only that the other people don't know him. They don't live with him, you see. He doesn't keep them locked in a room with nothing to eat or drink."

"Miriam!"

"That was last Friday, the day after he threw me against the radiator and burned me," she said, and she began to weep again. "He locked me in my room and told me to jump out of the window and break my neck. Oh, yes; he says things like that all the time; they've become quite commonplace in our happy household! He even locked the door between my room and my bathroom so that I couldn't get a drink at the faucet if I got thirsty. Oh, yes, papa; he does things like that—oh, any day!"

Mr. Wilover, naturally moved by a growing and intolerable indignation, rose from his chair and began to pace the floor. "You've done right to leave him," he said huskily. "He's outside the pale of decency! To hurt a woman like that—his own wife——"

She interrupted him with an outcry. "Oh, he doesn't think of me as his wife—not even as a woman. He just thinks of me as something to be beaten and burned and insulted and tortured!"

Mr. Wilover halted by the library table and struck a heavy blow upon it with his clenched fist. "The ruffian!" he cried. "He's a ruffian and a scoundrel and a coward, Miriam!"

"And I've been so patient with him," Miriam wailed. "I've borne it so quietly, hoping he might change and be kinder to me. I've done everything in the world to make his home bright and cheerful for him; but it's all been wasted. It's only made him hate me more and more."

Again Mr. Wilover struck a blow upon the table. "The coward!"

There was a knock upon the door, and the white-jacketed colored man half opened it. "Mist' George jes' druv up in his auto, suh. He ask to see you. I got him in the front 'ception room, suh."

Mr. Wilover had not heard him well. "I can't see anybody. Who'd you say?"

"Mist' George, suh—you' son-in-law. He say he know his wife's here; but say he on'y want to see you, suh."

Miriam became rigid. "Nobody must see him. Have him sent out of the house instantly, father."

The colored man smiled tactfully. "Mist' George say he expect maybe you say you ain' goin' to see him, suh. Say he goin' set there till you do, suh."

"All right," Mr. Wilover said grimly. "If he sits there too long I guess I can get a policeman to throw him out! That'll do, Sam."

"Yes, suh." Sam withdrew, bowing appreciatively, and his employer turned to the unhappy lady upon the couch. "I wonder if the best thing I could do wouldn't be to go in there and kick him out of my house, myself. What I'd like to do, I'd like to go in there and kill him!" Apparently the impulse to set upon his own suggestion was a strong one; at least, he had taken a step toward the door when his daughter sprang up and caught him by the arm.

"No, no!" she said. "You've no idea how powerful he is when he's in these brutal moods. You mustn't——" She paused, annoyed and puzzled by something external. "What is that sound?"

"What sound?"

"It seems to me I've been hearing it for quite a time," she explained. "But I've been suffering so, I didn't consciously notice it. It's intolerably penetrating, and in my state of nerves I just can't stand it! I wish you'd call Sam back and have it stopped. It sounds like cats."

Mr. Wilover was silent, to listen, and the sound she spoke of became audible to him; it was a tiny but convulsive wailing. More, it was rapidly growing louder; it was approaching.

"That isn't cats," Mr. Wilover informed his daughter. "It's Clytie."

"Don't let her come in," Miriam said sharply; but this was a waste of breath, for Clytie was not in a state to be amenable either to requests or commands, and she was approaching the library at a run. She plunged into the room, half-screaming, weeping copiously, and, with clutching hands seized her grandfather about the waist, lifting to him an imploring wet face.

"Don't let him! Don't let him!" she hoarsely screamed, and, sliding down Mr. Wilover, somewhat as if he had been a column that she found herself too weak to climb, she crumpled, groveling, at his feet. "Don't let him hit me again, grandpa!"

"Let who hit you, Clytie?"

"That awful brat! That awful brat of a Frankie!"

"What in the world do you mean?" Mr. Wilover naturally found his distresses becoming someing afresh. "He just came up and hit me."

"With his fist?"

"His fist? You don't think he could make a bump on me like that with just his fist, do you, grandpa? He took a croquet mallet and slammed it down on my head as hard as he could!"

"What!"

"He did," she insisted. "That wasn't all he did, either! You and Aunt Miriam weren't any more than out of sight before he snatched my piece of cake out of my hand. I hadn't done a thing to him—I was just walking along and trying to be as polite as I could to him. He said, 'O, look across the street!' And when I did, he snatched it out of my hand and ran. Then when I asked him to give me back, anyhow, half of it he called me names and ate it all. He called me 'an old fool' and 'a kinky-haired albino,' and I tried to keep on being polite to him anyhow, and he tripped me and threw me down and got green grass stains all over my dress and my knees. Just look at them!" She exhibited these defacements pathetically. "Then, while I was just arguing with him about behaving at least

"I kept on trying to be polite to him, anyhow."

what complicated; and his voice, a little distracted, showed that he did. "Do you mean——"

But here his daughter intervened. "You mustn't speak in that way of your dear little cousin, Clytie," she said, with some sharpness. "I think you're trying to blame him for some accident, probably."

"What?" Clytie cried, and she sprang to her feet. "You just feel my head," she said. "I thought first he'd broke it wide open; but it stayed together, somehow. Feel the top of it, grandpa." And as she guided his hand among the close curls that so charmingly wreathed her lovely little head, Mr. Wilover's expression became one of startled commiseration.

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed. He turned to his daughter. "There's a bump on her head half the size of an egg. If that boy did this——"

"Please don't intimate such a thing," Miriam said primly. "She probably ran into a tree and decided to blame it on him; she's never been at all nice to Frankie. Please don't encourage her to tell stories about him, father."

"'Stories'!" Clytie shouted, and in the extremity of her emotion she stamped her foot. "Is that bump on my head a story? Grandpa felt it himself, didn't he? And if you don't like my calling Frankie a 'brat,' Aunt Miriam, I'll certainly call him worse'n that, because you and grandpa don't know how he acts when he gets alone with me. I'd just as soon try to be polite to a crocodile as I would to him, and a crocodile would be a hundred times nicer!"

"Tut, tut!" her aunt said. "I'm afraid you're rather spiteful, Clytie."

"No, she isn't," her grandfather protested warmly. "She never is. How did it happen, dear?"

"It didn't happen," Clytie informed him, weeping afresh. "He just came up and hit me."

"With his fist?"

"His fist? You don't think he could make a bump on me like that with just his fist, do you, grandpa? He took a croquet mallet and slammed it down on my head as hard as he could!"

"What!"

"He did," she insisted. "That wasn't all he did, either! You and Aunt Miriam weren't any more than out of sight before he snatched my piece of cake out of my hand. I hadn't done a thing to him—I was just walking along and trying to be as polite as I could to him. He said, 'O, look across the street!' And when I did, he snatched it out of my hand and ran. Then when I asked him to give me back, anyhow, half of it he called me names and ate it all. He called me 'an old fool' and 'a kinky-haired albino,' and I tried to keep on being polite to him anyhow, and he tripped me and threw me down and got green grass stains all over my dress and my knees. Just look at them!" She exhibited these defacements pathetically. "Then, while I was just arguing with him about behaving at least a little decently, he simply and purely tried to murder me with one of the croquet mallets. He didn't say he was going to hit me, or anything; he just simply and purely hit me! You feel my head again, grandpa, if you don't believe me!"

"Of course I believe you, poor child," Mr. Wilover assured her; and, resuming his chair, he took her upon his knee. "There, there!" he said. "Don't be troubled, dearie. I know it hurts; but you mustn't mind. Of course Frankie will apologize to you."

"Do you think so—really?" Miriam inquired. She was observing, with an eye somewhat critical and aloof, the mutual demonstrations of her father and her niece. "Really, it seems to me there's something more important engaging us than Clytie's imagined injuries."

"I don't think so," he returned, and with a gentle hand he stroked Clytie's wet cheek. "It won't hurt long, Clytie, child," he said. Then, as she renewed her sobbing, he soothingly rocked her in his arms. "Don't you mind, Grandpa'll make it up to you."

TO the lady who had come to seek his shelter and counsel, these doting solaces appeared to verge on senility. "Will you kindly send the child to her room, father?" she asked; but in Clytie's ears this request must have sounded unfeeling, for she at once increased the volume of her lamentations.

"You won't send me away from you, grandpa?" she sobbed. "You'll make him apologize—like you said—won't you, grandpa? You promised you would, grandpa. Aren't you going to keep your promise?"

"Indeed, I will."

"When, grandpa? When'll you make him apologize to me?"

"Just as soon as you feel a little better. His mother will go and bring him in here to ask your pardon, dearie."

Miriam's expression was not sympathetic. "What for?" she asked.

"What for? Don't you see the state the child is in, Miriam? Don't you see what the boy's done to her?"

"I hear what she says he's done to her," Miriam replied. "I don't know that what she says is evidence, however."

"Good gracious! The bump on her head is 'evidence' enough, isn't it? It certainly is for me. Isn't it for you?"

"Not that Frankie did what she says; no."

But at this, Clytie lifted her stricken head from her grandfather's breast and from brimmed eyes flashed hot defiance at her aunt. She pointed to a window. "He's out there. Ask him! I dare you to open that window and ask him! If he denies it, he knows where he'll go when he dies, and I hope he'll die soon, too!"

"No, no, child," Mr. Wilover remonstrated. "You mustn't say such——"

"I will!" Clytie sobbed. "She's accusing me of being a story-teller and she's afraid to go to the window because she thinks maybe her own son will turn out to be one! She knows he did it, and he'll either have to say he did or tell a story. She'd open the window and ask him if she wasn't afraid to, wouldn't she?"

"Nonsense!" Miriam said; but she did not go to the window, and indeed the niece's impulsive analysis of the aunt's state of mind was a correct one—Miriam did indeed know what Clytie accused her of knowing. She had so real doubt that Frankie had struck the blow; but, being Frankie's mother, she had fallen back upon the first defense of him that came into her mind. It had not served; and the child's accusation placed her in an awkward position, which galled her. And it galled her all the more because she felt that she was being unfairly dealt with by her niece. Mother of a perfect son, who was to her (in the simplest terms for her adoration of him) an angel out of heaven, sent to be her only solace—particularly in this time of domestic tragedy—she was convinced that he had done nothing wrong, even if Clytie's head did bear some little token or other upon it, and even if Frankie had put it there. And yet, in the feminine battle, she was being worsted and her flawless boy made to appear a malefactor. Naturally, she felt that so cruel a paradox had been produced only through instinctive adroitness of misrepresentation on the part of her opponent, and she sought for any means to meet the attack and deflect it. Clytie made that as hard for her as possible.

"Why don't you call him in and ask him, then?" the child insisted, for, being a girl child, she instantly perceived her advantage and pressed it home. "You say I'm a story-teller; why don't you ask him about it to my face?"

FRANKIE'S mother had no idea of following this suggestion. She was but too sure that whatever the facts Frankie, being merely a straightforward boy, would come off second best in such a contest—at least in the eyes of the doting and prejudiced grandparent. "It isn't necessary," Miriam said proudly. "I should never think of insulting Frankie by putting him through that sort of examination."

"You're afraid to," said the terrible Clytie. "You're afraid to call him." And at that it was the turn of her aunt's eyes to flash.

"Father, are you going to sit there petting that child and letting her go on being insolent to me at such a time as this? Don't you care how ill-bred she is?"

"Ill-bred?" he echoed; and he frowned. "I'm bringing her up, Miriam. If there was anything of that sort it would be my fault. I'm sorry this has happened at a time when you're in distress; but so is Clytie in distress, and if I can't right her little wrong I shouldn't think myself capable of dealing with your greater one. It seems to me that what she says is just."

"It does?" his daughter cried. "Don't you see that she sits there in your lap deliberately being more and more insulting to me because she feels that you're backing her up? And if she dares to speak as she does to me, what wouldn't she have dared when it was only a question of poor little Frankie alone out there in the yard at her mercy?"

"'At Clytie's mercy'?" Mr. Wilover shook his head, marveling. "Dear me, what nonsense, Miriam!"

"Is it? You don't believe she even did anything to provoke him?"

"I didn't," Clytie said. "I didn't provoke him hardly at all."

"'Hardly'!" Miriam cried; and now it was with prospective triumph that her eyes grew brighter. Clytie had spoken too quickly, and without any warning that fatal "hardly" had slipped itself into what she was saying. Later, when she grew older, such mistakes wouldn't thrust themselves upon her; but at twelve even precocity in self-defense isn't safe against them. Her aunt had found the way to neutralize the attack on Frankie.

"What was it you did to Frankie, Clytie?" Miriam asked grimly. "Tell the truth. What did you do to him?"

"Nothing. Abso-loot-ly nothing at all."

"What? Tell the truth, Clytie!"

"I am!"

"You're not!"

But here the perturbed old gentleman interposed. "Miriam, you must not speak to the child like that—and when she's suffering, too. It's a shame!"

MIRIAM laughed desperately. "How is she speaking to me? And I suppose you think—I'm not suffering!" She flung up a protesting hand to check him as he tried to speak. "Never mind! We all know we're nothing to you compared to her! We mustn't ever suggest that the apple of your eye could be even a little in the wrong! Dear me, no! I declare, it's enough to make one rave!"

"What is?"

"Your indulgence! You're ridiculous favoritism!"

"Ridiculous?" he said angrily. "What's ridiculous about it?"

"Your blindness—if I must use the politest term for what really seems to me a doting partiality as great as to amount to—well, to a kind of silliness!"

"Take care, Miriam!" He let Clytie down from his lap, rose to his feet and stood facing his daughter, keeping his arm about his grandchild, who clung to him. "I won't allow you to talk to me in this way."

"No!" Miriam said bitterly. "We mustn't utter a word against the paragon—not a syllable—no matter what she says to us! You can't even hear her when she herself confesses what she just did confess."

"What did she confess?"

"Didn't you hear her say 'hardly'? Isn't that a confession?"

"Certainly not."

"O, good heavens!" Miriam cried. "Do you suppose a gentle, manly boy like Frankie would do what she says he did? Just walk up to her and strike her with a mallet? While she was being 'polite' to him? Do you suppose my son would ever dream of doing such a thing?"

"There's no supposing to be done about it," the old man returned. "Clytie says he struck her—and there's the bump. That's enough for me."

"You really think so?" Miriam uttered a laugh of despair for his intelligence. "Good heavens, father, use your mind!"

"I am using it."

"How can you be using it when you believe such a thing? Answer me one question: Did you ever see Frankie do anything like what she says he did?"

"I don't know that I ever did; but she's told us we don't know how brutal he is when just the two of 'em are——"

"Wait!" Miriam interrupted him. "Answer me this: Did you ever see anybody do such a thing? Did you ever hear of anybody's doing such a thing? Do you really believe that anybody in the world ever makes an utterly unprovoked attack on anybody else? Haven't you got the fairness to see that there are always two sides to any such story?"

He stared at her with continued stubbornness. "I only see what that boy has done to an unprotected little girl left in his power."

"Unprotected!" Miriam mocked the word scornfully. "Good gracious! Do you suppose that just because she's a girl she was 'in his power'? Don't you know that a girl can be just as deadly in conflict as a boy? Don't you know that girls take all sorts of advantages that boys feel they can't take? Don't you know that it's always the little girls who run to grown people for sympathy and show the hurts that they get nine times out of ten by trying to tyrannize over the boys? If she got a bump on her head it was because she was trying to hold him when he wanted to get away, or to make him do something he didn't want to do. She may have been scratching him or——"

"I was not!" Clytie shouted, and, secure in her grandfather's favor, she became incautious. "I was just trying to get some of my cake out of his mouth because he had no right to eat it."

This astonished Mr. Wilover. "Trying to get it out of his mouth, Clytie?"

KING'S MATE

By Rosita Forbes

In Preceding Installments:

Rosemary Crofton, a lovely English girl, is visiting the governor's palace at Fez with her aunt, Lady Swarthen. Every one is talking of a mysterious Kaid who is said to be the real brains of Abd-el Krim's revolt. There is also talk of a secret pass through the mountains, known only to the Riffs. A French-man, Capt. de Vries, tries to make love to Rosemary and is repulsed. Next morning she rides out early and her horse throws her, rendering her unconscious. Riff tribesmen take her to their stronghold through the very pass the French are so eager to find. There the Kaid himself, an Englishman named Westwyn, arrives. He refuses to allow Rosemary to return to Fez, fearing that the French would learn his nationality and ferret out the pass. He sends her to the village of Telehdi under the protection of Pete, his Australian lieutenant. She has Zarifa, a Riffian girl, as a servant. Martengo, a Spanish soldier of fortune, promises to help her escape. When Rosemary visits his cabin he makes advances and attempts to overpower her. She is rescued by the Kaid, who wounds Martengo in a subsequent duel. Menebbhe, the village headman, fears for the girl's safety and urges Westwyn to marry her for her protection. The Kaid at last consents.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A Wedding in the Desert.

BY sunset Rosemary had come to the conclusion that Westwyn was deliberately avoiding her. Pete was either invisible or dumb. Zarifa's chatter nearly drove her mad. Angry with herself and with every one else, humiliated, not only by what had happened, but by her own responsibility for it, her mood was compounded of resentment and exasperation. Her first passionate gratitude to Westwyn had faded, and she was inclined to blame him for the white night she had spent and the awful fear of the dawn.

It was dark when he came to the guest house, and Rosemary was thankful for the inadequate light of the lamp. "I'm most awfully sorry," began Westwyn. "I wanted to get here before, but I've been snowed under with work and old Menebbhe took up a lot of my time."

"It is very good of you to come at all," returned the girl in a voice which emphasized that there was no need for his visit.

"I hope you're all right. I ought to have warned you far more specifically against Martengo. It was my fault. May I sit down?" He established himself on the edge of the table, one spurred heel swinging. As he asked for no explanation, Rosemary gave him a complete one. "I see. Damned rotter!" For the hundredth time Westwyn wondered why women trusted such men. Had they no power of judgment? Couldn't they recognize a cad when they saw one?

Rosemary must have read his thoughts, for she answered them. "When one is desperate one clutches at straws—even if they're muddy."

"Yes, I get that. Do you mind if I smoke?" Automatically he rammed tobacco into his pipe. "Look here, Miss Crofton. Last night must have shown you that we're a bit beyond the pale here. I've got a proposal to make to you. It'll strike you as mad. It is mad, but you must just consider it a straw—a solid one this time." He looked at her with a smile and the pressure on her heart relaxed under his commonplace kindliness. There was no doubt that this man was straight, and when he smiled he wasn't even plain! Rosemary noticed the firmness of his mouth. It was an awfully clean face, she decided, and was amused at her description because there was a smudge on his forehead!

"That's better," said Westwyn. "You've simply got to take things as you find them. I'm no good, you know, at beating around the bush, so I'd better come to the point. I want you to marry me."

"What?" gasped Rosemary. Of course, the man was mad. How odd! The last thing she would have expected. Sitting very upright on the couch, she regarded him with an amazement that wiped out all other feelings.

"It isn't so bad as it sounds," continued Westwyn, still looking at her with good humored friendliness. "Only a temporary matter, but I can assure you no man, Arab, Riff, or Dago, will play tricks with my wife." He told her of the headman's suggestion, when first she came to the village, and of its more urgent repetition that morning.

"As soon as his wound heals, Martengo will be out for revenge," he said. "I'm most awfully sorry, but, honest Injun, this marriage is the only way. Abd-el Krim is on his way here, and he's got a lot of wasters in his train. If the French push their advance I may be away for weeks. I can't leave you unprotected in Telehdi."

"Let me go," said Rosemary, without passion, and the quietness of her voice made it more impressive. "How can you keep me here after last night? I will go anywhere you like. Not back to Fez—right away. I can just disappear. Then nobody can possibly find out anything from me."

Westwyn's pipe went out. He looked down at his boot, studied it gravely. Of course, the thing she suggested was impossible. Queer that he found it so difficult to tell her. Hitherto he'd never known more than one purpose, never been able to see two sides of a question. Wholeheartedly he had thrown in his lot with the Riffs. It was great sport. They'd jolly well got to win. Obstacles went down before his enthusiasm. He was incapable of realising impossibility, hadn't enough imagination to visualize defeat. He would have sacrificed Rosemary as heedlessly as he gave every hour of his day and night, the last ounce of his strength, to the team of which he was a member. At the worst moments it had been a bit of a game, backed by the determined chivalry which had sent his ancestors to the Crusades. The underdog must not be scuppered, but now the girl on the couch, with gray shadows on her pallor, was the under dog. Good Lord, what a mess! he thought. "I say, Miss Crofton, couldn't you stick it out? This marriage is only a form. It means abso-bally-lute security for you. Nothing else. You need never see me and it's only for a few months. Then you can get the thing annulled. I give you my word of honor, it'll be all right. Nobody need even know."

He looked at her hopefully, wishing she wasn't so awfully unapproachable. He would have liked to discuss the situation as pals. He forgot that to her he was that most peculiar combination of gaoler and rescuer. The fact that he might have been killed as a consequence of her folly steeled Rosemary against him. She told herself he had no right to put such responsibility on her shoulders, while he never thought of the duel at all. It was an inevitable local ceremony, finished, done with.

"You're mad," protested the girl. "We're not living in a melodrama."

"Telehdi is the hub of one," returned Westwyn, imperturbably. "You've no idea of the plots and counter plots that go on up here. The intrigue round Abd-el Krim would make jolly old Drury Lane as flat as a Victorian pancake."

Rosemary got up and went to the window. She wanted air and space. It was so impossible to

"Risk it, man. Call the French bluff!"

W.H. WISNER

argue with this man. She felt exhausted before she had begun to fight. His calmness was a brake on her emotion, and his appearance did not lend itself to drama!

"I know you mean to be kind," she forced herself to say. "Of course, the whole thing is beyond me. When you talk of marriage I don't know whether I'm in a nightmare or a lunatic asylum. Naturally there are ten million arguments against it, but only one that matters—I can't and I won't."

"I'm sorry you take it like that."

"How did you expect me to take it? You're a complete stranger. I should be absolutely in your power."

"Would you rather be in Martengo's?" was on the tip of Westwyn's tongue, but he did not say it. "O, come, marriage in 1925 is not as desperate as all that. Besides, I've told you it's the thinnest of make-believes. You can break it as soon as the war's finished. I'll put it in writing if you like!" And the humor of it struck him suddenly, so that he laughed, a young gay laugh which filled the room.

Rosemary's indignation got the better of her. She flung at him the first words that came into her head. "I wouldn't marry you to save myself from a dozen Martengos!"

"Very well, then; I must marry you." Westwyn rose, knocking his pipe automatically against the table. "I'm most awfully sorry, Miss Crofton—you don't suppose I want to do this, do you?" And that was the last straw.

Rosemary crumpled up on the couch and wept. She could not even control her tears. They shook her in unbecoming, heaving gusts. "Go away, for heaven's sake! Go!" she stormed.

Westwyn was horrified. "I've discovered a priest. He'll be here tomorrow," he began, before he could collect his thoughts.

"No, no! I won't do it! Anything but that! I've told you, go!" came from among the piled bolsters. The girl seemed to have shrunk to child's stature, and Westwyn felt as if he had hit something small and helpless. It was a most unpleasant idea. He shuffled from one foot to another, torn between a desire to get out of the room at any cost and an inexplicable impulse to pick up the crumpled figure, comfort it, and wipe away its tears. He made a grab at his handkerchief and took a step toward the couch.

Rosemary's hair was rumpled gold against an orange cushion. Her whole figure was abandoned in pent-up desperation. Westwyn looked down at a neck pathetically soft and young. He noticed the little hollow in a shoulder bared by the ill-fitting linen jumper. He must do something, anything, to comfort the girl. His hand went out to touch her, but the thought of Martengo struck him and he turned red. "Good Lord!" he said aloud, and fairly bolted out of the house.

ROSEMARY cried till she was exhausted. Then she told herself she was too angry to sleep, but as soon as she had arranged the softest bolster in a position approximating comfort she drifted into a sea of dreams.

She was on the raw edge of exasperation when the boy who brought water and firewood insisted on presenting her with a tight squashed bundle of marigolds.

"May you have a dozen sons," he said, gravely, but, fortunately, he spoke in Shilluh, which was uncomprehensible to his audience.

A few minutes later there was a scuffling in the yard, accompanied by a babel of voices directing, encouraging, and expostulating. Rosemary went out to discover the cause of the disturbance, and found a dozen women trying to push half as many reluctant sheep through the gate.

"Zarifa! Zarifa!" she called, torn between laughter and indignation. Sandals flapped down the stairs behind her, but before they reached the court the women least occupied with the sheep crowded forward to look at the bride. A girl pushed a bowl of milk into her hands with a murmured "For chastity." Another laid a platter of dates at her feet. "May you be as fertile as the palm," she said. Baskets of eggs, bread and spices, pitchers of oil and honey were piled round her. Rosemary looked at them aghast, while Zarifa, delighted with her rôle, gave vent to flowery gratitude. The women moved nearer, anxious to see the bride of the Kaid.

"She is beautiful," they said, "as beautiful as Aysha, the wife of the prophet."

"Her hair is like sunshine on butter!"

"Her eyes are leaves drenched in spring water, but she is very thin."

"She is not strong enough to bear him sons. See her hands. They are white as the inside of eggshells."

So they discussed her intimately and in detail till Westwyn arrived. He was feeling distinctly grim. He had no taste for any form of acting and this marriage went against the grain, the more so because he was beginning to find it impossible to consider Rosemary as an impersonal problem. He found her leaning helplessly against the door, looking almost vacant, amidst a crowd of Riffi women, whose comment he understood too well. At his approach they fled, screaming and giggling, and at the sight of the provisions piled in his path Westwyn couldn't help laughing.

"You'll have to raise a vast appetite, won't you?" he remarked, frustrating the efforts of a curly horned ram to walk into a pyramid of eggs.

"What does it all mean? Have they gone completely mad?"

Westwyn drew her into the house. "It's their custom to bring gifts to a wedding," he explained, "and the best you can offer a Riff is food—after a rifle, of course. Mohamed el Menebbhe was up at my house before sunrise urging me to accept his new Mauser."

Rosemary had hardly heard the last words. "A wedding!" she said. "It's a farce. You can't seriously mean to go through with it."

Westwyn took her arm and pushed her gently onto the couch. "Look here. Let's have this out. It's a rotten situation, but inevitable, so the best thing is to make as little fuss about it as possible. The padre fellow will be here in a minute. We don't want to set him talking." The man's voice was hard. He spoke as he would to fellow soldiers, and for the first time Rosemary realised how little she counted in the Riff. This man had chosen to set himself up as her protector, but he would not be driven too far. Her individuality, her wishes, or feelings meant nothing. She, who had never obeyed any one in her life, would have to obey a stranger. "I won't," she said, and was surprised to find she had spoken aloud.

"Won't what?" The eyes that looked at her were steel colored. In them she saw a determination as considered as it was serious. At heart she knew she had no more hope of escaping this marriage than she had of leaving Telehdi, yet she answered, "I won't marry you," and repeated the words parrot-wise, because excitement was rising in her and she was terribly conscious of the man's nearness. How dare he be so unmoved! Rosemary longed frantically for clothes and powder—what must she look like in this absurd linen thing, and her nose was shiny, she felt sure.

WESTWYN did not answer. He considered the girl gravely, while she, feeling she was being measured, braced herself to meet the expected reproof. It did not come, but footsteps sounded in the yard. Obviously a number of persons were entering the outer room. Still Westwyn was silent, so that Rosemary was forced to ask, "Who is it?"

"The padre, I expect. Heins and Pete are going to be witnesses. Shall we go in?" He held out a lean, brawn hand. "It'll be all right. You'll see. I've never let any one down yet, and I shan't begin with a woman.

The charm of the man was apparent at that moment, and Rosemary had to make a physical effort to resist it. She ignored the proffered hand, leaning away from it, mute and obstinate. Westwyn did not hesitate. Stooping, he picked her up as if she had been a child, set her on her feet, and, holding her by the shoulders, told her, "You remember what old Menebbhe said to me, 'A man is responsible for his countrywomen.' In the eyes of these people, who are men, mind you, who've fought with me, and pretty nearly starved with me, it is I who will suffer if you——" he was going to say "make a fool of yourself," but he changed it—"if you don't play up."

Rosemary struggled half-heartedly in his grip, but he took no notice.

"It's rotten having to talk like this, but you force me to! What do you suppose these Riffs, who guard their women as their faith, thought of your escapade with Martengo?" Westwyn was the more brutal because he loathed his part. He felt the girl quiver under his hands, and inexorably he pushed home his vantage. "You can do what you like with me, but you've got to play up before these people. They've seen enough Dago wastrels, and I'm darned if they are going to rank us English among them."

Rosemary felt as if his fingers were searing her shoulders. At last she realized that by this marriage he was not only securing her safety, but giving back to her the honor she had jeopardised with Martengo. It was the final humiliation. She hated him, but she thrilled to his touch. It was to escape it, while she could still count on her self-control, that she gave way. "Very well," she said curtly, and without further speech they went into the outer room.

The padre was an emaciated little man with battered hollows under his cheek bones and deep set, wind reddened eyes. He looked seriously at Rosemary, muttered inaudible words as he was introduced, and drew out his prayer book, obviously anxious to be gone.

"He has a little hospital down in the valley," explained Heins. "There are two men dying in it. I expect Menebbhe had him brought up here by force."

To Rosemary the mention of men dying while the priest, who should have heard their last confessions, hurried through the marriage service, added the last touch of unreality. Only Pete was real. Sulkily he loomed beside her, and there was something unusual about his appearance. Of course, he was shaved, and, O heavens! he had on a clean shirt buttoned to the neck. Heins attested to the solemnity of the occasion with a large bow tie, under which his khaki shirt gaped between two safety pins. Rosemary wanted to laugh, but to her horror there were tears in her eyes. She blinked them back, glanced furtively at Westwyn to be sure he had not noticed, and found him regarding her very gravely. The next instant her hand was in

THE FAIR UNFAIR - By Booth Tarkington

"I certainly didn't want to eat it," she explained. "Not then! But I wasn't going to let him eat it—and swallow it—not after he snatched it out of my hand like such a ruffian. All I was doing—I——" Here she hesitated, apparently a little bothered by the evasiveness of proper descriptive phrases. "I only—I barely——" she said, and again found the words reluctant.

But unexpectedly she was assisted. The door had remained slightly ajar ever since she entered the room, and now, through the aperture, a voice was heard. It was a boy's voice, but lowered to its deepest pitch, and gloomy.

"She was chokin' me to death," it said. "She had me down, and she had a croquet wicket around my neck and shoved into the ground each side of it, and she had the handle of a croquet mallet clear inside of my mouth and about halfway down my throat, and if I hadn't got hold of it and done something or other, she'd 'a' had me murdered and I'd 'a' been stone dead."

The mother of the owner of this morbid voice laughed in almost hysterical triumph. "There! Didn't I tell you? You always think she's so absolutely perfect, and whenever she's concerned you decline to make the slightest use of your reasoning powers. Don't you see now that it isn't in human nature to make unprovoked attacks such as she claimed had been made upon her? Is it possible you still don't see that poor little Frankie was merely defending himself and trying to get away from her? Don't you see, father?"

MR. WILOVER did see something, apparently. He had begun to stare at his daughter strangely, and he seemed to be receiving an almost miraculous enlightenment. But before he could say what he felt, the morbid voice from the hall spoke again.

"I don't care what you do to me," it said. "I was only trying to get away and not get murdered. And anyhow, it's no different than the way my own father behaved when mamma tried to hold him in the hall when he had to go out, and they were arguing, and she said she'd commit suicide and everything. If I got to suffer you ought to do to papa whatever you do to me, because wasn't what he did worse than just hittin' old Clytie when he locked mamma up so he could run out, the next time she tried to hold on to him? If I got to suffer, he ought to, or else there wouldn't be any justice. I guess if somebody had you down, grandpa, with a wicket fastened around your neck and——"

Mr. Wilover interrupted him. "That will do, Frankie. You were a bad boy to snatch Clytie's cake from her, and I'll talk to you about that later. Just now I'm busy with your father and mother."

But Miriam shrank from that strangely enlightened stare of his. She whimpered. "O, I shouldn't be at all surprised if you'd side with George, just as you do with Clytie! It's anything to be against me, of course!"

Mr. Wilover made no vocal response. Leaving both niece and aunt murmuring somewhat feebly after him, he walked decisively out of the room and strode down the long hall to an open doorway. Here he paused and stood looking at his son-in-law.

The troubled young man gravely returned his look. Then he sighed a long and patient sigh, and rose to his feet. "I'm sorry all this turmoil has to be brought here into your peaceful life, sir," he said. "Of course, I know what she must have been telling you about me; but if she hasn't prejudiced you so that you just couldn't bear to hear my side of it I'd like to——"

Mr. Wilover interrupted him. "Have a cigar, George," he said. "I don't want to hear anything at all. I think you get a little too rough with Miriam when she tries to hold you, and I'm afraid it'll serve you right to have her and Frankie start home with you in about half an hour."

Tempting Menus for the Week

By JANE EDDINGTON

The Melon Month

SEPTEMBER is the great melon month. It is also the greatest dessert month of the year, using the word dessert in its cosmopolitan sense of fruit. Grapes, plums, peaches, and pears are eminently in season, and there are varieties of apples which are at their best during this month.

All these fruits give great satisfaction, not only because their juices can be compared to the nectar of the gods but because of their fragrance and their eminent ornamental value on the table. They surpass any manufactured table ornament in beauty and are worthy of the finest china and glass for their mountings.

The watermelon and fried chicken, peaches and cream, and corn on the cob have been declared to be such foods as make this season fullest of delectable edibles of any of the year.

* * * *

We have but to intensify the picture of the "watermillion" to find ourselves humorously entertained as well as edibly gratified. The consumption of this melon by the millions of folk, as well as by the hundreds of happy pickaninnies, helps to endear that name which has been traced back as the one used in Puritan New England as early as 1647 and more specifically to blue lawed Connecticut, which may even have invented the "plugging" for which today we use a strong ginger ale.

It is a mistake to have the watermelons we eat too cold, or any colder than they would get in an early fall garden; it is also a great health mistake to eat a large quantity of exceedingly cold watermelon. One way to eat this melon delicately is to cut out little balls from the ripest and sweetest part of the melon, sprinkle them with fine sugar, and serve them in a cold glass.

Men ate melons two thousand years ago as a relish, and they used them in many ways that have been forgotten. The modern use of cantaloupe is epicurean, picturesque, and manifold.

Beauty Discovery
Brings Smooth Skin

Give me three and a half minutes twice a day for only one week. I want to show you—at my expense—how easily and quickly you can banish the fear of blackheads, pimples, sallowness and other blemishes.

Through a remarkable pharmaceutical discovery, the essentials to skin beauty are blended, scientifically correct into one cream. It is Lady Esther—the only cream that serves four needs. Thus with Lady Esther you cannot neglect your complexion. Your skin automatically receives the benefits of the necessary aid to beauty with just one application of Lady Esther.

New Way to Cleanse

So thoroughly does Lady Esther cleanse and purge the pores, that nature (aided by the delicate astringent action of the cream) refines them to their normal size. The skin is left clear, invigorated, and smoothed to a charming loveliness.

Nourishes the Skin

Lines, wrinkles, dullness, sallowness, roughness, dryness, excess oil and other beauty barriers gradually disappear.
In their stead comes a delicate, creamy complexion and a skin of silken texture—fresh, clear, firm—radiating new vitality and charm.

Right Powder Base

After you remove Lady Esther note the absence of the usual greasy film. Now you can apply Powder smoothly and evenly. Too, your powder will stay on until you wash it off. Thus with the aid of Lady Esther, your face is protected from the sun, wind and impurities of the air.

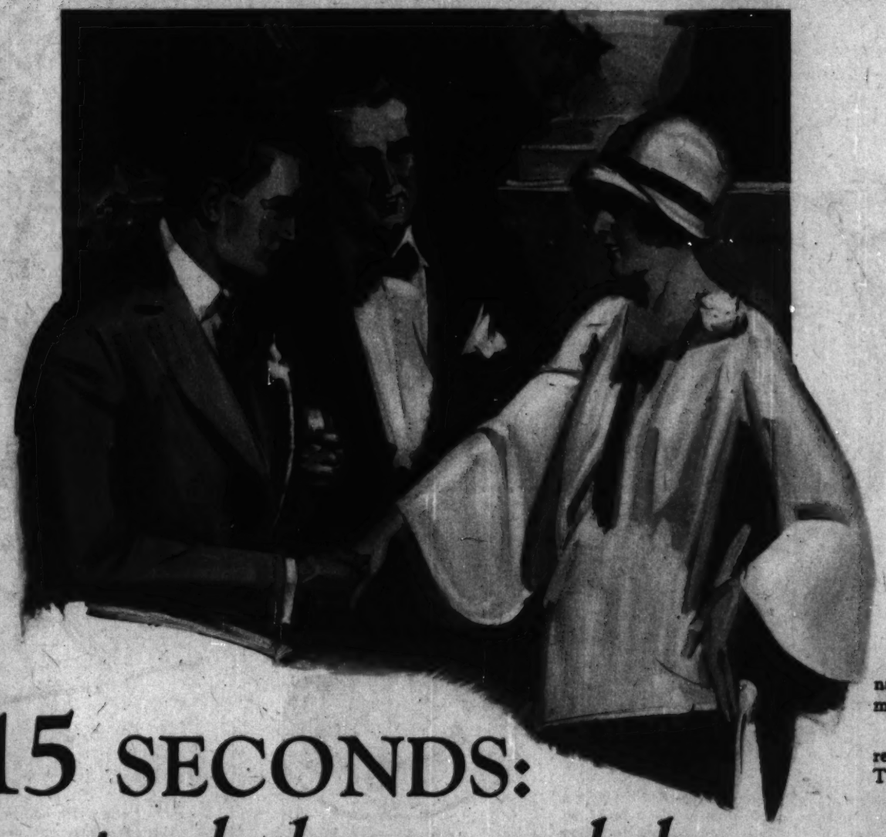
LADY ESTHER
Four-Purpose Face Cream



15 SECONDS:
starch-danger ended—
teeth bright:
GUARANTEED!

The real way to get results from brushing and care of your teeth—to have them brighter than ever before. Some amazing, new facts.

THESE facts may startle you. If you grasp them, use them, results will more than surprise you. By knowing what starch, in foods, does to teeth—it is now possible to combat it. And that means it is possible to have your teeth, quickly, brighter than they have ever been before—since childhood.

That result is guaranteed. Below, you are offered choice of two ways to test it.

* * * * *

The story is brief. It is taken direct from discoveries by one of the greatest dental-research scientists: Read his amazing statement, given here.

That dangerous stain

The substance most dangerous to teeth is starch in foods. It directly forms the acid that attacks, eats through hardest tooth-enamel. This is why:

There is too much of it, in modern diet, for even normal healthy saliva to change into harmless form (by digesting it). Simply an overload of starch—so that it is only part-changed (digested).

Starch in this part-digested form is a glue and a dirty, brownish stain, combined. Chemically it is like gum arabic. Nothing can remove it from your teeth—not brushing, scrubbing, rinsing—while in this form.

It cements the staining matter between teeth—on teeth; fills the tiny grooves (500 to an inch!) which furrow all tooth-surfaces.

No wonder teeth, although regularly brushed, grow dingier and dingier—and decay too soon despite your care.

Quick, natural aid ends this

Today there's a way to make your teeth brighter than they've ever been since childhood. By eliminating this unpleasant, dangerous starch condition.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?
Not daring to smile pleasantly, he has of course made a poor impression on the mind of a charming girl. Had he smiled his grimy, starch-stained teeth would have shocked her. Every day he carries this heavy, needless handicap: dingy teeth!

It's Senreco—a remarkable toothpaste. Contains natural ingredients which dissolve this glue-y starch-mass in 15 seconds (by aiding saliva to digest it fully).

Then brushing really brightens teeth. Because Senreco acts while your brush is still in your mouth. The stain disappears.

Teeth are safer from decay than ever before.

* * * * *

Other delights, too, result. A clean, sweet, cool mouth. Gums healthily toughened, toned. (Many dentists recommend Senreco, in acute gum troubles, for this one reason!)

These results guaranteed!

Intelligence suggests a test. There are two ways in which you can test Senreco—at once:

Send coupon for free, 12-day test tube.

Or buy a large tube, 50c, from your druggist. Use it for 12 days. Then, if your teeth are not brighter, cleaner, than they've ever been before—with any tooth-paste—return the tube.

Your money will be instantly, unquestioningly, given back.

* * * * *

You'll agree that's fair. It's just a question whether or not sincerely you want sparkling teeth—whether or not you realize the immensely increased attractiveness they mean. Here's the way.

Starch Danger Told

This is the finding of one of the greatest dental-research scientists—in his world-famed book: "The Prevention of Dental Caries and Oral Sepsis:"—

"It is perfectly clear that the material having the greatest potentiality for tooth destruction is starch in a cooked and finely-divided (masticated) state!"

This danger, in 15 seconds, Senreco ends!

YOUTH MUST HAVE ITS FLING AT THE MODES

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Just how far are the three "Ares" of the fashion world going to affect the world of the three "R's?" Let us review right here this moment—those style salients that are beyond shadow of dispute. One is the higher waist line with decided tendency toward an ascent in front; the second is the bloused corsage, and the third is the dolman-inspired sleeve. There are other details included in the Almanach de Gotha of fashion, but these are beyond doubt overshadowed by the importance of the three "Ares."

Let us see just what influence such manifestations have upon the autumn attire of the girl between 6 and 14. First, how about that sleeve with cloth above the elbows, the new sleeve which Madrial et Armand have launched this year under the names of "Troubadour" and "Chauve Souris?" Now, Chauve Souris, as we all remember, means bat, and these sleeves, merging widely into the garment with the effect of a waist deep armhole, live fully up to the ideal of our web-winged nocturnal winter-ette.

Are these becoming to children and young girls? Decidedly not. The fact of it is that the Chauve Souris sleeve is an exceedingly sophisticated—nay, even an exotic—manifestation, and for this reason finds no place in the simplicity required for juvenile fashions. I shall go even further. I shall say that these web sleeves are an acid test for the short and the stout woman. Only your tall, slender Lilith of a woman can afford to invest heavily in a detail which lends ruthlessly to the bulkiness of the torso and subtracts from the stature.

The fact of it is that even coats for the girl between those ages which I have mentioned do not display any deep diplomatic talent by following the width of dolman standards. They are shown in juvenile departments, but they are not nearly so responsible to the spirit of youth as is the slim straight line model.

Yet there is an adaptation of that new spirit of cloth with above the elbows" which may be introduced in the "junior deb's" modes without any trepidation. This is the single round puff just below the shoulder—a puff breaking the monotony of a long, tight sleeve. This adaptation of the troubadour model as found in a grown-up mode will be illustrated in my letter tomorrow and by looking at it you will see how successfully it may be transposed to the young girl's frock.

It is a far different story with the raised waist line. This is entirely in keeping with our dearest traditions about youth, and it has been practiced in all types of juvenile clothes. We illustrate it first by our sketch at the extreme left in a frock which may be developed in either plaid velveteen or plaid wool. This model, created for the girl of from 6 to 12, has a narrow black leather belt placed in the most exemplary of grown-up localities. Also you will note that the extension of the skirt into a point upon the bodice has that sophisticated result—the accent of the waist line in the direct front.

For the same age is created also another dress equally admirable for school wear. This second model brings us directly to the wide influence exerted by the bolero in this province of fashion.

Contributing charm to little straight line coats, or completing the message of tiered skirt on some party frock of georgette, we find the bolero's inroads. Not always, however, is it suggested so artfully as in the model under discussion. Just observe the finesse of that black velveteen corsage—it forms the entire back—as it "steps out" in front on its bolero destiny to reveal the plaid wool of its skirt.

Velveteen, as I have frequently remarked, is a childhood classic—just like Louisa Alcott. This year, however, it has received a tremendous impetus from the vogue of this material in adult circles.

In this instance I recall a delightful casaquin model for the girl of from 6 to 12. Now, the casaquin or short jacket mode has received all sorts of attention in mature styling, and this happens to be one of those modes that do nothing to violate juvenile ideals of simplicity. Hence this afternoon model of eggplant blue velveteen, with its short, rather full skirt and its short sleeved casaquin or jacket reaching just to the hips, struck me as a delightful adventuring away from the more standardized modes. It was finished around jacket border, sleeves and collar with wool embroidery in contrasting tints.

THE same current which has brought to us the short jacket mode is responsible for the cardigan or golf jacket fashion that is now such an integral part of adult sports wear. If your young daughter has become jumper bored, the cardigan—usually with its V neck and always with its buttons down the front—represents an exhilarating change. And it is shown along with the regulation jumper models in school frocks of wool jersey, tweed jersey, crepella, and frisca.

Just plain wool jersey continues to form the average medium for these jumper and jacket models, but if you wish to be a trifle more "Ritzy"—dear, O dear, there is no organized effort of the fabric weavers to balk you. Crepella, that wool first launched by Chanel; frisca, that jersey de luxe exploited so fervently by Patou; new varieties of kasha—all these are here to abet youthful extravagance.

It is crepella which is employed for the jumper model at the extreme right—one designed for the fortunate miss between the ages of 6 and 12. This model informs you that the contrast between jumper and blouse colors is still sought as diligently as ever. It also informs you that a belt placed at the natural line is one of the most commendable things you can do for such youthful jumpers.

So far as color is concerned, there doesn't seem to be anything more favored for young people than the various tones of blue indorsed by la haute couture. Indigo and eggplant, Chanel and navy—also a kind of blue just a trifle lighter than Yale—these are evidently preferred to the purplish reds which are perhaps slightly in the ascendant, so far as older folks are concerned. However, these deep reds are often encountered, and so, too, is the dark hunter's or Robin Hood green.

In the jumper model to which we now refer blue in the light Yale tone is chosen for the skirt, while a blouse of self-material in light beige is trimmed with the skirt's blue. Such differences of color opinion between skirt and blouse are still fostered.

For the girl of from 10 to 16 is designed the georgette afternoon frock fourth from the left. This makes use of the tiniest box plaits on both skirt and jumper and finishes the latter with horizontal stitching. The yoke effect in front is still in the highest repute, and so, too, is flower of self-fabric on the shoulder. This model occurs in shell pink.

From the time one is 6 one begins to share in the style dividends of the tier. Many of the most charming of afternoon and evening georgettes and crêpes de chine and chiffons finish off in this way. It is quite reasonable, therefore, that our final model—a party frock for her of from 10 to 16—should admit picoted tiers as its climax of charm.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It is entirely fitting that the small girl of from 4 to 8 who wears this navy crepe frock combined with red crepe and finished with cross-stitch, sketched second from the left, should place herself under the guidance of that sophisticated young person who wears a plaid velveteen frock cuffed and collared in white linen and endowed with some of the latest fashion subtleties.

No formal occasion need overwhelm the girl of from 10 to 16—not when she finds at her disposal, first, a dance frock of yellow chiffon with crushed girdle of self-material topped by green satin ribbon, pictured third from the left, and next, an afternoon model of shell-pink georgette with numerous smart details.

No bolero advice is wasted on her of from 6 to 12. This is proved by a school frock, shown second from the right, topping a plaid wool skirt with a corsage of black velveteen simulating in front a bolero. This is finished with white collar and cuffs. Next, the popular jumper model for school days here employs crepella as its medium and creates an interchange of beige and light Yale blue.

Every day the alert, progressive housewife learns new and startling facts about the food she serves. The important facts in the interesting message on the right will benefit every modern woman who is interested in her home.

THIS SINGLE MESSAGE WILL LINGER FOREVER IN THE MINDS OF MODERN HOUSEWIVES

EVERY day the modern housewife is learning new and startling facts about the foods she eats.

There is nothing new to tell her about Mazola—but the well-known facts about this remarkable salad and cooking oil are worth repeating now.

If you like corn-on-the-cob you can't help liking Mazola—for Mazola comes from corn—it is pressed from the hearts of fully-ripened corn kernels. It is as good and wholesome to eat as the corn from which it comes. Therefore Mazola is a genuinely pure vegetable oil—its source is no secret, no mystery.

* * *

ISN'T this pleasant news to the woman who is particular about the food she serves her family?

Isn't it good news to know, that regardless of price, the world affords no finer salad oil?

And instead of using animal fats, isn't it more appetizing to fry with Mazola?

Try Mazola for salads or frying—convince yourself of its high quality and economy and soon you will be using it for shortening, too.

KING'S MATE

By Rosita Forbes

his, and amazing, incredible comfort drifted through her.

"Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife? Wilt thou love, honor, and cherish her?"

Rosemary expected a denial to spring from space, if not from the quiet figure beside her, but the service went on. Westwyn's "I will" was as ringing as any order he had given in action. Rosemary's was inaudible. The priest, his eyes on the book, his lips moving automatically, muttered "repeat after me. I blank, blank——" He had forgotten to ask the names of bride and groom. "Take thee, blank, blank——" His glance lifted expectantly. Westwyn took the girl's right hand, gripped it as if he would help her through all difficulties, over all obstacles, looked her full in the face and repeated, "I, John Trevor, take thee——" There was a pause. A blank expression was succeeded on the man's part by a ghost of amusement, but Rosemary, struggling with a hysterical desire to laugh, was mute. Of course, they neither of them knew each other's names!

The priest, surprised, lost his place. Fumbling with one finger, he prompted, "Say her name."

"Rosemary Anne," jerked out the girl, and forced her eyes down, for she knew that Westwyn was smiling at her, and in that smile she could almost imagine tenderness.

WITH a final scurry, the priest muttered, "With this ring I thee wed—what ring, where is it?" Westwyn drew off a heavy signet, slipped it over the girl's finger, and held it with a hand as steady as his voice. "Those whom God has joined together let no man put asunder," declaimed the priest, and for a second the majesty of those familiar words affected even a mind whose one idea was to get back to the hospital, where dying men needed his comfort. Slowly and sonorously they broke the stillness of the room like the echo of a host marching.

Pete shifted his feet. Heinz tugged at his collar. "It's finished," said the priest with an anxious glance at the door. "You had better both sign this certificate. You'll have to have it registered at Tangiers or Tetvan."

Rosemary went up to the roof and watched the padre mount. His mule ambled down the path with an indignant whisk of his tail. The three men were left standing by the gate. Rosemary watched them talking. Westwyn with that stillness which gave an impression of reserved force, Heinz still fidgeting with his neck, Pete kicking a stone methodically backwards and forwards. "Would he come back?" Rosemary wondered, and he was nameless in her mind. "John," she reflected—O, absurdly unsuitable! And she went over to the opposite edge of the roof, lest any one should think she was waiting.

The signet ring hung loose on her finger, so she took it off and studied it. An old motto, worn and dented, ran round the crest. "What West Wynne Won, Let West Wynne Hold," she spelled out with difficulty, and was still considering it when its owner appeared at the top of the stairs.

"Had to see the padre off. The poor fellow was worried blue as to what might have happened in his absence. Awfully plucky to run that show alone, eh?" But Rosemary ignored his effort to make conversation.

"I feel as if we'd done something tremendous—something that'll retaliate on us! I don't know how to explain, but no one ought to say those words as a—as a convenience. They're too mighty. Don't you feel it?" For a moment her gray-green eyes were those of a witch, mystic and unaware of the everyday life which surrounded her.

"They're a terrific responsibility," said Westwyn, and he too stared across the gorge to where the mountains were tumbled against the western sky. "What fools we moderns are to think we can change such things."

"A lot of us get broken in the process," retorted Rosemary, and sighed.

A drum began beating in the village, and Westwyn turned to look down the path. "A messenger from Abd-el Krim," he said. "That'll mean work."

The girl was glad to escape from a mood of foreboding. "Why is Abd-el Krim coming here?"

"There've been several attempts to assassinate him lately, and Ait el Kamara, which has been his headquarters since he organized his first government, is a bit too near Ajdir and the Spaniards. Airplanes bomb it about once a week and there are several thousand Spanish prisoners there. This is a small place in touch with both fronts—a good center for guerilla operations, and it's easier to isolate. Spies would have no chance here. I don't blame the sultan for getting sick of Ait el Kamara!"

"Is he coming alone?"

"Lord, no, his old mother—she's about seventy and she used to ride through the country unveiled—is inseparable from him. I believe she's his best counselor. Then there's his brother, Mohammahdi, who is the real commander-in-chief, and half a dozen wazirs—ministers, you know. They'll all have to pack into Menebbhe's house and they'll want this one for the servants."

"What!" exclaimed Rosemary. "Am I going to be turned out?"

"Well, they naturally expect you to join me down there." He nodded to a mud building which straggled across the hillside on two levels.

"You didn't tell me that."

"I didn't think it was of any importance. It's a good large place. You and Zarifa can have what used to be the harem and barricade yourself into complete solitude." He smiled at her, with a return to his normal carelessness. "There are several rooms looking on to a court. You'll even have a separate front door."

The girl found no words to voice her objections. Discouragement was replacing the wild excitement of the morning. She felt inert and incapable of argument.

"You'd better come down some time this afternoon. I'm afraid you haven't many belongings to move, have you?"

"I must give you back one of yours," said Rosemary, holding out the ring. "What a gorgeous motto. I wish it were mine."

THE man stifled a smile. "Let's consider it yours for the moment. You'd better keep this sign of our bargain until the Riffs have got used to it. I suppose it's much too big." He took her hand and moved the signet up and down the third finger. What lovely hands she had. They reminded him of a picture he'd seen somewhere, a woman offering a cup to some Italian fellow, and the wine was poisoned. Would it matter very much from such a hand? Westwyn grinned at the reflection. Marriage put odd ideas into a fellow's head, but—he pulled himself together—it wasn't a real marriage. He was still twisting the ring when Rosemary spoke.

"It won't fall off," she said. "I'll wear it for a few days and then give it back to you."

"Keep it while you're in Telehdi," replied Westwyn and, without any conscious intention, he bent and kissed the slender sunburned fingers which tried to withdraw themselves from his clasp. "You can count on me, you know," he said, a little awkwardly, and strode away before the girl could reply.

Abd-el Krim rode into Telehdi amidst scenes of the wildest enthusiasm. The hillside blossomed with dark brown djellabas, and, as waste of ammunition was forbidden, instead of the customary feu de joie, a great shout echoed along the ravine."

"The sultan comes. Allah keep the sultan!"

Menebbhe and his son traveled to the edge of their district to meet the great man and escorted him back to the village, riding one at each stirrup.

Women lined the roofs. Children were crowded at each corner. Every man who bore a rifle wanted to touch the sultan's stirrup or his robe, so that his bullets might go straight! Westwyn had ridden a mile down the path and established himself on a convenient rock, from where he could see the cavalcade winding up from the valley. While he waited, it was swollen by groups from the hillside, as each little chief or headman came down to greet the sultan. And this was war, when most men were fighting!

The Englishman had a vision of what such a progress would have been in peace time, when all the country would have turned out in welcome. It was a prolific land, he thought, and now its forces were augmented by some forty thousand Arab tribesmen. For the thousandth time, Westwyn wondered what was the secret of Abd-el Krim's power. In Islam any one who raises the green banner of revolt is sure of a following, but el Krim had co-ordinated that following into an army. He had abolished the tribal system and established regular fighting units, officered by his own men. He had organized a government, effective among peoples unaccustomed to any central authority. With an original force of some twenty thousand mountaineers, used only to guerilla warfare, he had crushed Spain and driven her out of the protectorate she claimed. With twice that force he held France at bay. Yet he had no hereditary power. He was neither cherif claiming religious leadership through his descent from the prophet, nor sheik with the swords of his tribe behind him. He was the son of a small judge in

SUNDAY SERIAL

The MAGIC MAN

by Hallie Erminie Rives

STARTING SOON!

Melilla, yet the whole of the Riff called him sultan, giving him a title sacred to the princes of Islam.

Westwyn frowned as he looked down at the earth-brown files. What was this man's secret? No overwhelming personality, no fanaticism that carried all before it, no fantastic charm to appeal to the facile emotions of Islam, rather a judicious blending of caution and judgment. Alone among his co-religionists, Abd-el Krim was the fruit not only of a nationalism at bay but of the twentieth century. The riders were turning the last bend as Westwyn prepared to go down. That was it, he decided, Abd-el Krim (slave of the generous) relied on weapons old as time, fanaticism, superstition, and the fighting passions of an unconquered race, but he used them in a modern way.

The two men met where the path widened above a hamlet. The riflemen, padding ahead, opened out to let the Englishman pass. The sultan, a small, sturdy Riff, dark-skinned, with a slight mustache and an edging of wiry hairs on his chin, bent down, smiling.

"With pleasure—with blessing," he said. "Insha-Allah, you are in good health?" Their hands met and Westwyn touched his with his lips in Arab fashion. The sultan made a gesture of so doing. He signaled to a servant to bring the Englishman's horse and, after further greetings from Mohammahdi, a more muscular edition of his brother, the cavalcade continued its climb.

Abd-el Krim and the Kaid rode ahead, exchanging the platitudes which every Riff considers suitable for public conversation. When they reached Menebbhe's house, Westwyn took his leave, for few people and no foreigners see Abd-el Krim afoot. Lame from a wound incurred in escaping eight years ago from a Spanish prison in Melilla, and sensitive of the disfigurement, he receives his counselors seated and his warriors in the saddle.

WHEN Westwyn returned for a formal audience he found the sultan established on a mattress covered with carpets, a rifle and cartridge pouch hanging on the wall above him, a black servant behind him. After the usual greetings and inquiries, as formal as if the two had not met for months, the Riffian leader signaled his guest to a chair, the only one in the room, but the Englishman seated himself crosslegged on the floor. A map was spread between them and Abd-el Krim, ignoring his attendant, drew his finger along the French front.

"I have news that an offensive is pending." Though he spoke Spanish fluently, the sultan generally insisted on using the Shilluh dialect, which had to be interpreted to strangers, but with this one friend who, alone among Europeans, he trusted, he spoke in Arabic. "There is to be a simultaneous attack right along the line."

"A feint," said Westwyn. "They won't push it home."

"How can we tell?" asked the sultan, his eyes narrowed and anxious. Here was no legendary hero, no reckless preacher of Jehad, but a shrewd man, cunning and deliberate, unwilling to take great risks if lesser ones would serve.

"We can't," retorted Westwyn. "We've got to chance it." He tapped the northern edge of a map where the red dots marked the Spanish outposts.

"I want to wipe these out and, to do so, I must have every available man. Leave a few snipers on the south. They can harass the French and put up a good enough show to give Pétain an excuse for delay. Meanwhile we'll smash these fellows once for all."

Abd-el Krim was silent. His penetrating glance studied the Englishman's face. Neither brilliant nor stupid, but midway between the two, an intelligent interpreter of racial ambition, he realised that Westwyn was his most valuable tool. The daring that he himself did not possess, the genius of strategy and the greater genius of choosing the right moment were Westwyn's in full measure.

"What is your plan?" asked the Riff, and there was sudden keenness in his eyes. The outlines of his face seemed less heavy. The biting, concentrated intelligence of the man gleamed through the unwieldy flesh.

"The Spaniards have crossed the river. It's taken a fortnight of every inducement we could offer. Rain has been heavy in the hills and the dam is already swollen. In a few weeks, when the wet season sets in, we shall have a new ally! The wall can be blown up below the dam. It must be done at night, and in an hour the Spanish force will be cut in half. Then we must attack—no half measures, mind you! We've got to smash them."

"It means leaving the north defenseless."

"String the Arab tribes along there and back your luck, Sidi." Westwyn smiled. "We must make a bid for peace while there is still food in the Riff. Next year famine will be a worse enemy than France or Spain."

The sultan did not answer. He sat very still in his hand-woven woollen djellaba, no different from those of his followers. His very white linen and the skull cap he wore, instead of the usual twisted rope agall, accentuated the darkness of his face. "You mean to move the guns across?"

"A couple of batteries. I'll trust most to our rifles, but no one must guess. This must be between you and me, Sidi. The Spaniards will have to be tempted further up from the river and there must be no obvious movement among the tribes. The men can march by night, when the aeroplanes are safe at Ajdir."

"They never venture far inland! Bismillah, what an amount of lead they have wasted among the rocks!" The sultan's gesture was contemptuous. "You think peace will follow the Spanish defeat?"

"I am sure of it," said Westwyn. Patiently he repeated his arguments. France did not want to rule the Riff. She was out to insure her own territory. Already tired of what she considered a useless waste of life, Paris had cut down the war vote by a milliard francs. "It is Spain who is our enemy," he ended.

Still Abd-el Krim hesitated. It was against his whole policy to risk so much. From the first his campaign had been one of pretense, sniping and raid there, an exaggerated suggestion of force, not an open attack. Suppose you are mistaken and Pétain pushes into the mountains?"

"Then we lose," said the Englishman, but his carelessness did not deceive his chief.

"You are very certain?"

"Yes." Westwyn leaned forward. "It's a chance, Sidi—a desperate one if you like, but the only one. We've got to force the issue." His determination began to have its effect on the other. The steadiness of the queer light eyes was hypnotic. "Risk it, man. Call the French bluff!" Westwyn smashed his fist on the ground. The two men looked at each other while the slave held his breath aware of the clash of the wills.

"Allah has given you wisdom," said Abd-el Krim at last. "It shall be as you wish."

WESTWYN strode up to his house with a smile on set lips. He had forgotten his horse, still tethered by the sultan's groom. God! What a game! They were bound to win if only the news didn't leak out. He'd have to hold Abd-el Krim up to the point. No, the man would not let him down. He'd be on edge, all the time, but now he'd given his word, he'd stick to it. With his mind full of such thoughts, Westwyn entered his house by the nearest way, which happened to be the little used harem door. Consequently, he almost fell over Rosemary, who was sitting on a pile of mats inside. "Lord, what a day!" thought the man, as he dragged his brain back from the water power in the southern hills.

"I say, I'm most awfully sorry. I forgot you were here."

"Women and war! They don't mix well," retorted Rosemary, smiling and annoyed.

Westwyn explained. "I've just come from Abd-el Krim. He was full of news."

"You look bursting with it."

The man laughed. "I say, let's have a truce, do you want to prosecute me for trespassing?" He studied the slender figure in a short red blue striped skirt, adapted from a barracan. The indigo jumper, bared arms, which were faintly sunburned, and the ankles, too, were bare, above primrose-yellow native slippers.

Rosemary blushed. "My solitary pair of stockings has deserted me—piecemeal have I buried them! I am doing the sun cure. I hope you approve."

The gallantry of her appealed to Westwyn. "With all my worldly goods I have thee endowed—temporarily, of course—but I don't know if you find anything of much use among them."

"You give me leave to investigate?" The strain was over. Rosemary, defeated, felt there was no need to fight any more. However unwilling she was to accept it, she knew she could rely on this man's protection—horrible word! A woman was perfectly capable of looking after herself. Still, up here, it was a sort of Alice-in-the-looking-glass world, with everything upside down. She determined to concentrate on the present. There was an element of adventure in it, now that she was free from that awful guesthouse. Its walls had been as stifling as a prison and she was too used to self-expression and out of season to stand its loneliness. After all, she would have Westwyn to talk to down low. Zarifa's monologues had been intolerable.

HER PRINCE

A Story from Real Life

YOU don't have to believe in fairy tales to read the story of Helen Sutton, which may or may not be her name, but if her husband's press agent reads this he'll probably stand in line for a surprise—and a raise. If you go to the movies you've seen Helen's husband, but whether you know he is really a Russian prince or not, I don't know.

Helen lived out in Idaho, in a jerkwater college town, where her father was a professor, and most girls would have been satisfied with her life. She had a rattling good flivver, a nice home, and a lot of boy friends, mostly seniors at the college.

But Helen had a bug in her head about writing stories, and another bug way deep inside her that was more like a pain in her heart. She was always dreaming the silliest things about princes and princesses, and at night when she'd hear an animal growling out there in Idaho she'd shut her eyes and dream that it was a prince blowing a bright silver bugle, mounted on a steed under her window.

Well, her father died when she was 23, and he didn't leave much. In fact, he hardly left anything at all.

Helen did a lot of writing at night, and finally she managed to sell a short story to Flashy Stories. So, banking her hopes on a little bit of fiction, she packed up and went to New York.

She had a great deal of ambition right on top of that story for Flashy Stories, and was all stirred up over becoming a successful authoress. So she arrived in New York, all crunched up in her seat, with her nose pressed against the window, plumb scared to death, but still dreaming about her prince.

She didn't have any more than about $300, and though she didn't know it, most any first class prince would spend that much in riding lessons. They need 'em!

She bought a paper in the Grand Central station and searched it for a cheap room. There was one advertised in Amsterdam avenue for $4 a week.

She followed a fat woman up some rickety stairs. A dim gas jet lit the second landing, but above that you just had to feel your way. On the third flight she had to flatten herself against the wall to let a man smelling of stale whisky pass. On the fourth floor the woman opened a door.

"Here ye are," she said.

"Goodness!" exclaimed Helen. "It's rather small, isn't it?"

The woman flew up in the air and asked her what she expected for $4 a week.

Helen didn't say anything. Her lips just puckered, and she managed to mutter:

"It's big enough to cry in, anyway."

The woman still remained.

"Do I pay you now?" Helen asked her.

"You do!" she said emphatically. "And you make it a habit." And that was that.

Helen shuddered.

It was the tiniest room she had ever seen.

Many heels had worn away the roses which once were a pattern in the rug, and all that was left was a sickly white spine of woolen warp. There was a tiny bed and a broken down chiffonier with half of a mirror.

Helen opened a window and sighed at the rusty grille iron work of the fire escape which grew like a weed to the side of the house. Then she twisted her neck and caught a peep of the sky. The part she saw was very blue, and very inspiring.

"My art," she whispered softly to herself.

Then she flew back to her bed and fell upon it, weeping.

She bought a typewriter and a folding table the next day, and commenced to write.

She wrote very beautiful little stories about girls and princes, and love and hate, but always they came back. It seemed in all New York there was no editor who liked what she wrote. Even Flashy Stories rejected what she submitted.

The hands of the clock flew by so swiftly that the calendar leaves ceased to fall by the days and weeks, but acquired a speed of months, and her scant original capital had worn itself out buying food and paper and stamps.

And so one day it happened that instead of Helen writing such wonderful things as . . . "and the daring prince, sword in hand, fought gallantly for the single rose the princess had tossed from her baloony window . . ." she was pounding out such literature as:

"Mr. John A. Pistoni, Prop.,
33 Main street,
Memphis, Tenn."

or,

"The Star Bargain Shop,
M. Lapidowitz, Prop.,
Fort Worth and Clinton St.,
Little Rock, Arkansas."

For Helen was addressing envelopes now for the Atlantic Trading corporation. Tonight her slim white fingers trembled as they flew over the keyboard of her typewriter, and on the vowel "e" in a Mr. Levy's name she stopped because she could no longer see, the tears in her eyes were so hot and large.

And then, with a tiny kerchief, she dried her eyes and continued:

"——vy Bros., Haberdashers,
1765 Burton Ave.,
Des Moines, Ia."

And all the while, in her mind, she was dreaming and sobbing over the fate of her heroes and heroines, and with her fingers she was conveying them forever away from her, for envelope addressing tires the fingers and numbs the mind, and soon you sob a little less, and soon the prince and princess fade farther away, farther and farther, and soon——

IT was pretty late when she stopped work for the day. It must have been close to 8 o'clock, for already it was dark out, and a single finger of light from the moon stole in the window, caressing her tear streaked cheeks as her silky lashes beat a fluttering sob. She looked up from her typewriter, out of the window, through the shadows of the fire escape.

She was so hungry to dream again that she built a castle outside her window, there on the fire escape, with a prince clothed in mail, riding furiously for her hand.

She sighed deliciously and rose, to feel the thrill of her dream, and one slim white hand rested on her fluttering breast and the other swept a kiss from her tremulous lips toward her castle just as——

A real man in the royal purple raiment slipped down the fire escape from the fifth floor in time to catch her kiss!

He stopped and looked at her, a bewildered young man with a plumed hat, which he doffed ceremoniously, and stepped in through the window. She saw his silver sword gleam in the moonlight, saw his teeth flash in a courtly smile, and as he bowed, sweeping his plumed hat before him, she felt so faint she could barely whisper:

"Are you a prince?"

"I am your prince, my charming princess," she remembered hearing just as she fainted in his arms.

She awoke to the sting of water in her face. He still had an arm around her. His hat was off, and his hair was thick and seemed like gold in the light of the moon.

"You are a prince, aren't you? Please say yes!".

"It is true that I am, my lady. My name is Peter Dmitri Yusupov. I have neglected my title in favor of working in your moving pictures. Even princes must eat."

"And this uniform——"

"It is really mine, but I'm working in a foreign ballroom sequence, at the . . . . studios down the street, and as the wardrobe man couldn't fit my build so well I offered to use my own."

"You do not speak like a Russian."

"I was educated at Oxford."

"But you are a prince, aren't you?" Helen pleaded.

"Yes, my princess," Peter Dmitri Yusupov said very regally.

So Helen fainted in his arms once again.

There isn't much more to tell. By now you've probably guessed who Peter is. He is a star now, and folks have forgotten all about him being a real prince.

But there is one person who hasn't. You can see her most any day if you make an appointment with her social secretary. Peter's wife is very busy now. Editors are buying her stories and her scenarios are being shot all over the big lots, but Helen's thinking about giving most of it up. The real prince in the family is two years old and his nurse can't handle him.

Her Choice

Miss Viola Manning

"The exquisite Black and White 'Incense of Flowers' Face Powder is my choice above all others," says pretty Miss Viola Manning of 266 Prospect Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, "because of the wonderful way it got rid of my skin's oiliness, and because its fluffy fineness keeps it from sticking in my pores and coarsening them. It gives my complexion the smoothest, silkiest appearance imaginable, and the up-to-date tints tone in perfectly with my own coloring."

This delicately fragranced powder will be your choice, too, once you feel its caressing touch, and see its beautifying effects. More than 80,000 dealers everywhere are recommending and selling "Incense of Flowers" Face Powder and the other Black and White Beauty Creations.

If your dealer doesn't have the Black and White Beauty Creations you want, send his name to Plough, Dept. T., Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive free a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book, containing many interesting facts on beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

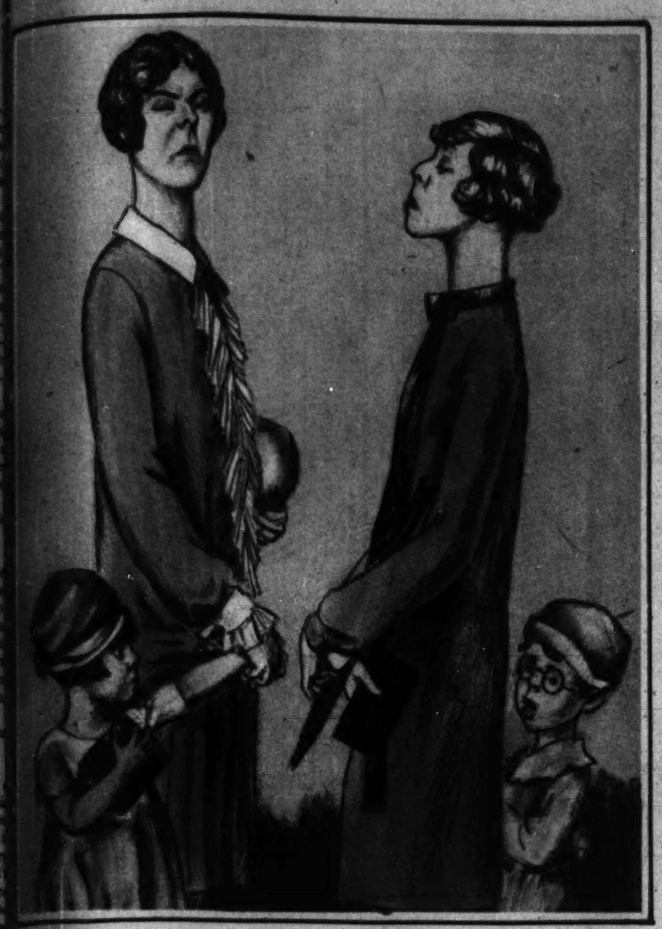
DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

100% Co-operative

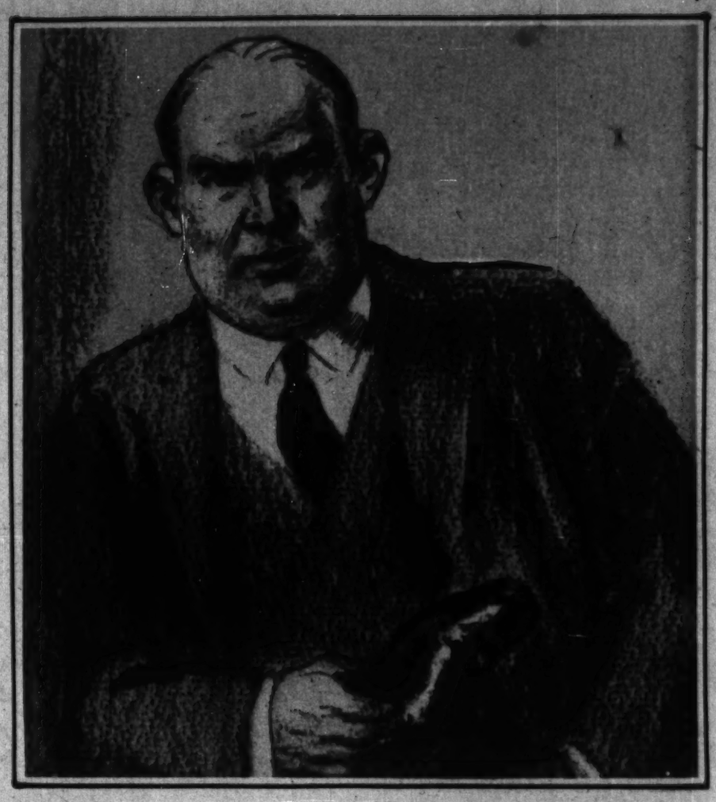
By W. E. Hill

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune]

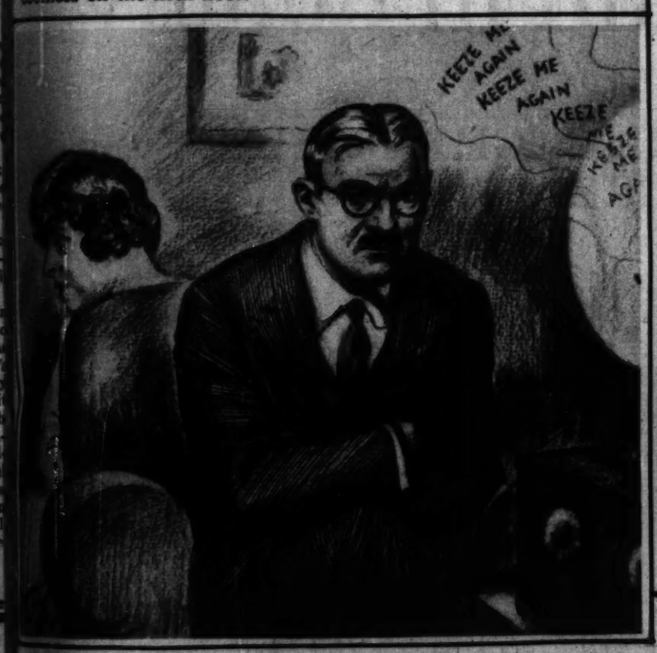


Practically everything in the new Bologna Arms apartments is 100% co-operative except a few tenants who don't get the 100% idea. Take Mrs. Tiven and Mrs. Gleewitz. Mrs. Tiven saw little Payton Gleewitz slap Ina Tiven for no reason at all. There was nothing to do but for Mrs. Tiven to write a note to Mrs. Gleewitz about how badly brought up Payton was. Naturally, Mrs. Gleewitz, who is, every one says, a wonderful mother, resented Mrs. Tiven's attitude, and told Ina's mamma that Ina was a bold, vicious child and had taught Payton several bad words. So now there is a coolness on the fifth floor.

"Arthur, dear, what shall I do? The electric dish washer is all frost covered and the refrigerating system is leaking hot, soapy water! I think I must have connected something I shouldn't." Almost everything in the modern own-your-own apartment is electrified except the maid service and the tenants. Some day, perhaps——!



The man who pounds on the wall for the music to stop is getting all ready to pound.

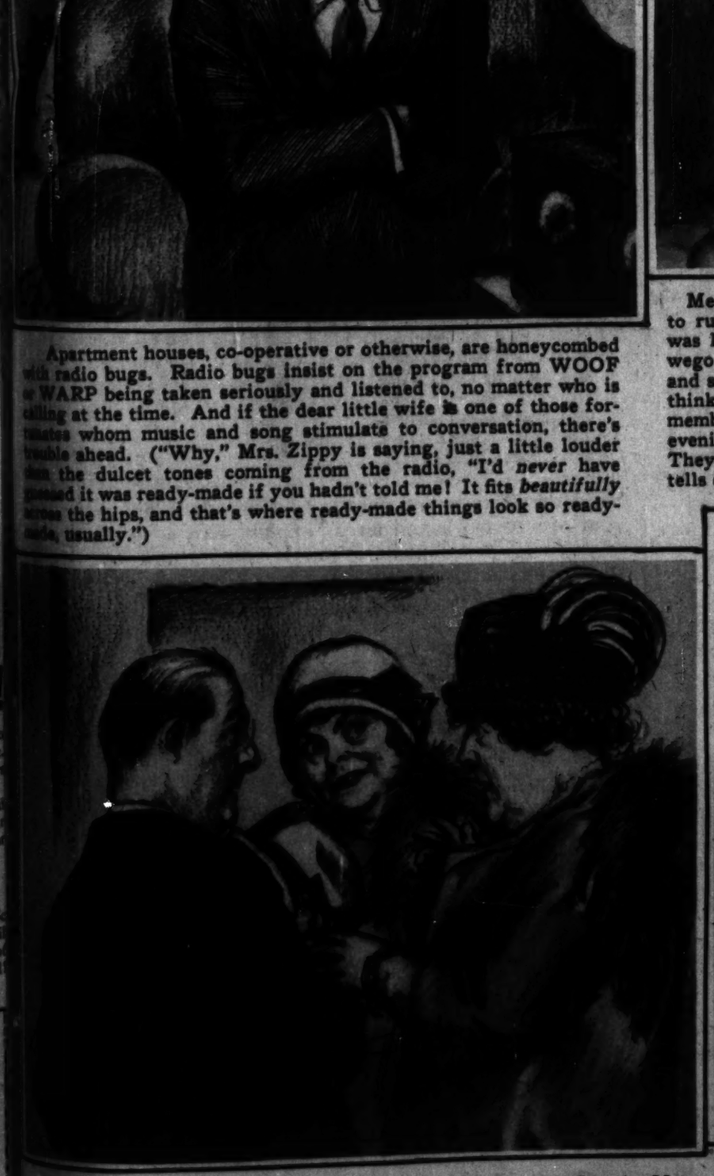


Apartment houses, co-operative or otherwise, are honeycombed with radio bugs. Radio bugs insist on the program from WOOF or WARP being taken seriously and listened to, no matter who is calling at the time. And if the dear little wife is one of those fortunates whom music and song stimulate to conversation, there's trouble ahead. ("Why," Mrs. Zippy is saying, just a little louder than the dulcet tones coming from the radio, "I'd never have guessed it was ready-made if you hadn't told me! It fits beautifully across the hips, and that's where ready-made things look so ready-made, usually.")

Meet the girl from across the hall who has to run in and tell you about it or bust. It was like this: You see, this man from Oswego she hadn't seen in a long time called up and said could he come up, and, my dear, not thinking, she said yes, and then later she remembered that Harris was coming up that evening, and, O, dear, what should she do! They'd both be perfectly raving. She also tells everything her mother doesn't want told.

A very timid tenant is Miss Jupp. Strange noises come out of the dumb-waiter and the in-a-door bed, and nearly frighten her out of her wits. She has two chains, three bolts, and a couple of Yale locks on her front door.

Meet Mrs. Lacey, the part time maid service, on her glad way to stop up the incinerator with an armful of rubbish. She is going to leave the hopper door open, which will be nice.



The elevator you run yourself is being run up to the sixth floor by Mrs. Pratt of apartment 6-J. She has a couple of guests. "I'm such a silly," explains Mrs. Pratt as the elevator drops half a floor, then stops dead and refuses to go either way; "I always press the wrong button! Some day I know I'll drop right to the basement!"

Mrs. Trenchant of the seventh floor is forever getting up petitions to be signed by the other tenants for protecting the view, or for keeping undesirable children off the sidewalk in front.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell Hiss of apartment 4-Z in our 100% co-operative building (a development some call it) are very warlike and absolutely refuse to co-operate with anything or anybody. By 10 a. m. of an average day Mrs. Hiss has complained both loud and long, via telephone or in person, about the children across the hall, the radio overhead, and the baby underneath. They have been over to the real estate man to complain about the family in the apartment house next door, who can, and do, look right in Mrs. Hiss' bedroom window. Mr. Hiss spends his evenings writing long letters to the newspapers about the abuses prevalent in co-operative apartment buildings, such as the rattling of milk bottles early in the morning and the pilfering of the twelfth roll from a bag of rolls on the dumb-waiter.

This is Erda, the superintendent's darling little daughter, who won't take any back talk from any one. Ask Erda please not to scream quite so loudly in the front hallway, and Erda, quick as a wink, will answer, "Applesauce." That's Erda, always the sunbeam.

Now

Stucco application that is certain in quality

WE ASSUME AS BROAD A RESPONSIBILITY AS THOUGH YOU HAD THE MATERIALS APPLIED BY THE MANUFACTURERS THEMSELVES

GREAT progress has been made by the manufacturers of stucco in selecting and mixing the proper ingredients to obtain a beautiful and lasting stucco finish. Interior plastering, too, has advanced, yet in the popularity of both of these similar materials, there is a similar important factor.

They are both successful only when properly applied! Now we make a certainty of that factor by applying stucco and plaster in exactly the manner specified by the manufacturers, who have spent thousands of dollars in experimental work to prove out these better methods. We bring to you the skill and experience of years plus the specialized knowledge supplied by the manufacturers. This makes it possible for us to assume full responsibility and stand unqualifiedly behind every job we do. Whether you are an owner, a builder, contractor, or architect, this announcement should interest you, for it offers a service that takes all element of chance from this part of the building program.

More Stucco Homes

Stucco is deservedly popular and growing more so every day. When properly applied, it creates a home of dreams with characteristics not shared entirely by any other surfacing material. It is suitable for large and small homes, churches and commercial buildings of all kinds.

These are photographs of an actual job showing the transformation stucco can accomplish.

Stucco insulates against heat and cold, resulting in fuel saving in winter and more comfort the year around.

In many cases, it lowers the insurance rate because of the great fire resistant factor of stucco. You can forget paint forever so far as walls are concerned.

Do not overlook, also, that with the investment of a very little money your property may be increased in value by thousands of dollars, as past sales of reconditioned houses have proved.

New Homes for Old

Wonderful changes can be made in the old family home—by inexpensive application of stucco in the manner indicated by the "before and after" illustrations shown here. Remodeling is the practical solution for many families who do not want to build new, yet are tired of the "run down" appearance of their dwelling, and who, naturally, would like to increase its value. At about the cost of two season paintings the old frame house can be made durable, beautiful and valuable by covering it with stucco. It is quickly and easily done at any time, winter or summer, in any temperature. Scarcely any preparation or disturbance to occupants. Stucco is fireproof, which means lower insurance rates. No more seasonal paintings. Fuel bills are greatly reduced.

Should you want to sell you can realize in increased value a profit far in excess of the cost of remodeling.

Partial Payment Plan

You can have your work done now, begin to enjoy its advantages, and pay for it monthly out of your income instead of your capital. This makes it possible to decide now and benefit all winter. There is ample time for good work under the most favorable conditions if you act now.

Let Us Help with Plans

We offer a consultation service that is free and will guide you right in making changes that are pleasing and practical. Because of our specialization we are able to possibly bring about either better results or material savings in your stucco and plastering work.

We are known as plastering contractors, who will take over the entire responsibility, resurfacing your old home inside and out, or stucco and plastering in new buildings.

Send the coupon for details of this new plan to certify your stucco work and let us explain why it is important to you to give it consideration. If you act now, one of the advantages is the prompt attention your work will receive.

Write now while the thought is foremost.

Wouldn't you be very happy to have this remarkable change take place on YOUR home? It's something to be proud of; yet costs little.

WHERE TO IN SUCH A RUSH, SQUINT?

SH, WALT! I'VE FOUND GOLD AN' I'M LIGHTIN' OUT FOR GALLUP TO FILE A CLAIM. TELL YOU ALL ABOUT IT TOMORROW.

AHA! HE'S ON HIS WAY. BUT I CAN BEAT HIS LITTLE GAME. HE'S GOING BY JUNIPER NOTCH. I'LL TAKE THE MESA TRAIL.

IT'S BAD GOIN' BUT IT'S TWO HOURS SHORTER. IT'LL BE ALL OVER WHEN HE GETS THERE AND HE CAN'T PROVE NOTHIN' ON ME.

SQUINT IF YOU COME TO FILE A GOLD CLAIM YOU'RE TOO LATE. I DIDN'T SEE NO STAKES SO I STAKED A CLAIM MYSELF AN' JEST FILED ON IT.

YOU MEAN YOUVE PULLED UP MY STAKES!

YOU WILL JUMP MY CLAIM, WILL YOU! I'VE JUST STARTED ON YOU.

MEANWHILE—

YES THAT'S THE PRETTY GOLD STONE I FOUND IN THE ROCKS UNCA WALT.

THANKS SKEEZIX. THAT'S THE END I LOST OFF ONE OF MY NUGGET CUFF BUTTONS YESTERDAY.
